CLEAR YOUR THROAT!
Relieve Your Lungs.
For the terrible diseases engendered by the lung-trying climate of New England,
Pulmocine Cordial
Is a speedy and reliable Preventive and Remedy. EVERY FAMILY should have a bottle at hand to check the sudden growth of all Pulmonary Diseases. For the Asthma, Coughs, Croups, Laryngitis, or inflammation of the larynx, Diphtheria, and all kindred THROAT DISEASES at all times prevalent, it is the ounce of PREVENTION. Children attacked with Whooping Cough or Croup should be immediately cared for. These painful attacks come with scarcely a moment's warning, when a physician may be out of immediate reach. A dose of PULMOCINE CORDIAL gives speedy relief, and the little ones are spared hours of pain and agony. As "a stitch in time saves nine," so does the possession of this FAMILY MEDICINE prevent the spread of disease. Parents seeing their children gasping with pain, friends and relatives beholding each other in peril from suffocation by the choking pain in the throat, paralyzed with fear and not knowing the best course to pursue, are liable to apply the wrong remedial agents. There is no safety in delay, no time to waste in such cases. CONSUMPTION, that fearful scourge of the human race, lies at the door of all thus afflicted. BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL stands ready (unless in its advanced stage at which time there is no local cure) relieves the pressing, suffocating feeling at the lungs, and the patient's danger is past.
BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL
is no new discovery. Twenty-three years ago it was used by one of New England's most famous physicians as the best PULMONARY CURATIVE he could prescribe, after a dozen years spent in experimenting with it before he was satisfied that the Materia Medica could add nothing in its favor.
Buchman's Pulmocine Cordial
Is the ultima thule of Medical Discovery.
Among its many ingredients are WILD CHERRY BARK, SQUILL ROOT, LIQUORICE ROOT, BLOOD ROOT, &c. It is a BLOOD PURIFIER, gently stimulating. It increases expectoration and is diuretic. It is sudorific and alterative. It is a necessary family medicine. It is a Tonic, and a powerful aid to the digestive organs. It is a gentle sedative, and relieves nervousness. It is aromatic and agreeable to the taste.
For Coughs, Croup, Diphtheria, Asthma, &c.
USE BUCHMAN'S
PULMOCINE CORDIAL.
The Pulmocine Cordial is not a quack medicine, is not an experiment, is not composed of any ingredients "discovered" by "walking in pastures" in South America or anywhere else, nor by one who discovered a weed and thereby cured himself. Most of ingredients are such as our best educated physicians daily use for the complaints specified, in some form or other. The recipe is that perfected by one of New England's most learned and famous physicians, who used it entirely in his daily practice until his death. It is offered to the profession and to the public, absolutely pure and unadulterated.

BRIGGS' ALLEVANTOR is composed of Ammonia, Chloroform, Spirits of Camphor, Tincture of Lapalina, Oil of Juniper, and Alcohol. This compound is unequaled in the annals of medicine for the cure of Nervous or Sick Headache, Neuralgia, Trembling or Twitching of the Nerves, and all Nervous Diseases. It will counteract all poisons, banish pimples, cure scaly eruptions, itching, humors, &c.; it equalizes the circulation, invigorates the system, increases the action of the heart, without exciting the brain, cures Heartburn, Palpitation and Fluttering of the Heart, Dyspepsia, &c. Briggs' Allevantor absolutely possesses more curative properties than any other preparation. Physicians, chemists, and others are requested to examine and test the remedy, and $1000 will be paid if found different from representation.
COUGHS. Much has been said and many remedies have been offered for the relief and cure of throat and lung diseases; but nothing has been so eminently successful, or obtained such a wide celebrity, as Briggs' Throat and Lung Healer.
CORNS! The excruciating pain produced by Corns, the unceasing twinging from Bunions, the piercing, distressing pain from Ingrowing Nails, cannot be described. Thousands suffer, not knowing there is a cure. Briggs' Corn and Bunion Remedies are no acid or potash compounds, but are reliable, soothing, and effectual, and just merit the success they have earned from an appreciative public. The curative is a healing ointment; immediate relief is obtained by its application, and it will positively cure the worst cases of Festered Corns, Inflamed and Ulcerated Bunions, the sorest instep, the largest and severest Blisters, the most extensive Callosities on the soles or heels of the feet, unequalled in the cure of Chilblains or Frosted Feet. The Allevantor for ordinary corns and preventing their formation is absolutely unexcelled by anything ever known.
PILES have been a terror to mankind for centuries, and almost every attempt to cure them has been baffled. By unceasing study and experimenting, Dr. Briggs has discovered an absolutely cure for internal, bleeding, external, and itching piles. Briggs' Pile Remedies are mild, safe and sure.

WILD CHERRY!
THE GREAT REMEDY FOR
CONSUMPTION!
and acknowledged by many prominent physicians to be the most Reliable Preparation ever introduced for the RELIEF and CURE of all
LUNG COMPLAINTS.
This well known remedy is offered to the public, sanctioned by the experience of over forty years, and when resorted to in season seldom fails to effect a speedy cure of
Coughs, Colds, Croup, Bronchitis, Influenza, Whooping Cough, Hoarseness, Pains or Soreness in the Chest or Side, Bleeding at the Lungs, Liver Complaints, &c. &c.
CONSUMPTION
CURED
by a timely resort to this standard remedy, as is proved by hundreds of testimonials received by the proprietors.
Dr. Wistar's Balsam of Wild Cherry
does not dry up a Cough and leave the cause behind, as is the case with most preparations, but it loosens and cleanses the lungs and allays irritation, thus removing the cause of the complaint.
CLERGYMEN, LAWYERS, SINGERS,
and all those whose occupation requires an unusual exercise of the vocal organs, will find this the ONLY PREPARATION which will effectually and instantaneously relieve their difficulties.
BEWARE OF COUNTERFEITS.
Remember that the genuine Wistar's Balsam has on the outside wrapper the signature of "I. BUTTS," and the printed name of the proprietors, "SETH W. FOWLE & SONS, BOSTON." All others are base imitations. Examine the wrapper carefully before purchasing.

New Publications.

The December number of the "People's Monthly," of Pittsburgh, Pa., is an elegant illustrated paper. This Christmas number is crowded with fine illustrations and interesting letters, stories, poems, &c, appropriate to the season. Three months on trial, only 25 cents, including the Christmas number. Yearly subscription, $1.50.

Shawl-Straps, by Louisa M. Alcott, Author of "Little Women," being the second volume of "Aunt Jo's Scrap-Bag," with illustrations. Price $1.00.

This a sociable and humorous sequel to "Aunt Jo's" recent trip to Europe, will be read with eager interest by her countless admirers.

What Katy Did, by Susan Coolidge, with illustrations by Addie Ledyard. Price $1.50. "New-Year's Bargain" was such a decided hit that this new domestic story proved to be in great demand. Sold everywhere. Mailed postpaid by the publishers, Roberts Brothers, Boston.

Homes and Hospitals: or, Two Phases of Woman's Work. In one volume; crown 8vo, cloth $1.50. Hurd and Houghton, New York: The Riverside Press, Cambridge. This book will be read with unflagging interest. It is a simple story of how two women worked among the poor and forlorn, and it exhibits two ways in which they made themselves useful. One, Miss Dutton, went day by day from her own home to minister to the distressed in their wretched homes. She still kept her place in the circle of friends to which she belonged. The other, Miss Jones, gave up home, and all the attractions of the society of those she loved. She put herself into a systematic course of training at the celebrated institution of Kaiserswerth, and then went to hospitals and poorhouses in Liverpool and London. Her life is one of the most remarkable of its kind. Her devotion was intense, and her accomplished results wonderful. The remarks of Miss Nightingale in the introduction, are only a just tribute of one hard worker to the memory of another.

Oliver Optic's Magazine for January, "the best of all the juvenile monthlies," whose publication, by the effects of the great Boston fire, has been a little delayed, presents an attractive array. "The Yacht Club; or, The Young Boatbuilder," by Oliver Optic, is full of vim and adventure. "Lottie Eames, or, Do your Best and Leave the Rest," by Mrs. E. D. N. Hatch, is an excellent girls' story. Elijah Kellogg, has the opening chapters of a new story, entitled "The Turning of the Tide, or, Radcliffe Rich and his Patients." In addition to these, there is in this number an illustrated sketch of "Sardines; how they are caught, and how kept," by George M. Towle. "The Voyage of the Green Cloak Umbrella" is one of Charles Barnard's eccentric stories. Gen[illegible] original dialo[illegible] L. B. Ho[illegible] rebu[illegible] ti[illegible]

WEDNESDAY, JANUARY 1, 1873.

Indiscriminate Praise

Of all things and all men is only less pernicious, if it is less pernicious, which may well be doubted, than indiscriminate denunciation and fault-finding. Some person, more kind hearted than wise, once laid down as a maxim, "If you cannot speak well of a man do not speak of him at all," which saying has been so often repeated and sounds so very pious at the first, that many good souls firmly believe that it comes from Holy Writ, the same as "God tempers the wind to the shorn lamb" does. It may be very nice for the men or women who do evil to have all persons keep silence regarding what they do, but though it may be very benevolent towards the wrong-doers it is unjust to others. If the swindler and the thief, the slanderer,, the selfish, dishonorable and abandoned were not to be reprobated and denounced for their conduct, they would occupy the same social plane as the high minded, the generous, the honorable and the pure, and would have their opportunities for wronging others immeasurably increased. That there is little danger of the time ever coming when all men will be spoken well of or not spoken of at all is true, — too many being only too willing to speak ill of others; but the idea that it should come is unchristian, for it implies that injustice is right. Christ, the great exemplar of love and forbearance, inculcated no such lack adaisical doctrine; the Scribes and Pharisees were "hypocrites," the desecrators of the Temple "thieves," and so on; the evil-doer was spoken of as such — not in malice but in truth. Emerson says, "Speaking well of all mankind is the worst kind of detraction, for it takes away the reputation of the few good men in the world by making all alike."

Another popular saying, "Speak only good of the dead," we class with the one above mentioned — as being a rule often more honored in the breach than in the observance. Not that we disapprove the spirit of the saying, for it is well to let the grave hide venial faults and for memory to cherish the most pleasing thoughts of those who are gone; but when the influence of an evil life is felt after that life has passed away, it is the duty of other men to denounce it as fearlessly and plainly as though death were unknown. If "only good" is to be spoken of the dead, then Judas Iscariot and St. John the Divine, Ananias and St. Paul, Martin Luther and Ignatius Loyola, George Washington and Benedict Arnold, Abraham Lincoln and Wilkes Booth, should all occupy the same level in the minds and [illegible] We believe in no [illegible] a bad man, [illegible]rated a [illegible]

"Cold as Chri[illegible] has its significance here as well as with you. The day opened with a regular southwester, bringing a cold, dry, driving snow. But notwithstanding this in the wee sma' hours of the morning guns, crackers and torpedoes were in active service, as on a New England Fourth of July. I don't get the hang of this kind of celebration of the Advent of the Prince of Peace, or its propriety. But I can testify to its noisiness, and (weather permitting) imagine what it might have been on a milder morning. High Mass at St. Aloysius brought out the faithful Catholics at 4 o'clock in the morning, with many others who were attracted by the exquisite music and imposing ceremonies. This music is said to be the finest in the city.

Mingled between High Church and high carnival came the devotees of Bacchus, who made havoc of holiness, happiness and hopes that once had high aims. Christmas here, with all its holiness, has a strange mixture of religion, gunpowder and whiskey. The elements, too, seem to have held high carnival, by fire and disaster and pestilence, all over the country, and filled it with perils by land as well as sea.

The adjournment of Congress over the holidays, and the practical closing of the Departments, makes a dull time for political news; but another week will start enough. Then you may look for more Credit Mobilier developments, which seem likely to damage Dawes and help Boutwell for the Senate, in Massachusetts. The saints who took the stock now seem coming to grief in quick succession.

St. Domingo promises to be brought forward prominently before the session is over, and perhaps Cuba, too; while the death of the king of the Sandwich Islands without naming a successor, will possibly open up the question of annexation of those islands at once. But wait and see.

Yours, X. E.

A Young War.

The Pioche Phœnix Mining Company of Nevada recently took possession of one hundred feet of ground recently worked by Raymond, Ely & Co. The ground is claimed by both companies. The Phœnix men erected a barricade on the ground and made other preparations to hold it against Raymond, Ely & Co. On Friday night, Thomas Ryan, a Phœnix workman, looked over the barricade and was killed instantly. A general melee ensued and forty shots were wasted. On Saturday, Jacob Swertz was dangerously wounded while going to work. One hundred of the Raymond & Ely workmen have complicated matters by striking against ten hours' work. They think eight hours' shooting per day is sufficient.

The eighth annual reunion of the Veteran's Union of New Hampshire will take place in Manchester on the 14th of January. A business meeting will be held in Grand Army Hall at half past four o'clock and the banquet will take place at Haseltine's Hotel at nine. Major A. B. Thompson will be the toastmaster. As it is impossible to get the address of all the officers in the State some may fail to receive circulars, and all such are requested to consider themselves invited. The price of the tickets at the banquet is fixed at $2 each.

A VALUABLE MEDICAL TREATISE.—The edition for 1873 of the sterling medical annual known as Hostetter's Almanac is now ready, and may be obtained, free of cost, of druggists and general country dealers in all parts of the United States and British America, and indeed in every civilized portion of the Western Hemisphere. This Almanac has been issued regularly at the commencement of every year for about one-fifth of a century. It combines with the soundest practical advice for the preservation and restoration of health, a large amount of interesting and amusing light reading, and the calendar, astronomical calculations, chronological items, &c., are prepared with great care, and will be found entirely accurate. The issue of Hostetter's Almanac for 1873 will probably be the largest edition of a medical work ever published in any country. The proprietors, Messrs. Hostetter & Smith, Pittsburg, Pa., on receipt of a two cent stamp, will forward a copy by mail to any person who cannot procure one in his neighborhood.

PILES.—The unceasing torture from internal bleeding, external and itching piles is fast wearing away the thousands of those who are afflicted and their hope and courage have long since given place to despair. Let those who see this cheer up, for a mild and sure cure may be had by using BRIGGS' PILE REMEDIES.

A SURE CURE follows the use of BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL—the best known remedy for THROAT and LUNG COMPLAINTS. Only 50 cts. a bottle.

HOLLOWAY'S PILLS AND OINTMENT.—Sufferers from disease, these preparations are indorsed by half the world. With such testimonials, are they not worth trying? No internal or external disease can resist them Sold 78 Maiden Lane, N. Y. Price, 25 cents per box or pot. Ask for new style; the old is counterfeited. 27.

CORNS.—Since pride and fashion have had control of mankind, and shoemakers were compelled to make boots and shoes to fit fancy instead of the feet, the suffering from Corns, Bunions, Ingrowing Nails, Sore Insteps, Blistered Heels, Callosities on the bottom of the feet, &c., cannot be described. But Briggs' Corn and Bunion Remedies will cure all such torments, and proper fitting boots will prevent their reproduction. Sold by all druggists. a12

R. H. EDDY, SOLICITOR OF PATENTS,
For Inventions, Trade Marks or Designs,
No. 78 STATE ST., OPPOSITE KILBY ST., BOSTON,

After an extensive practice of upwards of thirty years, continues to secure patents in the United States; also in Great Britain, France and other foreign countries. Caveats, Specifications, Assignments, and all papers for Patents, executed on reasonable terms with dispatch. Researches made to determine the validity and utility of Patents of inventions, and legal and other advice rendered in all matters touching the same. Copies of the claims of any patent furnished, by remitting one dollar. Assignments recorded in Washington.

No Agency in the United States possesses superior facilities for obtaining Patents or ascertaining the patentability of inventions.

All necessity of a journey to Washington to procure a Patent and the usual great delay there, are here saved inventors.

TESTIMONIALS.

"I regard Mr. Eddy as one of the most capable and successful practitioners with whom I have had official intercourse. CHARLES MASON, Commissioner of Patents."

"I have no hesitation in assuring inventors that they cannot employ a man more competent and trustworthy and more capable of putting their applications in a form to secure for them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office. EDMUND BURKE, Late Commissioner of Patents."

"MR. R. H. EDDY has made for me over THIRTY applications for Patents, having been successful in almost every case. Such unmistakable proof of great talent and ability on his part leads me to recommend ALL inventors to apply to him to procure their Patents, as they may be sure of having the most faithful attention bestowed on their cases, and at very reasonable charges. JOHN TAGGART."

CLEAR YOUR THROAT!
Relieve Your Lungs.
For the terrible diseases engendered by the lung-trying climate of New England,
Pulmocine Cordial
Is a speedy and reliable Preventive and Remedy. EVERY FAMILY should have a bottle at hand to check the sudden growth of all Pulmonary Diseases. For the Asthma, Coughs, Croups, Laryngitis, or inflammation of the larynx, Diphtheria, and all kindred THROAT DISEASES at all times prevalent, it is the ounce of PREVENTION. Children attacked with Whooping Cough or Croup should be immediately cared for. These painful attacks come with scarcely a moment's warning, when a physician may be out of immediate reach. A dose of PULMOCINE CORDIAL gives speedy relief, and the little ones are spared hours of pain and agony. As "a stitch in time saves nine," so does the possession of this FAMILY MEDICINE prevent the spread of disease. Parents seeing their children gasping with pain, friends and relatives beholding each other in peril from suffocation by the choking pain in the throat, paralyzed with fear and not knowing the best course to pursue, are liable to apply the wrong remedies at first. There is no safety in delay, no time to waste in such cases. CONSUMPTION, that fearful scourge of the human race, lies at the door of all thus afflicted. BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL arrests it (unless in its advanced stage at which time there is no local cure) relieves the pressure, substituting feeling at the lungs, and the patient's danger is past.
BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL is no new discovery. Twenty-three years ago it was used by one of New England's most famous physicians as the best PULMONARY CURATIVE he could prescribe, after a dozen years spent in experimenting with it before he was satisfied that its Materia Medica could add nothing in its favor.
Buchman's Pulmocine Cordial
Is the ultima thule of Medical Discovery.
Among its many ingredients are WILD CHERRY BARK, SQUILL ROOT, LIQUORICE ROOT, BLOOD ROOT, &c. It is a BLOOD PURIFIER, gently stimulating. It increases expectoration and is diuretic. It is sudorific and alterative. It is a necessary family medicine. It is a Tonic, and a powerful aid to the digestive organs. It is a gentle sedative, and relieves nervousness. It is aromatic and agreeable to the taste.
For Coughs,
Croup,
Diphtheria,
Asthma, &c.
USE BUCHMAN'S
PULMOCINE CORDIAL.
☞ The Pulmocine Cordial is not a quack medicine, is not an experiment, is not composed of any ingredients "discovered" by "walking in pastures" in South America or anywhere else, nor by one who discovered a weed and thereby cured himself. Most of the ingredients are such as our best educated physicians daily use for the complaints specified, in some form or other. The recipe is that perfected by one of New England's most learned and famous physicians, who used it entirely in his daily practice until his death. It is offered to the profession and to the public, absolutely pure and unadulterated.

Failing to Supply the Constant Demand.
All other machines call the public attention to some new loop or stitch or tension or finish, some advantage in running or needles or feed or prices—and many of these are as we have said very good points, and the agents selling them use them to divert entirely the would-be purchaser from fairly considering the facts in the case; but the
SINGER
seems to unite the good qualities of all, and is never found wanting.
THE SINGER

$1000 REWARD.
BRIGGS' ALLEVANTOR is composed of Ammonia, Chloroform, Spirits of Camphor, Tincture of Lupulins, Oil of Juniper, and Alcohol. This compound is unequalled in the annals of medicine for the cure of Nervous or Sick Headache, Neuralgia, Trembling or Twitching of the Nerves, and all Nervous Diseases. It will counteract all poisons, banish pimples, cure scaly eruptions, itching, humors, &c.; it equalizes the circulation, invigorates the system, increases the action of the heart, without exciting the brain, cures Heartburn, Palpitation and Fluttering of the Heart, Dyspepsia, &c. Briggs' Allevantor absolutely possesses more curative properties than any other preparation. Physicians, chemists, and others are requested to examine and test the remedy, and $1000 will be paid if found different from representation.
COUGHS, and Much has been said written, and many remedies have been offered for the relief and cure of throat and lung diseases; but nothing has been so eminently successful, or obtained such a wide celebrity, as Briggs' Throat and Lung Healer.
CORNS! The excruciating pain produced by Corns, the unceasing twinging from Bunions, the piercing, distressing pain from Ingrowing Nails, cannot be described. Thousands suffer, not knowing there is a cure. Briggs' Corn and Bunion Remedies are no acid or potash compounds, but are reliable, soothing, and effectual, and just merit the success they have earned from an appreciative public. The Curative is a healing ointment; immediate relief is obtained by its application, and it will positively cure the worst cases of Festered Corns, Inflamed and Ulcerated Bunions, the sorest instep, the largest and severest Blisters, the most extensive Callosities on the soles or heels of the feet, unequalled in the cure of Chilblains or Frosted Feet. The Allevantor for ordinary corns and preventing their formation is absolutely unexcelled by anything ever known.
PILES have been a terror to mankind for centuries, and almost every attempt to cure them has been baffled. By unceasing study and experimenting, Dr. Briggs has discovered an absolutely cure for internal, bleeding, external, and itching piles. Briggs' Pile Remedies are mild, safe and sure.

The December number of the "People's Monthly," of Pittsburgh, Pa., is an elegant illustrated paper. This Christmas number is crowded with fine illustrations and interesting letters, stories, poems, &c., appropriate to the season. Three months on trial, only 25 cents, including the Christmas number. Yearly subscription, $1.50.

Shawl-Straps, by Louisa M. Alcott, Author of "Little Women," being the second volume of "Aunt Jo's Scrap-Bag," with illustrations. Price $1.00.

This a sociable and humorous account of "Aunt Jo's" recent trip to Europe, which will be read with eager interest by her countless admirers.

What Katy Did; a story, by Susan Coolidge, with illustrations by Addie Ledyard. Price $1.50. "The New-Year's Bargain" was such a decided favorite that this new domestic story promises to be in great demand. Sold everywhere. Mailed postpaid by the publishers, Roberts Brothers, Boston.

Homes and Hospitals: or, Two Phases of Woman's Work. In one volume; crown 8vo, cloth $1.50. Hurd and Houghton, New York: The Riverside Press, Cambridge. This book will be read with unflagging interest. It is a simple story of how two women worked among the poor and forlorn, and it exhibits two ways in which they made themselves useful. One, Miss Dutton, went day by day from her own home to minister to the distressed in their wretched homes. She still kept her place in the circle of friends to which she belonged. The other, Miss Jones, gave up home, and all the attractions of the society of those she loved. She put herself into a systematic course of training at the celebrated institution of Kaiserswerth, and then went into hospitals and poorhouses in Liverpool and London. Her life is one of the most [illegible] of its kind. Elijah Kellogg, has the opening chapters of a new story, entitled "The Turning of the Tide, or, Radcliffe Rich and his Patient." In addition to these, there is in this number an illustrated sketch of "Sardines; how they are caught, and how kept," by George M. Towle. "The Voyage of the Green Cotton Umbrella" is one of Charles Barnard's most eccentric stories. George M. Baker has the original dialogue, "The Boston Dip." Miss L. B. Humphrey presents a full-page prize rebus, "The Hunter's Camp," for the solution of which the publishers offer a complete set of Oliver Optic's books,—sixty volumes in all. Published by Lee & Shepard, Boston, at $2.50 per annum.

J. S. Peters, 599 Broadway, New York, has published the following new pieces of music: "Lost and Saved," (ballad), words by John Latey, music by J. B. A FAITHFUL WOMAN.—Some time since a lady residing in Boston, while in the street was passed by a man from which emitted an offensive odor. It occurred to her that it might contain the victim of small-pox, and if so, she feared she might have the disease. Going home at once she wrote a letter to her husband and child stating the facts and informing them that she was going to Billerica until she was sure she could safely associate with them in safety. Securing some requisite articles and two attendants she went to an unoccupied house in Billerica which was owned by a relative, and making herself comfortable prepared for the worst. In ten days the disease attacked her, she suffered its various stages, recovered, and returned to her family whom she had saved by her courageous fidelity. The death of such a woman would have been a loss to the whole community.

MATRIMONIAL AND MERCANTILE.—According to the Bangor Commercial the following unique thing in the promise-to-pay line was picked up in a neighboring town recently:

WEDNESDAY, JANUARY 1, 1873.

Indiscriminate Praise

Of all things and all men is only less pernicious, if it is less pernicious, which may well be doubted, than indiscriminate denunciation and fault-finding. Some person, more kind hearted than wise, once laid down as a maxim, "If you cannot speak well of a man do not speak of him at all," which saying has been so often repeated and sounds so very pious at the first, that many good souls firmly believe that it comes from Holy Writ, the same as "God tempers the wind to the shorn lamb" does. It may be very nice for the men or women who do evil to have all persons keep silence regarding what they do, but though it may be very benevolent towards the wrong-doers it is unjust to others. If the swindler and the thief, the slanderer, the selfish, dishonorable and abandoned were not to be reprobated and denounced for their conduct, they would occupy the same social plane as the high minded, the generous, the honorable and the pure, and would have their opportunities for wronging others immeasurably increased. That there is little danger of the time ever coming when all men will be spoken well of or not spoken of at all is true, — too many being only too ready to speak ill of others; but the fact that it should come is unchristian, for it implies that injustice is right. Christ, the great exemplar of love and forbearance, inculcated no such lack-adaisical doctrine; the Scribes and Pharisees were "hypocrites," the desecrators of the Temple "thieves," and so on; the evil-doer was spoken of as such — not in malice but in truth. Emerson says, "Speaking well of all mankind is the worst kind of detraction, for it takes away the reputation of the few good men in the world by making all alike."

Another popular saying, "Speak only of the dead," we class with the foregoing — as being a barrier erected in the breach of justice. Not that we approve of the saying, for the grave hide venial sins, but it is very dreary to cherish the memories of those who have passed under the influence of an impulse that life has passed beyond. It is a duty of other men to describe it as fearlessly and plainly as though death were unknown. If "only good" is to be spoken of the dead, then Judas Iscariot and St. John the Divine, Nero and St. Paul, Martin Luther and Ignatius Loyola, George Washington and Benedict Arnold, Abraham Lincoln and Wilkes Booth, should all occupy the same level in the minds and memories of men. We believe in no such doctrine; a bad man is a bad man, and while he lives should be execrated as such; nor does death transform a fiend into a saint, nor make the crime of yesterday a virtue to-day. We are sorry for those who think that the dead are in by worse condition than while living, and why the bad acts of some who have departed this life should be kept up because they have attained to yet unknown conditions elsewhere is too far removed from our comprehension to have much influence in regulating our conduct towards them.

Washington Correspondence.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Dec 28.

Murders in two days, following three public hangings in about as many weeks, is a sad commentary upon the laws as a reformatory institution. It may be said that but for the three public hangings there would have been five murders instead of two. The last murder, which was the most brutal, was committed by a man who had been witness to the last two hangings. The reports say that "any quantity of bottles" were found in the house. The testimony in the Cheesman murder was that Woods was a kind man when he was not drunk, but that when he was drunk he was a demon.

With four thousand licenses or special taxes connected with the sale of liquors and tobacco in this District, what wonder if they howl over the contemplated legislation asked for in the petition for suppressing the sale of liquors, why would the men in that business live? See how much suffering would come to their families if they were driven from this means of support! How will men do for income from offices if this business is cut off? Eighty-odd hundred vacant places! The mind shrinks at the contemplation, without taking a long list of lawyers, sheriffs, marshals and attaches of Justice courts, who are in danger of employment.

"Cold as Christmas" has its significance here as well as with you. The day opened with a regular southwester, bringing a cold, dry, driving snow. But notwithstanding this, in the wee sma' hours of the morning, guns, crackers and torpedoes were in active service, as on a New England Fourth of July. I don't get too hang of this kind of celebration of the Advent of the Prince of Peace, or its propriety. But I can testify to its noisiness, and (weather permitting) imagine what it might have been on a milder morning. High Mass at St. Aloyesius brought out the faithful Catholics at 4 o'clock in the morning, with many others who were attracted by the exquisite music and imposing ceremonies. This music is said to be the finest in the city.

Mingled between High Church and high carnival came the devotees of Bacchus, who made havoc of holiness, happiness and hopes that once had high aims. Christmas here, with all its holiness, has a strange mixture of religion, gunpowder and whiskey. The elements, too, seem to have held high carnival, by fire and disaster and pestilence, all over the country, and filled it with perils by land as well as sea.

The adjournment of Congress over the holidays, and the practical closing of the Departments, makes a dull time for political news; but another week will start enough. Then you may look for more Credit Mobilier developments, which seem likely to damage Dawes and help Boutwell for the Senate, in Massachusetts. The saints who took the stock now seem coming to grief in quick succession.

St. Domingo promises to be brought forward prominently before the session is over, and perhaps Cuba, too; while the death of the king of the Sandwich Islands without naming a successor, will possibly open up the question of annexation of those islands at once. But wait and see.

Yours, X. E.

A Young War.

The Pioche Phœnix Mining Company of Nevada recently took possession of one hundred feet of ground recently worked by Raymond, Ely & Co. The ground is claimed by both companies. The Phœnix men erected a barricade on the ground and made other preparations to hold it against Raymond, Ely & Co. On Friday night, Thomas Ryan, a Phœnix workman, looked over the barricade and was killed instantly. A general melee ensued and forty shots were wasted. On Saturday, Jacob Swertz was dangerously wounded while going to work. One hundred of the Raymond & Ely workmen have complicated matters by striking against ten hours' work. They think eight hours' shooting per day is sufficient.

Spreading Small Pox.

The Boston Advertiser says:—The small-pox is on the increase in East Cambridge. Health-Officer Kingsley visited 26 Vine street, a small wooden tenement with six rooms. In one of these the officer found a man in bed sick with the small-pox. In another part of the room there was a woman hard at work washing clothes for her customers, and not far from the bed another woman was diligently employed in making up a dozen pairs of pantaloons, which, as she stated, were for a clothing-house in Boston. The man had been sick for some time, but no physician had been in attendance. In this same house a woman died last week and since that time the house has been fumigated, and, as was thought, thoroughly disinfected. The present occupants are Portuguese.

Frost vs. Miller Platform.

The 3:30 train, down over the Montreal road, Monday, ran into an up-train, which was awaiting its arrival at Concord. The upright rod of a switch broke, being full of frost, when the engine struck the rail and threw the train on the track where the other train was standing. The baggage car struck the engine and demolished it badly. The baggage car and two cars following were somewhat smashed, but the Miller platforms saved the other train. No one was seriously hurt.

State News.

All singers attending the Musical Festival at Concord are requested to take with them copies of the "Jubilee Chorus Book." The Festival commences Jan. 6th and continues through the week.

Manchester has chosen thirty-two delegates in favor of Hon. Austin F. Pike for Congress, and the remaining sixteen will be of the same sort.

A society has recently been formed in New Ipswich, having for its object the making of sidewalks, setting of shade trees and other improvements of the streets that are most frequented. They meet weekly at different houses with those who will open their doors for the purpose.

Bro. Folsom of the Rochester Courier has been wasting words with Josh. Foster, the Dover kangaroo.

The eighth annual reunion of the Veteran's Union of New Hampshire will take place in Manchester on the 14th of January. A business meeting will be held in Grand Army Hall at half past four o'clock and the banquet will take place at Haseltine's Hotel at nine. Major A. B. Thompson will be the toastmaster. As it is impossible to get the address of all the officers in the State some may fail to receive circulars, and all such are requested to consider themselves invited. The price of the tickets at the banquet is fixed at $2 each.

Mrs. Florence Smith of Epping, aged 60 years, lost her life a few days since by using a charcoal furnace in her room at North Fryeberg, Me., where she was on a visit.

Business Notices.

Don't let that SORE THROAT get the upper hands of you. PULMOCINE CORDIAL will cure it. For sale by druggists and at the Union Store: 50 cts. per bottle.

TERRIBLE TO WEAK LUNGS is this inclement season. Are you hoarse — tormented with a cold—convulsed with a hard cough—annoyed with a sore throat—troubled with difficulty of breathing? If so, lose not an hour in procuring Hale's Honey of Horehound and Tar, the sole and sovereign remedy for such complaints. Crittenton's 76th Avenue. Sold by all Druggists.

Pike's Toothache Drops cure in 1 minute.

INSTANTANEOUS is the operation of BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL in all cases of SORE THROAT, HOARSENESS, COUGHS, CROUP, and LUNG AFFECTIONS. It is beneficial in all cases. Sold for 50 cents per bottle.

A VALUABLE MEDICAL TREATISE.—The edition for 1873 of the sterling medical annual known as Hostetter's Almanac is now ready, and may be obtained, free of cost, of druggists and general country dealers in all parts of the United States and British America, and indeed in every civilized portion of the Western Hemisphere. This Almanac has been issued regularly at the commencement of every year for about one-fifth of a century. It combines with the soundest practical advice for the preservation and restoration of health, a large amount of interesting and amusing lighter reading, and the calendar, astronomical calculations, chronological items, &c., are prepared with great care, and will be found entirely accurate. The issue of Hostetter's Almanac for 1873 will probably be the largest edition of a medical work ever published in any country. The proprietors, Messrs. Hostetter & Smith, Pittsburg, Pa., on receipt of a two cent stamp, will forward a copy by mail to any person who cannot procure one in his neighborhood.

PILES.—The unceasing torture from internal bleeding, external and itching piles is fast wearing away the thousands of those who are afflicted and their hope and courage have long since given place to despair. Let those who see this cheer up, for a mild and sure cure may be had by using BRIGGS' PILE REMEDIES.

A SURE CURE follows the use of BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL—the best known remedy for THROAT and LUNG COMPLAINTS. Only 50 cts. a bottle.

HOLLOWAY'S PILLS AND OINTMENT.—Sufferers from disease, these preparations are indorsed by half the world. With such testimonials, are they not worth trying? No internal or external disease can resist them Sold 78 Maiden Lane, N. Y. Price, 25 cents per box or pot. Ask for new style; the old is counterfeited. 27.

CORNS.—Since pride and fashion have had control of mankind, and shoemakers were compelled to make boots and shoes to fit fancy instead of the feet, the suffering from Corns, Bunions, Ingrowing Nails, Sore Insteps, Blistered Heels, Callosities on the bottom of the feet, &c., cannot be described. But Briggs' Corn and Bunion Remedies will cure all such torments, and proper fitting boots will prevent their reproduction. Sold by all druggists. a12

HOW UNNECESSARY THE ANGUISH many persons undergo from rheumatism, gout, neuralgia, toothache and earache. We say unnecessary because the application of Mexican Mustang Liniment to the affected part, or a few drops of it in the ear or tooth, affords instantaneous, and what is better, permanent relief. For cuts, wounds, bruises, swellings, and all injuries or diseases which require treatment externally, this liniment is everywhere regarded as the most potent and reliable healing agent in existence. For all external injuries or ailments of horses and cattle, it is infallible.

WHY HAS SOZODONT become the staple Dentrifice of America? Simply because it is impossible to use it, even for a week, without perceiving its hygienic effect upon the teeth, the gums and the breath.

AMERICAN & FOREIGN PATENTS.

R. H. EDDY, SOLICITOR OF PATENTS, For Inventions, Trade Marks or Designs, NO. 78 STATE ST., OPPOSITE KILBY ST., BOSTON.

After an extensive practice of upwards of thirty years, continues to secure patents in the United States; also in Great Britain, France and other foreign countries. Caveats, Specifications, Assignments, and all papers for Patents, executed on reasonable terms with dispatch. Researches made to determine the validity and utility of Patents of inventions, and legal and other advice rendered in all matters touching the same. Copies of the claims of any patent furnished, by remitting one dollar. Assignments recorded in Washington.

No Agency in the United States possesses superior facilities for obtaining Patents or ascertaining the patentability of inventions.

All necessity of a journey to Washington to procure a Patent and the usual great delay there, are here saved inventors.

TESTIMONIALS.

"I regard Mr. Eddy as one of the most capable and successful practitioners with whom I have had official intercourse. CHARLES MASON, Commissioner of Patents."

"I have no hesitation in assuring inventors that they cannot employ a man more competent and trustworthy and more capable of putting their applications in a form to secure for them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office. EDMUND BURKE, Late Commissioner of Patents."

"MR. R. H. EDDY has made for me over THIRTY applications for Patents, having been successful in almost every case. Such unmistakable proof of great talent and ability on his part leads me to recommend ALL inventors to apply to him to procure their Patents, as they may be sure of having the most faithful attention bestowed on their cases, and at very reasonable charges. JOHN TAGGART."

LOCAL AFFAIRS.

The Old and The New.

The record of another year is closed; 1872, with all its memories of happy hours and bitter sorrows, of bright anticipations and crushing disappointments, of good resolutions unfulfilled and evil designs repented of and abandoned, of success and failure, of proud achievements for the right and apparent triumphs for the wrong, is now but a moment of the illimitable past. How many who greeted the opening of the past year with high hopes of winning honor, wealth and preferment, who fancied their promising plans could not miscarry or who bade their souls make merry, having store laid up for many years, closed their eyes forever ere the year was closed; and how many who greet the New Year with similar aspirations and hopes will join them before this year's record is finished! Men are born, live through a brief and changeful existence and then pass away,—and still the winds blow and the sun shines, the rain falls and the grass grows as it has done for ages. A friend dies, and we think the whole world is in shadow; in a few short months we marvel at the gloom of those whose grief is neared in point of time than our own. A mighty name is blotted out, and men speak beneath their breath, for an hour; nations are smitten with famine, with pestilence and the sword, yet still the sons of men marry and are given in marriage, the markets are thronged with buyers and sellers of merchandise, and the millions toil on. The departure of a great man or woman, a conspicuous atom of the world of humanity, makes a commotion like the ripple from a stone flung into the ocean,— for a moment it seems to disturb the world, and then no trace of it remains. And still the great world moves on, unmindful of the individual, of blasted hopes or of honors and happiness won,—and so it will move on, when all who greet this New Year shall have given up their joys and sorrows alike and the places which now know them shall know them no more forever.

But it is not with the past we have to do; that has gone beyond recall, and no item of its record can we alter. The errors committed, the good deeds which might have been but were not performed, the precious opportunities wasted, we can only regret. The future is uncertain,—certain only in that when it shall have become the Past its memories will be as those of times which we now look back upon; but the Present is ours. A resolution to do good in the future, is well; a faithful performance of every duty in the present, is perfection,—but who can reach it? Who, when another New Year shall come, will be able to look back on a year wholly well spent? Not one; yet, hoping that each and all may do better in carrying out good resolutions than ever before, and that the shadows on their paths may never wholly blot out the sunshine, we wish to our readers and the world A HAPPY NEW YEAR.

The Pythian Amateurs

Give their second representation of "Damon and Pythias" at the Temple this evening. The announcement is sufficient to fill the house and thereby replenish the treasury of the company, the members of which have been at great expense in procuring the costumes. Persons who witnessed their first appearance will want to attend tonight, and those who were not present before will be desirous of seeing and hearing the dramatic entertainment.

Suggestion.

It is encouraging to know that the clergy of this city are among the warmest friends of the local temperance movement. What a powerful crusade against the liquor traffic could be inaugurated by them, especially if they were assisted by the undivided influence of their congregations, the large majority of whom profess to be, and doubtless are friendly to the cause of temperance. What a grand thing if all the clergymen in the city would on Sunday next preach strong sermons against the sin of intemperance—drunkenness. The beginning of a new year and new resolutions, it would be a fitting day and time to inaugurate a religious crusade against intemperance and the liquor traffic. The lay advocates of the cause believe that the churches could exert great power in putting down this evil, and are willing to help the clergy in the praiseworthy undertaking. K.

Laconics.

Canon Walsh was presented with a purse of $400 on Sunday by the attendants of St. Mary's Catholic church. Parties tend to bind in closer pastor and people, whose interests should be identical and who can accomplish a vast deal more in this than when divided by bickerings.

The Boston Traveller of Tuesday night has two full pages of "yearly review," from the pen of Hon. C. C. Hazewell. E. G. Adams has a full supply.

Dr. W. Hosken Rogers has located at No. 50 Congress street and taken up a permanent residence in this city. See his card among the advertisements.

Rev. Mr. Goss of the Court street society and Mr. Charles E. Buzzell, superintendent of the Sabbath School, received elegant presents at the Christmas festivities.

Mr. Wm. Akerman, who had the small pox, is well and will probably leave the hospital this week. The river was so blockaded by ice that it was impossible to reach Hospital island for two days.

The books of the Eastern Railroad show that the total debt of the corporation is $7,447,941,30; expended for operating the road during the year, $1,399,421,47; earnings, $1,973,622; net earnings above operating expenses $574,201.36.

Portsmouth, Dec. 28, 1872.

Injunction Granted.

In the spreme court of Maine, Monday, Judge Virgin, on a petition of the Portland, Saco & Portsmouth Railroad Company, ordered that a writ of attachment be issued against certain contractors on the Boston & Maine extension, restraining them from constructing any railroad in or through the town of North Berwick, within 160 feet of the depot of the complainants, or running any construction train or cars upon such tracks at or near the time when the passenger or freight trains of the defendants are due. Four of the parties, Hilliard, Brown, Flowers and Ricker, have been once arrested on a writ of attachment, but have since disobeyed the decree, so that if they are arrested again they cannot give bail.

Readables.

Cholera has been exploring the Nile, and at Berlee killed seven hundred natives in ten days.

Mrs. James Fisk, Jr., will have less than $100,000 when her husband's affairs are straightened.

Two servants, Philip Coffrey and another, in the employ of Hon. E. J. M. Hale, in Haverhill, Mass., were killed by coal-gas on Saturday night in their lodging-rooms in a stable. They had put a stove in their room, the funnel of which would not enter the flue of the chimney, leaving space for the gas to escape. The stove was filled with charcoal and anthracite on retiring, and in the morning they were found dead.

A correspondent wants somebody to tell him who Richard III. was before he was "himself again."

By the burning of the new small-pox hospital in Boston, that city is left in a worse way than before. The hospital on Galloupe's Island has long been overcrowded, there is no adequate means of transportation, and patients who do not die of the disease are killed by exposure. Six persons lay all night Friday in a boathouse on the wharf. It is the the common talk in Boston that this whole business, both as regards vaccination and the care of the sick, has been grossly mismanaged by the city authorities. Americans endure from their rulers what under a monarchy would raise a rebellion.

Miss Addie Taylor of Bridgeport, Conn., attended a Frenchman who was sick of small-pox a few months ago, and now he has given her a fortune of $50,000.

Over eighteen hundred votes for mayor were cast in Haverhill, Mass. James V. Smiley, democratic and citizens' candidate, was elected by 211 majority.

WHERE DID THE RICH MAN GO?—Little Johnny was preparing for Sunday school, situated some distance away, when his mother saw one of his neighbors approaching in his vehicle. This neighbor by the way, was called "The Rich Man," being both wealthy, kind hearted, and liberal to the poor. Johnny ran out, and the rich man took him into his vehicle, as he was going right past the Sunday school. It was a very hot day, and so Johnny took off his shoes and stockings to keep himself cool. When they arrived the exercises had already begun, and as the man was going to church about a mile beyond, and had agreed to call for Johnny on his return, he concluded not to put on his shoes and stockings again, but leave them in the vehicle. So he tripped lightly into school, and the man drove away towards church.

His teacher was just hearing the lesson, which, by the bye, Johnny was not acquainted with, which was the fate of the rich man and poor Lazarus. Soon after Johnny took his seat, it came to his turn to answer a question.

"Johnny, can you tell me where the rich man went?"

"He went to the Baptist meeting, sir," replied the lad, thinking only of his late companion.

"No, no, my son, the rich man went to hell," said the teacher, with great impressiveness, while the other scholars were tittering with laughter.

"Did he," exclaimed the lad, in all honesty. "Then he has taken my shoes and stockings with him;" and up he jumped, and seizing his hat, he put out of the school-room and down the road to overtake the rich man, and recover his property.

Morning Chronicle.

EX-SENATOR DICK YATES.—We take the following from "Mack's" Washington letter; The reader will perhaps remember a speech of Dick Yates—Hon. Richard Yates, if it sounds better—delivered in St. Louis on the Friday evening preceding the November election, and published in full in the Democrat of the following day. Well, that speech attracted the President's attention as one of the best made during the campaign. He read it carefully, and I think he estimated it correctly. The President, was, moreover, very glad that his old friend, whom he had known so well in the early days of the war, had shown that he still retained his mental vigor and ability, and has since, in conversation, repeatedly stated his intention to do whatever he could for him. "I'll give him almost anything he wants if he will only do what's right as to himself," said General Grant only a few days ago. I have reason to believe that Yates will yet give a good account of himself, and certainly there is no man in the West whom the people would more greatly rejoice to help than the great war Governor of Illinois. There is a strong bond of sympathy and good feeling between Yates and the people yet, notwithstanding all his faults and follies. I understand that he desires an appointment as Governor of one of the Territories, and that the President will give it to him upon a tenure conditioned on his adherence to temperance principles and practices. He will be in Washington early in January, and his friends say that in condition and appearance he will astonish those who have been prematurely mourning his ruin. I pity the man who has not a good and a helping hand for Dick Yates in his every effort, no matter how often repeated, to do right.

—The navigation of the Savannah river must be conducted on primitive principles. A steamer got snagged some time ago, but they stuffed some rags and things in her bottom, and she managed to reach Augusta, and having done so well, concluded to make another trip without repairing, and how many more does not appear, until one day she got on a sand bar, but the captain pulled her off and tied her up for the night. About 4 o'clock she gave a sudden lurch, and by the time the crew could get ashore she went down. "It is supposed" the rags got worked out of the hole.—Mobile Register.

HAVING THIRTY YEARS TO RUN.

Bearing interest at 7 per cent. in Gold Coin, "of or equal to the present standard."

Coupons payable in New York, London, or Frankfort on the Main, at the option of the holder. When desired, bonds will be registered by the Trustee—the Farmers' Loan and Trust Co. Interest payable January and July.

This road is now completed from Jacksonville to a junction with the CHICAGO & ALTON R. R. at Virden, a distance of over 30 miles. The road, so far as completed, is thoroughly equipped, ENTIRELY PAID FOR, and in full operation, and it is upon the completed portion only, that bonds amounting to $600,000 are now offered at 85 and accrued interest in currency. Bonds upon the remaining portion of the road will be sold at a much higher price and will be offered only upon completed road. This road traverses the garden of the State, crosses all the most important roads, controls the enormous coal mines at Virden, and its lands are most highly esteemed by those whose investigation has been most searching. We have personally examined every detail of this Company, and have gone repeatedly over the entire line. We are consequently enabled to recommend these bonds as an absolutely perfect security.

COOK STOVES:

THE UNEQUALLED

ARLINGTON COOK.

We invite all those in want of the VERY BEST COOK STOVE to examine this before purchasing, as we believe it to be far superior to any other stove in the market, the castings being heavier, and the oven larger than usual, and the sifter so arranged that the coals can be separated from the ashes without removing them from the stove.

Barstow's Union Portable Range,

WITH HOT CLOSET.

LATEST IMPROVEMENT.

This New Hot Closet Range combines all the conveniences of an Extension Top Cooking Stove, or brick set Range; while it costs less, and requires less space than either. Particular attention is invited to the beautiful exterior of the Range, and the superior quality of its castings; it is the handsomest and best Portable Range in the Market.

PARLOR & OFFICE STOVES

We have constantly on hand a good assortment of OFFICE & PARLOR STOVES, among which are the following: The new PEERLESS PARLOR, admitted by all who have seen it to be the handsomest Parlor Stove in the Market. Being perfectly air tight, it needs no ventilating box or opening in the back of the stove, but the fire is easily managed by the front draft. It is a very economical Coal burner and will keep fire throughout the season without going out. The GEN. GRANT is a very neat Parlor Stove, at a much lower price than the Peerless. We sold a large number last season and they gave entire satisfaction.]

PLEASANT PARLOR COOK!

A new and desirable pattern for wood or coal,

ELEGANT AIR-TIGHT STOVES,

CLEAR YOUR THROAT!
Relieve Your Lungs.
For the terrible diseases engendered by the lung-trying climate of New England,
Pulmocine Cordial
Is a speedy and reliable Preventive and Remedy. EVERY FAMILY should have a bottle at hand to check the sudden growth of all Pulmonary Diseases. For the Asthma, Coughs, Croups, Laryngitis, or inflammation of the larynx, Diphtheria, and all kindred THROAT DISEASES at all times prevalent, it is the ounce of PREVENTION. Children attacked with Whooping Cough or Croup should be immediately cared for. These painful attacks come with scarcely a moment's warning, when a physician may be out of immediate reach. A dose of PULMOCINE CORDIAL gives speedy relief, and the little ones are spared hours of pain and agony. As "a stitch in time saves nine," so does the possession of this FAMILY MEDICINE prevent the spread of disease. Parents seeing their children gasping with pain, friends and relatives beholding each other in peril from suffocation by the choking pain in the throat, paralyzed with fear and not knowing the best course to pursue, are liable to apply the wrong remedial agents. There is no safety in delay, no time to waste in such cases. CONSUMPTION, that fearful scourge of the human race, lies at the door of all thus afflicted. BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL arrests it (unless in its advanced stages at which time there is no local cure) relieves the pressing, suffocating feeling at the lungs, and the patient's danger is past.
BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL
is no new discovery. Twenty-three years ago it was used by one of New England's most famous physicians as the best PULMONARY CURATIVE he could prescribe, after a dozen years spent in experimenting with it before he was satisfied that the Materia Medica could add nothing in its favor.
Buchman's Pulmocine Cordial
Is the ultima thule of Medical Discovery.
Among its many ingredients are WILD CHERRY BARK, SQUILL ROOT, LIQUORICE ROOT, BLOOD ROOT, &c. It is a BLOOD PURIFIER, gently stimulating. It increases expectoration and is diuretic. It is sudorific and alterative. It is a necessary family medicine. It is a Tonic, and a powerful aid to the digestive organs. It is a gentle sedative, and relieves nervousness. It is aromatic and agreeable to the taste.
For Coughs, Croup, Diphtheria, Asthma, &c.
USE BUCHMAN'S
PULMOCINE CORDIAL.
☞ The Pulmocine Cordial is not a quack medicine, is not an experiment, is not composed of any ingredients "discovered" by "walking in pastures" in South America or anywhere else, nor by one who discovered a weed and thereby cured himself. Most of its ingredients are such as our best educated physicians daily use for the complaints specified, in some form or other. The recipe is that perfected by one of New England's most learned and famous physicians, who used it entirely in his daily practice until his death. It is offered to the profession and to the public, absolutely pure and unadulterated.

Failing to Supply the Constant Demand.
All other machines call the public attention to some new loop or stitch or tension or finish, some advantage in running or needles or feed or prices—and many of these are as we have said very good points, and the agents selling them use them to divert entirely the would-be purchaser from fairly considering the facts in the case; but the
SINGER

$1000 REWARD.
BRIGGS' ALLEVANTOR is composed of Ammonia, Chloroform, Spirits of Camphor, Tincture of Lupulins, Oil of Juniper, and Alcohol. This compound is unequalled in the annals of medicine for the cure of Nervous or Sick Headache, Neuralgia, Trembling or Twitching of the Nerves, and all Nervous Diseases. It will counteract all poisons, banish pimples, cure scaly eruptions, itching, humors, &c.; it equalizes the circulation, invigorates the system, increases the action of the heart, without exciting the brain, cures Heartburn, Palpitation and Fluttering of the Heart, Dyspepsia, &c. Briggs' Allevantor absolutely possesses more curative properties than any other preparation. Physicians, chemists, and others are requested to examine and test the remedy, and $1000 will be paid if found different from representation.
COUCHS. Much has been said and written, and many remedies have been offered for the relief and cure of throat and lung disease; but nothing has been so eminently successful, or obtained such a wide celebrity, as Briggs' Throat and Lung Healer.
CORNS! The excruciating pain produced by Corns, the unceasing twinging from Bunions, the piercing, distressing pain from Ingrowing Nails, cannot be described. Thousands suffer, not knowing there is a cure. Briggs' Corn and Bunion Remedies are no acid or potash compounds, but are reliable, soothing, and effectual, and just merit the success they have earned from an appreciative public. The Curative is a healing ointment; immediate relief is obtained by its application, and it will positively cure the worst cases of Festered Corns, Inflamed and Ulcerated Bunions, the sorest instep, the largest and severest Blisters, the most extensive Callosities on the soles or heels of the feet, unequalled in the cure of Chilblains or Frosted Feet. The Allevantor for ordinary corns and preventing their formation is absolutely unexcelled by anything ever known.
PILES have been a terror to mankind for centuries, and almost every attempt to cure them has been baffled. By unceasing study and experimenting, Dr. Briggs has discovered an absolutely cure for internal, bleeding, external, and itching piles. Briggs' Pile Remedies are mild, safe and sure.
For sale by J. H. THACHER, WM. R. PRESTON, Portsmouth; JAMES O. TRIPPENEY, Kittery; E. S. SAYWARD, Kittery Point; H. M. CURTIS, Newcastle, and dealers generally.

IRON IN THE BLOOD.
DYSPEPSIA, DEBILITY, DROPSY, HUMORS,
PERUVIAN SYRUP
Makes the Weak Strong.
The Peruvian Syrup, a Protected Solution of the Protoxide of Iron, is so combined as to have the character of an aliment, as easily digested and assimilated with the blood as the simplest food. It increases the quantity of Nature's Own Vitalizing Agent, Iron in the blood, and cures "a thousand ill," simply by Toning up, Invigorating and Vitalizing the System. The enriched and vitalized blood permeates every part of the body, repairing damages and waste, searching out morbid secretions, and leaving nothing for disease to feed upon.
This is the secret of the wonderful success of this remedy in curing Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, Dropsy, Chronic Diarrhœa, Boils, Nervous Affections, Chills and Fevers, Humors, Loss of Constitutional Vigor, Diseases of the Kidneys and Bladder, Female Complaints, and all diseases originating in a bad state of the blood, or accompanied by debility or a low system. Being free from Alcohol, in any form, its energizing effects are not followed by corresponding reaction, but are permanent, infusing strength, vigor, and new life into all parts of the system, and building up an Iron Constitution.
Thousands have been changed by the use of this remedy, from weak, sickly, suffering creatures to strong, healthy, and happy men and women: and invalids cannot reasonably hesitate to give it a trial.
See that each bottle has PERUVIAN SYRUP blown in the glass.

The Chronicle.

WENDELL PHILLIPS' lecture on "The Lost Arts," has provoked a great deal of discussion, and elicited sharp criticism from a large number of sources. As Mr. Phillips is using this lecture considerably this winter, criticisms have broken out afresh. Mr. James Emerson, of Holyoke, Mass., writes as follows to the Tribune in reference to one of Mr. Phillips' points:—

"Mr. Wendell Phillips, in his lecture upon 'The Lost Arts,' speaks of Saladin's severing a scarf, so light that it would float in the air, before it could fall to the ground, and says we can produce nothing like those keen blades of the East. He might have seen that, with other feats quite as wonderful, performed in his own city; at least I did, at one of the theaters. A man placed an apple on his wife's head and with a sword split it neatly in halves. He repeated the feat with an apple laid in the lady's hand; and again, with one wrapped in a handkerchief, without injury to the handkerchief. A bar of lead was also cut in two. And, a scarf tossed in the air was severed, the feat being repeated several times, and they were so light that the several parts floated out over the audience. Mr. Peillips' lecture is very interesting, but if thoroughly sifted how much of it would prove true?

NAST'S GRATZ BROWN TAG.—At a moderate estimate I have heard a thousand persons try to account for the tag to Greeley's coat-tail as the representation of Gratz Brown in all the cartoons of Harper's Weekly during the late campaign—all but one, to speak correctly, for there was one in which the human face divine of our Gratz was there in all its beauty, with a label of Bacchus, and a wine cask near by. I rejoice to be able to explain the mystery of the tag, which, like many other things, began by being unaccountable and ended by being voted exceedingly appropriate. Before I tell how it happened, I must recall an incident related of an ancient painter, Protogenes by name. It is said that that gentleman had finished the picture of a dog, quite tired and out of breath, but not being able to give it the finishing stroke of slaver and foam at the mouth, became vexed and angry at his work, and at last, in sheer disgust, picked up his sponge and threw it at the picture, with the purpose to deface or obliterate it, when, by accident it hit just upon the mouth of the dog, and there performed what all the skill of the artist had failed to accomplish. Mautaigne, in one of his essays, tells this story to show that luck or accident often does better for men than their own designs; and the old cynic adds, as an illustration to the same happy effect from his own experience, that he once knew a man to throw a stone at a dog and hit and kill his mother-in-law instead.

That expressive tag in the Harper cartoons was the result of an accident of omission on the part of Nast in preparing his first cartoon after the Cincinnati convention. He had sketched, as he thought, all the principal figures, and was ready to hand his drawing over to the engravers, when a friend called his attention to the fact that he had omitted B. Gratz, who, of course, should have been one of the principal figures. Nast was greatly troubled—he could not deny the imperfection to which his attention had been called, and yet it was too late to remedy it, for his time was up and the workmen were waiting on him. He hadn't in his studio a picture of Brown, and even if he had, there was no room for it in the cartoon, every inch of room being already occupied. At the very last moment he picked up a pencil, drew the tag and labeled it Gratz Brown.

When the picture came out, some admired the happy hit and others inquired what it meant. It was Nast's intention to remedy the defect in a subsequent issue, but while he was hesitating, public opinion passed from inquiry to admiration, and the artist's friends finally persuaded him that no caricature could equal the tag in the idea intended to be conveyed; and so it happened that Gratz was constantly presented to the public in that way.—"Mack."

A TERRIBLE WARNING.—A few days ago, says the Chicago Times, Mr. Muhlbesch was taken suddenly ill at his residence. The disease was of a very acute nature, and in spite of all the the efforts of his physicians, he died after a brief illness, and his sorrowing friends made ready for the funeral. An undertaker was summoned and the body properly laid out, and on yesterday the funeral services took place from his late residence. After the customary services had been performed, and the sorrowing relatives had taken their last look of the deceased, the coffin lid was screwed down and the funeral cortege moved slowly toward the quiet confines of Graceland cemetery, where the body was finally lowered sadly into the grave which had been prepared for it. The last prayer had been offered and the last solemn service repeated, when, just as the sexton seized his spade and was about to drop the first shovelful of earth upon the coffin, a sound something like a stifled d by a scratching noise, man was trying to re- from the confines of his e, was heard proceeding l open grave. For an in- heart stood still, and the ery listener seemed to cur- cies. The women screamed ned toward the carriage, men were not slow in follow- n. In an instant the sexton was only man left at the grave, and he, o, trembled at hearing what he had never heard before. Finally he recov- ered presence of mind enough to de- scend into the grave and break open the rough box in which the coffin was encased. Then the noise was repeated, and he knew that the occupant of that grave, who in a few moments more would have been consigned to a horri- ble death, and whom his friends had already mourned as dead, was still alive and anxious to be set free. A screwdriver was soon procured from the undertaker present, and the coffin lid removed, when its occupant, instead of being cold and dead as he appeared when lost seen, was found to be once more alive. His friends, who had by this time recovered courage enough to return to the grave, were of course al- most overjoyed at this strange and un- expected turn of affairs, and hastened to rescue the late deceased from his un- pleasant quarters and remove him to one of the carriages in waiting, where he was rolled up in a plentiful supply of blankets and lap robes, and the friends who had lately followed him sorrowingly to the grave now hastened joyfully toward their homes. The rescued man was so overcome on being rescued from his perilous position, that he was for a long time unable to speak, and what his feelings were while under- going burial, or whether he was con- scious at all or not until the last mo- ment when he managed to signify that he was still alive, is not known.

The Boston Advertiser says very sage- ly—"There is but one man in the coun- try who will know who is to be in the Cabinet, and he is not communicative."

The ice in the Ohio caused considerable damage to boats at Cincinnati, the loss being estimated at $200,000.

Montreal has had a $500,000 fire on Peter street.

There will be some hair lost in Missouri before the Senatorial fight is over, and the chief whose scalp is in most danger is Frank Blair.

Senator Sumner's Senatorial term does not expire until 1875.

The vote of Frederick Douglass, in New York, as elector-at-large, fell but 1,800 below that of his white associates. His majority exceeds 50,000 over his highest competitor.

A fire engine in New York ran over and killed a man who slipped on the ice.

The Lee family of circus performers eight persons, were all murdered by Apaches while on their way to Mexico through Arizona.

A Bremen emigrant ship, the Colum- bus, arrived in New York after a voyage of seventy-four days, in a condition so filthy that the quarantine officials re- fused to let her up to the city until she had been thoroughly fumigated. She started with 367 passengers. Of these 9 died on the voyage, 20 of whom were children. There were three births at sea.

The Massachusetts legislature or- ganized on the 1st. Hon. George B. King was chosen President of the Senate, and Hon. John E. Sanford of Taunton was elected Speaker of the House.

Wappeto Dave, a California Indian, is on trial for killing his mother-in- law. Any pretence is good enough for prosecuting an Indian.

New York orphans are being dis- tributed by the car-load throughout Minnesota, and when Stokes, Simmons, Burns, Foster, and the score of other teachers get out of jail and to work again, it is thought "through orphan trains" can be successfully worked on the trunk lines of railroads leading West. Louis Democrat.

State News.

The public schools in Farmington have been closed on account of the small-pox. The disease is confined to the household of Mr. S. S. Cloutman.

Mr. Freeman Webster of Concord has given up the position of conductor of the freight train between Concord and Boston, which he had held thirty years and two months.

The Lebanon Free Press "hopes to live to see the day when great earnest- ness to obtain office will insure defeat." To be hoped for, devoutly, say all but the "thimble-riggers."

Mr. Ansell Tucker has completed his thirty-second consecutive year of ser- vice as conductor on the Boston & Maine Railroad. The remarkable fact connected with Mr. Tucker's long con- nection with one line of railroad is that since 1840 no passenger on his trains has been killed, and the corporation has never been called upon to pay a dollar for injury to any person in the cars un- der his care. He looks as if his vigorous constitution would hold out for another third of a century on the same track. It is worthy of note that Mr. Tucker once made up his mind to leave rail- roading, but a week's vacation satisfied him and he withdrew his resignation.

BOSTON, Dec. 31, 1872.

Long ago, so long ago that it has the indistinctness of a half forgotten dream, I watched the queer looking cars that invaded the sacred precincts of "Rock Pasture," in the shape of construction and passenger trains; a band of iron was then laid across New Hampshire's seaboard which has since been welded to connecting bands in other States until now freight from Halifax may be set down in San Francisco without a change of cars.

Nor is the increase in the length of the Eastern Railroad's connections any more worthy of remark than its steady improvement of its own line, in equip- ment, and the adoption of every im- provement for the comfort and security of its patrons. The Westinghaus brake (in application of which the East- ern leads all New England Roads), the Miller platform and coupler, the system of electric signals, and the run- ning of trains by telegraph, are only some of the main features of the great advance constantly made by the pres- ent management.

In keeping Supt. Prescott against all competing bids, the Eastern has shown its wisdom. No railroad man is more favorably known in New England; else had the West not bid so high for his services. To us, who are on the road in times when trouble awaits, his tall form seems a necessary adjunct, and certainly it is a most welcome one, giving promise of the earliest solution of any and all difficulties. To modesty and a most retiring disposition is added a rare executive ability.

In appointing Mr. Hatch, the direct- ors have also made a point, relieving Mr. Prescott of cares which should not be imposed on the Superintendent, but which are a necessary concomitant of any popular road.

That five million passengers were carried last year; that but one other road out of Boston transfers as many; that over half a million of dollars re- presents net earnings;—is of little effect or consideration to your readers. But it is of interest to know that the man- agement of the road is ever alive to secure the latest and best improvements for comfort or safety—taking prece- dence of every Eastern road in these particulars. Not only in rolling stock is this shown, but in stations and con- veniences for travel, as per this item from a Boston paper:—

The consolidation of the Boston, Low- ell and Nashua and Boston and Fitch- burg Railroads, and the lease of the Massachusetts Central by the combined corporations, will afford an occasion for several radical and much needed changes in the terminal facilities of the railroads at the North End. Should the Fitchburg abandon its present passen- ger station upon the completion of the new Lowell depot, the capacity of which will be ample for accommoda- tion of the traffic of all the roads enter- ing into the combination, the Eastern Railroad, instead of rebuilding upon its present site, could take the granite de- pot of its neighbor. Being the eastern- most road, by an exchange of tracks with the Boston and Maine, all the crossings this side of Somerville, in- cluding those of the Fitchburg at Prison Point, may be avoided. The Boston and Maine would by this means be re- lieved of the crossings of the Fitchburg road at Prison Point, and the Eastern at Somerville.

The recent taking of a wide strip of land at the Boston station, commends itself to the patrons of the Eastern. Leased by the Boston & Maine to a brick company, it prevented an expan- sion of depot facilities always needed by the Eastern road, but the action of the legislature of the old Bay State has endowed the Eastern with power to re- spond to the calls of the public.

Tis not eqactly the scent of the roses that hangs round us still,—but the passers on a portion of Washington and Tremont street are regaled with the un- savory odors from the still smouldering embers of Boston's great fire. To the casual spectator the ruins after each snow storm are very picturesque; to those who see in the weird picture only ruin and want in place of thrift and luxury, the landscape is a wintry terror.

The sleighing cardival is shorn of a portion of its gayety from a number of reasons. Less horses are owned in the city than for years past. Many of the old habitues of the Brighton Road have neither the money or the heart to exhibit the stylish turnouts of yore, and the sweeping horse distemper has had the effect to make the average human more careful of his equine friend. Still, the popular drives are gay with life, and those who can enjoy the pleasures of winter are making much of their hol- idays.

Please ask President Jones if the opening ceremonies of the P. & D. R. R. can't be connected with the return of the Sons next year. 'Twould give a thrill of pride to "the boys" abroad to be witnesses to the completion of this long projected link of communication between the sister cities. M.

A CURIOUS RAILWAY ACCIDENT.—As the shifting engine "Naumkeag," be- longing to the Eastern Railroad Com- pany, was proceeding to Charlestown, Mass., a few days ago on the inward track, the engineer, Mr. Carter, saw an incoming train approaching, and in or- der to avoid a colision the fireman jumped off the engine and ran back to throw the switches so that the locomo- tive could pass on to the outward track. While the fireman was absent the engi- neer, who was standing on the foot- board, slipped and fell off the locomo- tive, when in some unknown manner the throttle flew open and the engine dashed off at a high rate of speed in the direction of Charlestown. At this time a passenger train on the Fitchburg Railroad was crossing the Eastern Rail- road tracks. Mr. Borroughs, the gate- man at Prison Point, seeing the situa- tion threw a switch to a side track lead- ing to the engine house, and the loco- motive, which had attained a headway of thirty or forty miles an hour, passed into the engine-yard, through the round house, jumping the turn-table, through the wall of the building into the pit be- yond, where it became a complete wreck.

SAVED BY A BLOW.—In most cases a man would take it as an insult if another man should deliberately knock him down; but a Frenchman employed on the P. S. & P. wood train, who suf- fered that indignity yesterday, feels rather grateful to a man who closed one of his eyes for him. It seems while the train was near the Kennebunk camp- ground yesterday afternoon, the French- man attempted to unshackle some cars just as a brakeman let go the brakes, and ere the cars had felt the "slack" experienced at such times. He would most certainly have been caught be- tween the car-bunters and instantly killed had not conductor Bartlett seen the danger and struck him a powerful blow in the head that knocked him from between the cars into a neighbor- ing snow-drift. And now our readers can see how it is that sometimes a man likes to be knocked down.—Biddeford Times.

MEDICAL SCIENCE has lately made a frightful discovery. One of the most eminent professors of Paris submitted to the academy an invention of his own to kill animals by blowing air into their eyes. A few seconds only are required for the operation, which, besides, causes little suffering. Experiments, it is affirmed, have been made at Alfort, which have succeeded perfectly. One remarkable feature in this new method of killing is that it leaves no trace be- hind it, and is as applicable to human beings as to animals.

After an extensive practice of upwards of thirty years, continues to secure patents in the United States; also in Great Britain, France and other foreign countries. Caveats, Specifications, As- signments, and all papers for Patents, executed on reasonable terms with dispatch. Researches made to determine the validity and utility of Patents of inventions, and legal and other advice rendered in all matters touching the same. Copi- es of the claims of any patent furnished, by remit- ting one dollar. Assignments recorded in Wash- ington.

No Agency in the United States possesses supe- rior facilities for obtaining Patents or ascertain- ing the patentability of inventions.

All necessity of a journey to Washington to procure a Patent and the usual great delay there, are here saved inventors.

TESTIMONIALS.

"I regard Mr. Eddy as one of the most capable and successful practitioners with whom I have had official intercourse. CHARLES MASON, Commissioner of Patents."

"I have no hesitation in assuring inventors that they cannot employ a man more competent and trustworthy and more capable of putting their ap- plications in a form to secure for them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office. EDMUND BURKE, Late Commissioner of Patents."

"Mr. R. H. EDDY has made for me over THIR- TY applications for Patents, having been success- ful in almost every case. Such unmistakable proof of great talent and ability on his part leads me to recommend ALL inventors to apply to him to procure their Patents, as they may be sure of having the most faithful attention bestowed on their cases, and at very reasonable charges. LOCAL AFFAIRS.

S. P. C. A.

At a meeting of the Board of Directors of the "Portsmouth Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals," Mr. Chas. C. Akerman was unanimously elected Treasurer for the ensuing year. Dr. A. P. Stevens was requested by the Board to deliver an address, giving a history of the rise and progress of the movement which originated the formation of these Societies throughout the country, and particularly such information as could be gathered concerning the great apostles of this New Dispensation, Geo. T. Angell and Henry Bergh. Dr. Stevens named the first week in February for the proposed delivery of his essay.

A Good Catch.

The fishing steamer George M. Hunt recently took 30,000 lbs. weight of fish in two days. The entire catch was sold in the Boston market at five cents per lb., making the snug little sum of $1500 for two days' work. Good thing, boys; do so some more. We like to chronicle your success.

The Public Library.

The Treasurer of the Public Library Fund desires to acknowledge the prompt receipt on the 1st of January, from John H. Miller, Esq., of Boston, of the third annual instalment of $10 on account of his subscription of $50 to the fund. If a few of the many residents in the city whose ability to help forward the Public Library scheme is at least equal to that of this absent "Son," would show the willingness to aid it in a similar way, the probability of Hon. Frank Jones' gift reverting to the donor on account of the non-fulfilment of the conditions attached to it would speedily disappear, and the Library become a fact.

The Cassell Bible.

Mr. W. E. H. Fentress is obtaining subscribers for the most beautifully illustrated Bible we have ever seen, and the copies delivered thus far are more than equal to the sample. This Bible is printed on finely calendared paper and is a handsome specimen of art. It has illustrations of all utensils and coins used in olden times to which sacred history refers, engravings from the most famed artists of centuries ago, and complete tables of reference, describing the values of coins, etc. We know of no more elegant holiday present that can be obtained in book form.

Mr. Fentress comes among our citizens warmly recommended by clergymen of note and civilians of prominence. Our city pastors who have examined the work, which cost the originator $500,000 and forty-seven years in preparation, pronounced it superb. Mr. Fentress is a gentleman of culture, whose extended travel in the Holy Land and researches in the museums of the "Old World" have enabled him to become possessed of a rare fund of information which he applies most beneficially in his explanations of the 1178 engravings which embellish the Cassell Bible. We commend him to our citizens as a gentleman whose word can be relied on, and the volume he has with him as one which should adorn the parlor or study of every family in the land. The copious notes of reference in the appendix contain information in a condensed form which is valuable especially to those who "thirst after knowledge."

Laconics.

A man belonging in Biddeford "took something" too many times, Wednesday, and getting tired carrying such a load, laid down for a rest on Deer Street. He was found chilled almost to death, by Mr. Wm. D. Fernald, who took him into his house and cared for him until the police arrived and conveyed him to to the lockup, where he was attended by the City Physician, who thinks he will come out all right. It was a narrow escape from death. He was not a fireman.

Conductor Dockham's 3:15 P. M. train from this city for Boston, Dec. 31st, was thrown from the track at Ipswich at 5 o'clock, in consequence of the breaking of a switch-rod. No one injured. The Westinghause brake and Miller platform prevented a terrible loss of life.

Mr. Ezra H. Winchester and family reached home January 1st ineight days from San Francisco. From this we infer that the trans-continental railroad has not been favored with snow to the same extent as the more northern railroads have been, for a week past.

At the Boys' High School, New Year's morning, the teachers were made recipients of beautiful presents. Mr. Smith received a pair of elegant chromos, finely framed. Mr. Clark was presented with a beautiful pair of gold-mounted opera glasses and a fine piece of bronze statuary with thermometer attached.

The tenants on the second floor of the building known as the "Old New Hampshire Bank" a few days since shifted quarters, "end for end" — the Messrs. Hackett from the North to the South and Wm. Jones & Son from the South to the North end.

The Republicans of the third Ward hold their caucus this evening for the choice of delgates to the conventions.

A horse belonging to the city was frightened by the passing of one of the fire-engines, Wednesday afternoon, and ran around the City Building, across Market Square and a short distance up Congress Street, when the idea seemed to strike him that he was making a fool of himself by running when he wasn't obliged to, and he stopped. In emerging to public view after circumnavigating the City Building, he ran the sleigh to which he was harnessed against one of the staging-supports, causing the sleigh to execute some remarkable gymnastics in the air before it landed in a very demoralized condition. The horse was unhurt.

We are afraid our neighbor of the Biddeford Times is open to the charge of immorality in the "stalactite" line— or was it a stalagmite he meant?

One of our compositors commenced the New year with a galley of pi.

The lecture of Rev. Mr. McKeown at the Methodist church, on "Orators and Oratory," was a finished and scholarly production, and gave great pleasure to a large audience.

The Overseers of the Poor visited the City Farm, New Year's day, with a variety of gifts for the inmates of the Almshouse.

A Portland paper says, "yesterday's edition of the Advertiser ended the year 1872." We are pleased to learn the reason of the departure of the old year!

Mate John Swanson, U. S. N., who has been on duty here for two or three years past, went to the U. S. hospital at Chelsea, Mass., on the 1st, to have his right leg amputated. Mr. Swanson broke his knee-pan by a fall from aloft on board a government ship some years ago, and has experienced much trouble from the injury ever since. The proposed operation is a hazardous one.

Surgeon-general Palmer of the navy recommends an appropriation of $60,000 for the erection and equipment of a naval hospital here, which is imperatively needed, and that in the meantime a condemned hulk be stationed here for quarantine purposes. Wood Island accommodations, Dr. Palmer pronounces utterly inadequate.

The Firemen's Ball.

The Ball given by Kearsarge S. F. E. Co., No. 3, on New Year's Eve, was as complete a success, we should imagine, as the company could ask. Congress Hall was splendidly and tastefully decorated, and made a handsomer appearance than we ever knew it to do before. The visiting fire company from Biddeford arrived at an early hour in the evening and were received at the depot by the Kearsarges, who escorted them to the engine house, where supper awaited them.

The grand march was played by the full Marine Band, commencing at about quarter past 8 o'clock. One of the pieces performed, the "Pas d'double" quickstep, is new, only one other band in the country (a St. Louis band) being known to have it; and it is a capital piece. Twenty quadrille sets formed for the first dance, and probably fifty couples kept their seats for lack of room on the floor. Having danced the old year out, at midnight the merry company adjourned to the State Street ward room, where due attention was paid to a genuine feast, excellent in quality, varied and abundant; after which dancing was again in order, and was kept up until about 5 o'clock, New Year morning.

THE SOUTH CAROLINA SENATORSHIP. The four candidates in the late contest were Scott, Elliott, Patterson and Sawyer. Scott ran upon his record, Elliott upon his color, Patterson upon his money, and Sawyer upon the fact that he had done the State no harm if he hadn't done her any good. Thus armed the valiant four set out upon the race, which was a short one. It has been said that the race is not to the swift nor the battle to the strong, but the South Carolina Senatorship is certainly to the one who has most money. Money won this time. It was greater than record, color, or pedigree, and John J. Patterson emerged from the mercenary muss with the wreath of victory upon his brow, a wreath of exceeding value, for it cost him sixty thousand dollars.

CIRCUMSTANTIAL EVIDENCE.—Four men, all of them whites, are now laying in the County Jail of Burnet County, Texas, under the sentence of death—all to be executed at the same place on Jan. 15. Their names are Benjamin Shelby, Arthur Shelby, Ball Woods and William Smith. They were all sentenced for the murder of Benjamin McKeever. Their case, taken it all its details, is one of the most interesting of criminal trials. The evidence against them, though conclusive, was entirely circumstantial. McKeever was shot from his horse at night near the residence of the Shelbys, his throat then cut, and his body carried on horseback three miles and thrown into a cave. A large rock was placed on the bloody spot where his throat was cut, but this precaution, instead of concealing the crime, led to the arrest of the criminals. The keen eyes of a frontiersman saw that the rock had been recently placed there; so it was removed and indications of blood found.

A closer search resulted in the further finding of a paper-wadding that had been fired from a shot-gun. On examining a gun of Benjamin Shelby paper-wadding was likewise found in it, and yet another wadding that had been evidently fired from a shot-gun like the first, was found under Shelby's doorstep. In his house was found a copy of the "Chimney Corner," and by comparisons it was ascertained that the three pieces of gun-wadding had been obtained from that paper. Placed together the following enigma could be easily read:

With piece of paper on a slate.
Sit round the fire both large and small;
A letter make, almost an eight,
And now you see what covers all.

There were several other circumstances pointing strongly to the accused men as the murderers; therefore the jury that tried them did not hesitate to find them guilty of murder in the first degree. The verdict is generally approved by the citizens of Burnet County, and the latest advices from there indicate that there will probably be no interference by Superior Courts or the Governor to prevent the decreed quadruple execution.

A precious Middletown horse, who had learned to love liquor during the epizootic treatment, put his head into a sleigh near which he was hitched, recently, took the cork out of a whiskey bottle, upset the bottle, and then lapped up the liquor from the bottom of the sleigh.

BEECHER AND THE POLITICIANS.—Not least among the elements of character which have made Henry Ward Beecher the power he is to-day in the American social system is his intense practical spirit; his appreciation of the limits which hedge in human effort, and of the folly of disparaging and opposing every result which falls short of perfection. The whole country will re-echo the applause which greeted him at the dinner of the New England Society, on Monday night, when he said; "There is a cry, 'out with the politicians! they are all selfish;' but you might as well expect to carry on commerce by turning out experienced merchants and putting new clerks in their places. The government must be carried on by men who have made it their life-business. If you want to wait till you have a government of angels you will have a long interregnum."

Ordinarily such words should need no comment; their meaning is not less clear than their truth is patent, and yet too many of our people think and act with some half-defined belief that the politicians are not merely selfish but corrupt, and that there ought to be some way of securing eminent ability, unqualified integrity, self-sacrificing devotion and undeviating consistency for the administration of an Utopia in our country. Men who, in the ordinary affairs of life, appreciate the connection between the end and the means, men who understand perfectly well that if they want their interests protected they must protect them themselves, that if they want their dues collected they must send around for the money, carefully abstain from the slightest connection with political affairs, and yet wonder and grow indignant because political affairs are not managed to suit them. "Go to a ward meeting! no gentleman would let himself be seen in such a place," "Touch politics! no I thank you;" and then, when the nominations have been made, how fine it is to hear the vigorous protest of these unselfish and high-minded citizens: the men who wouldn't lift a finger for the sake of the public good, sitting in judgment on the best results that could be reached without them.

If these gentlemen would only condescend to do a little more work before the election and a little less grumbling afterwards, the country might be somewhat the better for it, and they would be none the worse. If the politicians are selfish, we regret it, but regretting is not the most manly course, nor the most efficient remedy. An enlightened selfishness is generally understood to be the main motive of human action, and the present condition of our country, such as it is, is chiefly due to this cause. If the supercilious critics and the political pouters have any better motive with which to supplant it we would like to hear it proposed, and would labor hard to have it applied; but we are strongly of the opinion that for some time to come we will have to get along without their assistance. The selfishness which refuses to put a shoulder to the wheel, but which stands by the roadside mocking those who do, seems to us a less promising element in politics than even the regard for self which prompts a man to spare no effort to serve his own interests and the country's at the same time.—St. Louis Globe.

HAVING THIRTY YEARS TO RUN.

Bearing interest at 7 per cent. in Gold Coin, "or or equal to the present standard."

Coupons payable in New York, London, or Frankfort on the Main, at the option of the holder. When desired, bonds will be registered by the Trustee—the Farmers' Loan and Trust Co. Interest payable January and July.

This road is now completed from Jacksonville to a junction with the CHICAGO & ALTON R. R. at Virden, a distance of over 30 miles. The road, so far completed, is thoroughly equipped, ENTIRELY PAID FOR, and in full operation, and it is upon the completed portion only, that bonds amounting to $600,000 are now offered at 85 and accrued interest in currency. Bonds upon the remaining portion of the road will be sold at a much higher price and will be offered only upon completed road. This road traverses the garden of the State, crosses all the most important roads, controls the enormous coal mines at Virden, and its bonds are most highly esteemed by those whose investigation has been most searching. We have personally examined every detail of the Company, and have gone repeatedly over the entire line. We are consequently enabled to recommend these bonds as an absolutely perfect security.

THE UNEQUALLED

ARLINGTON COOK.

We invite all those in want of the VERY BEST COOK STOVE to examine this before purchasing, as we believe it to be far superior to any other stove in the market, the castings being heavier, and the oven larger than usual, and the sifter so arranged that the coals can be separated from the ashes without removing them from the stove.

Barstow's Union Portable Range,

WITH HOT CLOSET.

LATEST IMPROVEMENT.

This New Hot Closet Range combines all the convenience of an Extension Top Cooking Stove, or brick set Range; while it costs less, and requires less space than either. Particular attention is invited to the beautiful exterior of the Range, and the superior quality of its castings; it is the handsomest and best Portable Range in the Market.

The Sample Cook,

For Wood or Coal,

(Over Two Hundred in use in Portsmouth.)

PARLOR & OFFICE STOVES

We have constantly on hand a good assortment of OFFICE & PARLOR STOVES, among which are the following: The new PEERLESS PARLOR, admitted by all who have seen it to be the handsomest Parlor Stove in the Market. Being perfectly air tight, it needs no ventilating box or opening in the back of the stove, but the fire is easily managed by the front draft. It is a very economical Coal burner and will keep fire throughout the season without going out. The GEN. GRANT is a very neat Parlor Stove, at a much lower price than the Peerless. We sold a large number last season and they gave entire satisfaction.]

PLEASANT PARLOR COOK:

A new and desirable pattern for wood or coal,

ELEGANT AIR-TIGHT STOVES,

With extra large Doors and Movable Tops, to admit large wood; also, with an oven opening in top or side.

CYLINDER AND BOX STOVES,

All Sizes. Also, a good assortment of SECOND HAND COOK AND PARLOR STOVES in thorough repair.

CLEAR YOUR THROAT!
Relieve Your Lungs.
For the terrible diseases engendered by the lung-trying climate of New England,
Pulmocine Cordial
Is a speedy and reliable Preventive and Remedy. EVERY FAMILY should have a bottle at hand to check the sudden growth of all Pulmonary Diseases. For the Asthma, Coughs, Croups, Laryngitis, or inflammation of the larynx, Diphtheria, and all kindred THROAT DISEASES at all times prevalent, it is the source of Immediate Relief. Children attacked with Whooping Cough or Croup should be immediately cared for. These painful attacks come with scarcely a moment's warning, when a physician may be out of immediate reach. A dose of PULMOCINE CORDIAL gives speedy relief, and the little ones are spared hours of pain and agony. As "a stitch in time saves nine," so does the possession of this FAMILY MEDICINE prevent the spread of disease. Parents seeing their children gasping with pain, friends and relatives beholding each other in peril from suffocation by the choking pain in the throat, paralyzed with fear and not knowing the best course to pursue, are liable to apply the wrong remedial agents. There is no safety in delay, no time to waste in such cases. CONSUMPTION, that fearful scourge of the human race, lies at the door of all thus afflicted. BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL arrests it (unless in its advanced stage at which time there is no local cure) relieves the pressing, suffocating feeling at the lungs, and the patient's danger is past.
BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL is no new discovery. Twenty-three years ago it was used by one of New England's most famous physicians as the best PULMONARY CURATIVE he could prescribe, after a dozen years spent in experimenting with it before he was satisfied that the Materia Medica could add nothing in its favor.
Buchman's Pulmocine Cordial
Is the ultima thule of Medical Discovery.
Among its many ingredients are WILD CHERRY BARK, SQUILL ROOT, LIQUORICE ROOT, BLOOD ROOT, &c. It is a BLOOD PURIFIER, gently stimulating. It increases expectoration and is diuretic. It is sudorific and alterative. It is a necessary family medicine. It is a Tonic, and a powerful aid to the digestive organs. It is a gentle sedative, and relieves nervousness. It is aromatic and agreeable to the taste.
For Coughs, Croup, Diphtheria, Asthma, &c.
USE BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL.
The Pulmocine Cordial is not a quack medicine, is not an experiment, is not composed of any ingredients "discovered" by "walking in pastures" in South America or anywhere else, nor by one who discovered a weed and thereby cured himself. Most of the ingredients are such as our best educated physicians daily use for the complaints specified, in some form or other. The recipe is that perfected by one of New England's most learned and famous physicians, who used it entirely in his daily practice until his death. It is offered to the profession and to the public, absolutely pure and unadulterated.

The Singer
SEWING MACHINE
STILL LEADS THE MARKET.
The Success of the Company is far beyond that of any other similar concern; the Daily Manufacture
— OF —
400 OF THE SINGERS
Failing to Supply the Constant Demand.
All other machines call the public attention to some new loop or stitch or tension or finish, some advantage in running or needles or feed or prices—and many of these are as we have said very good points, and the agents selling them use them to divert entirely the would-be purchaser from fairly considering the facts in the case; but the
seems to unite the good qualities of all, and; is never found wanting.
THE SINGER
IS THE OLDEST
SEWING MACHINE
IN THE MARKET,
All others being copied from its first model. does two-thirds the sewing done in this country and preserves its advantages over all others combined.
It is readily kept clean, and has THE BETTER TENSION EVER INVENTED; it is higher speeded and requires but little power to run; it works equally well upon the finest and heaviest goods; it does all the varieties of work known to the art.

$1000 REWARD.
BRIGGS' ALLEVANTOR is composed of Ammonia, Chloroform, Spirits of Camphor, Tincture of Lupuline, Oil of Juniper, and Alcohol. This compound is unequalled in the annals of medicine for the cure of Nervous or Sick Headache, Neuralgia, Trembling or Twitching of the Nerves, and all Nervous Diseases. It will counteract all poisons, banish pimples, cure scaly eruptions, itching, humors, &c.; it equalizes the circulation, invigorates the system, increases the action of the heart, without exciting the brain, cures Heartburn, Palpitation and Fluttering of the Heart, Dyspepsia, &c. Briggs' Allevantor absolutely possesses more curative properties than any other preparation. Physicians, chemists, and others are requested to examine and test the remedy, and $1000 will be paid if found different from representation.
COUGHS, and Much has been said and written, and many remedies have been offered for the relief and cure of throat and lung diseases; but nothing has been so eminently successful, or obtained such a wide celebrity, as Briggs' Throat and Lung Healer.
CORNS! The excruciating pain produced by Corns, the unceasing twinging from Bunions, the piercing, distressing pain from Ingrowing Nails, cannot be described. Thousands suffer, not knowing there is a cure. Briggs' Corn and Bunion Remedies are to acid or potash compounds, but are reliable, soothing, and effectual, and just merit the success they have earned from an appreciative public. The Curative is a healing ointment; immediate relief is obtained by its application, and it will positively cure the worst cases of Festered Corns, Inflamed and Ulcerated Bunions, the sorest instep, the largest and severest Blisters, the most extensive Callosities on the soles or heels of the feet, unequalled in the cure of Chilblains or Frosted Feet. The Allevantor for ordinary corns and preventing their formation is absolutely unexcelled by anything ever known.
PILES have been a terror to mankind for centuries, and almost every attempt to cure them has been baffled. By unceasing study and experimenting, Dr. Briggs has discovered an absolutely cure for internal, bleeding, external, and itching piles. Briggs' Pile Remedies are mild, safe and sure.
For sale by J. H. THACHER, WM. R. PRESTON, Portsmouth; JAMES O. TREPETHEN, Kittery; E. S. SAFFORD, Kittery Point; H. M. CURTIS, Newcastle, and dealers generally.
CORNS, Bunions, Bad Nails, and other diseases of the feet, Scrofulous and Cancerous Humors, Piles, etc., skillfully treated at the great central Chiropodical and Healing Institute, No. 755 Broadway, New York. DR. J. BRIGGS, President; DR. ALEXANDER WEBBER, Secretary. ap9

The Peruvian Syrup, a Protected Solution of the Protoxide of Iron, is so combined as to have the character of an aliment, as easily digested and assimilated with the blood as the simplest food. It increases the quantity of Nature's Own Vitalizing Agent, Iron in the blood, and cures "a thousand ill," simply by Toning up, Invigorating and Vitalizing the System. The enriched and vitalized blood permeates every part of the body, repairing damages and waste, searching out morbid secretions, and leaving nothing for disease to feed upon.
This is the secret of the wonderful success of this remedy in curing Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, Dropsy, Chronic Diarrhœa, Boils, Nervous Affections, Chills and Fevers, Humors, Loss of Constitutional Vigor, Diseases of the Kidneys and Bladder, Female Complaints, and all diseases originating in a bad state of the blood, or accompanied by debility or a low system. Being free from Alcohol, in any form, its energetic effects are not followed by corresponding reaction, but are permanent, imparting strength, vigor, and new life into all parts of the system, and building up an Iron Constitution.
Thousands have been changed by the use of this remedy, from weak, sickly, suffering creatures to strong, healthy, and happy men and women: and invalids cannot reasonably hesitate to give it a trial.
See that each bottle has PERUVIAN SYRUP blown in the glass.

SEA SICKNESS.—We spent three hours at Astoria, a curious old town strung along under the wooded hills, and a party of us walked out to see the first house built in Oregon—the old residence of Astor. The place is now of little importance except for shipping salmon. The call to a late breakfast showed the fifty cabin passengers all on hand, each one speculating humorously as to how many would sit down to the next meal; for we could already see the white foam on the bar, and knew that a "high sea was running outside."

The Columbia bar was long the terror of navigators, but it appears to have been such only through ignorance, and since proper soundings have been made no more accidents have occurred in the last twenty years than at the mouths of other large rivers. We passed it in an hour, without difficulty, and soon were upon the "heaving ocean" of which we read. It was a rough introduction. The heaviest sea encountered on the voyage was at the start. One minute the bow appeared to be rearing up to square off at the midday sun, and the next to get down and root for something at the bottom of the ocean.

Bets were made as to who would be the "first to fall," and a party of twenty or more of us went to the hurricane deck to stand it out. With songs, shouts and laughter we danced about on unsteady footing, attempting an "Ethiopian walk around" on the heaving deck, determined to fight off the sickness to the last moment. Then we practiced balancing against the waves, watching the water in the hollows of the deck, and seizing on the moment when it started one way to throw ourselves to the opposite.

While enjoying this pastime a lad of some fifteen years suddenly sank to the deck, then rose and emptied his stomach at one vast heave. There was a yell of laughter as he started below, but in a minute two more followed suit. Then they fell away rapidly, and in an hour only five of us remained. As I gazed on the bow, admiring the majestic sweep of its rise and fall, and the swell of the ocean beyond, it suddenly appeared to stop; and there it stood dead still, and the whole body of the ocean appeared to rise and fall instead, and in a moment my head seemed to rise and fall with it leaving the bow between us quite fixed.

I had been warned not to look at the bow, but I forgot it. I tried in vain to restore the natural order, but the illusion had become to me a reality; the bow was still, and my head and the ocean alone moved. At every rise my neck seemed to stretch out longer, my head get farther from my body, and soon I lost it altogether, or only became conscious of it by taking it in my hand, when it seemed about the size of a sugar hogshead. Then a terrible, crawling sensation became apparent, extending down my person, and I started below. My stomach was still quiet, and as soon as I got to the cabin my giddiness ceased.

The passengers were falling on every hand, for nearly all were "land-lubbers." Lunch was called and half the number went below. I had seated myself and got one mouthful of soup, when the vessel gave an unusual heave; I felt the soup "coming back," clapped my hand to my mouth and rushed on deck. But the fight was over, and I was defeated. The terrible mal de mer had me in spite of my struggles, and I felt my way to my room.

Next door to me was a family of four, making their first trip away from Oregon. As I passed, the little girl and boy were lying in the lower berth, with their heads over a basin, moaning with sickness; the young mother lay above, pale as the sheet, and unable even to resist the motion of the vessel, which tossed her from side to side, and the husband sat by, trying to cheer them, while the dark bile swelled up in his cheeks and his eye showed the composure of despair. I could not repress a sickly smile, for they had been the most hilarious of our party on deck. My sickness lasted for three hours, then a most delightful calm succeeded, followed by a long sweet sleep.

I learned a new fact, to me. There are really two kinds of sea-sickness; one begins in the head, the other in the stomach, and a person may have either or both. The latter, I am convinced, is simply a reversal of the peristaltic motion of the stomach and bowels. In the long swells as the boat rises one feels perfectly delightful; the "insides" settle down, down, down, and are at rest. But as the boat sinks all the internal viscera rise—as one passenger expressed it, "you fall away from your grub"—they press even against the throat, producing a fearful and indescribable nausea. There is nothing I can compare it to. Even now the recollection makes me shudder. And one may have this kind of sea-sickness without being a particle giddy.

But the other kind begins in the head; it is the result of the eye having fixed or solid to rest upon. Everything one looks at is moving—the boat, the lamps, the waves are so many sources of irritation to the optic nerve and brain. Nothing is fixed. All one's notions of security are unsettled. In a whirling swing or stage coach, where some people are affected, one can never be entirely lost, for there is the "sure and firm-set earth" to come back upon as a solid basis; but on the ocean that last resource is lacking, and the eye and brain are hopelessly deranged. Thence, by sympathy merely, the derangement spreads to the stomach; the affection of that is only secondary.

☞This last was the kind of sea-sickness I had, with but little of the other. Hence as soon as I lay down and shut my eyes, I began to recover. And for such cases that advice is good. But for those whose sickness begins at the stomach there is no such hope; they must suffer it through.

The Fifth Avenue Theatre, New York, was destroyed by fire on New Year's day. A portion of the wall of the Fifth Avenue Hotel was broken in and two private stables demolished by the fall of the theatre walls. No lives were lost. The damage by fire is estimated at $180,000.

Six bodies have been recovered from the ruins of the Central street, New York, fire.

Gen. Dix was inaugurated as Governor of New York on the 1st.

A Danbury youth who could not sing or play, wanted to serenade his girl, whistled for a half hour under her window, the other evening, and when he got over the fence found about seventy five dogs waiting to see what he wanted.

A good joke is related at the expense of a fireman on the Portland & Rochester road, who, in the absence of the engineer, drove the iron steed out of Portland some days since. When beyond Gorham some part of the machinery gave way and thumping against the cab, gave the fireman the idea that all was up with him. He shut off steam, whistled, "down brakes," and jumped into a neighboring snow-drift, where, being an exceedingly short and fat man, he stuck, buried up to his ears, until extricated by some of the train hands.

The ice-cutters have commenced harvesting the winter's crop from Marston's pond, and report it of better quality than ever before. It is fourteen inches thick, perfectly clear and transparent, very compact and hard, and quite cold.

This is from the Terre Haute Express: Yesterday morning a city minister opened his front door suddenly and suprised a guilty-looking man who was just in the act of depositing a neatly covered basket on the door step. The meeting was not rapturous. "Aha!" said the minister, rushing out and grasping the man by the collar, while he plied a heavy-soled boot vigorously under the coat tail of his visitor, "what do you mean, you villain, by leaving a baby on my door step? Ah, I have you, you scoundrel! I'll show you how to abandon an infant to the cold mercies of the world!" And all these remarks were punctuated by kicks. "I hain't left any baby at your door," said the man, taking up the basket and lifting the cover; "I brought a right fat Christmas turkey for you, but I'm dammed if you shall have it now if you was starving." And he walked gloomily away. The minister had a pensive, unhappy look and corrugated brow as he dissected his buckwheats a few minutes later. Evidently there had been a misunderstanding.

Ship Bennington, of Boston, Captain Peterson, was wrecked on the Salvages, north of the Canary Islands on the 29th of November. Eight of the crew are reported lost. Capt. Peterson was saved.

Ship R. C. Winthrop, from Antwerp, reports that November 27, lat. 34.13 north, long. 17.19 west, the Madeira Islands being south half east, distant 100 miles, had a meteoric shower beginning at dark and lasting two and a half hour. In the first hour, as near as could be judged, there were from 900 to 1200 meteors in the air constantly; in the second hour gradually disappearing. About four-fifths of the meteors appeared like small balls of fire moving through the air leisurely, but others moved with great velocity, leaving in their track a tail of fire resembling that in the wake of a comet.

The Fairbanks, scale-makers, borrowed five dollars to make their first scales, and are now worth $3,000,000. Moral—Borrow a V and go into any scaly business, except fishing.

Joseph Jefferson made his reappearance at Baltimore New Year's evening as Rip Van Winkle.

Full returns from all the States of the vote for presidential electors are now received. These give Grant 3,592,984 and Greeley 2,833,847, showing a popular majority for Grant of 759,137, which is larger by 449,549 than in 1868. The republican total vote was 3,592,984, an increase of 579,796 over 1868.

The Tichborne claimant has paid out $200,000 costs already.

At Nashua, a man named Patrick Murphy attempted to get upon a moving passenger train at the Worcester depot. Being somewhat over-loaded by a large valise he fell between the platform and the cars, where he remained until the train had passed, when he was taken up and found to be uninjured.

Ames vs. Patterson.

We copy from the New York Sun's Washington correspondence the following statement of Senator Patterson's connection with the Credit Mobilier:—

On the list of names which appear upon letters written by Oakes Ames to Henry S. McComb, is the name of Patterson of New Hampshire, 30 shares Credit Mobilier stock. In his testimony before the committee, Mr. Ames said that Senator Patterson did own shares of Credit Mobilier stock, which shares were at his (Patterson's) request transferred to brokers in New York, through whom he (Patterson) received the dividends.

Opposed to this sworn statement from Oakes Ames what weight can be given to the emphatic denial of Senator Patterson to the members of the New Hampshire Legislature last June at Concord, repeated time and time again, in the following words: "I never owned a share of Credit Mobilier stock, and all these charges made against me that I do own or ever did own Credit Mobilier stock are false, slanderous, and falsehoods?" The sworn evidence of Oakes Ames now places the New Hampshire Senator in rather a bad position.

The spring campaign is about opening in New Hampshire, and the Senator's time in the United States Senate expires March 4, 1873. The Radicals in the Granite State are going to put forth their best endeavors to carry the State, and send to Congress Radical Representatives instead of the Democrats who now represent the State. Especially in the Third District, Senator Patterson's home, there will be a lively contest at the nominating convention, to be held at Lebanon, Jan. 15, 1873. Information from a reliable source places prominent among the aspirants for the nomination for Congressman from that district the Senator, and the same information says he is now using his best efforts to win the votes of the delegates at that convention to give him the nomination. It will perhaps be well to let the people of the Third District know Mr. Patterson's plan of campaign. He is using every effort to get as many candidates in the field as possible, and when the time comes for selection before the convention of a nominee he will put himself forward as a compromise candidate thereby hopping to get a nomination, the same as Wadleigh secured the Senatorial nomination. This move of the Senator is one of old standing among the broken-down politicians, and comes from authority.

A word to the voters of New Hampshire who may be delegates to the Convention. Senator Patterson's record for the past ten years does not stand out as a model by any means, and his duplicity is well known here at the Capital. When we come to look into his transactions with Boss Shepherd, the chief of Grant's Washington Tammany Ring; transfers of houses and lots at mere trivial prices, they being worth ten times the price paid for them, and so deeded to him by members of the Washington Ring; his ownership of Credit Mobilier stock, the fact being substantiated by Oakes Ames; with numerous other dark deeds, his pretensions should be treated by the people of New Hampshire as not worthy of their slightest consideration.

Such duplicity as Senator Patterson practised last summer in professing to be in sympathy with the Liberal movement, and making overtures to the leaders of the Liberal party in New York so as to gain confidence from them is well known. Upon these professed vows of sympathy a subscription paper to assist him in his then coming contest for reelection was circulated, and when that paper Horace Greeley subscribed his name for $250. In the State House at Concord, on the night of June 5th last, Senator Patterson, after receiving sympathy from the Liberals and considerable help, in a speech denounced Horace Greeley, Senators Sumner, Shurz, and others. This duplicity on his part was the cause of his defeat, at which the people of the Granite State should rejoice. When all these matters are taken into consideration, and when the country should have none but honest and pure representatives in Congress, let us hope the people of the Third New Hampshire District will not disgrace their State with a nomination in the person of James W. Patterson, whatever may be the chances for election. If he is nominated the Liberal Republicans will be sure to show up his record in the district.

We should like to hear the other side of the story. The New York Sun has been most infamously conducted of late years, and we should place no credence in its charges did not other papers make similar statements, which the testimony of Hon. Oakes Ames corroborates. If the charges are untrue, Senator Patterson should place himself above suspicion by denial and proof.

A NARROW ESCAPE.—The Union Prayer Meeting was held at the First Presbyterian church last night. There was in attendance a house full of people, and they had just left the building, and the sexton was putting out the lights, ready to close the house for the night. He had extinguished three of the lamps, when the large chandelier, which was suspended by a single thread of the screw, fell with a terrible crash, smashing and demolishing globes, lamps and chandelier. The oil ran over the floor and seats, one of the lamps caught on fire and ignited the whole floor, and the house was again lit up by the lurid flame. The church, which is the finest in the city, was in imminent peril of being consumed; and had it not been that Mr. Johnson was present, and by his presence of mind and exertions, by the help of the sexton, put the fire out, this morning the Presbyterian church would have been a mass of ruins. But this would be nothing compared to the loss of life which must have inevitably followed, had the chandelier fell a few minutes sooner, when the congregation were assembled, some being directly under neath it. It would probably have killed those, besides creating a panic and confusion which might have resulted in the death of many persons.—Nebraska City Chronicle.

A VALUABLE MEDICAL TREATISE.—The edition for 1873 of the sterling medical annual known as Hostetter's Almanac is now ready, and may be obtained, free of cost, of druggists and general country dealers in all parts of the United States and British America, and indeed in every civilized portion of the Western Hemisphere. This Almanac has been issued regularly at the commencement of every year for about one fifth of a century. It combines with the soundest practical advice for the preservation and restoration of health, a large amount of interesting and amusing light reading, and the calendar, astronomical calculations, chronological items, &c., are prepared with great care, and will be found entirely accurate. The issue of Hostetter's Almanac for 1873 will probably be the largest edition of a medical work ever published in any country. The proprietors, Messrs. Hostetter & Smith, Pittsburg, Pa., on receipt of a two cent stamp, will forward a copy by mail to any person who cannot procure one in his neighborhood.

HOW UNNECESSARY THE ANGUISH many persons undergo from rheumatism, gout, neuralgia, toothache and earache. We say unnecessary because the application of Mexican Mustang Liniment to the affected part, or a few drops of it in the ear or tooth, affords instantaneous, and what is better, permanent relief. For cuts, wounds, bruises, swellings, and all injuries or diseases which require treatment externally, this liniment is everywhere regarded as the most potent and reliable healing agent in existence. For all external injuries or ailments of horses and cattle, it is infallible.

WHY HAS SOZODONT become the staple Dentrifice of America? Simply because it is impossible to use it, even for a week, without perceiving its hygienic effect upon the teeth, the gums and the breath.

A SURE CURE follows the use of BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL—the best known remedy for THROAT and LUNG COMPLAINTS. Only 50 cts. a bottle.

R. H. EDDY, SOLICITOR OF PATENTS, For Inventions, Trade Marks or Designs, No. 768 STATE ST., OPPOSITE KILBY ST., BOSTON,

After an extensive practice of upwards of thirty years, continues to secure patents in the United States; also in Great Britain, France and other foreign countries. Caveats, Specifications, Assignments, and all papers for Patents, executed on reasonable terms with dispatch. Researches made to determine the validity and utility of Patents of inventions, and legal and other advice rendered in all matters touching the same. Copies of the claims of any patent furnished, by remitting one dollar. Assignments recorded in Washington.

No Agency in the United States possesses superior facilities for obtaining Patents or ascertaining the patentability of inventions.

All necessity of a journey to Washington to procure a Patent and the usual great delay there, are here saved inventors.

TESTIMONIALS.

"I regard Mr. Eddy as one of the most capable and successful practitioners with whom I have had official intercourse. CHARLES MASON, Commissioner of Patents."

"I have no hesitation in assuring inventors that they cannot employ a man more competent and trustworthy and more capable of putting their applications in a form to secure for them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office. EDMUND BURKE, Late Commissioner of Patents."

"MR. R. H. EDDY has made for me over THIRTY applications for Patents, having been successful in almost every case. Such unmistakable proof of great talent and ability on his part leads me to recommend ALL inventors to apply to him to procure their Patents, as they may be sure of having the most faithful attention bestowed on their cases, and at very reasonable charges. JOHN TAGGART."

LOCAL AFFAIRS.

The Pythian Amateurs.

The drama of "Damon & Pythias" given by the Pythian Amateur Club on Wednesday evening was witnessed by a well filled house, and the performance was well received. It is said that Portsmouth audiences are proverbially severe in their criticisms. However this may be, the amateurs of New Year's evening may feel highly complimented by the applause which they elicited on that occasion. We think we observed a marked improvement over the first entertainment, and one or two more public performances of this interesting drama will suffice to enable the actors to attain a high degree of excellence in its rendering. Without intending to criticise them we would kindly suggest that they infuse a little more spirit and vigor into the several acts, speak slower and enunciate their syllables more distinctly. All exhibited this defect to a greater or less extent. The drama is a grand exhibition of fine passion, devotion and sacrifice, in contrast with low intrigue and meanness. As such it calls for an earnestness and impassioned fervor throughout by nearly every one who bears a part. This is merely a kindly hint, however, and not intended to detract from the surprising merit of the members of this Club as amateurs.

The Wooden Wedding

Of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Wendell took place at their residence on Monday evening. A large number of friends were present and a good time was had. The music of the Quadrille Band was excellent and worthy of note; the tokens of friendship were numerous and of very handsome designs. At 11 o'clock the party gathered around a bountifully spread table, where, after prayer being offered by their Pastor, Rev. Mr. Alden, all partook of its bounties. As the wee small hours crept along, the company began to disperse, with many good wishes for the happy couple. May they live to celebrate their Diamond Wedding, and may their large circle of friends increase.

Given Away.

Mr. J. B. Frost, who was so successful in canvassing for the "Christian Union" in this city and vicinity, last Spring, has returned with a new oleograph for new subscribers to the same paper, "Little Runaway and her Pets." It is one of the choicest of art-pictures, the color, finish and delicacy of conception making it rarely attractive. It is a fac simile of a $1200 oil painting by Lobrichon, and every person who sees it will certainly want a copy.

The chromos offered last year, "Wide Awake" and "Fast Asleep" are tobe given to those who prefer them to the oleograph, and new subscribers for two years will receive the chromos and oleograph. As there are several hundred copies of the chromos now in the city, we presume the superb oleograph will receive the largest number of orders. It represents a little golden haired miss who has not yet made her toilet, holding in her arms a kitten and puppy.

The "Christian Union" is the only religious journal for which Henry Ward Beecher writes. It has his lecture-room talks and the famous "Star Papers." Mrs. H. B. Stowe, Louisa M. Alcott, Edward Eggleston, Robertson Grant and others contribute to its columns regularly. The subscription price of the paper is $3 per year, the oleograph or chromos being given with one year's subscription and the three for two years' subscription. Mr. Frost, the agent, is well known to our citizens as a reliable gentleman. He will remain here for a short time securing subscriptions. The pictures he offers as premiums will be delivered as soon as this city is canvassed, there being no occasion for delay in receiving them.

Laconics.

A moving man—E. A. Joy.

Harlow's band go to Concord to play at the Railroad ball this evening.

On New Year's Day, the scholars of the Walker school on Hanover Street presented the Principal, Mr. Charles E. Buzzell, with an elegant pair of gold sleeve buttons.

Wanted, at this office, copies of the NEW HAMPSHIRE GAZETTE of August 31, 1872, to complete files.

By an advertisement in another column it will be seen that Mr. C. H. Tucker has taken the store No. 73 Pleasant Street, and will continue the grocery business which was carried on there for so many years by the late Thatcher Emery.

HE BLEW HIS "BAZOO."—J. West Goodwin, who runs the Sedalia Bazoo, (what a name!) is a specimen genius. On the 18th of last month his paper completed a twelve-month of successful journalism since its enlargement, and J. West blows it after this fashion:

Twelve months ago to-day since the Bazoo enlarged, and it hasn't got a speck of small-pox or an ounce of epizoot!

Thrice happy day!

Hurrah for a live paper, a live town, and the livest people who ever said their prayers before they got up in the morning!

Lets open something.
Or have a wedding.
Somebody sing.

Three hundred and thirteen papers, by the watch, have been furnished you, all in a row, and never missed an issue or a good thing.

Louis Napoleon has gone into bankruptcy, and Stanley into Africa; Boston went to kindling wood and Grant to the White House—but, gentle reader, the Bazoo wakes up every morning, and after breakfast shines all day for only two bits a week.

You can endure misfortune; you can black your room mate's boots by mistake, and yet recover; you can see your friends fade away before you, and even hear that your mother-in-law has the rheumatism, with feelings of christian resignation; but you can no more do without the Bazoo than a steamboat can climb the Rocky Mountains on her beam ends.

Friends, fellow citizens and citizenesses: A little over three years ago the Bazoo was born with a full head of hair and double row of teeth. It has been "doing as well as could be expected" ever since. It has grown out of its swaddling clothes and now wears a plug hat and shirt that opens in the back. It has grown like the gigantus sunflowerus, diffusing its fragrance, information and circulation all over the known world and part of Rhode Island. It was only one day behind the New York Herald in finding Livingstone, and that was owing to the fact that we found it enough to find ourself.

Vital Statistics of York.

Dr. J. S. Putnam, of York, Me., furnishes the following vital statistics of that town, for the year 1872:

Population of the town, 2652. Births during the year, 43—13 males, 30 females. Number of deaths, 29—males 13, females 16. Aggregate of years, for whole number of persons deceased, 1773; average age, 61 years. Aggregate of years for whole number of males deceased, 707; average age, 54 years, 4 months. Aggregate of years, for whole number of females deceased, 1066; average age, 66 years, 8 months. There died, of persons

ASTOUNDING MESMERIC POWER.—A curious case of mesmerism is recorded by the civil surgeon of Hoshungabad, India. A young man named Nunnee, aged 24, married some 12 years ago, but, however, did not go to his house for two years afterwards. After staying with him for eight days she suddenly became insensible, and remained so for two or three days. She was taken back to her mother and soon got well. Then follows a very remarkable history. During the next four or five years she never entered her husband's house without failing insensible and remaining so. He was very kind and attentive to her; she liked him, but whenever he came into her presence she at once sank into this state.

This went on till she became emaciated and exhausted, and at last her parents applied to the court for a separate maintenance for her. While she was in court the husband entered, and instantly became insensible, and was carried to the hospital, where the case was carefully attended to by Dr. Cullen, in March, this year. While in this state her pulse was even, breathing soft, her body pliant, but she could eat nothing. Experiments were carefully made to see if there were no trickabout in. While she was in bed her husband was muffled up and made to walk the ward. She felt he was near her, and said she was by no means well, but had not seen him anywhere about. Next day this experiment was repeated, and she actually became insensible as before. When the husband left the place she recovered.

The experiment as to the influence of the husband's presence was tried in all sorts of ways. He was made to pass behind her, and to be near her in a separate ward, but this had no effect, but whenever he was brought to look on her face, though muffled up or disguised as a policeman, as a Sepoy, &c., she was at once influenced. The experiments continued for about a month, and the conclusion was that the husband unconsciously mesmerized her. The court came to the conclusion that it was impossible that she could live with him, and a separate allowance was ordered. The husband was asked to try if he could not remove the effect, seeing that he had the power to cause it, but he was quite frightened at the idea of having the power, and could not control it any way.

VEGETINE

The Great Blood Purifier.

A valuable Indian compound, for restoring the health, and for the permanent cure of all diseases arising from impurities of the blood, such as Scrofula, Scrofulous Humors, Cancers, Cancerous Humor, Erysipelas, Cankor Salt Rheum, Pimples and Humors on the Face, Ulcers, Coughs, Catarrh, Bronchitis, Neuralgia, Pains in the Side, Rheumatism, Dyspepsia, Constipation, Costiveness, Dizziness, Piles, Headache, Nervousness, Faintness at the Stomach, Pains in the Back, Kidney Complaints, Female Weakness, and General Debility.

This preparation is scientifically and chemically combined, and so strongly concentrated from roots, herbs and barks, that its good effects are realized immediately after commencing to take it. There is no disease of the human system for which the VEGETINE cannot be used with PERFECT SAFETY, as it does not contain any metallic compound. For eradicating the system of all impurities of the blood, it has no equal. It has never failed to effect a cure, giving tone and strength to the system debilitated by disease. Its wonderful effects upon these complaints are surprising to all. Many have been cured by the VEGETINE that have tried many other remedies. It can well be called

Morning Chronicle.

Old Time Chronicles, No. 65.

BY UNCLE JOSEPH.

In a former number an account was given of opposition to Quakers in New Hampshire and the public whipping of three females of that sect. The whipping was in 1662. In Massachusetts there was trouble a little earlier. Quakers came into that State about 1657. They appeared in Boston, which had then been settled but 27 years, and had but two churches, both Congregational. Laws were enacted, banishing them; and a little later, inflicting the death penalty if they returned.

When they first appeared and the question was what should be done, a minister was ready to answer. This was Rev. John Wilson, the first minister named in the history of Boston, and who preached for a time to the first church formed. He said, "Hang them, or else,"—he did not say what, but drawing his finger across his throat, signified what should be done.

On the 27th of October, 1659, three Quakers, having been tried and sentenced, were led to execution on the outskirts of the town. It is said there were 200 armed men present, besides others mounted, and many other as spectators. Priest Wilson was there. When one named Robinson was about to suffer, he said, "I suffer for Christ's sake, in whom I live and for whom I die." Priest Wilson said, "Be silent; thou art going to die with a lie in thy mouth." The second was one named Stevenson, and the third was Mary Dyer. After the two had been executed, the halter was adjusted, but a reprieve came and she was allowed to go away with her son.

In March, 1661, Wm. Ledden was hung. June 23, the same year, Mary Dyer, who would continue to visit Boston, although she did not live there, but in a town not far away, was publicly executed. There was some sympathy for a female, and at the scaffold she was offered life if she would leave Boston and not return. Priest Wilson was on hand and stood beside her, saying, "O! repent and be not so carried away by the deceit of the devil." Mary replied, "Nay, man; I am not now to repent. I came to do the will of my Father, and in obedience to His will I stand till death."

The storm soon passed. News having reached England, the King, Charles II., ordered the suspension of execution.

The "Domestic" Sewing Machine.

A Few Days' Trial Free.

Don't trust advice; your own experience is safer.

The "Domestic" is so easy, so ready, and so useful, that you will not be willing to part with it.

No other Sewing Machine was ever a quarter as successful. The secret of its success lies in the machine itself, viz: Its ever-ready reliability for all kinds of work.

It costs more to do without it than to buy it. Other machines are useful; but don't judge the "Domestic" by them. Try it. If it does not justify your expectation, you lose nothing.

Cheapest Security Now Offered.

FIRST MORTGAGE BONDS

OF THE

Jacksonville, Northwestern & Southeastern R. R.

HAVING THIRTY YEARS TO RUN.

Bearing interest at 7 per cent. in Gold Coin, "of or equal to the present standard."

Coupons payable in New York, London, or Frankfort on the Main, at the option of the holder. When desired, bonds will be registered by the Trustee—the Farmers' Loan and Trust Co. Interest payable January and July.

This road is now completed from Jacksonville to a junction with the CHICAGO & ALTON R. R. at Virden, a distance of over 30 miles. The road, so far as completed, is thoroughly equipped, ENTIRELY PAID FOR, and in full operation, and it is upon the completed portion only, that bonds amounting to $600,000 are now offered at $5 and accrued interest in currency. Bonds upon the remaining portion of the road will be sold at a much higher price and will be offered only upon completed road. This road traverses the garden of the State, crosses the most important roads, controls the enormous coal mines at Virden, and its bonds are most highly esteemed by those whose investigation has been most searching. We have personally examined every detail of this Company, and have gone repeatedly over the entire line. We are consequently enabled to recommend these bonds as an absolutely perfect security.

Pamphlets and further particulars may be had by applying to Furnishing Goods,

A SPLENDID AND SEASONABLE SELECTION.

WILLIAM P. WALKER

Has on hand, and is constantly receiving from Boston and New York, every variety of beautiful and desirable materials for and invites the attention of his friends and the public generally to his fine assortment of Goods.

Garments of every description MADE up in the LATEST STYLE, or according to the fancy of the purchaser and perfect satisfaction given.

For Coats, Pants and Vests, his stock of Goods embraces all varieties of Fine, Plain and Fancy Patterns—something to suit every taste.

Particular attention is paid to the making of Regulation Uniforms, for Navy or Army.

He has a remarkably complete stock in the department of Gents' Furnishing Goods.

Comprising Drawers, Shirts, Bosoms and Collars; Buck, Kid, Silk, Lisle Thread and Woolen GLOVES; Pocket and Neck Handkerchiefs, Neck Stocks and Scarfs, Suspenders, &c.

Every article is made faithfully, of the best materials.

SEASONABLE GOODS.

We have on hand the following list of

COOK STOVES:

THE UNEQUALLED

ARLINGTON COOK.

We invite all those in want of the VERY BEST COOK STOVE to examine this before purchasing, as we believe it to be far superior to any other stove in the market, the castings being heavier, and the oven larger than usual, and the sifter so arranged that the coals can be separated from the ashes without removing them from the stove.

Barstow's Union Portable Range,

WITH HOT CLOSET.

LATEST IMPROVEMENT.

This New Hot Closet Range combines all the conveniences of an Extension Top Cooking Stove or brick set Range; while it costs less, and requires less space than either. Particular attention is invited to the beautiful exterior of the Range, and the superior quality of its castings; it is the handsomest and best Portable Range in the Market.

The Sample Cook,

For Wood or Coal,

(Over Two Hundred in use in Portsmouth.)

— ALSO —

The Peerless,
Eaton Cook,
Sheridan,
Union Cook,
Norman Range,
Rival, Model Cook,
Farmer's Cook,
White Mountain, &c., &c.,

PARLOR & OFFICE STOVES

We have constantly on hand a good assortment of OFFICE & PARLOR STOVES, among which are the following: The new PEERLESS PARLOR, admitted by all who have seen it to be the handsomest Parlor Stove in the Market. Being perfectly air tight, it needs no ventilating box or opening in the back of the stove, but the fire is easily managed by the front draft. It is a very economical Coal burner and will keep fire throughout the season without going out. The GEN. GRANT is a very neat Parlor Stove, at a much lower price than the Peerless. We sold a large number last season and they gave entire satisfaction.]

PLEASANT PARLOR COOK!

A new and desirable pattern for wood or coal,

ELEGANT AIR-TIGHT STOVES,

With extra large Doors and Movable Tops, to admit large wood; also, with an oven opening in top or side.

CYLINDER AND BOX STOVES,

All Sizes. Also, a good assortment of SECOND HAND COOK and PARLOR STOVES in thorough repair.

FURNACES,

BRICK & PORTABLE.

Agents for the Celebrated

Barstow Dome Furnace.

This Furnace has proved itself to be the most durable and economical heater in the market, of which over one hundred are now in use in this city. The increasing demand for these Furnaces proves them to be the best Furnace in the market.

For the terrible diseases engendered by the lung-trying climate of New England,
Pulmocine Cordial
Is a speedy and reliable Preventive and Remedy. EVERY FAMILY should have a bottle at hand to check the sudden growth of all Pulmonary Diseases. For the Asthma, Coughs, Croups, Laryngitis, or inflammation of the larynx, Diphtheria, and all kindred THROAT DISEASES at all times prevalent, it is the ounce of PREVENTION. Children attacked with Whooping Cough or Croup should be immediately cared for. These painful attacks come with scarcely a moment's warning, when a physician may be out of immediate reach. A timely use of PULMOCINE CORDIAL gives speedy relief, and the little ones are spared hours of pain and agony. As "a stitch in time saves nine," so does the possession of this FAMILY MEDICINE prevent the spread of disease. Parents seeing their children gasping with pain, friends and relatives beholding each other in peril from suffocation by the choking pain in the throat, paralyzed with fear and not knowing the best course to pursue, are liable to apply the wrong remedial agent. There is no safety in delay, no time to waste in such cases. CONSUMPTION, that fearful scourge of the human race, lies at the door of all thus afflicted. BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL arrests it (unless in its advanced stage at which time there is no local cure) relieves the pressing, suffocating feeling at the lungs, and the patient's danger is past.
BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL
is no new discovery. Twenty-three years ago it was used by one of New England's most famous physicians as the best PULMONARY CURATIVE he could prescribe, after a dozen years spent in experimenting with it before he was satisfied that the Materia Medica could add nothing in its favor.
Buchman's Pulmocine Cordial
Is the ultima thule of Medical Discovery.
Among its many ingredients are WILD CHERRY BARK, SQUILL ROOT, LIQUORICE ROOT, BLOOD ROOT, &c. It is a BLOOD PURIFIER, gently stimulating. It increases expectoration and is diuretic. It is endoritic and alterative. It is a necessary family medicine. It is a Tonic, and a powerful aid to the digestive organs. It is a gentle sedative, and relieves nervousness. It is aromatic and agreeable to the taste.
For Coughs, Croup, Diphtheria, Asthma, &c.
USE BUCHMAN'S
PULMOCINE CORDIAL.
The Pulmocine Cordial is not a quack medicine, is not an experiment, is not composed of any ingredients "discovered" by "walking in pastures" in South America or anywhere else, nor by one who discovered a weed and thereby cured himself. Most of the ingredients are such as our best educated physicians daily use for the complaints specified, in some form or other. The recipe is that perfected by one of New England's most learned and famous physicians, who used it entirely in his daily practice until his death. It is offered to the profession and to the public, absolutely pure and unadulterated.

BRIGGS' ALLEVANTOR is composed of Ammonia, Chloroform, Spirits of Camphor, Tincture of Lapulina, Oil of Juniper, and Alcohol. This compound is unequalled in the annals of medicine for the cure of Nervous or Sick Headache, Neuralgia, Trembling or Twitching of the Nerves, and all Nervous Diseases. It will counteract all poisons, banish pimples, cure scaly eruptions, itching, humors, &c.; it equalizes the circulation, invigorates the system, increases the action of the heart, without exciting the brain, cures Heartburn, Palpitation and Fluttering of the Heart, Dyspepsia, &c. Briggs' Allevantor absolutely possesses more curative properties than any other preparation. Physicians, chemists, and others are requested to examine and test the remedy, and $1000 will be paid if found different from representation.
COUCHS. Much has been said and written, and many remedies have been offered for the relief and cure of throat and lung diseases; but nothing has been so eminently successful, or obtained such a wide celebrity, as Briggs' Throat and Lung Healer.
CORNS! The excruciating pain and misery produced by Corns, the unceasing twinging from Bunions, the piercing, distressing pain from ingrowing Nails, cannot be described. Thousands suffer, not knowing there is a cure. Briggs' Corn and Bunion Remedies are no acid or potash compounds, but are reliable, soothing, and effectual, and just merit the success they have earned from an appreciative public. The Curative is a healing ointment; immediate relief is obtained by its application, and it will positively cure the worst cases of Festered Corns, Inflamed and Ulcerated Bunions, the worst instep, the largest and severest Blisters, the most extensive Callosities on the soles or heels of the feet, unequalled in the cure of Chilblains or Frosted Feet. The Allevantor for ordinary corns and preventing their formation is absolutely unexcelled by anything ever known.
PILES have been a terror to mankind for centuries, and almost every attempt to cure them has been baffled. By unceasing study and experimenting, Dr. Briggs has discovered an absolutely cure for internal, bleeding, external, and itching piles. Briggs' Pile Remedies are mild, safe and sure.

JACK MAYNARD'S CALL.

A COLLEGE STORY.

It was very quiet that afternoon in the college-yard. In all the straight cut paths that connected every door with every other, there was no one stirring. The wind had died away; and the only sound was the echo of passing sleighbells, dulled by the snow, that had heavy on roof and branches. In Jack Maynard's room, nothing was moving but the fire. In the wide, old-fashioned grate, the ruddy flame of a huge piece of cannel leaped and quivered, now gleaming on the oar over the windows, now throwing out a pictured face in tremulous life from the darkening wall, or lighting up the Venus of Milo in the corner with a half-rosy flush. It played on books, thrown loosely about the big study table; it sent rays into the high book-case, that glimmered back from polished bindings, and from the silver cup that Jack had won in the class-races; it made the chandelier glow as if it were full of little jets of flame; it sent rosy sparkles among the cluster of German-favors that lined the frame of the picture of the Harvard crew, and spent all its power in vain trying to banish the shadow of the heavy curtains.

Jack himself, a Saxon six-footer, was lying before the grate, with his chin between his hands, and his elbows on the arms of the lounge, pensively tapping the other end of that much-enduring piece of furniture with the toes of his top boots. Through the fragrant vapor that curled lazily about his head from a long-stemmed pipe, he was looking out into the yard, where the twilight was first deeping among the gnarled elm-branches, and lights were already beginning to shine over the snow. He was not taking much notice of the landscape, for his face had a far-off expression; and he made no movement till his pipe went out, when he skillfully dropped it on the floor, without taking the trouble to move his hands from his head, and spoke.

"Robert, my child, are you awake?"

"Just what I was going to ask you," said the child, in a sleepy bass voice, from the depths of the easy chair. Why child, nobody knew but Jack. Certainly neither of the chums was a child in stature,, or in any sense except in the sight of the law. But Jack, who objected to sentimentality between men, was fond of using fatherly terms, as being a sort of combination of absurdity and affection, that could hardly be found fault with from either point of view.

"I was thinking, Bob, how many hearts had been broken under those old elms in all the years since college was founded. Just think of the average damage every class day! Do you remember that effusion of Holmes?—something about—

"Many a classic beach is strewn
With heart-shaped pebbles of blood-red stone."

"Though I don't exactly see where the beach comes in."

"Probably refers to Harvard during the glacial period," suggested Bob.

"And I was wondering," Jack went on, "how many of all the engagements made in college have lasted. What's-his-name's calculating machine would give the figures easily. 'Twould be a good thing for a fellow to know, so that he could calculate his chances on mathematical principles."

"Jack," said Bob, rising and looming solemnly between him and the window, "are you smashed?"

"My child," said Jack meekly, "I am."

"Dark or light?" said Bob sternly.

"Dark," was the answer, with a powerful sigh.

"Where?" said Bob, after a sad silence.

"That last assembly. I was slightly hammered on that occasion; and last evening I madly proceeded to put myself under a pile-driver, by calling on her. We talked about philosophy and cooking and music and art and woman's dress, and—religion."

"Fatal symptom, that last," said Bob.

"I know it," groaned Jack.

His feelings were so strong, that his boots, inspired by his passion, tipped off one of the legs of the lounge, and let him down on the floor; where he lay in a state of dejection, pitiful to behold, until the six-o'clock bell rung.

"Going to supper," said Bob, "or is your appetite defunct?"

"My child," was the feeble reply, "where there's food there's hope."

Going to supper he kept musing aloud "Ethel Hastings! Entrancing name! She tarries at De Vries. Said she was going to visit some other friends in Cambridge. Knows some people in my place. What if she should be there next summer?"

And he clasped his big fur gloves in ecstacy, and struck an attitude.

With this thought, his spirits improved rapidly, so that when he entered that Spartan club-house called Commons he was quite radiant. He beamed upon the somewhat timeworn houri that waited on his table, and addressed her in knightly terms.

"What, ho! thou jewel of my heart! bring hither the wheaten refreshment, and crown me a goblet of bovine nectar."

The good natured girl grinned, as if she were used to it, and complied with the courteous request. But Jack was too high to eat much. He handed everything within his reach to his absent-minded neighbor Brown, to watch his puzzled look; and finally succeeded in exchanging Brown's plate for a plate of crackers, without attracting his attention, and then accused him solemnly of selfish gluttony. He recited off-hand the first chapter of his new sensation novel, to be entitled, "The Bloody Fork; or, The Madman's Midnight Meal," wherein the pirate captain (who, he remarked, wasn't essential to the plot, but required by the rules of art) said, "Oho, my diamond-hilted spy-glass!" no less than seven times; and all the principal characters were poisoned at the outset, "to give full swing to the tragic," as he said. "Nothing like appeasing the mucker statement when you write," he said. "What does the mucker element delight in? Blood!"

He set the table in such a roar, that the steward had to stop him, and advised him to retire; which he did sidewise, with covered face and uncertain step, after the style of the rejected lover in comedy.

After supper a crowd of fellows went round to Jack's room, as usual. But to-night he refused to try his hand at chess, and even dropped a challenge to be "cleaned out" in the most rapid and mysterious of games, California Jack, and went to reading intently. One of the others looked over his shoulder, and read aloud:—

"Many an evening by the waters did we watch the stately ships,
And our spirits rushed together at the touching of the lips."

"Beautiful," murmured Jack.

There was a general laugh as the reader said, "bad symptom, to appreciate that."

"Well," said Jack, "it's a safe thing to read, any way. The hero behaves in a sensible manner. He knows that one love lost doesn't prevent his trying again, and that he may yet have a chance to pass down that neat little property which he calls Allthenges to the next heir. I detest those French writers who make their disappointed lovers stand in the sea till the tide comes over them. If I couldn't get up a more rational hero than that, I'd never write a novel. Why, it's all imagination, any way. When a fellow finds that all is over, and life must part, and he'll be a rover, to the serious detriment of his heart, and all that, you don't suppose that there isn't somebody else that would do just as well for him, if not better? It doesn't injure anything vital in him, as it does when you shoot him. A man may die of imagination; and he never sees till afterwards how foolish that imagination is. The practical English novels in which everybody behaves exactly like very ordinary persons in real life, are better; though, to be sure, some of them grind along rather slowly."

"The trouble isn't so much that the novel-mill grinds slowly, as that it grinds exceeding small," said Bob. "But don't you see that you reduce all our affections and griefs to one dead level of empty imagination?"

"Just so," said Jack. "There isn't anything real about it; and almost everybody sees it so, once or twice in his life, and tries to forget it."

"If you're going into the Diogenes line," said one of the visitors, "I've got a tub I'd like to sell you. The bottom isn't sound, but the sides are strong; and that's all you want for a roof. You could keep it tight by taking a bath in it occasionally. By the way, if the old Athenian had used his tub for that purpose occasionally, perhaps he wouldn't have been so misanthropic. I think a philosopher in a tub, is some good position, say the corner between Harvard and Hollis, would be an interesting feature of the yarn. Think how delightful to have the ladies put up their glasses, and say, "was the dear disgusting old fellow once a student here? How interesting! Do tell us all about him!"

"I shall certainly have to get a new tub," said Jack, entering heartily into the project; "I never could live in my tin hat tub. Just think how the little muckers would make it ring with stones! But then I could use that impracticable seat to keep my rations in."

The idea seemed to restore him to the height of good humor; and he lay in his customary position, on the crippled lounge, gently kicking with his top-boots as before, when a loud knock was followed by the entrance of a youth got up in gorgeous style.

"Well Charley, what's up?" said Bob.

"Been to make my party call on old Smooth," said Charley; "and he's out. I thought I'd drop in and tell you that now's your time to call."

Two or three of the visitors rose hastily, and were about leaving.

"My children," said Jack, in a grieved voice, "is this the way that you heed your instructions about economy of labor? I feel pained to think of such a waste of force. There's no need of but one's going. He can take all the cards, and walk up and down past the house, and leave them all, one after another."

"But the servant will notice it," objected somebody.

"The servant thinks all the students are just alike, and it's easy enough to change your voice, so as not to be recognized. If none of you want to go, by Jove, I'll go myself!"

"But you didn't go to the reception, and don't even know the professor," said Bob.

"The professor isn't in," said Jack, putting on his overcoat. "Now, you fellows write your cards, if you haven't any with you, and I'll take them."

"Why, Jack, you haven't got any collar on; and those top-boots!"

"How many times must I tell you, my child," said Jack patiently, "the professor is not at home?"

So he put on his big overcoat with a cape, and his fur gloves; and Bob settled his beaver on, after giving his hair a parting rumple. He was just starting when an idea occurred to him.

"Let me take two or three hats, so that I can change them each time."

He stuck them under his cape, and went out.

The moon was shining brightly as he crossed the yard. It had just risen and shone through the Gothic windows of the library, lighting them up so that they gimmered faintly across the snow, as if the high hall were filled with the halo of the genius that it enshrined. The old elms stood up motionless against the sky, and the light reflected from the snow-covered roofs flashed through their branches. The snow crackled under his feet; and the clear cold air sent a thrill of life all through him as he walked rapidly away from the square toward the professor's house. Now and then the sound of bells would come out of the distance, growing louder, till the sleigh flashed into the light, and away again, out of sight and hearing. He half forgot the object of his walk, and his mind was full of many wandering thoughts. He thought of meeting the charming girl with whom he had just become acquainted, in his own village in the coming summer. He thought how happy he should be if she would favor him, and let him devote his life to her. He thought how pleasant it she were riding with him now in one of these sleighs to watch the ever-changing form of clouds, as the moon lighted them up. He almost thought he saw her image coming to him from a radiant cloud; then he thought of the warm climes that the moon was even then shining on, and of the bliss of wandering with her in some isle of changeless summer. It came over him how much time he had wasted idly that he might have improved, if he had such an object before him; and mighty resolutions arose within him.

These reflections brought him to the house; and, laughing to himself to think that he would some time tell her about this absurd prank, he turned in at the gate.

The house was dark; but, after a few vigorous charges at the bell, the servant finally unlocked the door, and answered his inquiry with the news that the professor was not at home.

Jack politely tendered his first card, and walked away. He walked till he reached a favorable corner, when he took off his beaver, and changed it for a cap, and sauntered slowly towards the house again.

Again the servant reported, "not at home" and another card was left. He walked back to his base of supplies, left off his cape, and changed his hat again.

Another card was successfully deposited.

Flushed with success, he made ready to leave the fourth and last card. He put on his cape and beaver, gathered up the hats, and rang again.

All was silent.

Another ringing peal.

A step was heard far inside the house. It came nearar and nearer, and finally the door was unbolted. Jack was about to ask the same question as before, when he saw that the professor himself was before him. He had just presence of mind enough to say, "Good evening."

"Good evening, Mr ——," said the professor, not recognizing one of his own immediate pupils.

"Maynard," said Jack graspingly, remembering his collarless condition.

"Ah! Mr Maynard, I am glad to see you; my niece and I have just returned from the consert, and you will pardon our rumpled appearance."

Jack stepped into the entry. The professor looked a little astonished at the fur gloves on such an occasion, but said nothing and led the way to the parlor. A young lady was standing with her back toward them, as they entered.

"My niece, Miss Hastings, Mr Maynard," said the professor.

She looked at him wonderingly, as he stood there, top-boots, cape, fur gloves, and all, with a very pale face and rumpled hair.

The conversation which followed must have been a striking one. Jack's ideas could only be kept together by the most intense effort, and he constantly contradicted himself, and confused them, mixing all the topics of conversation in one unfathomable muddle. He tried to give a reason for coming on that special occasion, and made a weak failure. This embarrassment grew more and more intense on both sides, till the professor, pitying him for what he supposed was his bashfulness, and seeing how uncomfortable he looked, said.

"Mr Maynard, that cape must be very warm. Do take it off."

In his embarrassment, he touched the upper button and it gave way, revealing the collarless void below. At the same instant the hats, which were only held up by the pressure of the cape, fell on the floor.

How he got out of that parlor he could never clearly tell. But, somehow or other, he did, and walked slowly toward home. The moonlight looked very differently to him now. The shifting clouds became troops of laughing goblins. He thought of the cold moonlight falling on the ice in the far north and wished that he were buried a mile deep in those lifeless regions. He thought it wasn't so strange after all, that Victor Hugo should have made his hero wait the rising tide, and wondered if he could find a suitable place in the Charles, whereon to sit and await a like happy oblivion.

Reaching his room the fellows were all eager to hear to his story.

"Did you leave the cards?"

"All but one; and here it is."

He felt in his pocket and looked blank. It was not there; it had fallen with the cape on that parlor floor, and he had left it there.

Word by word they had got the whole story out of him. They laughed till they could laugh no more; they rolled about the floor in ecstacies of mirth; but he sat silent and motionless. At last they saw how deeply it had cut him, and left him.

To no very happy reflections. To be sure he had broken no law; but the petty element of the business kept annoying him more and more. How could he ever hold up his head in Cambridge after this?

He sat late into the night. Bob left him sitting there, silent and motionless, looking as if he had seen the Gorgon's head.

The next morning Bob called out:

"Jack!"

"Yes."

"I hope it doesn't trouble you. It's all imagination, you know."

"My child, never sit on your parent when he's down."

He didn't dare to walk about Cambridge for a fortnight. At the end of that time he ventured out. It was a dull, cheerless afternoon. The trees kept up a slow dripping, and the sidewalks were damp and slippery. The leaden sky cast a gloom over all the landscape, that accorded well with his mood. He was thinking that he was always getting into scrapes that injured him, that he was a useless member of society, that his life would always be dull and ordinary, and that he might as well stop trying to make anything of himself, when he turned a corner and came full on Miss Hastings.

He didn't expect her to recognize him, and was resolved to pass her without noticing the cut; but she stopped and spoke to him.

"Is this yours?" said she, handing him the card he had dropped.

"It is," he said, and flushed at the cruelty. He was hurrying on, but she stopped him again.

"He didn't see it. I picked it up and kept it. I saw through the whole thing. I never pitied any one so much in my life. You must have felt awfully. Come and see me at the De Vries."

He was so overcome at the sudden revulsion, that he took her hand and kissed it, right in the street. Nobody noticed it, except a very small girl on the other side, who said "Oh, my!" and crossed over to get a better view of further proceedings.

Of course he had to apologize for the rudeness, and explain all about it at once. They walked slowly up the street; and just as they reached a little eminence, the leaden sky broke into great rifts before them in the west, and a flood of light glowed on the far off snowy hills, and threw a crimson veil over all the sky.

"How beautiful the view is!" said she.

"Yes," said he, looking right in her face. "What a lovely flush the sunset throws on it."

What else he said is not recorded. But Bob said that when he came in that night, "he was so happy that if you stood him on his head he'd have walked off without knowing it."—Old and New.

SATURDAY, JANUARY 3, 1873.

Readables.

The public debt statement just issued is the first under the present administration which has failed to show a monthly decrease of the debt, ranging from two hundred thousand dollars in March, 1868, to twenty millions in June, 1870.

The total amount appropriated by the annual naval bill just completed by the House committee is $18,864,993—about a million and a quarter less than the estimates and three-quarters of a million more than the similar bill of last year. The increase is mainly due to the item of $750,000 for compound engines in the Marion, Vandalia, Swatara, Quinnebang and Galena. The specific appropriations for the civil establishments in the various New England yards are the same as last year, excepting those for the bureaus of construction and repairs and steam engineering at Portsmouth and Charlestown, both of which are slightly diminished.

The public debt was increased $1,684,307.80 in December.

Seven convicts escaped from the State prison at Auburn, New York, Thursday, led by Dan Noble, the Lord bond robber.

An insurrection has occurred in the Phillipine Islands against the Spanish government, and in quelling it a large number of natives and Europeans were killed. The insurgents were hunted down mercilessly.

The up and down passenger trains on the Macon and Western Railroad came in collision about 37 miles from Atlanta, Ga. Eight negroes were killed and three white men were injured. Three cars and one engine were wrecked.

The navy appropriation bill, as perfected by the House committee on appropriations, contains the following clauses: That from and after the 30th day of June, 1873, the term of the classes in the Naval Academy at Annapolis shall be six years, instead of four, as now provided by law, and this proviso shall first apply to to the class entering the Academy in the year 1873, and to all subsequent classes.

At Springfield, Ohio, a woman named Nancy Harthington, aged forty, was murdered by her husband, and her son was terribly mutilated, his skull being crushed with an axe. It is supposed the husband was intoxicated.

At a special election in the Bradford district of Pennsylvania, to fill the vacancy in Congress caused by the resignation of Hon. Mr. Mercur, Hon. Mr. Dunnell (republican) was elected by about 1000 majority over Victor E. Piollet.

Not a murder was reported all day long in New York on Wednesday, the first day of the new year. A good beginning.

A VALUABLE MEDICAL TREATISE.—The edition for 1873 of the sterling medical annual known as Hostetter's Almanac is now ready, and may be obtained, free of cost, of druggists and general country dealers in all parts of the United States and British America, and indeed in every civilized portion of the Western Hemisphere. This Almanac has been issued regularly at the commencement of every year for about one-fifth of a century. It combines with the soundest practical advice for the preservation and restoration of health, a large amount of interesting and amusing light reading, and the calendar, astronomical calculations, chronological items, &c., are prepared with great care, and will be found entirely accurate. The issue of Hostetter's Almanac for 1873 will probably be the largest edition of a medical work ever published in any country. The proprietors, Messrs. Hostetter & Smith, Pittsburg, Pa., on receipt of a two cent stamp, will forward a copy by mail to any person who cannot procure one in his neighborhood.

HOW UNNECESSARY THE ANGUISH many persons undergo from rheumatism, gout, neuralgia, toothache and earache. We say unnecessary because the application of Mexican Mustang Liniment to the affected part, or a few drops of it in the ear or tooth, affords instantaneous, and what is better, permanent relief. For cuts, wounds, bruises, swellings, and all injuries or diseases which require treatment externally, this liniment is everywhere regarded as the most potent and reliable healing agent in existence. For all external injuries or ailments of horses and cattle, it is infallible.

LOCAL AFFAIRS.

City Council.

In Board of Mayor and Aldermen, Thursday evening, Jan. 2d, a communication was received from Chas. P. Gage, Chairman of the Railroad Commissioners, to attend at a hearing appointed by them at the Common Council Room in this City on the 15th inst. at 9 o'clock, A. M., of the parties interested in an application of the Portsmouth and Dover Railroad for an appraisal of damages occasioned by said railroad and the location thereof owners of land taken by said Railroad within the limits of Portsmouth, and particularly to Mark H. Wentworth and Jeremiah Noble, and to assist in said appraisal.

Voted, That the Board will attend said hearing.

Voted, That Ald. Hatch and Wilson be a committee to ascertain who of the Aldermen are disqualified to act at said hearing and appraisal, and to recommend suitable persons to act as substitutes.

The petition of Harry J. Freeman for permission to dress swine at his soap shop during the Winter season was referred to the Mayor and Health Committee.

The Annual Report of the City Solicitor was presented, and referred to the Committee on Claims; and the report without paper annexed was ordered to be printed.

The Annual Report of the Chief Engineer was presented and referred to the Committee on the Fire Department.

The Republicans

Of the third Ward have chosen the following gentlemen to serve as a Ward committee the ensuing year:—

Wm. H. Rollins, C. N. Osgood, J. H. Morrill, J. H. Gardiner, Job Woodsum, Wm. B. Randall, Jos. Stickney, Daniel W. Neal, Gardner M. Goodrich, Alonzo Wise, John A. Durgin, John S. Rand, Frank Junkins, Chas. W. Bailey, Oliver H. Locke, John E. Colcord, John Dame.

Congressional Delegates.

The Republicans of the Third Ward chose their delegates on Thursday evening. The following are the delegates from this city:—

Daniel J. Vaughan, John Hodgdon, John H. Slater, John Pender, James A. Waterhouse, Enoch J. Conner, Isaiah Wilson, George Annable, E. G. Peirce, Jr., Frank W. Miller, Eben F. Brackett, John Stokell, John H. Broughton, Henry A. Yeaton, Daniel L. Randall, Robert C. Sides, Wm. H. Rollins, Chas. N. Osgood, Chas. W. Bailey, Joseph H. Gardiner.

Laconics.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard S. Randall celebrated their silver wedding on Thursday evening of last week, by a pleasant social gathering at their residence on Pleasant street, and received many valuable presents of appropriate design and material.

Col. Russell H. Conwell of Somerville, Mass., will lecture at the Congregational vestry at North Hampton on the evening of Jan. 14th. Subject, "Lessons of Travel." If stormy, the lecture will be postponed to the next evening. Tickets 25 cents.

Mayor Horton of Dover in his inaugural address said:—

In view of the fact that the 250th anniversary of the settlement of Dover occurs this year, it seems to me that some preparation should be made at once for a proper observance of the occasion. As the city of Portsmouth is equally interested, it may be that a joint celebration can be arranged.

The Eben Simpsons say that the ball given by the Kearsarge Engine Co. of Portsmouth was the best that they ever attended, and desire to express their heartfelt thanks for the kindness shown them during their stay at Portsmouth. Biddeford Times.

A Kittery correspondent writes: "J. L. O. Coleman has opened a new store and junk store here, and a new block is going up with four shops in it and a Hall overhead. Our citizens are looking forward with happy anticipations in regard to the library given by Miss Rice. There is no rum now sold in town, except at the Town Agency. The frame of a large vessel is nearly up, at Neal's shipyard."

The Messrs. Hook of Boston were in this city on Friday making arrangements for furnishing a new organ at the Episcopal church.

There will be a lecture on the subject of Spiritualism at Hall No. 5 Congress street, Republican headquarters, on Sunday afternoon at the usual hour. The public are invited to attend.

The regular monthly celebration of the Holy Communion occurring in St. John's Church on Sunday morning, the evening service will commence at quarter past 7 o'clock; and this being also the eve of the feast of the Epiphany, the discourse will be appropriate to that occasion. Epiphany services will be held in the Chapel on State street, Monday morning at 11 o'clock.

Wanted, at this office, copies of the NEW HAMPSHIRE GAZETTE of August 31, 1872, to complete files.

Clippings.

From the Portsmouth Journal.

—A New York exchange states that Dan Rice will make his "farewell tour" through the Eastern States with a menagerie, next season, visiting Portsmouth among other places.

—The Catholics purchased the lot of land on the corner of Summer and Chatham Streets in June, 1851. It is proposed to have their new church ready for occupancy before July, 1873.

—Rev. O. F. Van Cise preached his farewell sermon at the Universalist church last Sunday. He leaves the Society in a thoroughly united condition, and carries with him the best wishes of all.

—Rev. Carlos Martyn will commence a series of Sabbath evening discourses in the North Church, next Sunday night, at 7 o'clock. The subject will be "Trade and Traders, as viewed from the Pulpit."

—As usual, the week commencing with the first Sabbath of January is set apart for special prayer. The subjects assigned for the different days cover all, or nearly all, the matter which the Christian world has at heart.

—The Ross Factory (formerly Drake's Foundary,) on Mechanic Street, for the manufacture of School furniture, has been removed to Boston. Sweetser & Clark, of this city, have taken the building and will carry on a general iron foundry business.

—The skating on the ponds around the suburbs of the city has been spoiled by the heavy snow-falls, and all efforts of the boys to clear them have proved fruitless, consequently these places will not afford any further opportunities for the exercise during the season. Both the North and South ponds are huge snow-banks, "closed for the winter."

—A swindler in counterfeit money in New York, giving his name as "D. G. Steuben," shows his cloven foot by mentioning his place of business as "No 709 Broadway," which is written on a slip of paper and attached to his circulars, many of which have been received in this city. No 709 is the business establishment of Mr. Albert L. Dodge, a Son of Portsmouth.

—The entertainment advertised by the Young People's Union, to take place at the Temple next Thursday eve, the 9th, in its several parts is thoroughly unique, instructive, impressive, and amusing. Mr Bartlett is an adept in catering not only to the good taste of the public, in novel stage presentations, but quite as effective in the literary world, as his years of contributions to "Our Young Folks" and other periodicals amply testify. In this entertainment he is to be aided by a bevy of Portsmouth young ladies, whose second appearance before the public will, of course, be met with all the well-merited enthusiasm which greeted them a few weeks since in another though entirely different role. We are permitted to say that among the many other themes to be presented, the representation of "Cleopatra going to meet Marc Antony," is brilliantly gotten up, each separate figure in the regal barge making a study in itself. Pantomimes, which for real study and amusement are hard to rival, have been very seldom given here, but Mr. Bartlett promises to delight us with that mystical "Love in Ambush," which the wonderful Ravels performed nightly for so long a season some years ago. Thus with comic and historic still scenes, burlesques, pantomimes and illustrated ballads, interspersed with careful copies of statues and living pictures, all in the most rapid succession, we hope to see the house crowded, and hope also that no one will forget the charitable object which is to be benefited by this effort, and that the committee who have had the matter in charge will find their labor rewarded by the receipt of a large sum in the treasury to aid the Union for Christian Work.

STATISTICS OF THE EASTERN RAILROAD.—From the annual return of the Railroad Commissioners of Massachusetts just issued, we glean the following figures in reference to the Eastern R. R.:—Capital Stock authorized $6,160,000, Capital Stock paid in, $4,262,600; Total of funded debt $5,149,400; Total am't of debt $7,447,941.39; Total expended for construction $6,649,695.42; Total of equipment $2,083,978.47; Total property purchased $1,115,275.23; Miles in length of main line 41.39; Miles in length of double track on main line 32.37; Total miles in length of branches 71.71; Total length of road-miles, 113.10; No. of crossings of highways at grades, 121; No. of crossings without gates or flagmen, 64; Locomotives 73; Passenger cars 133; Mail and baggage cars 35; Total freight cars, including coal cars, 854; Locomotives with train brakes 30; Cars with train brakes 133; Miles run by passenger trains 776,833; Miles run by freight trains 259,276; Total train miles run, 1,403,179; Total number of passengers carried 5,000,399; Total number of passengers carried one mile 66,496,498; Number of tons carried 424,320; Total freight mileage, 12,832,483; Total expenditures for maintaining of way and buildings $413,033,32; Total expenditures for operating road, $1,399,421,47; Receipts from passengers, $1,326,043.74; Receipts from freight, $539,484.18; Total earnings, $1,973,622.83; Total net increase above operating expenses, $574,201.36.

This table of the Commissioners shows that the Boston and Maine R. R. total earnings were $1,716,399.42; and their total net earnings above their operating expenses was $504,116.16.

AMERICAN & FOREIGN PATENTS.

R. H. EDDY,
SOLICITOR OF PATENTS,
For Inventions, Trade Marks or Designs,
NO. 76 STATE ST., OPPOSITE KILBY ST., BOSTON,

After an extensive practice of upwards of thirty years, continues to secure patents in the United States; also in Great Britain, France and other foreign countries. Caveats, Specifications, Assignments, and all papers for Patents, executed on reasonable terms with dispatch. Researches made to determine the validity and utility of Patents of inventions, and legal and other advice rendered in all matters touching the same. Copies of the claims of any patent furnished, by remitting one dollar. Assignments recorded in Washington.

No Agency in the United States possesses superior facilities for obtaining Patents or ascertaining the patentability of inventions.

All necessity of a journey to Washington to procure a Patent and the usual great delay there, are here saved inventors.

TESTIMONIALS.

"I regard Mr. Eddy as one of the most capable and successful practitioners with whom I have had official intercourse. CHARLES MASON, Commissioner of Patents."

"I have no hesitation in assuring inventors that they cannot employ a man more competent and trustworthy and more capable of putting their applications in a form to secure for them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office.
EDMUND BURKE,
Late Commissioner of Patents."

"MR. R. H. EDDY has made for me over THIRTY applications for Patents, having been successful in almost every case. Such unmistakable proof of great talent and ability on his part leads me to recommend all inventors to apply to him to procure their Patents, as they may be sure of having the most faithful attention bestowed on their cases, and at very reasonable charges.
JOHN TAGGART."

IRON in the BLOOD.

DYSPEPSIA, DEBILITY, DROPSY, HUMORS,

PERUVIAN SYRUP

Makes the Weak Strong.

The Peruvian Syrup, a Protected Solution of the Protoxide of Iron, is so combined as to have the character of an aliment, as easily digested and assimilated with the blood as the simplest food. It increases the quantity of Nature's Own Vitalizing Agent, Iron in the blood, and cures "a thousand ills," simply by Toning up, Invigorating and Vitalizing the System. The enriched and vitalized blood permeates every part of the body, repairing damages and waste, searching out morbid secretions, and leaving nothing for disease to feed upon.

This is the secret of the wonderful success of this remedy in curing Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, Dropsy, Chronic Diarrhœa, Boils, Nervous Affections, Chills and Fevers, Humors, Loss of Constitutional Vigor, Diseases of the Kidneys and Bladder, Female Complaints, and all diseases originating in a bad state of the blood, or accompanied by debility or a low system. Being free from Alcohol, in any form, its energizing effects are not followed by corresponding reaction, but are permanent, imparting strength, vigor, and new life into all parts of the system, and building up an Iron Constitution.

Thousands have been changed by the use of this remedy, from weak, sickly, suffering creatures to strong, healthy, and happy men and women: and invalids cannot reasonably hesitate to give it a trial.

See that each bottle has PERUVIAN SYRUP blown in the glass.

Morning Chronicle.

ISAAC S. KALLOCH, who used to figure in Boston as Rev. I. S. Kalloch, and is now figuring for a seat in the U. S. Senate, as successor to Senator Pomeroy, of Kansas, recently wrote a letter to the editor of the Western Home Journal, published at Lawrence, Kansas In it he calls the editor the "meanest and coldest hypocrite" be ever met. The editor publishes Kalloch's letter and thus deals with its author:

Who is this man who sets himself up as a writer and lecturer on hypocrisy, this censor of other men's motives, this glib-tongued, pompous critic, who writes insulting letters to editors and marks them private, this model of purity and frankness who seems to hold the vice of hypocrisy in such special abhorrence? Who is he? Trot him out. Let the admiring world take a squint at him. Why, it's Kalloch. Isaac S. Kalloch! the man who started as a Christian minister, in Maine, and has come out as a licensed liquor saloon keeper in Lawrence! He's a pretty creature to talk about "hypocrisy." He's a lovely creature to get up in a Christian church and read off his pious lecture on John Bunyan, and then fill his own skin with whisky, and make drunkards of the young men of the town!

Mr. Mahoney, the eminent Italian who edits the Dubuque Telegraph, sat down on a slippery pavement last week, breaking his arm. The Telegraph is without its usual amount of editorial matter, as it was the scissors arm that was broken. Mahoney's chief regret is that it happened during the stay of Mr. Hammond, the revivalist, who now occupies his spare time at the bedside. —St. Louis Globe.

EIGHTY-ONE FIRST PREMIUMS

Have been awarded to our Firm

OVER ALL COMPETITION.

These Pianos are still regarded and universally admitted to be

and are so pronounced by all the great artists.

Dr. FRANZ LISZT says: "I consider the CHICKERING Piano superior to any made in Europe or America, and am fully convinced that they were justly entitled to the First Prize.

Chickering & Sons' Hammoth Manufactory is more than one-third larger than any other Piano-Forte Manufactory in the world, and is, in every respect, the most complete as regards machinery and the facilities for doing the very best class of work. Messrs. C. & Sons have, since the establishment of their business in 1823, made and sold 40,000 Pianos, and these Standard Instruments are now offered at Reduced Rates upon the "ONE PRICE SYSTEM," free from all discounts and commissions; and they are, beyond all refutation, the VERY BEST and VERY CHEAPEST FIRST-CLASS PIANOS now offered.

A CARD.

We call special attention to our

UPRIGHT PIANOS,

Which are, in every particular, the finest instruments of their class manufactured, and second only to the Grand Piano, for which they are a good substitute.

HAVING THIRTY YEARS TO RUN.

Bearing interest at 7 per cent. in Gold Coin, "or or equal to the present standard."

Coupons payable in New York, London, or Frankfort on the Main, at the option of the holder. When desired, bonds will be registered by the Trustee—the Farmers' Loan and Trust Co. Interest payable January and July.

This road is now completed from Jacksonville to a junction with the CHICAGO & ALTON R. R. at Virden, a distance of over 30 miles. The road, so far as completed, is thoroughly equipped, ENTIRELY PAID FOR, and in full operation, and it is upon the completed portion only, that bonds amounting to $600,000 are now offered at 85 and accrued interest in currency. Bonds upon the remaining portion of the road will be sold at a much higher price and will be offered only upon completed road. This road traverses the garden of the State, crosses all the most important roads, controls the enormous coal mines at Virden, and its bonds are most highly esteemed by those whose investigation has been most searching. We have personally examined every detail of this Company, and have gone repeatedly over the entire line. We are consequently enabled to recommend these bonds as absolutely perfect security.

THE UNEQUALLED

ARLINGTON COOK.

We invite all those in want of the VERY BEST COOK STOVE to examine this before purchasing, as we believe it to be far superior to any other stove in the market, the castings being heavier, and the oven larger than usual, and the sifter so arranged that the coals can be separated from the ashes without removing them from the stove.

Barstow's Union Portable Range,

WITH HOT CLOSET.

LATEST IMPROVEMENT.

This New Hot Closet Range combines all the conveniences of an Extension Top Cooking Stove, or brick set Range; while it costs less, and requires less space than either. Particular attention is invited to the beautiful exterior of the Range, and the superior quality of its castings; it is the handsomest and best Portable Range in the Market.

PARLOR & OFFICE STOVES

We have constantly on hand a good assortment of OFFICE & PARLOR STOVES, among which are the following: The new PEERLESS PARLOR, admitted by all who have seen it to be the handsomest Parlor Stove in the Market. Being perfectly air tight, it needs no ventilating box or opening in the back of the stove, but the fire is easily managed by the front draft. It is a very economical Coe' burner and will keep fire throughout the season without going out. The GEN. GRANT is a very neat Parlor Stove, at a much lower price than the Peerless. We sold a large number last season and they gave entire satisfaction.

CLEAR YOUR THROAT!
Relieve Your Lungs.
For the terrible diseases engendered by the lung-trying climate of New England,
Pulmocine Cordial
Is a speedy and reliable Preventive and Remedy. EVERY FAMILY should have a bottle at hand to check the sudden growth of all Pulmonary Diseases. For the Asthma, Coughs, Croups, Laryngitis, or inflammation of the larynx, Diphtheria, and all kindred THROAT DISEASES at all times prevalent, it is the choice of EVERY NATION. Children attacked with Whooping Cough or Croup should be immediately cared for. These painful attacks come with scarcely a moment's warning, when a physician may be out of immediate reach. A dose of PULMOCINE CORDIAL gives speedy relief, and the little ones are spared hours of pain and agony. As "a stitch in time saves nine," so does the possession of this FAMILY MEDICINE prevent the spread of disease. Parents seeing their children gasping with pain, friends and relatives beholding each other in peril from suffocation by the choking pain in the throat, paralyzed with fear and not knowing the best course to pursue, are liable to apply the wrong remedial agents. There is no safety in delay, no time to waste in such cases. CONSUMPTION, that fearful scourge of the human race, lies at the door of all this afflicted. BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL arrests it (unless in its advanced stage at which time there is no local cure) relieves the pressing, suffocating feeling at the lungs, and the patient's danger is past.
BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL is no new discovery. Twenty-three years ago it was used by one of New England's most famous physicians as the best PULMONARY CURATIVE he could prescribe, after a dozen years spent in experimenting with it before he was satisfied that the Materia Medica could add nothing in its favor.
Buchman's Pulmocine Cordial
Is the ultima thule of Medical Discovery.
Among its many ingredients are WILD CHERRY BARK, SQUILL ROOT, LIQUORICE ROOT, BLOOD ROOT, &c. It is a BLOOD PURIFIER, gently stimulating. It increases expectoration and is diuretic. It is sudorific and alterative. It is a necessary family medicine. It is a Tonic, and a powerful aid to the digestive organs. It is a gentle sedative, and relieves nervousness. It is aromatic and agreeable to the taste.
For Coughs,
Croup,
Diphtheria,
Asthma, &c.
USE BUCHMAN'S
PULMOCINE CORDIAL.
The Pulmocine Cordial is not a quack medicine, is not an experiment, is not composed of any ingredients "discovered" by "walking in pastures" in South America or anywhere else, nor by one who discovered a weed and thereby cured himself. Most of the ingredients are such as our best educated physicians daily use for the complaints specified, in some form or other. The recipe is that perfected by one of New England's most learned and famous physicians, who used it entirely in his daily practice until his death. It is offered to the profession and to the public, absolutely pure and unadulterated.

The Singer
SEWING MACHINE
STILL LEADS THE MARKET.
The Success the Company is far beyond that of any other similar concern; the Daily Manufacture
—OF—
400 OF THE SINGERS
Failing to Supply the Constant Demand.
All other machines call the public attention to some new loop or stitch or tension or finish, some advantage in running or needles or feed or prices—and many of these as we have said very good points, and the agents selling them use them to divert entirely the would-be purchaser from fairly considering the merits in the case; but the
seems to unite the good qualities of all, and is never found wanting.
THE SINGER
IS THE OLDEST
SEWING MACHINE
IN THE MARKET,
All others being copied from its first model, does two-thirds the sewing done in this country and preserves its advantages over all others combined.
It is readily kept clean, and has THE BEST TENSION EVER INVENTED; it is higher speeded and requires but little power to run; it works equally well upon the finest and heaviest goods; it does all the varieties of work known to the art.

$1000 REWARD.
BRIGGS' ALLEVANTOR is composed of Ammonia, Chloroform, Spirits of Camphor, Tincture of Lupulinn, Oil of Juniper, and Alcohol. This compound is unequalled in the annals of medicine for the cure of Nervous or Sick Headache, Neuralgia, Trembling or Twitching of the Nerves, and all Nervous Diseases. It will counteract all poisons, banish pimples, cure scaly eruptions, itching, humors, &c.; it equalizes the circulation, invigorates the system, increases the action of the heart, without exciting the heart, cures Heartburn, Palpitation and Fluttering of the Heart, Dyspepsia, &c. Briggs' Allevantor absolutely possesses no curative properties than any other preparation. Physicians, chemists, and others are requested to examine and test the remedy, and $1000 will be paid if found different from representation.
COUGHS. Much has been said and written, and many remedies have been offered for the relief and cure of throat and lung disease; but nothing has been so eminently successful, or obtained such a wide celebrity, as Briggs' Throat and Lung Healer.
CORNS! The excruciating pain produced by Corns, the unceasing twinging from Bunions, the piercing, distressing pain from Ingrowing Nails, cannot be described. Thousands suffer, not knowing there is a cure. Briggs' Corn and Bunion Remedies are no acid or potash compounds, but are reliable, soothing, and effectual, and just merit the success they have earned from an appreciative public. The Curative is a healing ointment; immediate relief is obtained by its application, and it will positively cure the worst cases of Festered Corns, Inflamed and Ulcerated Bunions, the worst instep, the largest and severest Blisters, the most extensive Callosities on the soles or heels of the feet, unequalled in the cure of Chilblains or Frosted Feet. The Allevantor for ordinary corns and preventing their formation is absolutely unexcelled by anything ever known.
PILES have been a terror to mankind for centuries, and almost every attempt to cure them has been baffled. By unceasing study and experimenting, Dr. Briggs has discovered an absolutely sure for internal, bleeding, external, and itching piles. Briggs' Pile Remedies are mild, safe and sure.
For sale by J. H. THACHER, WM. R. PRESTON, Portsmouth; JAMES O. TREFETHEN, Kittery; E. S. SAYFORD, Kittery Point; H. M. CURTIS, Newcastle, and dealers generally.

THE GREAT REMEDY FOR CONSUMPTION!
and acknowledged by many prominent physicians to be the most Reliable Preparation ever introduced for the RELIEF and CURE of all
LUNG COMPLAINTS.
This well known remedy is offered to the public, sanctioned by the experience of over forty years, and when resorted to in season seldom fails to effect a speedy cure of
Coughs, Colds, Croup, Bronchitis, Influenza, Whooping Cough, Hoarseness, Pains or Soreness in the Chest or Side, Bleeding at the Lungs, Liver Complaints, &c. &c.
CONSUMPTION
CURED
by a timely resort to this standard remedy, as is proved by hundreds of testimonials received by the proprietors.
Dr. Wistar's Balsam of Wild Cherry
does not dry up a Cough and leave the cause behind, as is the case with most preparations, but loosens and cleanses the lungs and allays irritation, thus removing the cause of the complaint.
CLERGYMEN, LAWYERS, SINGERS,
and all those whose occupation requires an unusual exercise of the vocal organs, will find this the ONLY PREPARATION which will effectually and instantaneously relieve their difficulties.
BEWARE OF COUNTERFEITS.

ANOTHER WONDERLAND.—The diadem for scenic grandeur has heretofore been worn by Yosemite, but the explorations in the Sierra Nevada have revealed some half dozen contestants for that honor. Among these may be mentioned Mount Shasta, the canon of the South Fork of King's river, (on the shadow of Mount Whitney) and the great Tuolumne River canon. John Muir, the lonely, adventurous explorer and geologist of the Yosemite valley, Galen Clark, State guardian of that valley, last month penetrated and explored the last-mentioned canon, which Professor Whitney and Clarence King did not enter, the former expressing a doubt, in his State geological report, whether it was possible to get into it at all.

Mr. Muir reports that this canon lies about eighteen miles in an almost due northerly direction from Yosemite valley. Its beginning or mouth is below Hetch-Hetchy valley, and the main Tuolumne runs through it. It curves in an unbroken line for forty miles, and runs up to the ends in the very heart of the summits of the upper Sierra Nevada. The uneuphoniously named Hetch-Hetchy valley constitutes an expanded portion of the great Tuolumne canon, which properly begins at the eastern end of Hetch-Hetchy, and has, from thence to its head, a length of twenty miles of continuous, unbroken vertical walls of granite, similar to, but more clear cut and with much greater depth, than those of the Yosemite valley, has an average width of half a mile, and is in one place a mile wide; but the Tuolumne canon has nowhere a width exceeding a quarter of a mile, and is in some places much narrower than that.

The Tuolumne river, which runs through it, has twice the width of the Merced. The falls of the Merced-Yosemite surpass those of the Tuolumne canon in unbroken volumes of descending water; but, in endless variety of cascades and water-shoots, the Tuolumne canon is far superior. The great walls of the canon are seamed by water-worn fissures, down which rivers leap, churn, thunder, brawl and sing, with all possible varieties and expression of sound.

There is one water-leap 1,800 feet high in the Tuolumne canon, but it is not unbroken like the Upper Yosemite, and is in that respect inferior to the latter. The Upper Yosemite falls are 1,600 feet high. In the Spring, when the river is full, that fall tumbles into its great water-worn, rocky bowl, with a sound resembling the fall from the sky of gigantic cannon-balls on massive and tightly-stretched drums. This sound closely resembles, yet hardly rises to the noisy dignity of the loudest peals of thunder; but the noise produced by the Tuolumne waterfalls is as deafening as the loudest thunder—a thunder which is brought directly home to the ears by the narrowness and vast depth of the great ice-covered fissures and the unsurpassed facilities it affords for ponderous echoes.

One of the waterfalls spreads out at first like a great filmy fan of silvery-threaded water, but, after a descent in this shape of about 200 feet, it is whirled over, closed up with lightning-like rapidity, changed in color and shot down a narrow groove of rocks, like an arrow of steam.

The great sculpture marks of glacial action are much newer and more easily read in the Tuolumne than in the canon of the Yosemite. The glacial alphabet by which the history of the glacial action can be read is very much blurred in Yosemite by the subsequent action of rain, snow, sun, winds, and earthquakes; but in the Tuolumne canon the page is fresh from the glacial workshop on the summits of Mounts Lyell, Dana, and Ritter. The glacier on the latter has a length and width of about half a mile, and a depth of about 800 feet. The glaciers from these mountains, Mr. Muir thinks, at one time not only filled the great Tuolumne cannon, but lavishly overflowed it as a river overflows its bank in spring time.

Messrs. Muir and Clark had a rough task in exploring this great canon and it surroundings. They were forced to wade rushing, icy torrents, the sides of which brushed the foot of perpendicular rocks of granite. They camped one night in their shirt sleeves, and went supperless to bed. One of the walls mentioned is 4,000 feet high.

Those who have come out of Yosemite by the Coulterville trail will remember what a magnificent view of the Bridal Vail Falls is had from it. Those falls is not the largest, but they are the most beautifully and appropriately named of all the falls of the great valley. The wind swings them and disarranges their falling folds and silver threads, just as it would a vail of the most gauzy texture. There are many of these bridal vail falls in Hetch-Hetchy valley and the Tuolumne canon. There is a greater display and variety of water-shapes, hues, tints, motions and expressions in the latter canon than in Yosemite.

One imagines that he has seen and heard all the possible combinations into which water can enter to awe and delight the eye and charm the ear after a visit to Yosemite,, but Mr. Muir states that the exploration of the Tuolumne canon has revealed innumerable discoveries in this respect, even to his eye, which has for years been familiar with all the waterfalls of the Yosemite region.

It is evident from these and other recent discoveries in the Sierra Nevada that there is a wealth of wonders there, outside of and in many respects surpassing those regions on which the eyes of tourists have heretofore rested. San Fran. Bulletin.

Mr. Perley L. Pierce's saw-mill in Brookline and its expensive material, besides about $400 worth of barrel heads and other lumber, were burned on Thursday morning. There was a small insurance on the property.

The Independent Statesman, referring to the fact that in the early history of the State, when members of Congress were elected by general ticket, it was a frequent practice to take two and sometimes more of the candidates from a single county, instead of distributing them through the State as is now the usage. In seven successive Congresses, from 1811 to 1825, Rockingham County had at all times two members, and during much of that period another member was elected from the neighboring towns of Dover and Rochester in an adjoining county. It is true, the State was then entitled to six members, so that other sections and counties were not wholly neglected. It is probably the fact, as the Statesman suggests, that a greater number of men deemed suitable for the office were at that time to be found in the eastern part of the State. It was settled more than one hundred years before much of New Hampshire was any thing more than a wilderness, and during the whole colonial period and for nearly fifty years thereafter most of the important public offices and those who filled them were necessarily confined to this section. The State Legislature alternated between Portsmouth and Exeter, with an occasional session elsewhere, for many years. It was not until 1808 that it was finally fixed at Concord, which town was then and for fifteen years thereafter in Rockingham county. All the Governors of the State down to 1824 were elected from Rockingham county, and all the defeated candidates for the office in the same period were also citizens of that county, with one exception. The Senators in Congress were likewise with few exceptions selected from the same locality. Of sixteen individuals who held that office from 1789 to 1825 twelve were Rockingham county men. Of judicial offices, all the Justices of the Superior Court previous to 1790, with two exceptions, were from Rockingham and Strafford. These facts do not show that an undue share of official honors came to men of this section, but that the ability and experience deemed requisite for the positions being found here more abundantly than in other parts of the State, it was the more frequently called into the public service in those times when office sought the man rather than man the office. In these latter days our ancient County has modestly deferred to the claims of other sections—having furnished the State with a Governor but once in the last forty-three years, with a Senator in Congress but six months (to fill a vacancy) since 1845, and a Justice of the Supreme Judicial Court since Judge Richardson left the bench in 1838.

All About Dora.

The Boston Herald of Saturday has the following:—

For a good hour this morning a very modest appearing young woman named Mary Horton was seated under the wings of her counsel, while a hazel-eyed and pretty-featured little girl, who said she was Dora Randall, undertook to satisfy the court that Mary had stolen about $3 worth of spoons, forks, knives and butter plates from Brigham's saloon on Washington street. Now, Dora told just about as good a story about those spoons and other fixings, that she said were stolen by Mary Horton, as this scribe ever listened to as evidence in this court.—She's an A No. 1 witness in every respect. The gist of her story was that sometime in September or October last she invited Miss Horton to take supper with her at Brigham's saloon, and that after they had got away with the refreshments, Mary mittened to the spoons, forks and butter plates and shoved them under the muslin and other raiment about her bosom. At the time Dora thought it was a very strange proceeding, but it did not wound her conscience bad enough to make her go back on Mary. At a later day, however, she and Mary had a break, when she told about this scrape in playing for even with her.

Then Mary told her story, denying every word that Dora had said, adding that one day Dora brought those spoons to her room, saying that she had a meal sent in from Brigham's, she then lodging at 21 Bennett street, where Mary now stops; but Dora has taken other quarters at the request of her Bennett street landlady, as she did not like the company that the pretty Dora kept.—Then Mary flanked her story with evidence of good character, as good as one could ask for, and at the same time put in a few witnesses to tell how fond Dora was of the wine-cup, and things of that kind. Things were accordingly badly mixed, but the court thought the chances were as good as two to one that Dora, in order to vent her spite on Mary, had said things that would work up into falsehood much easier than into evidence, and accordingly ordered Mary to be discharged.

LOSS OF LIFE ON THE LAKES.—From the statistics of the loss of life on the great lakes during the past season, it appears that 189 persons were drowned, and of this number 113 were lost with the vessels upon which they were engaged. The other seventy-six cases were those of sailors who fell overboard and were washed off by heavy seas. This loss of life seems sufficiently large, but the total number of such casualties is sixty-one less than the previous years. There were 663 disasters to vessels upon the lakes during the year, and this fact, taken in connection with the loss of life, shows that the navigation of the lakes is quite as dangerous as that of the ocean. When the warnings of the Signal Service Bureau come to be more generally established and heeded at the lake ports, we may hope for a large reduction in this annual destruction of life and property.

PILES.—The unceasing torture from internal bleeding, external and itching piles is fast wearing away the thousands of those who are afflicted and their hope and courage have long since given place to despair. Let those who see this cheer up, for a mild and sure cure may be had by using BRIGGS' PILE REMEDIES.

A VALUABLE MEDICAL TREATISE.—The edition for 1873 of the sterling medical annual known as Hostetter's Almanac is now ready, and may be obtained, free of cost, of druggists and general country dealers in all parts of the United States and British America, and indeed in every civilized portion of the Western Hemisphere. This Almanac has been issued regularly at the commencement of every year for about one-fifth of a century. It combines with the soundest practical advice for the preservation and restoration of health, a large amount of interesting and amusing light reading, and the calendar, astronomical calculations, chronological items, &c., are prepared with great care, and will be found entirely accurate. The issue of Hostetter's Almanac for 1873 will probably be the largest edition of a medical work ever published in any country. The proprietors, Messrs. Hostetter & Smith, Pittsburg, Pa., on receipt of a two cent stamp, will forward a copy by mail to any person who cannot procure one in his neighborhood.

IRON in the BLOOD.

DYSPEPSIA, DEBILITY, DROPSY, HUMORS,

PERUVIAN SYRUP

Makes the Weak Strong.

The Peruvian Syrup, a Protected Solution of the Protoxide of Iron, is so combined as to have the character of an aliment, as easily digested and assimilated with the blood as the simplest food. It increases the quantity of Nature's Own Vitalizing Agent, Iron in the blood, and cures "a thousand ill," simply by Toning up, Invigorating and Vitalizing the System. The enriched and vitalized blood permeates every part of the body, repairing damages and waste, searching out morbid secretions, and leaving nothing for disease to feed upon.

This is the secret of the wonderful success of this remedy in curing Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, Dropsy, Chronic Diarrhœa, Boils, Nervous Affections, Chills and Fevers, Humors, Loss of Constitutional Vigor, Diseases of the Kidneys the Bladder, Female Weakness, and all diseases originating in a bad state of the blood, or accompanied by debility or a low system. Being driven from Alcohol, in any form, its energizing effects are not followed by corresponding reaction, but are permanent, infusing strength, vigor, and new life into all parts of the system, and building up an Iron Constitution.

Thousands have been changed by the use of this remedy, from weak, sickly, suffering creatures to strong, healthy, and happy men and women: and invalids cannot reasonably hesitate to give it a trial.

See that each bottle has PERUVIAN SYRUP blown in the glass.

AFFAIRS.

ipal Reform.

:—It is with reverence, nd trembling that I approach ing (in more than one sense) the renovated City Building. order that my sight may be gradually accustomed to its rices, I will view it from a distance—say about twenty years off.

Tradition says that once upon a time, whereof the memory of man—this man who writes—runneth not back to, the old Jefferson Market was a comely structure, pleasant and fair to look upon. When we come right down to the naked truth it must be confessed that tradition does tell awful lies sometimes, but in this instance I will try to believe that it speaks what is true; but neither tradition, history or Scripture, nor all three together, will ever make me believe that the City Building was a handsome structure one year ago, and my faith that it is a handsome structure now is not very strong.

In those years—the years when Jefferson Market was a handsome building — a notion got abroad that it needed fixing. I believe that this fixing was done under the old town government, and that there was none such working at cross purposes as later times has developed; but it none the less made the building hideous to behold, and it has looked like a barn ever since.

Some eight years ago, the Board of Aldermen wanted to remodel the internal arrangements of the building; but the Common Council opposed the scheme and many and hard were the words spoken against it by the Councilmen, who finally voted that it should not be done. But the Aldermen said it should be done, and of course it was done—another example of the uselessness of the Common Council. The City Rooms, as remodelled by the Aldermen in spite of the opposition of the Council, are as convenient as could be asked; and I speak of the alterations then made only to show that the Council was utterly worthless as a check upon the upper board eight years ago, and in support of my statement that it does not exert a feather's weight of influence in city affairs and should therefore be abolished.

Early in 1872, the Board of Aldermen passed a joint resolution providing for the alteration and embellishment of the City Building in accordance with certain plans and specifications which the Aldermen had already procured, at an estimated expense of $8,000. This resolution was sent to the Common Council for concurrence; but the committee to whom it was referred reported unfavorably upon it, a petition signed by many of the heaviest tax-payers in the city, protesting against the proposed embellishment, was received, and the Council unanimously refused to concur. The Councilmen possibly fancied that in refusing concurrence they had checked the scheme! Bah! The Aldermen had not paid—out of the city funds—several hundred dollars for plans on which to expend thousands more, to allow themselves to be baulked merely by an adverse vote of the Common Council; so when they got ready to move, a resolution was passed empowering the Aldermanic Committee on City Lands and Buildings to make such "repairs" as they deemed necessary—and they considered it necessary to "repair" the City Building very nearly in accordance with the rejected plans for "embellishment."

This entire abandonment of the whole matter to the hands of the Aldermanic Committee on City Buildings was a peculiarly happy proceeding, the chairman of that committee being a well known and competent carpenter and builder — a most advantageous combination, as it enabled the chairman to give the builder an extensive job, with entire confidence that it would be done to his (the chairman's) perfect satisfaction. And this arrangement has still another advantage, in the position held by the chairman of the Committee on City Lands and Buildings as chairman of the Committee on Accounts; the first-named committee secure the services of the builder, the builder runs up bills, the Committee on Accounts "scrutinize" those bills and report them to the Board of Aldermen for payment—a most beautiful piece of "circular work," almost resembling a "ring."

The improvement in the appearance of the City Building, when the "repairs" are completed, may prove to be worth all it will have cost; certainly the building cannot be any worse looking than it has been for years; but the plan was opposed by the Common Council, and I respectfully submit that their ignominious failure to prevent the expenditure of five thousand or ten thousand dollars of the public money on a scheme they entirely disapproved, shows that their supposed influence in city affairs is a myth, a delusion and a snare, and that the election of members to that body is a useless farce on the part of the tax-paying voters of the city.

MUSICBYTHEBAND.

The Old Ship Crescent.

The Sacramento Union states that the old ship Crescent, which has served as a landing at that city for more than a score of years, has been removed to be broken up for fire-wood, and for the iron and copper in and about her timbers. The Crescent was of 341 tons register and was built at Badger's Island in 1826, forty-seven years ago, by Messrs. John Rice, Edward F. Sise and John D. Simes. Although at this day she would be considered small, she was then regarded as a superior vessel. For seven years she was engaged in the salt trade, running to Liverpool, and subsequently made two whaling voyages. Early in the fall of 1849 she was purchased by the "Salem Mechanics' Trading and Mining Association," a company numbering about sixty men, who had taken the "gold fever." After a few weeks spent in preparation she was loaded with 130,000 feet of lumber, framed and made ready for erection into houses, and with the framework, boiler and engine of the little steamer Sagamore, which was sent out to California, as a speculation. Besides this, there were on board provisions sufficient to last 100 men nine months. December 6, 1849, the Crescent left Salem, Capt. John H. Madison in charge, with a full crew, and as much freight as she could stagger under. Heavily loaded and not a fast traveller at her best, the Crescent did not reach San Francisco until May 26, 1850. On her trip she made but one stoppage, which was at the island of Juan Fernandez, and only for three days. Arriving at her destination, she tied up at a wharf in the immediate vicinity of the present location of the Pacific iron works, and was sold, together with her cargo, directly upon her arrival.

Wreck at Hampton Beach.

The British steamer Sir Francis, Capt. Whiting, from Liverpool, Eng., for Boston, after a stormy passage of 25 days from Queenstown, was wrecked on a sunken rock a mile off Hampton Beach, half way between Boar's Head and Newburyport Bar, on Friday afternoon about 4 o'clock, a dense fog prevailing at the time. The steamer was built in Glasgow in 1872, and hails from Hull, England. She is registered at 1507 tons, and is built of iron, with water-tight compartments, all which, however, filled with water after she struck.

The fore-hold contains soda-ash and bleaching powder; the lower hold contains an assorted cargo, including a large quantity of iron. The steamer is constructed with bilge pieces and now rests on an even keel, with water up to within a few inches of the lower deck. It is probable that a large portion of the cargo will be saved, as the steam tug C. M. Winch, from Boston, has been dispatched to the scene of the disaster. The steamer had but a single passenger, who in company with the officers and crew effected a landing by means of boats, on the beach near Newburyport light-house. A heavy surf was running at the time, in which the boats narrowly escaped being swamped.

The fishing steamer George W. Hunt, Capt. Lane, from this port, boarded the wreck on Saturday, she having no person on board at the time. After being aboard about an hour the mate and eight men of the Sir Francis came off from the shore to their steamer, but left again soon afterwards. Capt. Lane left seven of his crew in charge of the wreck and came into port for instructions, returning to the wreck with his steamer Saturday evening.

After the above was in type a heavy gale from the eastward set in, Sunday evening, rendering it doubtful if anything of consequence will be saved before the wreck goes to pieces.

Laconics.

The City Marshal and Assistants were doing Street Commissioner's duty on Saturday, and erected a bridge leading to the Post office across Pleasant street.

We hear the names of Mayor Marvin, Frank W. Miller, James P. Bartlett, Isaiah Wilson and George L. Treadwell mentioned in connection with the Mayoralty the present year.

The Portsmouth Trust & Guarantee Co. have offered to take the Dover city bonds of $225,000, being the subscription of that city to the Portsmouth & Dover Railroad, at par.

The Pythian Amateur Club of this city will visit Manchester on Tuesday evening, Jan. 14th, and perform the drama of Damon and Pythias at Music Hall. They intend visiting Biddeford Jan. 31st.

We are desired to state that the announcement of the Portsmouth Music Society to sing at a lecture this week, is unauthorized and incorrect,—though some members of the Society may do so. The Music Society, with Harlow's Orchestra, will give a concert, next month, and will hold a rehearsal on Sunday evening next.

A union meeting will be held at the Methodist church at 3 o'clock this afternoon, at which all the pastors of the city will be present and take part.

Rand (James A.) & Co., at the Drive Store, are just making things lively in the dry goods line, at No. 5 Market street. A full assortment of Winter goods may be found at this establishment, courteous attention and bargains for cash. Peruse the announcement in our advertising columns.

Many persons will be interested and pleased to learn that Dr. M. Emil Richter proposes to return to this city shortly and resume practice as a homeopathic physician.

The night express trains on the Eastern Railroad will be continued during the winter.

Prof. L. T. Townsend, D. D., of Boston, will deliver the closing lecture of the course at the Methodist church this (Monday) evening, at 7 1-2 o'clock; subject, "Placed and Misplaced Men." Prof. Townsend served gallantly as an officer in the late war, and we are informed the G. A. R. propose to honor him with their presence. His reputation as a lecturer is high, and his audience will doubtless be a large one.

Rye.

One hundred and fifty members of the Christian, Congregational and Methodist societies organized a surprise party and assembled at the residence of Rev. Alva H. Morrill on New Year's evening. The reverend gentleman has many warm friends outside his church who took this occasion to testify their esteem. Recently, he has shown disbelief in the teachings of St. Paul and having returned with a bride from Maine, many of his parishioners took this occasion to make their first call on the happy couple. Refreshments and singing employed the company for a while, after which a handsome sum of money was presented to Mr. Morrill by Emmons B. Philbrick, Esq., in behalf of the assembled friends. Following this was the presentation of a similar character by Mr. John D. Marston from members of the Congregational society who had availed themselves of his invitation to attend the church over which he presides while their church was being repaired. Miss Mary C. Seavey, in behalf of the young ladies of the society, closed the presentations by handing Mr. Morrill a well filled purse—making about $70 in all contributed by the "surprisers." Mr. Morrill responded in a feeling manner to the testimonials of regard, and the company adjourned at a reasonable hour feeling that they had opened the New Year well.

Morning Chronicle.

DELIRIUM TREMENS FROM ONE DRINK.—A young man connected with one of the heaviest grocery houses in the city, was engaged during the greater part of Monday in receiving and marking goods on the levee, and becoming thoroughly chilled, was recommended when he came in to take a drink of spirits. As the house in which he is engaged keeps no liquor open, the young man took a sampling tube and knocking the bung from a barrel of brandy, took a drink through the tube or "thief." In a very few minutes he became insensible, and was carried home and a physician sent for. Dr. Mageniss answered the summons, and found the young man recovered from his stupor, but suffering from every symptom of delirium tremens, the delirium continuing throughout the night. Yesterday morning the patient was out of danger. The extraordinary effect of the liquor is in part attributed to the fact that the cask had lain unopened in the store for more than two years, and that in drinking he had inhaled the long pent-up vapor that had accumulated in the barrel.

—The grandest and most reliable show now on exhibition in this vicinity is the ice gorge above the bridge. It is a free entertainment; but were theatre prices charged for the privilege of looking at it, there would scarcely be a diminution of the throng that daily haunt the river bank, watching the vast panoramic display before them. The Mississippi has dissolved and vanished, and where it lay, now is spread a vast sheet of glittering ice, and upon it is encamped an army of wayfarers, with all the accompaniments of trains and cattle. From the levee the sight is exhilarating, and its transformations and rapidly shifting situations, kaleidoscope in their sudden changes from grave to gray, from mirthful to mournful, present attractions rarely held up for the contemplation of our citizens. —Missouri Democrat.

—"Globules," of the St. Louis Globe, hung up his stocking on Christmas Eve, and next morning was gladdened by the sight of its contents, to-wit: Twenty-five bushels of coal; a dozen pen-wipers; five pair scissors, assorted sizes; three real babies, assorted sexes; a self-raking mower; a patent churn; a fine-tooth comb; an amulet of assafœtida, limburgher cheese and garlic, to keep off small-pox; a buzz-saw in operation; a paper of fine cut; a grind stone; a highly finished shot gun, double-barrel and loaded; a ditto pointer pup; a can of coal oil, and a few cart loads of miscellaneous trinkets.

HAVING THIRTY YEARS TO RUN.

Bearing interest at 7 per cent. in Gold Coin, "of or equal to the present standard."

Coupons payable in New York, London, or Frankfort-on-the-Main, at the option of the holder. When desired, bonds will be registered by the Trustee—the Farmers' Loan and Trust Co. Interest payable January and July.

This road is now completed from Jacksonville to a Junction with the CHICAGO & ALTON R. R. at Virden, a distance of over 30 miles. The road, so far as completed, is thoroughly equipped, ENTIRELY PAID FOR, and in full operation, and it is upon the completed portion only, that bonds amounting to $600,000 are now offered at 85 and accrued interest in currency. Bonds upon the remaining portion of the road will be sold at a much higher price and will be offered only upon completed road. This road traverses the garden of the State, crosses all the most important roads, controls the enormous coal mines at Virden, and its bonds are most highly esteemed by those whose investigation has been most searching. We have personally examined every detail of this Company, and have gone repeatedly over the entire line. We are consequently enabled to recommend these bonds as an absolutely perfect security.

COOK STOVES:

THE UNEQUALLED

ARLINGTON COOK.

We invite all those in want of the VERY BEST COOK STOVE to examine this before purchasing, as we believe it to be far superior to any other stove in the market, the castings being heavier, and the oven larger than usual, and the sifter so arranged that the coals can be separated from the ashes without removing them from the stove.

Barstow's Union Portable Range,

WITH HOT CLOSET.

LATEST IMPROVEMENT.

This New Hot Closet Range combines all the conveniences of an Extension Top Cooking Stove, or brick set Range; while it costs less, and requires less space than either. Particular attention is invited to the beautiful exterior of the Range, and the superior quality of its castings; it is the handsomest and best Portable Range in the Market.

The Sample Cook,

For Wood or Coal,

(Over Two Hundred in use in Portsmouth.)

— ALSO —

The Peerless,
Eaton Cook,
Sheridan,
Union Cook,
Norman Range,
Rival, Model Cook,
Farmer's Cook,
White Mountain, &c., &c.,

PARLOR & OFFICE STOVES

We have constantly on hand a good assortment of OFFICE & PARLOR STOVES, among which are the following: The new PEERLESS PARLOR, admitted by all who have seen it to be the handsomest Parlor Stove in the Market. Being perfectly air tight, it needs no ventilating box or opening in the back of the stove, but the fire is easily managed by the front draft. It is a very economical Coal burner and will keep fire throughout the season without going out. The GEN. GRANT is a very neat Parlor Stove, at a much lower price than the Peerless. We sold a large number last season and they gave entire satisfaction.

PLEASANT PARLOR COOK!

A new and desirable pattern for wood or coal,

ELEGANT AIR-TIGHT STOVES,

With extra large Doors and Movable Tops, to admit large wood; also, with an oven opening in top or side.

CYLINDER AND BOX STOVES,

All Sizes. Also, a good assortment of SECOND HAND COOK AND PARLOR STOVES in thorough repair.

FURNACES,

CLEAR YOUR THROAT!
Relieve Your Lungs.
For the terrible diseases engendered by the lung-trying climate of New England,
Pulmocine Cordial
Is a speedy and reliable Preventive and Remedy. EVERY FAMILY should have a bottle at hand to check the sudden growth of all Pulmonary Diseases. For the Asthma, Coughs, Croups, Laryngitis, or inflammation of the larynx, Diphtheria, and all kindred THROAT DISEASES at all times prevalent, it is the choice of PREVENTION. Children attacked with Whooping Cough or Croup should be immediately cared for. These painful attacks come with scarcely a moment's warning, when a physician may be out of immediate reach. A dose of PULMOCINE CORDIAL gives speedy relief, and the little ones are spared hours of pain and agony. As "a stitch in time saves nine," so does the possession of this FAMILY MEDICINE prevent the spread of disease. Parents seeing their children gasping with pain, friends and relatives beholding each other in peril from suffocation by the choking pain in the throat, paralyzed with fear and not knowing the best course to pursue, are liable to apply the wrong remedial agents. There is no safety in delay, no time to waste in such cases. CONSUMPTION, that fearful scourge of the human race, lies at the door of all thus afflicted. BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL arrests it (unless in its advanced stage at which time there is no local cure) relieves the pressing, suffocating feeling at the lungs, and the patient's danger is past.
BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL is no new discovery. Twenty-three years ago it was used by one of New England's most famous physicians as the best PULMONARY CURATIVE he could prescribe, after a dozen years spent in experimenting with it before he was satisfied that the Materia Medica could add nothing in its favor.
Buchman's Pulmocine Cordial
Is the ultima thule of Medical Discovery.
Among its many ingredients are WILD CHERRY BARK, SQUILL ROOT, LIQUORICE ROOT, BLOOD ROOT, &c. It is a BLOOD PURIFIER, gently stimulating. It increases expectoration and is diuretic. It is emollic and alterative. It is a necessary family medicine. It is a Tonic, and a powerful aid to the digestive organs. It is a gentle sedative, and relieves nervousness. It is aromatic and agreeable to the taste.
For Coughs, Croup, Diphtheria, Asthma, &c.
USE BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL.
☞ The Pulmocine Cordial is not a quack medicine, is not an experiment, is not composed of any ingredients "discovered" by "walking in pastures" in South America or anywhere else, nor by one who discovered a weed and thereby cured himself. Most of the ingredients are such as our best educated physicians daily use for the complaints specified, in some form or other. The recipe is that perfected by one of New England's most learned and famous physicians, who used it entirely in his daily practice until his death. It is offered to the profession and to the public, absolutely pure and unadulterated.

The Singer
SEWING MACHINE
STILL LEADS THE MARKET.
The Success of the Company is far beyond that of any other similar concern; the Daily Manufacture
—OF—
400 OF THE SINGERS
Failing to Supply the Constant Demand.
All other machines call the public attention to some new loop or stitch or tension or finish, some advantage in running or needles or feed or prices—and many of these are as we have said very good points, and the agents selling them use them to divert entirely the would-be purchaser from fairly considering the facts in the case; but the
SINGER
seems to unite the good qualities of all, and is never found wanting.
THE SINGER
IS THE OLDEST
SEWING MACHINE
IN THE MARKET,
All others being copied from its first model. Long experience has proved this model in this country and preserves its advantages over all others combined.

$1000 REWARD.
BRIGGS' ALLEVANTOR is composed of Ammonia, Chloroform, Spirits of Camphor, Tincture of Lupuline, Oil of Juniper, and Alcohol. This compound is unequalled in the annals of medicine for the cure of Nervous or Sick Headache, Neuralgia, Trembling or Twitching of the Nerves, and all Nervous Diseases. It will counteract all poisons, banish pimples, cure scaly eruptions, itching, humors, &c.; it equalizes the circulation, invigorates the system, increases the action of the heart, without exciting the brain, cures Heartburn, Palpitation and Fluttering of the Heart, Dyspepsia, &c. Briggs' Allevantor absolutely possesses more curative properties than any other preparation. Physicians, chemists, and others are requested to examine and test the remedy, and $1000 will be paid if found different from representation.
COUGHS, Much has been said and written, and many remedies have been offered for the relief and cure of throat and lung diseases; but nothing has been so eminently successful, or obtained such a wide celebrity, as Briggs' Throat and Lung Healer.
CORNS! The excruciating pain produced by Corns, the unceasing twinging from Bunions, the piercing, distressing pain from Ingrowing Nails, cannot be described. Thousands suffer, not knowing there is a cure. Briggs' Corn and Bunion Remedies are no acid or potash compounds, but are reliable, soothing, and effectual, and just merit the success they have earned from an appreciative public. The Curative is a healing ointment; immediate relief is obtained by its application, and it will positively cure the worst cases of Festered Corns, Inflamed and Ulcerated Bunions, the severest instep, the largest and severest Blisters, the most extensive Callosities on the soles or heels of the feet, unequalled in the cure of Chilblains or Frosted Feet. The Allevantor for ordinary corns and preventing their formation is absolutely unexcelled by anything ever known.
PILES have been a terror to mankind for centuries, and almost every attempt to cure them has been baffled. By unceasing study and experimenting, Dr. Briggs has discovered an absolutely cure for internal, bleeding, external, and itching piles. Briggs' Pile Remedies are mild, safe and sure.
For sale by J. H. THACHER, WM. R. PRESTON, Portsmouth; JAMES O. TREPEPHEN, Kittery; E. S. SAFFORD, Kittery Point; H. M. CURTIS, Newcastle, and dealers generally.

WISTAR'S BALSAM
OF
THE GREAT REMEDY FOR
CONSUMPTION!
and acknowledged by many prominent physicians to be the most Reliable Preparation ever introduced for the RELIEF and CURE of all
LUNG COMPLAINTS.
This well known remedy is offered to the public, sanctioned by the experience of over forty years, and when resorted to in season seldom fails to effect a speedy cure of
Coughs, Colds, Croup, Bronchitis, Influenza, Whooping Cough, Hoarseness, Pains or Soreness in the Chest or Side, Bleeding at the Lungs, Liver Complaints, &c. &c.
CONSUMPTION
CURED
by a timely resort to this standard remedy, as is proved by hundreds of testimonials received by the proprietors.
Dr. Wistar's Balsam of Wild Cherry
does not dry up a Cough and leave the cause behind, as is the case with most preparations, but it loosens and cleanses the lungs and allays irritation, thus removing the cause of the complaint
CLERGYMEN, LAWYERS, SINGERS,
and all those whose occupation requires an unusual exercise of the vocal organs, will find this the ONLY PREPARATION which will effectually and instantaneously relieve their difficulties.
BEWARE OF COUNTERFEITS.
Remember that the genuine Wistar's Balsam has on the outside wrapper the signature of "I. BUTTS," and the printed name of the proprietors, "SETH W. FOWLE & SONS, BOSTON." All others are base imitations. Examine the wrapper carefully before purchasing.

Welcome the Coming--Speed the Parting Guest.

On Monday, January 6, 1873, our present city government dies. At the same hour a new one will be born. Never, in the history of Boston, has there been an occasion which so properly called for a day of thanksgiving. Now we have reason to hope that Boston may once more be a city of health. It is worth while to call upon our incoming board of aldermen to look at our sickly condition and do something for our relief; to see what the obstinacy and recklessness of a few men have done to propagate disease. To-day we are in the focus of small-pox. As every physician knew would be the case, it has increased with the cold weather, and nothing has yet been done to stay its progress. Except in name, those who had charge of the health department have constantly avoided doing anything. They have violated the laws of the Commonwealth and the laws of humanity.

1. Under the pressure of public clamor, they have pretended to revaccinate the city. Without concert with the city physician, without the advice of the consulting board, they individually appointed some two or three vaccinators in the different wards. They did not select them with any regard to their knowledge or ability; they never published their names to the community; they never made any agreement with them for compensation; sent them from house to house, sometimes with police attendants and sometimes without, some of the vaccinators being gentlemen and some of them blackguards. At the end of three months they have not yet visited the whole city, and the majority of the subjects have not been visited to discover the result. The whole thing has been a sham.

2. Requiring, under the law, that every case of small-pox shall be reported, or fine be paid for non-compliance with the law, they have themselves studiously neglected to mark the points infected, as the law requires, and have even permitted small-pox and beef and mutton to be dispensed from the same corner store rather than put up the flag.

3. They have violated the statute which required them months ago to open a hospital "immediately." Indeed, the only hospital within reach of the citizens they discontinued, providing no substitute for it, as if in league with an enemy for the propagation of disease.

4. Wishing to escape the pressure of public opinion, they undertook to build a new hospital. What has been the history of it? On what is called Pine Island, under the name of a hospital, they put up a two-story wooden building. It was within musket-shot of the house they had closed. It was built on the edge of an old wharf, in the form of three sides of a hollow square. It stood on piles some five feet from the ground. On three sides it was bounded by dock mud; on the fourth by a marsh. As if not sufficiently unwholesome by itself, the dock mud was to have emptied into it the discharges from the hospital, and these, with the other excreta from the dead and dying, were to be washed about the margins of South Boston and Roxbury and Dorchester.

Instead of putting up small temporary structures, which could be erected and removed at little expense, they apparently studied to make an unwholesome two-story pest-house to breed disease and encourage death. The slightest carelessness with fumigating, or lighting, or heating apparatus, and the whole two hundred and fifty thousand feet of lumber were to be in a blaze, and the unfortunate up-stairs patients left to their fate—a sacrifice to the demon of disease with whom we have been playing.

Thank heaven, the house was burned before it was occupied! There could not have been a worse building erected for the purpose. According to present advices they are to leave us an abridged edition of their original sin. Should this take fire, the fire department could not reach it in season to save it, but the inmates might possibly be passed out of doors to take their chances there. Will the new city government take heed? "The king is dead! Live the king!"—Boston Advertiser.

AN ECONOMICAL SUBSTITUTE.—The New York Independent says that "wine is to be forbidden at all the better class of social entertainments during the coming season. The disgraceful scenes which have been enacted in our most respectable houses under the influence of champagne, has determined society to put down the scandal with a strong hand." This is good news; for besides being more economical, gin is just as penetrating, and does not fill up so.—St. Louis Democrat.

—A strolling band who had been advertising themselves in Troy, New York, and vicinity as "Whitney's Masonic Exposure," promising a complete unvailing of Masonry, were stopped at Troy by their creditors, and proved to be a set of thorough "beats" who knew as little of Masonry as they did of paying bills.

TUESDAY, JANUARY 7, 1873.

Death of Hon. Wm. C. Patten.

We record with sorrow, this morning, the death of Hon. Wm. C. Patten, an esteemed citizen of Kingston, and one of the purest public men in Rockingham county. Mr. Patten was a prominent member of the Rockingham Bar and had held high offices of trust.—He was a member of the present legislature and had represented Kingston in that capacity frequently. He came within a few votes of receiving the Republican nomination for Speaker in 1871 and again in 1872. Mr. Patten was a member of Gov. Smyth's staff, had served seven years as County Commissioner, and as Senator and Councilor, in each case receiving the nomination by acclamation, an instance which has no parallel in the history of politics in New Hampshire.

Of late he had been named by his friends as a candidate for the Governorship, and the Republican party would have sent him to Congress had he lived a few years longer. He was emphatically a "gentleman in politics," and was never a seeker after office, the office always seeking the man. He was a man of singularly simple habits, never partook of intoxicating liquors, and always threw his influence in favor of justice. He was a pleasing and influential speaker. A few days since he expressed the opinion that his death would be sudden, although he had never experienced an attack of sickness during his fifty-two years of life. On Friday morning he called on a neighbor, was seized with heart disease and was unable to return home. Early Sunday morning he arose, said he felt a little better and walked about the room. He soon laid down again, saying, "I guess I'm not as well as I thought I was," and died within five minutes.

The sudden affliction is a shock to friends of both political parties, all of whom honored him as one of the best of public men, genial and courteous, with an open-heartedness that disarmed opposition, and a regard for the feelings of others which led him to conceal the thorns which bestrew the paths of all public men, and advocate harmony and peace. A good man has died; and left his record—a record of excellence, whose example is an encouragement to those who follow him, to act justly, to judge leniently, and to illustrate the workings of the Golden Rule, living a life above reproach.

Stokes Convicted.

The second trial of Stokes for the murder of James Fisk, Jr., was concluded on Saturday. The jury returned to the court room at eleven o'clock. "We find the prisoner guilty of murder in the first degree."

Stokes turned pale, but preserved his composure and endeavored to calm his sister, who, overcome with grief, wept violently at his side. Colonel Fellows moved that sentence be pronounced immediately, but Mr. Tremaine, with a glance at the sister and relatives of the condemned, said that he thought the passing of the sentence might decently be postponed until Monday.

Judge Boardman said there was no necessity for pronouncing sentence at once and no impropriety in postponing till Monday, and he should therefore order that sentence be suspended till Monday.

Colonel Fellows then made quite a long address, in which he stated that he had only entered on the case on condition that able associates should be supplied him to conduct it, and that the gentlemen who had acted with him were feed by no private parties, but retained on the part of the people.

At this point the prisoner with an impulsive gesture cried out: "By Jay Gould; state that, too."

After the rendition of the verdict, and the jury were discharged, Stokes went close up to Mr. Beach, and remarked: "You know that you put perjured testimony on the stand."

At this moment Colonel Fellows came up and said: "Mr. Stokes, it is not possible that you attach any ill feelings to one for the discharge of any duty in this matter?" offering him his hand.

Stokes rejected the offered hand and said, "Oh, 'tis all right, Fellows; but you know that thousands of dollars were put up for this matter, and that you are all bought."

Immediately on the adjournment of the court one of the jurors approached Mr. Tremaine, senior counsel for the prisoner, and addressing him, said: "Mr. Tremaine, you can't blame us. You did your duty; you could do no more had the life of your own son been imperilled; and we have done ours."

The jury at first stood ten to two for conviction.

On Monday, Judge Boardman sentenced Stokes to be hanged on the 28th of February next.

It Does Move.

If any person doubts that the world moves, the astounding fact that a New York jury, in a New York court, before a New York judge, have brought in a verdict of "guilty of murder in the first degree" against a New York murderer, should remove such doubt at once and forever. That the reform movement (which closed the treasury doors to the Tammany thieves but has as yet failed to make them disgorge their stolen millions,) has so far succeeded in purifying the courts that men who have never been in the penitentiary nor tried for their lives, and who therefore cannot be supposed to entertain proper sympathy for any poor fellow who has the misfortune to commit a cold-blooded murder, are eligible to sit on a jury in a murder case, shows that the rule of thieves and ruffians under which New York city so long suffered was as much the fault of the honest men who allowed it as of the scoundrels who carried it on. If car-hook Foster and the dozens of other murderers now awaiting trial in New York can be promptly brought as near punishment as Stokes now appears to be, we may hope that the market price of murder will advance to such an extent that human life in that city will yet be worth 75 cents on a dollar.

Washington Correspondence.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan. 3.

New Year's was ushered in with a drizzly mist, which put the snow in that condition known as slosh, and made the demand for hacks, for callers, far exceed the supply. Foot callers had a dreary time of it, but the day was well improved. The receivers included everybody not engaged making calls, beginning with the President and his Cabinet. The elaborate preparation of refreshments and drinks was dispensed with by the members of the Cabinet, and the good example was followed by many others. The army and navy officers, in making their calls upon the President, were in full uniform and looked as well as decorated men could. The foreign ministers were in their court dress.

Fashionable people who keep carriages had them out with liveried footmen and drivers,—acting out the flunkeys they are. It is disgusting to honest manhood to see how common it is getting to be to deck out menials with magnificent overcoats and brass buttons, and stove-pipe hats with wide bands and big brass buckles, and bars on the side like a marshal's baton. Nothing short of a loss of manhood, or actual starvation, could reduce men to the condition of making such an exhibition of themselves.

Congress comes together on Monday, the 6th. Then new life will begin. The rounds of receptions and all sorts of gatherings will be in full blast. It is evident we are to have knotty questions started; and, as I intimated last week, measures will be (or rather, are) inaugurated for the annexation of the Sandwich Islands. No more judicious and able man could be sent there than Gen. Schofield, who went out in the California on the reception of the news of the king's death. San Domingo will be moved soon, in the House, and also the condition of Cuba.

We are on the eve of annexation, which will sweep in, before it closes, all the continental territory down to the Isthmus of Panama and this side the North Pole, and the adjacent islands. British America is the most desirable, because of the common bond of race, and the similarity of institutions and ideas. The objections to San Domingo, not as strong now as when its annexation was first mooted, are its inhabitants, who will have to be governed instead of being self governing. When we have so many discordant, unwedded materials at home it is hardly advisable to go about annexing more.

When we can afford a few millions a year for vessels of war and for forts and harbors, and for an increased navy and army to take care of them, it will be soon enough to enter on West India annexation. That time is not far off, and events may compel us to enter on that course before we are quite prepared. We shall take Mexico in parts, probably, and will have to begin soon. The plans are laid to bring it about. Stolen cattle from Texas, and smuggling, will be the necessity.

The demand is so universal and determined that Credit Mobilier shall be investigated with open doors, that a public investigation is pretty sure to come. Credit Mobilier was not the only ring in Union Pacific. There is a coal ring, quite as bad, which will have to be investigated. They have a monopoly of all coal bonds belonging to the railroad, and supply the road and the public, rendering the government coal bonds valueless by refusing all rail and car accommodation. Shellabarger's letter upon the power of Congress to regulate freights on railroads, in regulating commerce between States, is attracting much attention. When corn is fifteen cents a bushel in Iowa and ninety cents a bushel in Portsmouth, it is apparent how large the interest involved is to the producer and consumer. X. E.

A RUFFIAN'S TERRIBLE FATE.—A dreadful instance of summary justice occurred at Visalia, Cal., on Christmas eve. A noted ruffian, named James McCrory, who had already killed some four or five persons in that vicinity, shot an intimate friend named Charles Allen, in cold blood, and without the slightest provocation, firing deliberately five times till he killed him. After a desperate fight with the police, McCrory was seized and conveyed to jail, but the citizens were so incensed that they determined to lynch him. The jail was successfully broken into after two or three futile attemps, the sheriff and his deputies overpowered in spite of all their efforts to maintain the law, and the prisoner dragged out of the prison by an infuriated crowd. They threw a rope around the villain's neck, pulled him along to the Court street bridge, and after firmly securing the rope flung him over the railing of the bridge. He fell a distance of some five feet, and, after waiting to see that life was totally extinct, the crowd dispersed, leaving the corpse in its semi-nude state with the rain pouring upon it in torrents.

THE BUSY B'S.—The New York Herald, remarking upon Secretary Boutwell's chances for the Senatorship, and Gen. Butler's probable election to the gubernatorial chair of Massachusetts, says: "Thus do the 'busy B's' of the coalition hive of twenty years ago improve each shining hour. Butler, Boutwell, Banks, Burlingame and Bird! The first two, however, do all the political humming and buzzing for the old hive about these days!"

Business Notices.

PILES.—The unceasing torture from internal bleeding, external and itching piles is fast wearing away the thousands of those who are afflicted and their hope and courage have long since given place to despair. Let those who see this cheer up, for a mild and sure cure may be had by using BRIGGS' PILE REMEDIES.

A VALUABLE MEDICAL TREATISE.—The edition for 1873 of the sterling medical annual known as Hostetter's Almanac is now ready, and may be obtained, free of cost, of druggists and general country dealers in all parts of the United States and British America, and indeed in every civilized portion of the Western Hemisphere. This Almanac has been issued regularly at the commencement of every year for about one-fifth of a century. It combines with the soundest practical advice for the preservation and restoration of health, a large amount of interesting and amusing light reading, and the calendar, astronomical calculations, chronological items, &c., are prepared with great care, and will be found entirely accurate. The issue of Hostetter's Almanac for 1873 will probably be the largest edition of a medical work ever published in any country. The proprietors, Messrs. Hostetter & Smith, Pittsburg, Pa., on receipt of a two cent stamp, will forward a copy by mail to any person who cannot procure one in his neighborhood.

SCORE ONE for General Benjamin F. Butler. On the first day of the session of the Massachusetts legislature this veteran warrior succeeded in securing the scalp of one of his enemies. Mr. William S. Robinson, better known to the outside world as "Warrington," has for many years been clerk of the legislature. It is universally admitted that he was an excellent clerk, as indeed his frequent reelections sufficiently testified. But he does not like General Butler, has frequently taken occasion to say so in print, and the General does not like him. General Butler's victory was very complete, and quite unexpected by outsiders. His candidate had nearly three votes to "Warrington's" one, which perhaps may be taken as an indication that Benjamin holds the legislature in his cunning hand and will dictate its choice of Senator. He kept his little game so close that none of his adversaries suspected what he was after, and now say that if they had they could have defeated him. Mr. Boutwell, it is claimed, was in the secret. Massachusetts politics promise to become very interesting before many weeks.—New Haven Palladium.

General Butler thinks he has made a discovery about the receipt that James Brooks showed so triumphantly in the House, as given to his son-in-law, Neilson, for money he paid for his Credit Mobilier stock. Butler says that, unless his eyes deceived him, and he thinks they didn't, there was no revenue stamp on that paper, which would bring its date down to a time subsequent to the abolition of the tax on receipts.

IRON in the BLOOD.

DYSPEPSIA, DEBILITY, DROPSY, HUMORS,

PERUVIAN SYRUP

Makes the Weak Strong.

The Peruvian Syrup, a Protected Solution of the Protoxide of Iron, is so combined as to have the character of an ailment, as easily digested and assimilated with the blood as the simplest food. It increases the quantity of Nature's Own Vitalizing Agent, Iron in the blood, and cures "a thousand ills," simply by Toning up, Invigorating and Vitalizing the System. The enriched and vitalized blood permeates every part of the body, repairing damages and waste, scrubbing out morbid secretions, and leaving nothing for disease to feed upon.

This is the secret of the wonderful success of this remedy in curing Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, Dropsy, Chronic Diarrhœa, Boils, Nervous Affections, Chills and Fevers, Humors, Loss of Constitutional Vigor, Diseases of the Kidneys and Bladder, Female Complaints, and all diseases originating in a bad state of the blood, or accompanied by debility or a low system. Being free from Alcohol, in any form, its energizing effects are not followed by corresponding reaction, but are permanent, imparting strength, vigor, and new life into all parts of the system, and building up an Iron Constitution.

Thousands have been changed by the use of this remedy, from weak, sickly, suffering creatures to strong, healthy, and happy men and women: and invalids cannot reasonably hesitate to give it a trial.

See that each bottle has PERUVIAN SYRUP blown in the glass.

LOCAL AFFAIRS.

Small-Pox Remedy.

The following remedy for small-pox has been published in our columns more than once already; but we consider it worth another insertion, as the Chelsea Public (good authority) says that four or five cases of the disease have been cured by it in that town to the editor's personal knowledge:

Sulphate of zinc, one grain; foxglove (digitalis), one grain; half a teaspoonful of sugar; when thoroughly mixed, add four ounces of water. Take a spoonful every hour. The disease will disappear in twelve hours. For a child smaller doses according to age.

The above remedy is said to be equally efficacious in cases of scarlet fever.

Slippery Work.

"Let him that thinketh he standeth take heed lest he fall," was never more applicable than to pedestrians in this city, Monday morning, when the sidewalks were everywhere covered with a solid sheet of smooth ice. A dignified gentleman of our acquaintance, whose feet were engaged in playing some extraordinary antics in spite of the exertions of their owner to keep them in the way they should go, had painfully worked along to the middle of the crossing at the junction of Fleet and State streets, when he heard a sound behind him, and turning, saw a lady comfortably settled upon the sidewalk. He instantly altered his course, to do the thing which was gallant and proper, but the unsteadiness of his footing interfered with speedy movements, and he had hardly got turned around when an "Oh!" behind him caused him to turn his head once more, and he saw another recumbent lady on the other corner. Embarrassed by this wealth of opportunities to do good, he stood for a moment halting between two opinions; then his feet moved rapidly to the assistance of one lady and his head approached the other, and he stood in indecision no longer.

A newspaper man we wot of also heard a sound as of cloth and ice violently coming in contact, several times that same morning; but though he was heard to say things on each occasion, we are pleased to chronicle the fact that he did not once forget that a conservator of the public morals should set a good example, and that he did not utter a word which cannot be found in the Scriptures.

Laconics.

The committee of seventy will meet this (Tuesday) evening in the City Rooms, at half-past 7 o'clock.

As the schooner Franklin Schenks was making a berth in the gale of Sunday, owing to a hitch in getting down her jib she ran into the schooner Ripple, laying at a wharf, and damaged her considerably. The latter vessel would have been cut to the water's edge, or even lower, had not both anchors of the Schenks been promptly let go as soon as it was evident a collision would take place.

David Welch and Thomas Connors, said by the police to belong to the worst gang of young ruffians in the city, were sent to jail for sixty days and ordered to pay costs of prosecution, by Judge Page, on Monday. Another of the gang was "wanted" by the police, but managed to escape from the city.

We have received from Oliver Ditson & Co. the following music;—"Under the Silvery Stars," a song; "I will not leave thee, dear one," song; "The Cottage Door," song; "Go West, Young Man, Go West," song and dance; Just One Kiss," song for contralto; "Lucca Concert Galop;" "Good Bye Charlie," waltz; "Real Estate," polka; "Trois Nocturnes," by Jules Eggbard; and "La Sylphe," a mazurka. This music may be ordered of E. A. Joy or D. H. Montgomery.

On a recent Sunday, one of our city clergymen was examining a class of small boys in the South Ward Mission Sabbath School, concerning their knowledge of Scripture history, and among other questions asked, "Who formed the second temperance organization mentioned in the Bible?" He was much astounded at the prompt answer of one very small gamin, "J. Horace Kent, sir!" Mr. Kent's active interest in the temperance movement was well known to the clergyman, but that was his first intimation that the Bible specially mentions his efforts.

For nearly two months snow fell every day at Portage Lake, Michigan.

Dick Oglesby's path to the Senatorship in Illinois is said to be free from all impediments, not even a pebble being in the way. There will be no talk of corruption, allegation of bribery, or any of the other usual accompaniments of a Senatorial election around his success, upon which the country and everybody concerned are to be congratulated. And a magnificent Senator he will be.

Edward Shiette, a noted burglar, who broke jail a fortaight since, was recaptured after an exciting chase. He crossed Lake Champlain twice with great risk to his life, hotly pursued by two farmers.

Mrs. George Whacket was burned to death in a frame dwelling in Germantown. She was sick, and her husband while tending her accidentally upset a coal oil lamp. Mr. Whacket had to escape from a window. The house was destroyed.

During a drunken row in his liquor saloon in Newark, N. J., Thursday night, John Murphy seriously pounded his wife, and then killed his mother-in-law, Mrs. Kane, standing near by, crushing her skull with a stove lifter.

A letter from Honolulu, of the 15th ult., indicates that owing to the drunken habits of William Lunable, the legal successor of Kamehameha, the natives are not disposed to accept him, but want a Mrs. Bishop, a popular woman there, to succeed to the throne.

Great preparations are making for the ceremonies attendant upon the inauguration of President Grant on the coming 4th of March.

In Russia, from ninety to one hundred persons are annually knouted to death.

The Japanese ambassadors now in England say they will establish a brewery in Japan when they return, or off comes the head of somebody.

A dandy on shore is bad enough, but a swell on the sea is sickening.

THE TRANSIT OF VENUS.—At a recent meeting of the Washington Philosophical Society a paper was read by Professor Simon Newcomb, of the naval observatory, giving the details of the plan adopted for observing the transit of Venus in December, 1874. In 1870 the national academy of sciences took the first action in this matter by adopting a plan to organize a committee of arrangements. This committee was designed to include the heads of all those establishments which would naturally be looked to for aid in such matters by the government. The plan proved entirely successful, the committee forming a sort of nucleus for further action.

The next step was the making of an appropriation, at the request of the superintendent of the naval observatory, to make the necessary preliminary experiments. A commission was appointed to superintend the expenditure of the funds, and attempts were then made to secure the co-operation of scientific men throughout the country. An immediate and generally favorable response was received from the scientific societies. An appropriation of $150,000 was made by Congress for instruments, and the commission at once set about forming a general plan of operations.

It was decided that photographing the sun with Venus on its disc and noticing the contact of the limbs of the planet with those of the sun was necessary to a correct observation of the occurrence. A method of photographing this and of observing the angles was adopted, which is the invention of Mr. L. M. Rutherford, and differs materially from that decided upon by Germany, Russia and England. A plan of managing the very large telescope to be used, devised by Professor Winlock, was fixed upon, and will be made use of. Eight photographic stations, four in the northern and four in the southern hemisphere—will be occupied, but have not yet been named. Pekin will, however, probably be the central point in the northern hemisphere, the three others being scattered about China, Tartary and Japan. The southern stations cannot yet be fixed. Each station will be supplied with four principal instruments and other less important ones.—New York Evening Post.

—A Bangor boy with a propensity for imitation, saw a red flag hung out on a dwelling where there was a case of small-pox, the other day, and went immediately home and decorated his father's face with a like brilliant banner, without the knowledge of any one of the family. The neighbors were in consternation, and the report quickly spread around that the lad's father had the small-pox; everybody avoided the house, and the health officer learning of the rumor hastened to call and investigate the case. The family being ignorant of the "danger signal" flying in front of the house, could not understand why they were accused of having the small-pox, as none of them had been exposed to contagion, and the mystery was not understood until the youngster "rose to explain" to the great relief of all concerned. The boy's interest in the spread of the small-pox is not allowedto "flag" now.

A FATAL EXPEDIENT.—A young man named Vestal, a railroader by occupation, concluded some time since to abandon all his bad habits, and began by leaving off chewing tobacco. On Sunday he felt the appetite returning, and to throw it off commenced drinking ice-water, not stopping until he had swallowed, it is said, about three gallons; this was topped off with a quantity of frozen meat, and half a gallon of buttermilk. He did not feel very well on Monday, and consulted Dr. W. H. Kendrick, who gave him some medicine, but he continued to grow worse until yesterday morning, when the doctor called in Dr. Tice to consult on the case, but the efforts of both physicians were of no avail, as he died at 11 o'clock in the forenoon.—Indianapolis Journal.

AMERICAN & FOREIGN PATENTS.

R. H. EDDY,
SOLICITOR OF PATENTS,
For Inventions, Trade Marks or Designs,
No. 76 STATE ST., OPPOSITE KILBY ST., BOSTON,
After an extensive practice of upwards of thirty years, continues to secure patents in the United States; also in Great Britain, France and other foreign countries. Caveats, Specifications, Assignments, and all papers for Patents, executed on reasonable terms with dispatch. Researches made to determine the validity and utility of Patents of inventions, and legal and other advice rendered in all matters touching the same. Copies of the claims of any patent furnished, by remitting one dollar. Assignments recorded in Washington.

No Agency in the United States possesses superior facilities for obtaining Patents or ascertaining the patentability of inventions.

All necessity of a journey to Washington to procure a Patent and the usual great delay there, are here saved inventors.

TESTIMONIALS.

"I regard Mr. Eddy as one of the most capable and successful practioners with whom I have had official intercourse. CHARLES MASON, Commissioner of Patents."

"I have no hesitation in assuring inventors that they cannot employ a man more competent and trustworthy and more capable of putting their applications in a form to secure for them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office.
EDMUND BURKE,
Late Commissioner of Patents."

"MR. R. H. EDDY has made for me over THIRTY applications for Patents, having been successful in almost every case. Such unmistakable proof of great talent and ability on his part leads me to recommend all inventors to apply to him to procure their Patents, as they may be sure of having the most faithful attention bestowed on their cases, and at very reasonable charges.
JOHN TAGGART."

Morning Chronicle.

"Cast-out City" is a Kansas town.

The slant-eyed Chinaman can discount the Yankee on ingenuity. What Yankee would ever have thought of protecting small birds from their persecutors by tying whistles to their tails. But this plan has been in operation in the Flowery kingdom for a thousand years. Doves are numerous there, but they were so preyed upon by the vultures that a tin whistle was placed upon the tails of many of them which makes a shrieking noise when the bird passes through the air and the vultures are frightened by this.

"Jottings," of the Portland Press, has a January thaw under him.

They have got an editor from Biddeford in the Maine Senate—and don't know what to do with him.

Western women think that people are growing over fussy now-a-day. If a man die and two or three grains of strychnine, or half a pound of arsenic, or an ounce or so of antimony be found in his stomach, his poor wife has to go off to prison, and go through a trial, and see her name in the newspapers and be acquitted, and neglect her sewing until she hasn't a thing fit to wear.

Two young Portland "bloods" driving a horse at a fast pace, came near running over a lady. A gentleman passing hit the horse over the nose with his cane and stopped him. He then cheerfully invited the occupants of the sleigh to step out and have a head put on them without money and without price. They declined.

A school girl in one of the rural districts was overheard trying to convince a schoolfellow that she liked him better than she did some other urchin of whom he seemed jealous. "Of course I like you better than I do Bill," said she, "for don't I miss words in my spelling lesson on purpose, so as to be down to the foot of the class where you are!"

There are 70,000 men in Chicago who "lunch down town" every day. The restaurant business pays.

He has a remarkably complete stock in the department

Gents' Furnishing Goods.

Comprising Drawers, Shirts, Bosoms and Collars; Buck, Kid, Silk, Lisle Thread and Woolen GLOVES; Pocket and Neck Handkerchiefs, Neck Stocks and Scarfs, Suspenders, &c.

Every article is made faithfully, of the best materials.

SPERM, WAX & PARAFFINE CANDLES.

50 BOXES Sperm, Wax and Paraffine Candles. For Sale by BUTLER & LAIGHTON, No. 1 Market Square.

"WELL

Old Wheezy, what's the matter with you and why are you muffled up so?"

"Wretched cold! Can't speak aloud. My throat's so sore and lungs so oppressed it pains me to talk."

"Now, Old Boy, I was in the same predicament and have been wonderfully cured. Met a friend who urged me to take

PULMOCINE CORDIAL

For the Throat and Lungs.

Bought a bottle at the

on Market Street. Now I'm going to tell you the truth. The bottles are small and sell at only

50

Cents each, but the

PULMOCINE CORDIAL

is powerful. A half bottle completely cured me; a single dose

RELIEVED MY THROAT INSTANTANEOUSLY.

—THE—

PULMOCINE CORDIAL

Is a condensed cure-all. Try it—and take off that muffler."

"I WILL."

PRESENTS.

—AT—

19 Market Street, ALFRED STAVERS.

1872 FALL TRADE 1872

THE subscribers have on hand, and are now receiving a heavy stock of

SEASONABLE GOODS.

We have on hand the following list of

COOK STOVES:

THE UNEQUALLED

ARLINGTON COOK.

We invite all those in want of the VERY BEST COOK STOVE to examine this before purchasing, as we believe it to be far superior to any other stove in the market, the castings being heavier, and the oven larger than usual, and the sifter so arranged that the coals can be separated from the ashes without removing them from the stove.

Barstow's Union Portable Range,

WITH HOT CLOSET.

LATEST IMPROVEMENT.

This New Hot Closet Range combines all the conveniences of an Extension Top Cooking Stove, or brick set Range; while it costs less, and requires less space than either. Particular attention is invited to the beautiful exterior of the Range, and the superior quality of its castings; it is the handsomest and best Portable Range in the Market.

The Sample Cook,

For Wood or Coal,

(Over Two Hundred in use in Portsmouth.)

—ALSO—

The Peerless,
Eaton Cook,
Sheridan,
Union Cook,
Norman Range,
Rival, Model Cook,
Farmer's Cook,
White Mountain, &c., &c.,

PARLOR & OFFICE STOVES

We have constantly on hand a good assortment of OFFICE & PARLOR STOVES, among which are the following: The new PEERLESS PARLOR, admitted by all who have seen it to be the handsomest Parlor Stove in the Market. Being perfectly air tight, it needs no ventilating box or opening in the back of the stove, but the fire is easily managed by the front draft. It is a very economical Coal burner and will keep fire throughout the season without going out. The GEN. GRANT is a very neat Parlor Stove, at a much lower price than the Peerless. We sold a large number last season and they gave entire satisfaction.

PLEASANT PARLOR COOK:

A new and desirable pattern for wood or coal,

ELEGANT AIR-TIGHT STOVES,

With extra large Doors and Movable Tops, to admit large wood; also, with an oven opening in top or side.

CYLINDER AND BOX STOVES,

All Sizes. Also, a good assortment of SECOND HAND COOK and PARLOR STOVES in thorough repair.

FURNACES,

BRICK & PORTABLE.

Agents for the Celebrated

Barstow Dome Furnace.

This Furnace has proved itself to be the most durable and economical heater in the market, of which over one hundred are now in use in this city. The increasing demand for these Furnaces proves them to be the best Furnace in the market.

Marble Mantles, Parlor Grates, Ventilators, Registers, Patent Coal Sifters, Hods, Pokers, Shovels, &c.

House Furnishing Goods

We have as complete an assortment of HOUSE FURNISHING GOODS as were ever offered for sale in this city.

POCKET & TABLE CUTLERY, GLASS & PLATED WARE,
ROGERS BROS' SPOONS & FORKS;
TIN, WOODEN, JAP'D & TOILET WARE.

TUCKER'S BRONZED GOODS

CHANDLIERS, ENTRY & BRACKET LAMPS, & LAMP FITTINGS OF EVERY DESCRIPTION, SHELF BRACKETS, &C.

A large and extensive assortment of

REPAIR PIECES,

For most of the Stoves and Furnaces in use. No time should be lost in putting in order heating apparatus for the approaching winter.

Prompt attention given to all work in this line.

CLEAR YOUR THROAT!
Relieve Your Lungs.
For the terrible diseases engendered by the lung-trying climate of New England,
Pulmocine Cordial
Is a speedy and reliable Preventive and Remedy. EVERY FAMILY should have a bottle at hand to check the sudden growth of all Pulmonary Diseases. For the Asthma, Coughs, Croups, Laryngitis, or inflammation of the larynx, Diphtheria, and all kindred THROAT DISEASES at all times prevalent, it is the ounce of PREVENTION. Children attacked with Whooping Cough or Croup should be immediately cared for. These painful attacks come with scarcely a moment's warning, when a physician may be out of immediate reach. A dose of PULMOCINE CORDIAL gives speedy relief, and the little ones are spared hours of pain and agony. As "a stitch in time saves nine," so does the possession of this FAMILY MEDICINE prevent the spread of disease. Parents seeing their children gasping with pain, friends and relatives beholding each other in peril from suffocating by the choking pain in the throat, paralyzed with fear and not knowing the best course to pursue, are liable to apply the wrong remedial agents. There is no safety in delay, no time to waste in such cases. CONSUMPTION, that fearful scourge of the human race, lies at the door of all afflicted. BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL arrests it (unless in its advanced stage at which time there is no local cure) relieves the pressing suffocating feeling at the lungs, and the patient's danger is past.

BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL
is no new discovery. Twenty-three years ago it was used by one of New England's most famous physicians as the best PULMONARY CURATIVE he could prescribe, after a dozen years spent in experimenting with it before he was satisfied that the Materia Medica could add nothing in its favor.

Buchman's Pulmocine Cordial
Is the ultima thule of Medical Discovery.
Among its many ingredients are WILD CHERRY BARK, SQUILL ROOT, LIQUORICE ROOT, BLOOD ROOT, &c. It is a BLOOD PURIFIER, gently stimulating. It increases expectoration and is diuretic. It is sudorific and alterative. It is a necessary family medicine. It is a Tonic, and a powerful aid to the digestive organs. It is a gentle sedative, and relieves nervousness. It is aromatic and agreeable to the taste.

For Coughs,
Croup,
Diphtheria,
Asthma, &c.
USE BUCHMAN'S
PULMOCINE CORDIAL.
The Pulmocine Cordial is not a quack medicine, is not an experiment, is not composed of any ingredients "discovered" by "walking in pastures" in South America, or anywhere else, nor by one who discovered a weed and thereby cured himself. Most of the ingredients are such as our best educated physicians daily use for the complaints specified, in some form or other. The recipe is that perfected by one of New England's most learned and famous physicians, who used it entirely in his daily practice until his death. It is offered to the profession and to the public, absolutely pure and unadulterated.

The Singer
SEWING MACHINE
STILL LEADS THE MARKET.
The Success of the Company is far beyond that of any other similar concern; the Daily Manufacture
—OF—
400 OF THE SINGERS
Failing to Supply the Constant Demand.
All other machines call the public attention to some new loop or stitch or tension or finish, some advantage in running or needles or feed or prices—and many of these are so we have said very good points, and the agents selling them use them to divert entirely the would-be purchaser from fairly considering the facts in the case; but the
SINGER
seems to unite the good qualities of all, and is never found wanting.
THE SINGER
IS THE OLDEST
SEWING MACHINE
IN THE MARKET,
All others being copied from its first model, does two-thirds the sewing done in this country and preserves its advantages over all others combined.
It is readily kept clean, and has THE BEST TENSION EVER INVENTED; it is higher speeded and requires but little power to run; it works equally well upon the finest and heaviest goods; it does all the varieties of work known to the art.
N. B. Those purchasing for cash, before the 1 of January next, will have a consideration allowed them.

$1000 REWARD.
BRIGGS' ALLEVANTOR is composed of Ammonia, Chloroform, Spirits of Camphor, Tincture of Lupulino, Oil of Juniper, and Alcohol. This compound is unequalled in the annals of medicine for the cure of Nervous or Sick Headache, Neuralgia, Trembling or Twitching of the Nerves, and all Nervous Diseases. It will counteract all poisons, banish pimples, cure scaly eruptions, itching, humming, &c.; it equalizes the circulation, invigorates the system, increases the action of the heart, without exciting the brain, cures Heartburn, Palpitation and Fluttering of the Heart, Dyspepsia, &c. Briggs' Allevantor absolutely possesses more curative properties than any other preparation. Physicians, chemists, and others are requested to examine and test the remedy, and $1000 will be paid if found different from representation.
COUGHS. Much has been said and written, and many remedies have been offered for the relief and cure of throat and lung diseases; but nothing has been so universally successful, or obtained such a wide celebrity, as Briggs' Throat and Lung Healer.
CORNS! The excruciating pain produced by Corns, the unceasing twinging from Bunions, the piercing, distressing pain from Ingrowing Nails, cannot be described. Thousands suffer, not knowing there is a cure. Briggs' Corn and Bunion Remedies are no acid or potash compounds, but are reliable, soothing, and effectual, and just merit the success they have earned from an appreciative public. The Curative is a healing ointment; immediate relief is obtained by its application, and it will positively cure the worst cases of Festered Corns, Inflamed and Ulcerated Bunions, the severest Instep, the largest and severest Blisters, the most extensive Callosities on the soles or heels of the feet, unequalled in the cure of Chilblains or Frosted Feet. The Allevantor for ordinary corns and preventing their formation is absolutely unexcelled by anything ever known.
PILES have been a terror to mankind for centuries, and almost every attempt to cure them has been baffled. By unceasing study and experimenting, Dr. Briggs has discovered an absolutely cure for internal, bleeding, external, and itching piles. Briggs' Pile Remedies are mild, safe and sure.
For sale by J. H. THACHER, WM. R. PRESTON, Portsmouth; JAMES O. TREFETHEN, Kittery; E. S. SAFFORD, Kittery Point; H. M. CURTIS, Newcastle, and dealers generally.

BISHOP POTTS OF UTAH.

Bishops Potts of Salt Lake City was the husband of three wives and the happy father of fifteen interesting children. Early in the winter the bishop determined that his little ones should have a good time on Christmas, so he concluded to take a trip down to San Francisco to see what he could find in the shape of toys with which to gratify and amuse them. The good bishop packed his carpet-bag, embraced Mr. Potts one by one and kissed each of her affectionately, and started upon his journey.

He was gone a little more than a week, when he came back with fifteen beautiful mouth-organs in his valise for his darlings. He got out of the train at Salt Lake, thinking how joyous and exhilarating it would be on Christmas morning when the whole fifteen of those mouth-organs should be in operation upon fifteen different tunes at the same moment. But just as he entered the depot he saw a group of women standing in the ladies' room apparently waiting for him., As soon as he approached, the whole twenty of them rushed up, threw their arms about his neck and kissed him, exclaiming—

"Oh, Theodore, we are so—so glad you have come back! Welcome home! Welcome, dear, dear Theodore! Welcome once more to the bosom of your family!" and the entire score of them fell upon his neck and cried over his shirt front and mussed him.

The bishop seemed surprised and embarrassed. Struggling to disengage himself, he blushed and said:

"Really, ladies, this kind of thing is well enough—it is interesting and all that; but there must be some kind of a—that is, an awkard sort of a—excuse me, ladies, but there seems to be, as it were, a slight misunderstanding about the—I am Bishop Potts."

"We know it, we know it, dearest," they exclaimed in chorus, "and we are so glad to see you safe, safe at home. We have all been right well while you were away, love."

"It gratifies me," remarked the bishop, "to learn that none of you have been a prey to disease. I am filled with blisful serenity when I contemplate the fact; but really I do not understand why you should rush into this railway station and hug me because your livers are active and your digestion good. The precedent is bad; it is dangerous."

"Oh, but we didn't!" they exclaimed in chorus. "We came here to welcome you because you are our husband."

"Pardon me, but there must be some little—that is to say, as it were, I should think not. Women, you have mistaken your man!"

"Oh no, dearest!" they shouted, "we were married to you while you were away!"

"What!" exclaimed the Bishop, "you don't mean to say that—"

"Yes, love. Our husband, William Brown, died on Monday, and Thursday Brigham had a vision in which he was directed to seal us to you; and so he performed the ceremony at once by proxy."

"Th-th-th-th-under!" observed the bishop, in a general sort of a way.

"And, darling, we are all living with you—we and the dear children."

"Children! children!" exclaimed Bishop Potts, turning pale, "you don't mean to say that there is a pack of children, too?"

"Yes, love, but only one hundred and twenty-five, not counting the eight twins and the triplet."

"Wha-wha-wha-what d' you say?" gasped the bishop, in a cold perspiration; "one hundred and twenty-five! One hundred and twenty-five children and twenty more wives! It is too much—it is awful!" and the bishop sat down and groaned, while the late Mrs. Brown, the bride, stood around in a semicircle, and fanned him with her bonnets, all except the red-haired one, and she in her trepidation made a futile effort to fan him with the coal-scuttle.

But after awhile the bishop became reconciled to his new alliance, knowing well that protests would be unavailing; so he walked home, holding as many of the little hands of the bride as he could conveniently grasp in his, while the red-haired woman carried his umbrella and marched in front of the parade to remove obstructions and to scare off small boys.

When the bishop reached the house, he went around among the cradles which filled the back parlor and the two second-story rooms, and attemped with such earnestness to become acquainted with his new sons and daughters that he set the whole one hundred and twenty-five and the twins to crying, while his own original fifteen stood around and joined in the chorus. Then the bishop went out and sat on the garden fence to whittle a stick and solemnly think, while Mrs. Potts distributed herself around in twenty-three places and soothed the children. It occurred to the bishop while he mused, out there on the fence, that he had not enough mouth-organs to go around among the children as the family now stood; and so, rather than seem to be partial, he determined to go back to San Francisco for one hundred and forty-four more.

So the bishop repacked his carpet-bag and began again to bid farewell to his family. He tenderly kissed all the Mrs. Potts who were at home and started for the depot, while Mrs. Potts stood at the various windows and waved her handkerchiefs at him—all except the woman with the warm hair, and she, in a fit of absentmindedness, held one of the twins by the leg and braindished it at Potts as he fled down the street.

The bishop reached San Francisco, completed his purchases, and was just about to get on the train with his one hundred and forty-four-mouth-organs, when a telegram was handed him. It contained information to the effect that the auburn-haired Mrs. Potts had just had a daughter. This induced the bishop to return to the city for the purpose of purchasing an additional organ.

On the following Saturday he returned home. As he approached the house a swarm of young children flew out of the front gate and ran toward him, shouting, "There's pa! Here comes pa! Oh, pa, but we're glad to see you! Hurrah for pa!" etc., etc.

The bishop looked at the children as they flocked around him and clung to his legs and coat, and was astonished to see that they were neither his nor the late Brown's. He said: "You youngsters have made a mistake; I am not your father;" and the bishop smiled good naturedly.

"Oh, yes, you are though!" screamed the little ones in chorus.

"But I say I am not," said the bishop, severely, and frowning; "you ought to be ashamed of yourselves. Don't you know where little story-tellers go? It is scandalous for you to violate the truth in this manner. My name is Potts."

"Yes, we know it is, "exclaimed the children—"we know it is; and so is ours; that is our name now, too, since the wedding."

"Since what wedding?" demanded the bishop, turning pale.

"Why, ma's wedding, of course. She was married yesterday to you by Mr. Young, and we are all living at your house now with our new little brothers and sisters."

The bishop sat down on the pavement and wiped away a tear. Then he asked—

"Who was your father?"

"Mr. Simpson," said the crowd, "and he died on Tuesday."

"And how many of his infernal widows—I mean how many of your mother are there?"

"Only twenty-seven," replied the children, "and there are only sixty-four of us, and we are awful glad you have come home."

The bishop did not seem to be unusually glad; somehow he failed to enter into the enthusiasm of the occasion. There appeared to be, in a certain sense, too much sameness about these surprises, so he sat there with his hat pulled over his eyes and considered the situation. Finally, seeing there was no help for it, he went to the house, and forty-eight of Mrs. Potts rushed up to him and kissed him, and told him how the prophet had had another vision, in which he was commanded to seal Simpson's widow to Potts.

Then the bishop stumbled around among the cradles to his writing-desk, where he felt among the gum rings and rattles for his letter-paper, and then addressed a note to Brigham, asking him as a personal favor to keep awake until after Christmas. "The man must take me for a foundling hospital," he said. Then the bishop saw clearly enough that if he gave presents to the other children and not to the late Simpson's, the bride (relict of Simpson) would probably souse down on him, fumble among his hair and make things warm for him. So, repacking his carpet-bag, he started again for San Francisco for sixty-four more mouth-organs, while Mrs. Potts gradually took leave of him in the entry—all but the red-haired woman, who was up stairs, and who had to be satisfied with screeching good-bye at the top of her voice.

On his way home, after his last visit to San Francisco, the bishop sat in the car by the side of a man who had left Salt Lake the day before. The stranger was communicative. In the course of the conversation he remarked to the bishop: "That was a mighty pretty little affair up there at the city on Monday."

"What affair?" asked Potts.

"Why, that wedding; McGrath's widow, you know—married by proxy."

"You don't say," replied the bishop.

"I didn't know that McGrath was dead."

"Yes; died on Sunday, and that night Brigham had a vision in which he was ordered to seal her to the bishop."

"Bishop!" exclaimed Potts. "Bishop! What bisoop?"

"Well, you see there were fifteen of Mrs. McGrath and eighty-two children, and they shoved the whole lot off on old Potts. Perhaps you don't know him?"

The bishop gave a wild, unearthly shriek and went into a hysterical fit, and writhed upon the floor as if he had hydrophobia. When he recovered, he leaped from the train and walked back to San Francisco. He afterward took the first steamer to Peru, where he entered a monastery and became a celibate.

His carpet-bag was sent to his family. It contained the balance of the mouth-organs. On Christmas morning they were distributed, and in less than an hour the entire two hundred and eight children were sick from sucking the paint off of them. A doctor was called, and he seemed so much interested in the family that Brigham divorced the whole concern from old Petts and annex d it to the doctor, who immediately lost his reason and would have butchered the entire family if the red-haired woman and the oldest boy had not marched him off to a lunatic asylum where he spent his time trying to arrive at an estimate of the number of his children by ciphering with an impossible combination of the multiplication table and algebra.—Max Adeler.

Total	3,592,934	2,833,847	33,773	759,137R

Grant's total 759,137 plurality over Greeley; 72,456 majority over all.

The vote for President in 1868 stood as follows:

For Grant and Colfax	3,012,188
For Seymour and Blair	2,703,600
Grant's majority	309,588

In 1868 Mississippi, Texas, and Virginia did not participate in the election, and in Florida the Presidential electors were selected by the Legislature. Deducting the vote of these four States in 1872 from the total, we find that Grant received 3,352,454 votes in the States which took part in the election of 1868, his increase being 339,266 votes in these States, and 579,796 in the whole country. The Greeley ticket in 1872 polled 2,613,208 votes in the States which voted in 1868, showing a decrease in these States of 90,392 votes, and in the whole country a decrease of 130 247 votes.

The thirty-one States in which the Grant ticket received majorities cast the following electoral votes for Grant and Wilson:

Alabama	10
Arkansas	5
California	6
Connecticut	6
Delaware	3
Florida	4
Illinois	21
Indiana	13
Iowa	11
Kansas	5
Louisiana	7
Maine	7
Massachusetts	13
Michigan	11
Minnesota	5
Mississippi	7
Nebraska	3
Nevada	3
New Hampshire	5
New Jersey	9
New York	35
North Carolina	10
Ohio	22
Oregon	3
Pennsylvania	29
Rhode Island	4
South Carolina	7
Vermont	5
Virginia	11
West Virginia	5
Wisconsin	10
Total electoral vote	309

The death of Mr. Greeley caused the electors of the States which gave a majority for him to scatter their votes for President in the following fashion:

For Horace Greeley, of New York:

Georgia	3

For B. Gratz Brown, of Missouri:

Georgia	6
Kentucky	6
Missouri	8
Total	18

For Thomas A. Hendricks, of Indiana:

Kentucky	8
Maryland	8
Missouri	8
Tennessee	12
Texas	8
Total	42

For Charles J. Jenkins, of Georgia:

Georgia	2

For David Davis, of Illinois:

Missouri	1

The opposition electoral vote for Vice President was distributed as follows:

For B. Gratz Brown, of Missouri—

Georgia	5
Kentucky	8
Maryland	8
Missouri	6
Tennessee	12
Texas	8
Total	47

For Nathaniel P. Banks, of Massachusetts—

Georgia	1

For George W. Julian, of Indiana—

Missouri	5

For Alex. H. Colquit, of Georgia—

Georgia	5

For John M. Palmer, of Illinois—

Missouri	3

For Thomas E. Bramlette, of Kentucky

Kentucky	3

For Wm. S. Groesbeck, of Ohio—

Missouri	1

For Willis B. Machen, of Kentucky—

Kentucky	1

In Louisiana the two opposing sets of electors claim to have been elected, the Grant electors by the vote given above, and the Greeley electors by a vote of 66,267 against 58,252—a majority of 8,015 for Greeley. The Greeley electors accordingly held a meeting and forwarded their vote to Washington. Their vote for President was blank, and for Vice President 8 for B. Gratz Brown. It will devolve upon Congress in joint session to decide which is the true vote of the State, but there is no doubt that the Grant vote will be accepted.

By Lightning.

The average number of electrical impulses it takes to make a letter is four. Consequently, four ticks or strokes of the Morse instrument go to the representation of an alphabetical character. Even with this slow and clumsy way of transmitting speech, the wire will send news on as fast as a good writer can note it down upon manifold paper. To make electricity thus instantly speak out the thoughts of men, hundreds and even thousands of miles away, over sandy wastes, lofty and barren mountain ridges, and through the depths of the ocean, was a great and marvelous triumph of intellect over matter. No philosopher, however, regarded that as the ultimate result of human effort in that direction. The possibility of the future would be considered madness to the people of the past, not only in telegraphing but in printing. The Walter press runs off rolls of paper at the rate of ten or twelve miles per hour printing, cutting, counting and folding the sheets, delivering them at the other side faster than any tongue can count. We shall see rolls of paper thus run off and printed by telegraph, if we are lucky enough to live another quarter of a century.

What has long been desired and anxiously sought, has at last been found—that is, a printing telegraph of easy practical operation. It will print by telegraph, four times as fast as the Morse system can transmit messages. The new instrument when adapted to four lines of wire can take the President's messags and deliver it printed, in San Francisco in half an hour! The invention belongs to Captain Lindsey, of Jackson. His operating model upon which the patent was issued is now in the Patent Office at Washington. What think you of a system of keys arranged in horizontal lines before the operators much in the same style that the keys of a piano are arranged before the player, each key representing a letter upon which the expert telegraphist plays, producing, not sweet sounds, but printed sheets three thousand miles away? Captain Lindsey has succeeded in producing a revolution in telegraphy. His invention makes every printer at once the most expert of operators. His system of keys may be arranged after the mode of a printer's case, in which the letters are arranged according to their importance, those most commonly used being more convenient to the hand of the artist, and those least used being more remote.

The invention, in fact, admits of the production of a counterpart of the printer's case. The types not being liable to run out, and the operator never having to complain of "want of sorts," one character of each kind being sufficient to last an age. The operator can touch those characters as fast as he may, and a corresponding impression is made upon the rapidly uncoiling slips of paper at the other end of the line. A rapid printer can "distribute" nearly a column of type in an hour, consequently he could operate on the new instrument that fast, and even faster, or with the telegraphic instrument he would have no "spaces" to deal with, and very few other marks. It will be quite plain to every printer and newspaper man that when the alphabet is arranged in the order named, and has merely to be touched to make a mark at "the other end of the line," there can hardly be a limit to the quantity of matter which may be transmitted, and the rapidity will be determined by the expertness of the operator.

When the message is received there will be no difficulty, for it comes automatically forth on a printed slip, which uncoils itself from a roller, and when cut into lengths and pasted across a page of paper will read

The Printing telegraph is a great success. We can send twenty thousand words per hour, printed on slips.

The coil of blank paper, upon which the characters are impressed, is arranged in such manner that it will uncoil just as fast as the impressions are made by the letters. This wonderful instrument was tested between Jackson and New Orleans, a circuit having been established at the latter place. The message was sent from Jackson, Tennessee, and after passing around New Orleans was instantly received back right by the side of the operator from the printed scroll, which was rapidly unrolled before their eyes as quickly as if he had spoken in their ear, and this after the words had passed over eight hundred miles of varied territory, over towns, rivers, swamps, lakes, through woods, and dozens of offices, past quiet stations on the railroad, circled through the densely peopled sleeping city of New Orleans, and back again to the very spot where the intelligent impulse was given to the electricity, and faithfully delivered the message on the other side of the table in rapidly printed fillets similar to the above. Who can say what may be done next by this powerful agent of man?—Memphis Appeal.

OWING to many circumstances, but particularly to the bad weather, the late Fair given by Stover Encampment was not a success; but the members of the Post are not ungrateful to those who endeavored to make it both entertaining and pecuniarily successful. The thanks of the Post are especially due to those ladies who continued to work when it had become evident that it was in a fiolora hope. R. E. RICH.

IRON in the BLOOD.

DYSPEPSIA, DEBILITY, DROPSY, HUMORS,

PERUVIAN SYRUP

Makes the Weak Strong.

The Peruvian Syrup, a Protected Solution of the Protoxide of Iron, is so combined as to have the character of an aliment, as easily digested, and assimilated with the blood as the simplest food. It increases the quantity of Nature's Own Vitalizing Agent, Iron in the blood, and cures "a thousand ill," simply by Toning up, Invigorating and Vitalizing the System. The enriched and vitalized blood permeates every part of the body, repairing damaged and waste, searching out morbid secretions, and leaving nothing for disease to feed upon.

This is the secret of the wonderful success of this remedy in curing Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, Dropsy, Chronic Diarrhœa, Boils, Nervous Affections, Chills and Fevers, Humors, Loss of Constitutional Vigor, Diseases of the Kidneys and Bladder, Female Complaints, and all diseases originating in a bad state of the blood, or accompanied by debility or a low system. Being free from Alcohol, in any form, its energizing effects are not followed by corresponding reaction, but are permanent, infusing strength, vigor, and new life into all parts of the system, and building up an Iron Constitution.

Thousands have been changed by the use of this remedy, from weak, sickly, suffering creatures to strong, healthy, and happy men and women: and invalids cannot reasonably hesitate to give it a trial.

See that each bottle has PERUVIAN SYRUP blown in the glass.

LOCAL AFFAIRS.

To-Night.

Harry Bloodgood, Walters and Morton, and a company from the Howard Atheneum give one performance at the Temple this evening, with the illustrated mirror of the Boston fire. The programme is a good one. Bloodgood's name and fame is a household word all over the land, and with the announcement that "he has got to come," a full house is assured. 'Twas ever thus.'

G. A. R.

At a meeting of Storer Encampment, G. A. R., held Dec. 31, the following comrades were chosen officers for 1873; Commander, Robert E. Rich; Senior Vice Comd'r. B. Dearborn; Junior Vice Commander, Thos. S. White; Adjutant, J. N. Jones; Quartermaster, D. J. Vaughan; Chaplain, John H. Locke; Surgeon, N. B. Colman; Officer of the Day, F. F. Sanborn; Officer of the Guard, John Moore.

Dangerous Boating.

On Sunday evening, Messrs. Joseph Locke and William Philbrick, while coming around to this city from Rye in a small wherry, were driven by the gale upon the ice in Little Harbor, their boat upset and themselves spilled into the water. Mr. Locke succeeded in getting a footing upon the broken ice, helped his mate out, and the two after much trouble succeeded in righting the boat,—only to be emptied out again, the wind and sea tossing the ice about and rolling the boat over two or three times. The ice, though heavy enough to capsize the boat and too heavy for the boat to be pulled through, was not heavy enough for the men to safely stand upon; but after great exertions and being half drowned and frozen, they succeeded in getting the wherry upon the ice, and by sliding her a few feet at a time and partially supporting themselves by her gunwales as they stood on the ice, they managed to work their way up the harbor until their shouts for assistance were heard by Mrs. Christopher Marshall, who immediately aroused her neighbors. Messrs. Horace Spinney, Rienzi Rand and a Mr. Clark at once put off to the rescue, and after many attempts succeeded in getting a line to the castaways, who fastened it to their boat and by hard rowing on the part of the rescuers were at length safely landed. The escape of Messrs. Locke and Philbrick was almost miraculous, and only the utmost skill and coolness on their part and the praiseworthy perseverance and courage of the gentlemen who went to their assistance saved their lives.

Vessel Sunk.

The fishing schooner Addison Gilbert, Captain Jameson, was run down and sunk at about half-past 1 o'clock, Tuesday morning, a quarter of a mile inside of Whale's Back, by the sloop M. M. Hamilton of Portland, the schooner being bound out at the time of the collision, and the sloop inward bound with a cargo of railroad iron. Capt. Jameson states that after getting well down the river, setting the usual watch off Fort Point and taking all other customary precautions, he went below for a rest, and in about ten minutes was called to by the man at the wheel, who said a vessel was bearing down on the schooner. Capt. Jameson promptly ordered the helm "hard down" (which was hard to port), but the sloop luffing at the same time struck the schooner abreast the main chains, causing her to sink in about ten minutes. The schooner's crew lost all their effects, some of them having enough to do to save themselves; they say that Capt. Jameson did all that could be done to avoid the collision, and that they think the sloop was keeping no lookout at the time,—this, however, the courts will probably decide. The Addison Gilbert was owned by Messrs. David Lowe & Co., of Gloucester, and was valued at $5000. She was insured. She seems to have had rather hard luck in the collision line, having been run into and somewhat damaged by a steamer, while lying at a wharf, some months ago.

The Wrecked Steamer.

The British steamer Sir Francis still lies about two-thirds of her length on Breaking Rock ledge, a reef of rocks lying off Salisbury beach, about two miles from Newburyport bar. The total number of persons on board—officers, crew and one passenger—was thirty-one. The Sir Francis is valued at £38,000 and her cargo at £120,000; the captain is John Whiting, who had made forty voyages across the Atlantic and has been a shipmaster for eighteen years. The cargo is partially insured in Boston and the ship is insured in England. A part of the cargo consisted of machinery for the ocean mills.

The two fishing steamers from this port, and a lighter, saved cargoes of wool from the wreck, Sunday, and took it to Rockport. The wrecking crew from Boston also saved several lighter loads.

Laconics.

Mrs. Anderson, who is reported as expecting to recover from small-pox at Wood Island, by an evening contemporary, desires us to say that she was not aware before that she had been suffering from an attack of that loathsome disease. She has been up to the city for a week, the hospital having been cleansed several weeks ago, after the death of the sailor from the "Sabine." Mrs. Anderson did not have the care of the sick man and did not enter the hospital, only cooking for the inmates and placing the food where they could get it.

The Music School now being held in the Methodist chapel on Daniel Street, every Wednesday and Saturday afternoon, is evidently accomplishing great good. Old and young are being thoroughly instructed in sight reading and with the advantages of Prof. Sweet's new system all are enabled to read music in one term. About one hundred and fifty scholars now compose the school. Only 50 cents a month. Just think of it! Don't forget this afternoon.

In Memoriam.

At a special meeting of Dearborn S. F. E. Co., No. 1, held on Friday, Jan. 3, 1873, the following resolutions were adopted:

Whereas, It has pleased Divine Providence to call from our midst our dearly beloved comrade and brother fireman, Sylvester Gilbert, Jr., after a short sickness; and whereas, by his death we are called upon to mourn the loss of a noble and generous heart, a true friend and faithful fireman, one whose duty was his pride and who to-day has answered his last alarm, Therefore—

Resolved, That while we feel deeply the loss we are called upon to bear in parting from one for whom we have always cherished the warmest feelings of friendship and respect, and while we shall continue to feel that loss greatly, we can but bow in humble submission to that Divine power which sitteth upon the throne on high and whisper fervently these words—"Thy will be done."

Resolved, That we extend to the parents, brothers and sisters of the deceased, our heartfelt sympathy in this their hour of bereavement, and while we stand around the casket wherein lies his lifeless form and gaze with tearful eye upon the brow so calm and peaceful in the long, last sleep of death, we will whisper the hope that his memory may be kept forever green, that the summer breezes may gently blow, the tender blossoms bloom, and the summer rains softly fall upon the sod which lies upon the breast of our late clerk, Sylvester Gilbert, Jr.

Tread lightly, comrades, we have laid
His dark locks on his brow
Like life—save deeper light and shade—
We'll not disturb them now.
Tread lightly, for 'tis beautiful
That blue-veined eyelids sleep,
Hiding the eye death left so dull,
It's slumbers we will keep.

Resolved, That the engine house be draped in mourning for a period of 14 days, and that the company attend the funeral in a body.

Two Fires.

The alarm of fire shortly before 9 o'clock, Tuesday evening, was occasioned by the burning of a shed attached to the barn of Mr. Silas Philbrick, at the foot of State Street. The shed was partially destroyed by fire and was finished by the Hook and Ladder Company. Mr. Thomas Sheehan, while ascending a ladder, fell with it on the ruins and broke his left leg between the knee and ankle. At the same time, two men were shovelling snow on the roof of the shed from another and adjoining shed, as the roof fell; one went head first with it, but was saved from plunging into the fire by his companion, who caught him by the leg as he was disappearing in the smoke. Mr. Philbrick's loss is several hundred dollars.

Shortly before 12 o'clock a locomotive at the depot hooted out a second alarm, which proved to be from the burning of Jackson's second-hand clothing store on the corner of Langdon and McDonough streets, which was entirely consumed. The fire-extinguishers were promptly on hand and did good service in preventing the spread of the flames, and undoubtedly saved the Sheldon house; but though they may be said to have paid for themselves in preventing further loss on this single occasion, we could not see any appreciable effect in the shape of subduing the fire when their streams were directed upon the burning building, though a stream of water from one of the steamers put out the fire and knocked over what was left of the building, in a few minutes after it was brought to bear upon it. Notwithstanding the derision and contumely so generously heaped upon the "double-barrelled squirt-guns," their performance at this fire shows that they are really valuable machines. The building destroyed belonged to the Sheldon estate; the loss is estimated at $1500, with a small insurance.

The alarms at both fires were given by watchmen; the Hook & Ladder men did excellent service at both places, the fires were well managed and the firemen worked like beavers.

Morning Chronicle.

"ALL RIGHTEE."—The Vallejo Independent tells the following good story:

A laughable incident occurred one evening, recently, on the up train to Sacramento. There were two seats in the car turned so as to face each other. One was occupied by a lady and the other by a Chinaman. Evidently the lady did not relish the presence of the Chinaman, and set her wits to work to oust him out. She succeeded about as follows:

Motioning the Chinaman to rise, she explained to him that she wanted to take the cushions and their frames, and place them lengthwise across from seat to seat. John said "all righteo," and got out in the aisle while she placed the seats as above described, and then proceeded to lie down on the bed thus improvised, with her head resting on her valise.

She supposed that the Chinaman would at once take the hint that the lady wanted to take a little rest, in the space usually occupied by four persons. But John hadn't heard of the woman's rights movement, and at once proceeded to crawl in and stretch himself by her side, with his head on a little bundle of his own. The Chinese are an imitative race, and like to do as others do, you know.

The lady, as soon as she discovered that she had a bedfellow, got up a little wildly, and started for the next car, to the infinite amusement of the passengers, who had been watching the little scene with some interest. John took no notice of the fun he had created, but went to sleep with the whole bed to himself.

—"Why is it," asks a West Waterville (Maine) paper, "that this village, the centre of a population of 5000 inhabitants, has not a single fire-engine?" We presume it is because when the people there are running to a fire they haven't got time to stop and buy an engine, and when there is no fire to run to they have no use for one.—Louisville Courier-Journal.

HAVING THIRTY YEARS TO RUN.
Bearing interest at 7 per cent. in Gold Coin, "of or equal to the present standard."
Coupons payable in New York, London, or Frankfort on the Main, at the option of the holder. When desired, bonds will be registered by the Trustee—the Farmers' Loan and Trust Co. Interest payable January and July.
This road is now completed from Jacksonville to a junction with the CHICAGO & ALTON R. R. at Virden, a distance of over 30 miles. The road, so far as completed, is thoroughly equipped, ENTIRELY PAID FOR and in full operation, and is upon the completed portion only, that bonds amounting to $600,000 are now offered at 85 and accrued interest in currency. Bonds upon the remaining portion of the road will be sold at a much higher price and will be offered only upon completed road. This road traverses the garden of the State, crosses all the most important roads, controls the enormous coal mines at Virden, and its bonds are most highly esteemed by those whose investigation has been most searching. We have personally examined every detail of this Company, and have gone repeatedly over the entire line. We are consequently enabled to recommend these bonds as an absolutely perfect security.

AMERICAN & FOREIGN PATENTS.
R. H. EDDY, SOLICITOR OF PATENTS,
For Inventions, Trade Marks or Designs,
No. 76 STATE ST., OPPOSITE KILBY ST., BOSTON,
After an extensive practice of upwards of thirty years, continues to secure patents in the United States; also in Great Britain, France and other foreign countries. Caveats, Specifications, Assignments, and all papers for Patents, executed on reasonable terms with dispatch. Researches made to determine the validity and utility of Patents of inventions, and legal and other advice rendered in all matters touching the same. Copies of the claims of any patent furnished, by remitting one dollar. Assignments recorded in Washington.
No Agency in the United States possesses superior facilities for obtaining Patents or ascertaining the patentability of inventions.
All necessity of a journey to Washington to procure a Patent and the usual great delay there, are here saved inventors.
TESTIMONIALS.
"I regard Mr. Eddy as one of the most capable and successful practitioners with whom I have had official intercourse. CHARLES MASON, Commissioner of Patents."
"I have no hesitation in assuring inventors that they cannot employ a man more competent and trustworthy and more capable of putting their applications in a form to secure for them as early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office. EDMUND BURKE, Late Commissioner of Patents."
"MR. R. H. EDDY has made for me over THIRTY applications for Patents, having been successful in almost every case. Such unmistakable proof of great talent and ability on his part leads me to recommend ALL inventors to apply to him to procure their Patents, as they may be sure of having the most faithful attention bestowed on their cases, and at very reasonable charges. JOHN TAGGART."

THE subscribers have on hand, and are now receiving a heavy stock of

SEASONABLE GOODS.

We have on hand the following list of

COOK STOVES:

THE UNEQUALLED

ARLINGTON COOK.

We invite all those in want of the VERY BEST COOK STOVE to examine this before purchasing, as we believe it to be far superior to any other stove in the market, the castings being heavier, and the oven larger than usual, and the sifter so arranged that the coals can be separated from the ashes without removing them from the stove.

Barstow's Union Portable Range,

WITH HOT CLOSET.

LATEST IMPROVEMENT.

This New Hot Closet Range combines all the conveniences of an Extension Top Cooking Stove, or brick set Range; while it costs less, and requires less space than either. Particular attention is invited to the beautiful exterior of the Range, and the superior quality of its castings; it is the handsomest and best Portable Range in the Market.

The Sample Cook,

For Wood or Coal,

(Over Two Hundred in use in Portsmouth.)

—ALSO—

The Peerless,
Eaton Cook,
Sheridan,
Union Cook,
Norman Range,
Rival, Model Cook,
Farmer's Cook,
White Mountain, &c., &c.,

PARLOR & OFFICE STOVES

We have constantly on hand a good assortment of OFFICE & PARLOR STOVES, among which are the following: The new PEERLESS PARLOR, admitted by all who have seen it to be the handsomest Parlor Stove in the Market. Being perfectly air tight, it needs no ventilating box or opening in the back of the stove, but the fire is easily managed by the front draft. It is a very economical Coal burner and will keep fire throughout the season without going out. The GEN. GRANT is a very neat Parlor Stove, at a much lower price than the Peerless. We sold a large number last season and they gave entire satisfaction.

PLEASANT PARLOR COOK!

A new and desirable pattern for wood or coal,

ELEGANT AIR-TIGHT STOVES,

With extra large Doors and Movable Tops, to admit large wood; also, with an oven opening in top of stove.

CYLINDER AND BOX STOVES,

CLEAR YOUR THROAT!
Relieve Your Lungs.
For the terrible diseases engendered by the lung-trying climate of New England,
Pulmocine Cordial
Is a speedy and reliable Preventive and Remedy. EVERY FAMILY should have a bottle at hand to check the sudden growth of all Pulmonary Diseases. For the Asthma, Coughs, Croups, Laryngitis, or inflammation of the larynx, Diphtheria, and all kindred THROAT DISEASES at all times prevalent, it is the Ocean of PREVENTION. Children attacked with Whooping Cough or Croup should be immediately cared for. These painful attacks come with scarcely a moment's warning, when a physician may be out of immediate reach. A dose of PULMOCINE CORDIAL gives speedy relief, and the little ones are spared hours of pain and agony. As "a stitch in time saves nine," so does the possession of this FAMILY MEDICINE prevent the spread of disease. Parents seeing their children gasping with pain, friends and relatives beholding each other in peril from suffocation by the choking pain in the throat, paralyzed with fear and not knowing the best course to pursue, are liable to apply the wrong remedial agents. There is no safety in delay, no time to waste in such cases. CONSUMPTION, that fearful scourge of the human race, lies at the door of all thus afflicted. BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL arrests it (unless in its advanced stage at which time there is no local cure) relieves the pressing, suffocating feeling at the lungs, and the patient's danger is past.
BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL is no new discovery. Twenty-three years ago it was used by one of New England's most famous physicians as the best PULMONARY CURATIVE he could prescribe, after a dozen years spent in experimenting with it before he was satisfied that the Materia Medica could add nothing to its favor.
Buchman's Pulmocine Cordial
Is the ultima thule of Medical Discovery.
Among its many ingredients are WILD CHERRY BARK, SQUILL ROOT, LIQUORICE ROOT, BLOOD ROOT, &c. It is a BLOOD PURIFIER, gently stimulating. It increases expectoration and is diuretic. It is sudorific and alterative. It is a necessary family medicine. It is a Tonic, and a powerful aid to the digestive organs. It is a gentle sedative, and relieves nervousness. It is aromatic and agreeable to the taste.
For Coughs, Croup, Diphtheria, Asthma, &c.
USE BUCHMAN'S
PULMOCINE CORDIAL.
The Pulmocine Cordial is not a quack medicine, is not an experiment, is not composed of any ingredients which are "condemned" by "eminent authorities" in South America or anywhere else, nor by one who discovered a weed and thereby cured himself. Most of the ingredients are such as our best educated physicians daily use for the complaints specified, in some form or other. The recipe is that perfected by one of New England's most learned and famous physicians, who used it entirely in his daily practice until his death. It is offered to the profession and to the public, absolutely pure and unadulterated.

BRIGGS' ALLEVANTOR is composed of Ammonia, Chloroform, Spirits of Camphor, Tincture of Lupuline, Oil of Juniper, and Alcohol. This compound is unequalled in the annals of medicine for the cure of Nervous or Sick Headache, Neuralgia, Trembling or Twitching of the Nerves, and all Nervous Diseases. It will counteract all poisons, banish pimples, cure scaly eruptions, Itching, humors, &c.; it equalizes the circulation, invigorates the system, increases the action of the heart, without exciting the brain, cures Heartburn, Palpitation and Fluttering of the Heart, Dyspepsia, &c. Briggs' Allevantor absolutely possesses more curative properties than any other preparation. Physicians, chemists, and others are requested to examine and test the remedy, and $1000 will be paid if found different from representation.
COUGHS. Much has been said and written, and many remedies have been offered for the relief and cure of throat and lung diseases; but nothing has been so eminently successful, or obtained such a wide celebrity, as Briggs' Throat and Lung Healer.
CORNS! The excruciating pain produced by Corns, the unceasing twinging from Bunions, the piercing, distressing pain from Ingrowing Nails, cannot be described. Thousands suffer, not knowing there is a cure. Briggs' Corn and Bunion Remedies are no acid or potash compounds, but are reliable, soothing, and effectual, and just merit the success they have earned from an appreciative public. The Curative is a healing ointment; immediate relief is obtained by its application, and it will positively cure the worst cases of Festered Corns, Inflamed and Ulcerated Bunions, the sorest instep, the largest and severest Blisters, the most extensive Callosities on the soles or heels of the feet, unequalled in the cure of Chilblains or Frosted Feet. The Allevantor for ordinary corns and preventing their formation is absolutely unexcelled by anything ever known.
PILES have been a terror to mankind for centuries, and almost every attempt to cure them has been baffled. By unceasing study and experimenting, Dr. Briggs has discovered an absolutely cure for internal, bleeding, external, and itching piles. Briggs' Pile Remedies are mild, safe and sure.

VEGETINE
The Great Blood Purifier.
A valuable Indian compound, for restoring the health, and for the permanent cure of all diseases arising from impurities of the blood, such as Scrofula Scrofulous Humors, Cancers, Cancerous Humor Erysipelas, Canker Salt Rheum, Pimples and Humors on the Face Ulcers, Coughs Catarrh, Bronchitis, Neuralgia, Pains in the Side, Rheumatism, Dyspepsia, Constipation Costiveness, Dizziness Fits, Headache Nervousness, Faintness at the Stomach Pains in the Back, Kidney Complaints' Female Weakness, and General Debility.
This preparation is scientifically and chemically combined, and so strongly concentrated from roots, herbs and barks, that its good effects are realized immediately after commencing to take it. There is no disease of the human system for which the VEGETINE cannot be used with PERFECT SAFETY, as it does not contain any metallic compound. For eradicating the system of all impurities of the blood, it has no equal. It has never failed to effect a cure, giving tone and strength to the system debilitated by disease. Its wonderful effects upon these complaints are surprising to all. Many have been cured by the VEGETINE that have tried many other remedies. It can well be called

The Chronicle

Credit Mobilier.

On the reassembling of the national House of Representatives, Monday, Mr. Frye, of Maine, offered a resolution for public sessions of the Credit Mobilier investigating committee.

The speaker read a memorial from Hon. John B. Alley representing that injustice is done members because the investigation has been conducted secretly. He has been threatened with personal violence by an individual in New York because of false testimony published in the New York Sun.

Mr. Frye's resolution was adopted by a vote of 130 to 7.

The testimony thus far taken has been made public. Hon. Oakes Ames says:

I began by soliciting my intimate friends and men in Congress, possessed of means, and capitalists in large cities. I failed to persuade Senator Grimes. John B. Alley and Samuel Hooper were willing to go in and subscribe very largely, and in these cases I offered to guarantee them against loss. Our capital soon proved inadequate and was increased with difficulty. It was again increased, and this time was obtained by the aid of an immense bonus. Until late in 1867 there were neither dividends nor profits. I was constantly at work, and held out every inducement and made every representation that I believed justifiable. Precisely to whom I spoke or who formally agreed to take shares, but decided to postpone the time of payment, it is impossible to recall.

When the stock was obtained in 1868 there was a difficulty about this, and time has not aided me in this respect; but as the time approached for profits, the number of shares that remained, and with which alone I could fulfil many agreements I had made or supposed I had made, was very small. I then applied and got the shares, the agreement says 280, but my recollection say 250, which is confirmed by the share-list which shows 250 allotted me. Our prospects were then flattering and I was compelled in distributing shares to disappoint many, though I strove to use them in a way to spread our influence everywhere. As to Mr. Colfax, I cannot remember which of us first mentioned the subject, but I know he wanted to get some stock. Am pretty confident that he paid me for it, though it was never transferred to him nor can I remember having paid him any dividends.

At the next session he said something about that thing being off. As to Henry Wilson, I was consulted as to investing a fund given Mrs. Wilson on the 25th anniversary of her wedding. I recommended 20 shares for $2000, and the money was paid me some months afterwards. She objected to the investment, and I took it off her hands. Mr. Patterson of New Hampshire agreed to buy 30 shares and received the dividends upon it, but the stock was never transferred to him.

Mr. Blaine declined the stock. Mr. Dawes in December, 1867, came to me to purchase a Cedar Rapids bond. I advised him to take the amount in Credit Mobilier stock, which I thought a better investment. Guaranteed him ten per cent. interest upon the investment and agreed to take it off his hands at any time. After making inquiries, he gave me $1000 to invest. Some time afterward he came to me and asked what Mr. Larned meant by asserting that he and friends were owners of the Credit Mobilier. He then said he had rather not take the stock and the contract was rescinded.

Mr. Bingham asked me to invest some money for him in such stocks or things that I knew would pay well. He furnished me about $2500 and I invested it in twenty shares of Credit Mobilier and the balance in Iowa Falls and Sioux City Contracting Company stocks. I settled up this matter with him in 1870. I think I paid him the amount due and took the stock off his hands at his desire. As to Mr. Garfield I agreed to get ten shares of stock for him and hold it until he could pay for it. He never did pay for it or receive it.

As to Mr. Boutwell, I offered him some of this stock and there was some negotiation, but it resulted in his not taking the stock. As to Mr. Elliot of Massachusetts, he never agreed to take any stock. I offered it to him, but he declined. I cannot, therefore, believe I ever mentioned his name to Mr. McComb, for I never had any reason to suppose he would buy it. Mr. Kelley of Pennsylvania is another. I recommended him to buy, and he said he would like to buy, but he had not the money to spare for it. I told him that I would carry it for him till he was able to pay for it. He never took the stock. My recollection is very indistinct as to this case of his. I made a loan to him of $1000, I think, which he has never settled. He regards the stock as belonging to me. It being a transaction of long standing, and of a small matter to me, I have never given it a special thought.

Mr. Schofield frequently talked with me very early in the enterprise about having some stock in the Credit Mobilier, and I urged him to take some, as I did many others. Mr. Schofield agreed to take 10 shares. He afterwards took it and paid for one part and interest. Subsequently he became dissatisfied with it, assigning that he had heard there was personal responsibility, and returned it. I took it back as I had agreed to do with him, as in almost every instance I had done. As to Mr. Fowler of Tennessee, I never sold any stock to him and he never received any that I am aware of. James F. Wilson of Iowa also bought and paid for ten shares and so did Senator Allison, then a member of the House.

Mr. McComb swears I told him I had given one to Senator Conkling. It is absolutely untrue. I never said so nor was he ever interested in the company.

In regard to Senator Patterson, Mr. Ames testified that he (Patterson) bought or agreed to buy thirty shares, which were not transferred to him "but the dividends were paid him."

On the cross-examination the following questions were asked by the committee and answers given by Mr. Ames:—

Q. As to Mr. Patterson, you say that he bought 30 shares, and that it was transferred to a banking-house in New York for him? A. Yes, sir, by by his direction.

Q. You say also that he owned it, and you think some dividends were paid upon it? Does he still own it? A. I do not know.

Q. The contract never has been taken back? A. No, sir not by me.

Q. That is, he either owns it now or else has disposed of it? A. Yes sir.

Q. For ought you know he is still the owner of that stock? A. I cannot give you any further information about it.

Q. I see in this list of Stockholders the name of the Fourth National Bank of New York? A. It was not to that bank that Mr. Patterson's stock was transferred. It was to his friends, Morton, Bliss & Co. I believe that they advanced the money to pay for it originally. His stock is not on that list. I do not suppose it was transferred to them. I don't know anything about it, however.

Q. You do not suppose it was transferred in the books to that firm? A. That I cannot say. I have no knowledge of it.

Q. Do you know whether these 30 shares were ever on the books of the company transferred to anybody, or whether they still stand in your name? A. I do not know. I have not seen the books of the company.

Q. But you understood that you had really parted with these 30 shares of stock for the benefit of Mr. Patterson, and that he, or somebody for him, was entitled to take dividends on them? A. Yes, sir.

Q. And that has continued down to the present time? A. Yes, sir.

The contract has never been rescinded? A. Not by me.

"Patterson of New Hampshire, $3000." Do you recollect whether you mentioned Senator Patterson's name to him? A. I do not. I cannot recollect. I may have told him, and I may have had a list of names of persons to whom I intended to sell stock. We did not mean to give any away.

Q. Did any member of Congress ever receive any shares from you except by paying for them? A. No, sir; never.

Q. "Patterson of New Hampshire, $3000." How many shares did Mr. Patterson have? Thirty.

Q. Mr. Patterson did have 30 shares? A. Yes, sir.

Mr. Ames also testified that Senator Patterson spoke to him about procuring stock after it was found to be "a good thing."

A summons has been sent, at the request of Mr. Ames, to Benjamin Ham of New York, secretary of the Credit Mobilier, requiring him to bring all the records, books, papers and receipts of the company for the inspection of the committee.

Stokes Says

Money was used against me. I don't mean to say that the judge was bought, nor the jury,—but [with an oath] the witnesses and the private counsel were. The jury was determined to convict me. They were cowards and public opinion did it. They convicted me because of my respectability; yes, it was my social position. If when I had come out of the court-room I had seen the whole city in ashes I could not have been more surprised than I was when I heard the verdict. When I woke up yesterday morning I thought it was a dream, and I had to pick up the morning papers and read them before I could be sure of it. I shall have a new trial or something of the sort. They're going to get a stay of proceedings from the General Term. I'm all right. Never felt healthier in my life. Why, just think of that verdict! I have public opinion on my side now. Look at me. Do I look like a man who would go out of his way to commit murder? It is likely that I went to such a public place to shoot Jim Fisk? I always avoided him. I don't like this cell, but its only temporary, you know; I'll soon be back up stairs in my other cell when I get my stay of proceedings. I tell you I would have avoided Fisk and gone quietly by him when I saw him, if he'd let me alone; yet Hart says I cried out, "I have you now," and fired. Would I be likely to say that, if I was going to kill you, with you only three feet from me? But there was premeditation to be proved, don't you see? Fisk was in the dark and I was exposed to the light. He saw me first, of course. I saw him fire before I did, or I wouldn't have killed him, would I? Money hid Fisk's pistol. People will see this thing differently some day. The Erie ring isn't broken yet. It's an infamous thing to allow private counsel in such a case, and that man and Fellows were both bought. But I have a clear conscience; yes, I've a clear conscience. I don't know how I'm going to get the new trial, but I am sure to get it. But if I don't [with an oath] I don't care. I don't care any way; my conscience is clear.

AIR POWER.—A letter from Brunswick, Me., to the Portland Argus gives the following information relating to the use of air as a motive power in that village:

"On the Androscoggin River, some three-fourths of a mile below the railroad station, is the site of a mill, long since burned, and the motive power which operates the condenser is a water-wheel at that place. The wheel, it is said, is capable of driving four condensers of equal power with the one in use. But it is only with results already accomplished, that we have to do. At the railroad station is an engine of ten horse power, running circular saws for sawing wood, and for various machinery in the blacksmith-shop in the vicinity. Thence a small pipe passes on through the village furnishing power to Worthly Brothers, jewelers, who are running a small engine of about one horse power. Parent & Dafriend also use an engine of two-horse power in their blacksmith-shop; Dennison & Co., box-makers, an engine of two-horse power, and Prof. Brackett, of Bowdoin College, one of three-horse power, for the manufacture of instruments, while the 'laboratory' of the College, has one of six-horse power. So that nominally, this small condenser furnishes in all twenty-four horse power, and all unite in saying that the 'air power' is much more efficient than steam in working the same engines; it does not drag, but recovers itself instantly from any strain or check, and is in every way a success.

INFLUENCE OF DENUDATION UPON RAINFALL.—A very striking illustration of the influence which trees have upon rain is given by a gentleman who has just visited the island of Santa Cruz, West Indies. Twenty years ago he was there, and the island was a lovely garden throughout its length and breath. Trees native to it, and flowers, everywhere flourished and the soil was fertile. When his last visit was made he found a third of the island a desert waste; the soil was parched and barren on the seashore. The destruction of vegetation is steadily going on, and the planters one after another abandon their farms, as they yield them nothing. The only way to account for the great change is that nearly all of the trees have been cut down, and the amount of rain which has fallen since has not been enough to keep the land refreshed.—Mobile Tribune.

PILES.—The unceasing torture from internal bleeding, external and itching piles is fast wearing away the thousands of those who are afflicted and their hope and courage have long since given place to despair. Let those who see this cheer up, for a mild and sure cure may be had by using BRIGGS' PILE REMEDIES.

A SURE CURE follows the use of BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL—the best known remedy for THROAT and LUNG COMPLAINTS. Only 50 cts. a bottle.

YOU ARE TROUBLED WITH A BAD BREATH.—It annoys your friends as well as yourself. You would like to get rid of it, but scarcely know what means to adopt. We will tell you. Use the fragrant Sozodont; it will cleanse and beautify your teeth, and leave your breath pure.

ARE YOU ALARMED ABOUT YOURSELF? Have you a distressing cough? Is your throat choked up with phlegm. Does a long breath pain you. If so you have reason to be frightened. But take heart, cheer up, a single bottle of Hale's Honey of Horehound and Tar will cure you. Crittenton's 76th Avenue. Sold by all Druggists.

Pike's Toothache Drops cure in 1 minute.

CORNS.—Since pride and fashion have had control of mankind, and shoemakers were compelled to make boots and shoes to fit fancy instead of the feet, the suffering from Corns, Bunions, Ingrowing Nails, Sore Insteps, Blistered Heels, Callosities on the bottom of the feet, &c., cannot be described. But Briggs' Corn and Bunion Remedies will cure all such torments, and proper fitting boots will prevent their reproduction. Sold by all druggists. a12

A GOOD THING DULY APPRECIATED.—No beneficial revolution ever goes backward; and this maxim is as invariably in medicine as in politics. The advent of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, twenty years ago, produced a revolution in the treatment of a large class of ailments, and that revolution has ever since been in "the full tide of successful experiment." If that tide has borne the proprietors of this celebrated vegetable specific "on to fortune," it has also borne thousands of human beings, who were languishing under the effects of disease, weak and hopeless, out of the depths of despondency into the paradise of health and cheerfulness. It is no exaggeration to say, that to the vigor, the regularity of habit of body, the good appetite and perfect digestion, acquired under the operation of this unequalled tonic and corrective, multitudes of people in every walk of life who had been vainly physicked in the usual way, owe the blessings of renewed health and the prospect of prolonged life.

INSTANTANEOUS is the operation of BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL in all cases of SORE THROAT, HOARSENESS, COUGHS, CROUP, and LUNG AFFECTIONS. It is beneficial in all cases. Sold for 50 cents per bottle.

A VALUABLE MEDICAL TREATISE.—The edition for 1873 of the sterling medical annual known as Hostetter's Almanac is now ready, and may be obtained, free of cost, of druggists and general country dealers in all parts of the United States and British America, and indeed in every civilized portion of the Western Hemisphere. This Almanac has been issued regularly at the commencement of every year for about one-fifth of a century. It combines with the soundest practical advice for the preservation and restoration of health, a large amount of interesting and amusing light reading, and the calendar, astronomical calculations, chronological items, &c., are prepared with great care, and will be found entirely accurate. The issue of Hostetter's Almanac for 1873 will probably be the largest edition of a medical work ever published in any country. The proprietors, Messrs. Hostetter & Smith, Pittsburg, Pa., on receipt of a two cent stamp, will forward a copy by mail to any person who cannot procure one in his neighborhood.

Capt. Lane's Statement.

Capt. Lane of steamer Geo. W. Hunt feels justly indignant at the reception he received from Capt. Whiting of the wrecked steamer Sir Francis. Capt. Lane reports, that after using his best endeavors to save property, he coming to this city and asking the advice of the best legal talent, he procured a large scow, towing her to the scene of the wreck, working all night, although there was every appearance of an easterly gale coming on. After saving $40,000 worth of the cargo, landing it safely in Rockport and returning to the wrecked steamer, he was branded by the captain of the Sir Francis as a thief and a pirate, worse than the Japanese.

Capt. Lane and his crew report that on first boarding the Sir Francis he found the cabin table set with bottles of liquor, glasses, signs of a good time. The mate requested him to take away all the liquor he could find, as the crew of the Sir Francis were in a state of insubordination and had made considerable trouble at the light-keeper's station at Newburyport bar.

Capt. Lane feels well pleased with the assistance he rendered in saving property and says he shall always endeavor to reach and assist all vessels in distress. The cargo which he took into Rockport was landed by Capt. Lane under the supervision of a custom house officer, and was duly accounted for.

Well Insured.

Mr. Thomas Sheehan, who had a leg broken at the State Street fire, took out an accident policy of $2,000 the week before, at a cost of $10 per year, and now draws $10 per week of the agents, Morse & Ilsley, while disabled.

Our Dev. Escapeth Death.

As the hose carriage of steamer Kearsarge was going to the State street fire, a young boy who was anxious that his machine should reach the fire first seized the rope and assisted in drawing the carriage to the fire. As he proceeded at a rapid rate, he fell, and Mr. Thomas Moore caught him and threw him clear of the wheels, the lad landidg on his shoulder on the sidewalk, thereby saving us the trouble of writing an obituary of a young gentleman printer, aged 15 years and several months.

Inhumanity to Brutes.

Messrs. Editors:—I noticed in your issue of Wednesday an item relating to the starving of a horse and pig by the owner thereof and the action of the officers for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals in the matter. I, in common with many others, feel grateful that we have among us an institution for the suppression of such barbarities as are too often inflicted on the poor brutes. I think you should have published the name of the individual who was guilty of such inhumanity, and trust that in the future you will not spare them in the least in this direction. Give us their names. *

[Note.—We do not feel any too sure that we did wholly right in not publishing the name of the brutal individual above referred to,—but will spare him immortal infamy "for this occasion only." In common with all good citizens, we propose to aid the Society with the long name to the extent of our ability, in the good work just commenced here, in furtherance of which we shall publish in full the name of any person hereafter detected in cruelty to animals.—Eds. Chron.]

To-Night.

Let none of our readers neglect to secure tickets for the novel and beautiful entertainment at the Temple this (Thursday) evening, as such an opportunity may not occur again for a long time. The curtain will rise at precisely 1-4 to 8 o'clock upon a gorgeous boat scene, Cleopatra, to be followed in three minutes by a group of statuary, the Spirit of Prayer, two minutes after which a set of living pictures in frames shown three at a time. Next in two minutes' time a comic French peasant scene; then more statues and pictures, to be followed by the Angel Whisper, Roman Girl at the shrine of St. Agnes and three Fishers, all accompanied with vocal music. The laughable pantomime of "Love in Ambush" and "Villikins and Dinah" are complete novelties, and the "Historic Scenes of the Execution of Marie Stuart, and Judith and Holofernes," will please the lovers of tragedy. The whole will conclude with the burlesque pantomime of "Blue Beard," with its terrific combats, ghostly banquet and dead head chorus—all performed by the young ladies and gentlemen of Portsmouth under the direction of a manager of experience who has arranged similar scenes in nearly every city in the United States.

Laconic

S. S. Frye's prime cider goeth down the throats of the Chroniclers with ease and great complacency. To remember the printer is one of the best attributes of mankind, and the juice of the apple is more welcome than the moistness of the grape.

Master Edwin B. Rundlett of the High School has spelled 1200 words, in 100 consecutive lessons, without missing. Master Mopre of the same school has been absent from two or three of the exercises, but has not missed when present. A large percentage of the words are difficult, the exercises being in writing and embracing syllabication and accentuation.

It is generally believed that the fire on State street, Tuesday evening, was an incendiary's work.

It is reported that barque Niobe, now at Hamburg, is to be sold, and that Capt. Henry Marcy is to take charge of a new ship to be built here by Hon. Daniel Marcy.

The project of diverting the legacy of the late Mrs. H. M. Cutts into its legitimate channel, i, e., to improve Richards Avenue, is again revived. It amounts, however, to nothing but cheap talk, apparently.

The Boston Advertiser is responsible for the statement that a wealthy gentleman of this city presented his pastor with a greenback of a large denomination, on Christmas.

Steamer Fannie Spray has joined the fishing fleet at this port, making three steamers in all engaged in the business.

Two thousand shares of new Eastern Railroad stock were sold in Boston by auction on the 8th to one party for $102 per share.

The Portsmouth Music Society will hold no rehearsal this week, nor until further notice. New attractions will be offered to members and the public, as soon as arrangements can be completed.

THE CITY CHAP'S FIRST LESSON IN THRESHING.—The Titusville Press gives an account of a young man from an eastern city, who had been visiting rural friends in that vicinity. After seeing a farmer thresh out a "flooring" of oats the other morning, he asked and received permission to swing the flail a few minutes, upon assuring the agriculturist that he was "perfectly familiar with the art of threshing." Expectorating upon his hands, the young man went at the oats, but at the first pass knocked the horns off from a new milch cow that was leisurely chewing her cud in a neighboring stall. The second swing caved in the head of the farmer, who thought he was safe enough as long as he roosted on top of the fanning mill in the other end of the barn, but without discovering the havoc he was making, the city artist kept at his labors; the third blow fell upon the oats, the fourth killed a hen in a manger near by, and the fifth pass of the deadly weapon was the best of all, for it came around behind the young man boomerang fashion, and taking him under the lower jaw, knocked him down and thus put a stop to the work of slaughter. The mere fact that the city "thresher" returned to consciousness an hour before the farmer did allowed the former to get several miles out of town before his efforts at threshing oats were discovered by the neighbors.

SQUEERS IN FRISCO.—Such a good time as the boys of the industrial school have had under the tender-hearted principal, Mr. Harris! When they've been cutting up, he doesn't apply the disfiguring rawhide or cruel birch, not at all; he lovingly places the offender on a safe in the corner, where he must stand without sleep for about fifty hours, more or less; or, perchance, he exercises a gentle traction upon the stripling's ear, so gentle that a physician must be called in to counteract its effect; keeping the pupil in what he calls the "bent back posture" is another favorite mode, and it usually terminates in delirium at the end of the second day. Mr. Harris is being investigated.

—Rather a remarkable incident occurred to a well on the premises of peter Hahn, in Winchester. The well is about thirteen feet from top to bottom, has been used for many years, with an average stand of from one to two feet of water, yet, we believe, it has never entirely failed during the dryest weather. On Saturday evening the well contained fs usual amount of water, but the next morning it had filled to the top and was running over. Mr. Hahn says his well is still full, but has ceased to overflow.—Indianapolis Jour.

—A fractional fifty-cent shinplaster was presented by an old gentleman in Allen county, Ky., for payment of a small debt. He was informed that the money was counterfeit, and on asking for proof of the fact was told that the likeness of Mr. Lincoln did not look right—it was too pale and dim. "Well, but," says the old country gentleman in all seriousness, "you must recollect that Mr. Lincoln is dead." The bill was accepted.

IRON in the BLOOD.

DYSPEPSIA, DEBILITY, DROPSY, HUMORS,

PERUVIAN SYRUP

Makes the Weak Strong.

The Peruvian Syrup, a Protected Solution of the Protoxide of Iron, is so combined as to have the character of an ailment, as easily digested, and assimilated with the blood as the simplest food. It increases the quantity of Nature's Own Vitalizing Agent, Iron in the blood, and cures "a thousand ills," simply by Toning up, Invigorating and Vitalizing the System. The enriched and vitalized blood permeates every part of the body, repairing damages and waste, searching out morbid secretions, and leaving nothing for disease to feed upon.

This is the secret of the wonderful success of this remedy in curing Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, Dropsy, Chronic Diarrhœa, Boils, Nervous Affections, Chills and Fevers, Humors, Loss of Constitutional Vigor, Diseases of the Kidneys and Bladder, Female Complaints, and all diseases originating in a bad state of the blood, or accompanied by debility or a low system. Being free from Alcohol, in any form, its energizing effects are not followed by corresponding reaction, but are permanent, infusing strength, vigor, and new life into all parts of the system, and building up an Iron Constitution.

Thousands have been changed by the use of this remedy, from weak, sickly, suffering creatures to strong, healthy and happy men and women: and invalids cannot reasonably hesitate to give it a trial.

See that each bottle has PERUVIAN SYRUP blown in the glass.

Morning Chronicle.

THE THEATRICAL MANAGERS of New York are not the pioneers in the movement against advertising by placards and handbills, but their combined attack upon that absurdity and nuisance is the most important yet attempted. The shrewder merchants long ago found out that the only cheap and effective means of advertising is in the newspapers; that ten dollars well spent in that way is equal to a hundred scattered about aimlessly in plastered dead walls and gutters. When so large a body of men as the association of theatrical managers give their aid to the work of reform, we may expect soon to see the last of bill-boards and all other modes of attracting public attention outside of newspaper columns.

The statistics of the waste on this head by the New York theatres are something curious. Each theatre erects, say, two hundred bill-boards at sightly points about town, and the cost of that carpentry cannot be less than $1,000 to begin with. To keep these boards covered with showy and of course expensive posters, is an outlay of between $30 and $40 a day—for each theatre, remember. And this is far from all. The worst remains behind, in the form of free admissions to the persons before whose premises the bill-boards are stuck up. As those nuisances stand there upon sufferance, the gracious occupants of the premises exact at least two admissions per week to the theatre; and so there are (on the basis of two hundred bill-boards) at least four hundred free admissions to each theatre floating about town. Probably a majority of the people who use these tickets would, if they were not "dead-headed," pay their way into theatres like others.

If the theatres dispensed with newspaper advertising, and depended on posters alone, that would be a reasonable item of expense, and would then be shown to pay, but they are obliged to advertise in papers all the same. It is only the newspaper advertising, we maintain, that has done any good for the theatres. If they drop that or curtail it too much, they might as well shut up their houses. When these bill-boards disappear the most powerful blow will have been given to the ancient, offensive, useless custom of defacing the streets with posters. And we hope that the Common Council will pass an ordinance forbidding the erection of all bill-boards or other framework for street advertising, the effect of which is to obstruct pedestrians upon the sidewalks, without doing any good to the advertiser which he could not gain, at much less cost, through the legitimate agency of newspapers.—N. Y. Journal of Commerce.

A LAMENTABLE LOSS.—The news which reaches us from America of the decease of "Biela's comet" will not fail to affect many of us who had no scientific acquaintance with the departed phenomenon. The unfortunate heavenly body had, it appears long been ailing, and for the last six weeks its supposed state had given the greatest anxiety to its friends. The first signs of approaching dissolution showed themselves in 1846, when the comet was seen to divide into two parts. No body, heavenly or otherwise, would be expected to survive such a shock as this; and when at their next return in 1852, the two portions were seen to be 1,250,000 miles apart, it was felt that the case was hopeless. Since that time neither portion of the comet has been seen, though their third passage of the node should have occurred six weeks ago. Astronomers have been suspecting that the comet was rapidly breaking up, and that it would not again be seen, and its actual dissolution seems to have taken place in the] neighborhood of γ Andromedæ at about half-past seven o'clock on the evening of the 24th of November, when it finally quitted our system in the form of about 150 shooting-stars. Its loss will be felt on this planet perhaps more acutely than it deserves. It may indeed be said of Biela's comet that we could have better spared a better member of the celestial system. The regularity of planets in the performance of their duties, and their scrupulous punctuality to their engagements (weather permitting), are worthy of all respect; but their characters are not altogether free from the dulness which is the Nemesis of respectability. To the feelings thus inspired by them our comets afford us an agreeable relief; and, notwithstanding the extreme irregularity of their habits, and the neglect of us which they manifest by the infrequency of their visits, we cannot help regretting the loss of one of them.—Pall Mall Gazette.

WITHIN EIGHTY MILES OF THE MOON.—From the two "spectacle glasses" which formed the first telescopes made by Hans Lippeesheim of Middleburg to the grand telescope of the present day, what a stride has been made! Galileo's first instrument magnified "three" times, but a telescope has just been put up which magnifies three thousand times—that is to say, it draws the visibility of distant objects like the moon three thousand times nearer. The object-glass of this instrument is twenty-five inches in diameter, and is said to be the largest in the world, except one now being constructed for the United States, which is to be twenty-seven inches. By the telescope already set up, the moon is brought practically within eighty miles of the sight of the observer.

Researches made to determine the validity and utility of patents of inventions, and legal and other advice rendered in all matters touching the same. Copies of the claims of any patent furnished, by remitting one dollar. Assignments recorded in Washington.

No Agency in the United States possesses superior facilities for obtaining Patents or ascertaining the patentability of inventions.

All necessity of a journey to Washington to procure a Patent and the usual great delay there, are here saved inventors.

TESTIMONIALS.

"I regard Mr. Eddy as one of the most capable and successful practitioners with whom I have had official intercourse. CHARLES MASON, Commissioner of Patents."

"I have no hesitation in assuring inventors that they cannot employ a more competent and trustworthy and more capable of putting their applications in a form to secure for them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office. EDMUND BURKE, Late Commissioner of Patents."

"Mr. R. H. Eddy has made for me over THIRTY applications for Patents, having been successful in almost every case. Such unmistakable proof of great talent and ability on his part leads me to recommend ALL inventors to apply to him to procure their Patents, as they may be sure of having the most faithful attention bestowed on their cases, and at very reasonable charges. CLEAR YOUR THROAT!
Relieve Your Lungs.
For the terrible diseases engendered by the lung-trying climate of New England,
Pulmocine Cordial
Is a speedy and reliable Preventive and Remedy. EVERY FAMILY should have a bottle at hand to check the sudden growth of all Pulmonary Diseases. For the Asthma, Coughs, Croups, Laryngitis, or inflammation of the larynx, Diphtheria, and all kindred THROAT DISEASES at all times prevalent, it is the ounce of PREVENTION. Children attacked with Whooping Cough or Croup should be immediately cared for. These painful attacks come with scarcely a moment's warning, when a physician may be out of immediate reach. A dose of PULMOCINE CORDIAL gives speedy relief, and the little ones are spared hours of pain and agony. As "a stitch in time saves nine," so does the possession of this FAMILY MEDICINE prevent the spread of disease. Parents seeing their children gasping with pain, friends and relatives beholding each other in peril from suffocation by the choking pain in the throat, paralyzed with fear and not knowing the best course to pursue, are liable to apply the wrong remedial agents. There is no safety in delay, no time to waste in such cases. CONSUMPTION, that fearful scourge of the human race, lies at the door of all thus afflicted. BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL arrests it (unless in its advanced stage at which time there is no local cure) relieves the pressing, suffocating feeling at the lungs, and the patient's danger is past.
BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL is no new discovery. Twenty-three years ago it was used by one of New England's most famous physicians as the best PULMONARY CURATIVE he could prescribe, after a dozen years spent in experimenting with it before he was satisfied that the Materia Medica could add nothing in its favor.
Buchman's Pulmocine Cordial
Is the ultima thule of Medical Discovery.
Among its many ingredients are WILD CHERRY BARK, SQUILL ROOT, LIQUORICE ROOT, BLOOD ROOT, &c. It is a BLOOD PURIFIER, gently stimulating. It increases expectoration and is diuretic. It is sudorific and alterative. It is a necessary family medicine. It is a Tonic, and a powerful aid to the digestive organs. It is a gentle sedative, and relieves nervousness. It is aromatic and agreeable to the taste.
For Coughs,
Croup,
Diphtheria,
Asthma, &c.
USE BUCHMAN'S
PULMOCINE CORDIAL.
The Pulmocine Cordial is not a quack medicine, is not an experiment, is not composed of any ingredients "discovered" by "walking in pastures" in South America or anywhere else, nor by one who discovered a weed and thereby cured himself. Most of the ingredients are such as our best educated physicians will use for the complaints specified, in some form or other. The recipe is that perfected by one of New England's most learned and famous physicians, who used it entirely in his daily practice until his death. It is offered to the profession and to the public, absolutely pure and unadulterated.

The Singer
SEWING MACHINE
STILL LEADS THE MARKET.
The Success o the Company is far beyond that o any other similar concern; the Daily Manufacture
—OF—
400 OF THE SINGERS
Failing to Supply the Constant Demand.
All other machines call the public attention to some new loop or stitch or tension or finish, some advantage in running or needles or feed or prices—and many of these are as we have said very good points, and the agents selling them use them to divert entirely the would-be purchaser from fairly considering the facts in the case; but the
SINGER
seems to unlite the good qualities of all, and is never found wanting.
THE SINGER
IS THE OLDEST
SEWING MACHINE
IN THE MARKET,
All others being copied from its first model. does two-thirds the sewing done in this country and preserves its advantages over all others combined.
It is readily kept clean, and has THE RESTTENSION EVER INVENTED; it is higher speeded and requires but little power to run; it works equally well upon the finest and heaviest goods; it does all the varieties of work known to the art.
N. B. Those purchasing for cash, before the 1 of January next, will have a consideration allowed them.

$1000 REWARD.
BRIGGS' ALLEVANTOR is composed of Ammonia, Chloroform, Spirits of Camphor, Tincture of Lupulina, Oil of Juniper, and Alcohol. This compound is unequalled in the annals of medicine for the cure of Nervous or Sick Headache, Neuralgia, Trembling or Twitching of the Nerves, and all Nervous Diseases. It will counteract all poisons, banish pimples, cure scaly eruptions, itching, humors, &c.; it equalizes the circulation, invigorates the system, increases the action of the heart, without exciting the brain, cures Heartburn, Palpitation and Fluttering of the Heart, Dyspepsia, &c. Briggs' Allevantor absolutely possesses more curative properties than any other preparation. Physicians, chemists, and others are requested to examine and test the remedy, and $1000 will be paid if found different from representation.
COUCHS. Much has been said and written, and many remedies have been offered for the relief and cure of throat and lung diseases; but nothing has been so eminently successful, or obtained such a wide celebrity, as Briggs' Throat and Lung Healer.
CORNS! The excruciating pain produced by Corns, the unceasing twinging from Bunions, the piercing, distressing pain from Ingrowing Nails, cannot be described. Thousands suffer, not knowing there is a cure. Briggs' Corn and Bunion Remedies are no acid or potash compounds, but are reliable, soothing, and effectual, and just merit the success they have earned from an appreciative public. The Curative is a healing ointment; immediate relief is obtained by its application, and it positively cures the worst cases of Festered Corns, Inflamed and Ulcerated Bunions, the sorest instep, the largest and severest Blisters, the most extensive Callosities on the soles or heels of the feet, unequalled in the cure of Chilblains or Frosted Feet. The Allevantor for ordinary corns and preventing their formation is absolutely unexcelled by anything ever known.
PILES have been a terror to mankind for centuries, and almost every attempt to cure them has been baffled. By unceasing study and experimenting, Dr. Briggs has discovered an absolutely cure for internal, bleeding, external, and itching piles. Briggs' Pile Remedies are mild, safe and sure.
For sale by J. H. THACHER, WM. R. PRESTON, Portsmouth; JAMES O. TREFETHEN, Kittery; E. S. SAFFORD, Kittery Point; H. M. CURTIS, Newcastle, and dealers generally.
CORNS, Bunions, Bad Nails, and Scrofulous and Cancerous Humors, Piles, etc., skilfully treated at the great central Chiropodical and Healing Institute, No. 765 Broadway, New York. DR. J. BRIGGS, President; DR. ALEXANDER WEBBER, Secretary.

NATURE'S REMEDY.
VEGETINE
The Great Blood Purifier.
A valuable Indian compound, for restoring the health, and for the permanent cure of all diseases arising from impurities of the blood, such as Scrofula Scrofulous Humors, Cancers, Cancerous Humor Erysipelas, Canker Salt Rheum, Pimples and Humors on the Face Ulcers, Coughs Catarrh, Bronchitis, Neuralgia, Pains in the Side, Rheumatism, Dyspepsia, Constipation Costiveness, Dizziness Piles, Headache Nervousness, Faintness at the Stomach Pains in the Back, Kidney Complaints Female Weakness, and General Debility.
This preparation is scientifically and chemically combined, and so strongly concentrated from roots, herbs and barks, that its good effects are realized immediately after commencing to take it. There is no disease of the human system for which the VEGETINE cannot be used with PERFECT SAFETY, as it does not contain any metallic compound. For eradicating the system of all impurities of the blood, it has no equal. It has never failed to effect a cure, giving tone and strength to the system debilitated by disease. Its wonderful effects upon these complaints are surprising to all. Many have been cured by the VEGETINE that have tried many other remedies. It can well be called

The Chronicle

The Great Fire.

"A silver penny for your thoughts, aunty dear! Why, you are cogitating as deeply over that letter in your hand as if twere some new blazonry to our old coat of arms just transmitted to you from the herald's office."

"The letter is from our city, my dear Ada. All are talking of the splendid city in ruins and the $50,000 gift from our distinguished fellow-citizen to aid the millionaire in renewing his magnificent block, while not one thought was spent upon these poor sufferers lying out on the cold Michigan shore, naked, starving and homeless. Is not this like—'Like what?' you ask. Like the nature of the present times, my dear, run wild in adoration of the rich and successful, and worshipping the fast and far-reaching speculator."

"Was there not as much of this in the good old times? Tell me about them; I don't remember them."

"Neither do I, Ada; but a disposition to be forever dwelling upon the things that are behind (without, however, extracting from them lessons for before) and seeking out the past of my ancestors,—that was always me. So if you will stop alternating the pendulum of your very capricious fancy toward those both pretty Peplums, I will recall what I have been reminded of by these late conflagrations — the great fire in Portsmouth. It was, if I remember right, not having your grandmamma's journal in possession, about 1804. Some incidents will be at least interesting to you, and some may teach you something of the composure belonging to the ladies (women is a better word) of the ancient regime as opposed to the flippancy of now. It is vanity, my love, all vanity, that possesses you all, to gain admiration and attention out of home. Our foremothers had their duties before them; they got their husbands and were contented with the one. Then they set themselves to attend the rising generation; peradventure there might be a Cæsar in the bud to be expanded under their guiding, fostering influence.

But to the fire,—the great fire, as it is called even now in Portsmouth. The flames ran like wildfire down the streets of the devoted town—petroleum could hardly have outstripped them—sweeping everything before them, through Water street, down to the storage blocks at the water's edge, closing their ravages among the shipping. The cold was intense, beyond what even you know of New England rigor. And such a wind!—an icy, sharp northwester, so malignant, suggestive to me always of the deadliest breath of the "Prince of the Powers of the Air." It raged with hurricane fury in aid of the flames. The snow lay under such a glare of ice, the top so slippery at first, the firemen and citizens rushing to the rescue could hardly, indeed could not keep their footing. But the delicate women, young and old, in their parlor attire — their were no drawing-rooms then—ran out, tying on their large brown-linen housekeeping aprons first, with pans and buckets, and tubs full of ashes, vieing with the maid-servants in scattering them over the streets of ice.

There was none of the brilliant apparatus of fire companies in those days of simplicity and love of one's neighbor. The only engines were heavy leather buckets—the initials of the owner painted on the front, and kept hanging for readiness in the halls of every mansion. A red jacket and cap designated an officer. These buckets were filled and passed along the line of neighbors which soon collected, the public generally assembling en masse at the first hasty ring of the ponderous, deep-toned bell of the immense old meeting-house. As the flames approached her stately dwelling, your grandmother felt that the home to which her dear husband had brought her a tender bride, which had long sheltered her fatherless children, was in danger, and she rose to the duties which lay before her.

Summoning her major-domo Prince, a black servant of unparalleled devotion and courtly manners, who used to sit up to open the street door for 'Mass' Charles' when he came in late nights,—in those times they held slaves even in New Hampshire; kindly and affectionately were they treated, which they reciprocated with a deep attachment as in the South,—all the furniture, with other help, was carefully packed and removed to a place of safety. The damask curtains were her first care; and here, let me tell you, young lady, they were not ripped down with the frantic haste of your time—now—and thrown upon the floor to be trampled upon, but, to show you the calmness, as well as order, that pervaded her mind, even in distracting emergencies, she called for a pincushion in which to place the pins, as they were taken out. One of the family helped Prince secure the plate.

'You, my love, will take down the books.'

A beautiful figure mounted on the step-ladder, her white fingers laden with rings, trembling with excitement. A quick step came behind, a pair of brown eyes gazed upon the beautiful figure, and a pleasant voice came:—

"Lady; can't I help you?"

She turned her own dark-blue eyes of sweet expression upon a tall gentleman with powdered hair drawn back from the high white forehead, and finished in a queue behind. And this was the foreshadowing of that home, your aunt's, wherein thereafter so tenderly cushrined were you, Ada, the darling of that loving heart. A few months before on a short tour in Maine,—then a part of Massachusetts,—she had dwelt admiringly from the window of a tavern upon a view before her, of a beautiful residence in the midst of highly cultivated grounds, with a bright river running by, the ocean seen from its windows. This, with the rest of a fine estate, the gentleman of the short breeches—'small clothes', in the polite parlance of that day—queue and powder, laid at her feet years after, for her acceptance as his wife. How tenderly you were cherished in your infancy on that fair spot by her, when far advanced in life! How she loved you! Why, Ada, you are crying. Never mind, dear."

"Tell me more of the fire."

"Throw your things out of the windows; the house is bound to go!" was the cry from the crowd below as the flames came darting out in every direction and rolling on toward the spot, —would you recognize a rosy-cheeked, bright-eyed, auburn-ringletted little beauty, fair as alabaster, in the now pale, placid face and sweet, mournful eyes of your cousin Mary? A little three-year-old, she had kept by the side of her dear grandma till now. She knew of two things in her room much talked of and highly praised—an oval mirror and brasses of antediluvian memory. Climbing step by step up the broad staircase, she found a way of hoisting herself up to the deep, cushioned window in which she had often sat with picturebooks and doll, three the glass down to the men outside, and came toddling and tottering down with one andiron at a time, to be caught up at the last moment and rushed away with by one of the redcaps in terror sent after her. You ask 'Was Uncle George there?'

Yes; your great-uncle George was in Portsmouth at the time, and here, as in every calamity it seemed that could befall him on earth, a sufferer. To the enquiry of Prince where his Mass' George was, he 'had heard them tell Him that his warehouses were burning, and he had gone down.' Uncle George had just returned from a long voyage as captain of one of his own ships, and had said to his adored mother but a day or two before, 'I have fortune enough, my mother, to live at home altogether with you, and shall tempt the sea, I think, no more.' He appeared among them at daylight broke, blackened and haggard.

'How is it, my son?' she asked.

'I have lost everything I had on earth, my mother, and must go to sea again. The ship sails to-morrow.'

She gave him her blessing, and they parted. It was for the last time. Her closet door was closed, and the wrestlings of that tender heart, outwardly so calm, at the throne of God, none may know. You had thought your grandmother of a cold nature,—strong-minded. So she was strong-minded; but not as you mean. From her never faltering trust in Heaven, in the majesty of His goodness, which 'doeth all things well,' came the calmness and equanimity which was her crowning grace.

And you call it a want of feeling! To the heated and perturbed spirit in life's battle the presence of your grandmother seemed like coming into the cool, dewy shade—a softened light and beauty around, repose within! The news of the distressing way of his death came to her soon after. All this I heard from my aunt as you do now from yours, Ada.

What! 'Please, some more about grandma and old times,' say you, young lady? Well, I think the recollections of Saturday night impressed my childhood most. 'Come, my dears, put away your work; it is Saturday evening, and time for your catechism and Bible.' This Puritan custom was sacredly observed in preparation for the services of the coming Sabbath, that holy day commencing at sundown on Saturday evening, and there were pious people who resumed their occupations on Sunday evening. Even I, in my more modern experience, remember the sawmills in Maine being put in motion again at that time.

And lest you should imagine the reverenced sanctuary of our ancestors was anything like your metropolitan edifice, I will place a plain view of it before your mind's eye. The building of two stories was usually eighty feet long, and high enough for two galleries, the upper one for colored people, the under one for those who, by reason of what may be termed the sumptuary laws of rank and fashion at that period, could not afford or did not care to sit among 'the quality.' There was more real distinction of caste in those days, and it gave then no humbling sense to the neat Calimancos and scoop bonnets of the gallery, who took their stations in the arena of life as in the meeting-house, and filled them creditably, to view the rich capuchins, high-nodding plumes and curricle dresses of the aristocracy below.

A pulpit elevated half-way up the wall, reached by a flight of stairs, and placed directly under a massive sounding-board in the shape of a butter-print, all essential to sending their beloved pastor's voice, endeared to them by the ministrations and sympathy of many years—the grey-haired old friend and pastor was not dropped then, under the guise of an 'assistant'—over the large house.

Dr. Buckminster, of honored memory, of whom you have heard, my dear, delivered his discourses, one hour and a half in length, to these patient saints, sitting in the cold, no dispensation being given for retiring before the close, or any means provided for warmth, except in the case of some elderly gentlewoman, as your grandmother.

Prince then carried in the foot-box of coals, depositing it in the pew before the services began. These lasted for five hours in the forenoon and two in the afternoon. Then the children were 'catechised,'—made to repeat the texts, and what they remembered of the sermons,—after which, they were told, they might 'recreate' themselves with a walk around the garden; 'but mind—do not run; walk soberly; this Sabbath evening.'

Well, Ada, you are asleep—fast asleep! What is that you say, Joseph? 'As two-thirds of that remarkable congregation were, I am persuaded, testimony and legend notwithstanding, or they retired as soon as they got home!' "—Boston Advertiser.

Death of Napoleon.

Charles Louis Napoleon Bonaparte, Ex-Emperor of France, died at Chiselhurst on Thursday at 10.45 A. M. He had been operated upon by surgeons for some chronic disease. He was born in Paris, April 20th, 1808, and was nearly 64 years old.

Readables.

An inventive genius of New York city, who "sees a fortune" in thousands of simple things, but never yet has made one, now proposes a plan for doing away with tough beefsteaks. In the West Indies there grows a tree called the papau, and juice from the fruit will at once make the toughest meat perfectly tender. The party referred to proposes to barrel, in large quantities, the juice of this fruit, and flood the markets with it, thereby imparting tenderness to butchers' meat in the bulk.

The estimate of the commissioner of internal revenue for the expenses of that office for the next fiscal year, amounts to $4,700,000, including near $2,500,000 to pay gangers and storekeepers, under the act of June 6, 1872.

The N. Y. Tribune gives President Grant and General Sherman right hearty thanks for having taken a course at last which averted bloodshed Monday in New Orleans.

Small-pox is on the increase in Worcester. It has broken out simultaneously in different portions of the city.

A theological "onpleasantness" occured in the Baptist Church at Fisherville on Sunday last. Rev. Mr. Harriman, the pastor, was notified last July that his services would not be required after the first of October, but believing his ministrations were necessary to the moral health of the society, he refused to take the hint, and last Sunday found on reaching the church that another preacher had taken possession of the pulpit. A brief conversation took place between the two, and Mr. Harriman finally left the church, followed by the majority of the females of the congregation.

The Novelty Iron Works at Boston were injured to the extent of $30,000 on the 8th.

STOKES has been taken out of "Murderer's Row" and put back into his old, comfortably-appointed cell, to his great satisfaction, and for the first time in the history of the Tombs prison the singular spectacle is presented of a felon convicted of murder and sentenced to be hanged, taken from the quarters of the condemned to those of unconvicted prisoners. Mr. Dos Passos, one of Stokes's counsel, has been engaged in the preparation of the bill of exceptions to constitute the basis of the application for a new trial. There are twenty-eight objections to the rulings of Judge Boardman during the trial. The bill will also recite several circumstances which have transpired since. Among them is a remark which one of the jurors is said to have made, "That Stokes will be convicted any how."

A TERRIBLE FIGHT recently occurred in San Francisco between a man named Krager and a man in his employ. The former was armed with a razor, and though the latter had his clothes torn off his back, Krager was finally killed. The peculiarity of this combat was that the two parties were on excellent terms and the only object of their struggle was to prevent Krager from being injured. In other words, Krager was determined to cut his throat, and his clerk was determined he should do no such thing. The fight is so different in its character from the fights to which we are accustomed in this city that it is worth noticing. Here, when a man armed with a razor is seen in conflict with another, it is tolerably certain that the latter is about to fall a victim to the emotional insanity of the former, brought about by the refusal of some woman to meet the wishes of the owner of the razor.—*N. PILES.—The unceasing torture from internal bleeding, external and itching piles is fast wearing away the thousands of those who are afflicted and their hope and courage have long since given place to despair. Let those who see this cheer up, for a mild and sure cure may be had by using BRIGGS' PILE REMEDIES.

A SURE CURE follows the use of BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL—the best known remedy for THROAT and LUNG COMPLAINTS. Only 50 cts. a bottle.

YOU ARE TROUBLED WITH A BAD BREATH.—It annoys your friends as well as yourself. You would like to get rid of it, but scarcely know what means to adopt. We will tell you. Use the fragrant Sozodont; it will cleanse and beautify your teeth, and leave your breath pure.

ARE YOU ALARMED ABOUT YOURSELF? Have you a distressing cough? Is your throat choked up with phlegm. Does a long breath pain you. If so you have reason to be frightened. CORNS.—Since pride and fashion have had control of mankind, and shoemakers were compelled to make boots and shoes to fit fancy instead of the feet, the suffering from Corns, Bunions, Ingrowing Nails, Sore Insteps, Blistered Heels, Callosities on the bottom of the feet, &c., cannot be described. But Briggs' Corn and Bunion Remedies will cure all such torments, and proper fitting boots will prevent their reproduction. Sold by all druggists. a12

A GOOD THING DULY APPRECIATED.—No beneficial revolution ever goes backward; and this maxim is as invariably in medicine as in politics. The advent of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, twenty years ago, produced a revolution in the treatment of a large class of ailments, and that revolution has ever since been in "the full tide of successful experiment." If that tide has borne the proprietors of this celebrated vegetable specific "on to fortune," it has also borne thousands of human beings, who were languishing under the effects of disease, weak and hopeless, out of the depths of despondency into the paradise of health and cheerfulness. It is no exaggeration to say, that to the vigor, the regularity of habit of body, the good appetite and perfect digestion, acquired under the operation of this unequalled tonic and corrective, multitudes of people in every walk of life, who had been vainly physicked in the usual way, owe the blessings of renewed health and the prospect of prolonged life.

INSTANTANEOUS is the operation of BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL in all cases of SORE THROAT, HOARSENESS, COUGHS, CROUP, and LUNG AFFECTIONS. It is beneficial in all cases. Sold for 50 cents per bottle.

LOCAL AFFAIRS.

Laconics.

The smelters have found a new and profitable fishing ground at Sturgeon Creek, Eliot, where the smelts are more abundant than in the much-fished-in Great Bay. One man recently took 120 lbs in a day, at Sturgeon Creek.

The labor upon the new hotel at Gosport, building by Mathes & Poor, progresses. The Boston papers speak of Mr. Mathes as a lawyer of Portsmouth. He is a merchant and government contractor, and for several years has furnished supplies to the Marine Corps. The Portsmouth lawyers may possibly understand how to mix things at the bar, but we doubt if any of them "can keep a hotel."—Concord Monitor.

The boarders of a popular hotel not a hundred miles from Portsmouth were excessively amused recently by the appearance of a newly made bridegroom at breakfast, dressed in exquisite style minus collar and cravat, which he had forgotton to don.

Harry Bloodgood was in his funniest vein, Wednesday evening, and had the satisfaction of performing to a crowd. Aside from the little indelicacies which crop out in all variety shows, the entertainment was one of the most amusing of the season. The ladies sang finely, the mirror of the Boston fire was a failure, the elephant trick was well done, Gaynor's banjoing was eccentric and very enjoyable, Manning's clog dance and Dutch and Irish sketches were among the best we ever saw, and the grotesque somersault dancing of Walters and Morton took the audience by storm. When Harry comes again he will have a Temple full.

Mayor Horton of Dover, Alderman Tufts, and Councilmen Dame, Hodsdon and Young have been appointed a committee on the part of the city authorities to communicate with the City Councils of Portsmouth relative to a joint celebration of the 250th anniversary of the settlement of the two cities, this year.

The temperance lecture at the Temple next Sunday evening will be delivered by Mr. Samuel C. Knights of Cambridge.

Mr. Charles W. Martin of Haverhill, Mass., formerly of Portsmouth, is recovering from small pox, notwithstanding rumor had him dead on the 7th.

John H. Miller, the right hand man of S. R. Niles, of Boston, sends to the Treasurer of the Public Library fund of Portsmouth, an annual donation, in the belief that the requisite sum will ultimately be raised and the project take a decided start. At present, the trustees show more ability in keeping the funds from being expended, than in adding new contributions. The legacies left by wealthy people in Portsmouth, to societies and persons out of the State, since Mr. Jones' offer to make a conditional gift for this purpose, would amount to more than enough to build and supply a library building as fine as the Manchester public library, which is the leading institution of the kind in the State.—Concord Monitor.

Martyrdom Refused.

Previous to the recent democratic state convention, the Manchester Mirror referred to two Portsmouth candidates for gubernatorial honors, under the caption "Behold the fire and the wood, but where is the lamb for a burnt offering," as follows:—

Frank Jones of Portsmouth could be nominated. He is the wealthiest, livest, most popular and hardest working Democrat in the State; but he is overwhelmed in business, is too young to accept defeat gracefully, too impulsive to be tied to a platform, and by far too shrewd to pack himself away covered with the mould which always clings to defeated candidates for Governor, and this hearing the ticket this year is the one sacrifice for the good of his party which Frank won't consent to.

Hatch of Portsmouth is a fair lawyer, good looking as the average, and carries a gold-headed cane. His party has been waiting for a time to come when it has confessedly no ghost of a chance to elect its candidate in order to nominate Hatch, and now it has come Hatch thinks he had better wait.

THE SPARHAWK FAMILY.—In an article recently published in the Amesbury Mass., Journal, on the occasion of the removal of Dr. Sparhawk from that village, John G. Whittier gives some interesting reminiscences of the Sparhawk family which has flourished at Kittery for over a century. It may not be generally known that the burning of Falmouth by Mowatt, in 1775, may be indirectly traced to the influence of a fair daughter of this house. The story as related by Mr. Whittier is as follows:

In 1775, Capt. Mowatt, of the British war ship Canceaux, with three other armed vessels, anchored off Portsmouth, under order to bombard and destroy the town. He privately went on shore and entered the spacious Sparhawk mansion at Kittery Point. He became so fascinated with Mary Sparhawk that she persuaded him to save the town and sail to Portland, then Falmouth, which he laid in ashes.

The Congressional Candidacy.

The republican convention for this district will meet at Dover next Wednesday. The Enquirer says that as far as heard from Rockingham county has chosen 66 delegates for Small, 6 for Wheeler and 6 for Emery. Strafford has elected 29 for Small, 27 for Wheeler, 4 for Hall, and 2 for Thurston. Carroll chose 10 for Small, 6 for Wheeler, and 6 for Thurston. Total thus far, 105 for Small, 39 for Wheeler, and 18 for all others. It will take 121 votes to nominate, and we presume Hon. William B. Small, of Newmarket, will receive 150 on the first formal ballot.

THE CITY COUNCIL of Charlestown, Mass., has been having a lively time over the acts of some of its members. From the published reports it appears that several aldermen have improved their positions as chairmen of committees, to give themselves (as private citizens) paying jobs under the city government, and afterwards (as city officials) to approve the bills run up by themselves as private individuals.—The city solicitor pronounces the transactions illegal, and the members who have not had axes to grind are resisting the payment of bills rendered by other members.

MACOUPIN CO. COAL.—The coal mines along the line of the Jacksonville, Northwestern and Southeastern Railway of Illinois are exciting unusual interest. Professor Seelye has made an examination and chemical analysis of the quality of the coal, and pronounces it equal to any in Illinois; over 50 per cent. is fixed carbon and about 40 per cent. is volatilizable matter, leaving only about 10 per cent. ashes and no sulphur. This coal Prof. Seelye pronounces good for iron and steel manufacture. Dr. Stevens, who is versed in the geology of the West, states in a lengthy report that Macoupin Co. coal (the coal underlying this road bed) is about as valuable coal as is to be found in the West. He declares it to be inexhaustible and capable of being worked nearly the whole length of the line, 125 miles. At Mt. Vernon, the southern terminus, it crops out nearly to the surface.

Taken with the wonderfully fertile character of this whole district, nothing more is needed to render the enterprise one of the first order.

MARK TWAIN has written an interesting letter on the state of the Sandwich Islands, which, whether so intended or not is an admirable argument in favor of annexation. He describes the country as a paradise, and the climate, or rather climates, for there are several, as the most delicious in the world. Some of the missionaries will hardly be pleased with the account of their converts. He represents the natives as all very fond of theology, in fact religion is their meat and drink. Every man, woman and child can read and they read their Bibles over and over again. They are fond of sermons and Sunday schools, and they all sing hymns. As to the practice of Christianity, that is, according to Mark Twain, quite another matter. "Some of the nobler precepts of Christianity they have always practiced naturally, and they always will. Some of the minor precepts they as naturally do not practice, and as naturally they never will. The white man has taught them to lie, and they take to it pleasantly and without sin—for there cannot be much sin in a thing which they cannot be made to comprehend is a sin. Adultery they look upon as poetically wrong but practically proper." The fertility of the land is marvelous. In Louisiana, 200,000 acres of sugar land would only yield 50,000 tuns of sugar per annum, and possibly not so much; but in the Sandwich Islands, would get at least 400,000 tuns out of it. The planters engaged in raising sugar are Americans, and their reason for favoring annexation is that the duty on sugar imported to this country would be abolished, thereby enabling them to realize enormous profits. Reciprocity would have the same effect, if that should be decided on instead of annexation.

HOW TO GET UP A PAPER.—The boys may be amused at this little fellow's description of how a newspaper is got up. The other day he went into a printing-house, and was so much impressed with what he saw that he sat down and wrote a composition about it. Here it is:

"On how to get up a newspaper. First the headman sits down at a desk and writes on square pieces of paper what to print in the paper, and then he gives each man a paper. The man that the paper is given to takes the types and fixes them one after another so they read what the paper reads. A man then takes the words and puts them in a box and places it in some machinery that makes it go back and forth. Then there is a boy who stands over the machinery and puts the paper on the machinery and then some hooks bring it down over the box with types the types have ink on them and print on the paper, then there are hooks that take the paper up and lay it on the table, then they fold the papers up and sell them."

THE COMING MAN.—The halls of Congress will be bereft of Mr. Snapp after the present session; but the misfortune is mitigated by the thoughtfulness of a Tennessee constituency in providing a worthy successor. This gentleman will be disappointed if the clerk does not put his name on the roll as "Bill Crutchfield," which is the only appellation that he has ever responded to. He is described as a reproduction of David Crockett, and any one who may suppose that his district will be voiceless in the national legislauer does him grievous injustice. Mr. Crutchfield understands the first duty of a congressman to be oratory, and he means to discharge it conscientiously, and to earn his money if it is within the power of his very healthy lungs, and Mr. Crutchfield is no carpet knight of the rostrum; on the contrary, his popularity among his constituents is largely attributable to his playfulness with a revolver. Mr. Butler is therefore to be warned that in the coming encounters between himself and the Tennessee representative, he must not transcend the parliamentary amenities, or Mr. Crutchfield may be reluctantly compelled to make a target of him for a little pistol practice. At least Davy Crockett's "other self" will be sure to relieve the monotony of the Congressional Globe in some startling manner.—Chicago Tribune.

IRON in the BLOOD.

DYSPEPSIA, DEBILITY, DROPSY, HUMORS,

PERUVIAN SYRUP

Makes the Weak Strong.

The Peruvian Syrup, a Protected Solution of the Protoxide of Iron, is so combined as to have the character of an aliment, as easily digested, and assimilated with the blood as the simplest food. It increases the quantity of Nature's Own Vitalizing Agent, Iron in the blood, and cures "a thousand ill," simply by Toning up, Invigorating and Vitalizing the System. The enriched and vitalized blood permeates every part of the body, repairing damages and waste, searching out morbid secretions, and leaving nothing for disease to feed upon.

This is the secret of the wonderful success of this remedy in curing Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, Dropsy, Chronic Diarrhœa, Boils, Nervous Affections, Chills and Fevers, Humors, Loss of Constitutional Vigor, Diseases of the Kidneys and Bladder, Female Complaints, and all diseases originating in a bad state of the blood, or accompanied by debility or a low system. Being free from Alcohol, in any form, its energizing effects are not followed by corresponding reaction, but are permanent, infusing strength, vigor, and new life into all parts of the system, and building up an Iron Constitution.

Thousands have been changed by the use of this remedy, from weak, sickly, suffering creatures to strong, healthy, and happy men and women; and invalids cannot reasonably hesitate to give it a trial.

See that each bottle has PERUVIAN SYRUP blown in the glass.

Morning Chronicle.

A FIERY FURNACE.—As the day of Cluck's execution approaches, horrible and ghastly topics are discussed in workshops, around the evening stove, in the corner grocery, and in many places of public resort. Children shudder, and cling closer to their mother's knee, as the garrulous old visitor narrates some story of a hanging, or the details of some dark crime that occurred when she was a girl. The solemn, the mysterious, and the superstitious, which always surrounds a hanging, seems to be in the air; and, although the topic is a disgusting one, it must be confessed—not to the credit of humanity—that a morbid appetite in the public craves and demands the minutest details of the horrible barbarity.

Among the many recalled stories which are borne upon the very wind, the following was told to a Sentinel reportur a night or two ago, and to add to the horrid surroundings of the story, he was in a coffin shop, viewing the coffin which is to contain the last remains of the murderer Cluck. The story may be a true one; more likely it is false, but it is given as it was detailed, and it may be that some one still living may remember the circumstance and write the tale.

Some years ago there was a well-known engineer, whose name is not given for good and sufficient reasons, ran a passenger train on one of the most popular and most traveled roads that run out of Indianapolis. At a certain place on the road, every night for about a week, as the passenger train run by this engineer came thundering along, it was certain to be thrown from the track by obstructions placed there. Several of these mishaps to the train caused loss of life, and the company was becoming considerably alarmed, and the ability of the engineer was being seriously questioned.

One night, as the unfortunate train was nearing the fatal spot, the engineer, who had been sitting glum and silent at the throttle, turned to his fireman and said: "If this train jumps the track at that place to-night, you follow me; don't stop for anything, but keep after me. Somebody has been throwing this train off the track, and I'm going to catch him."

When the train arrived at the usual place it struck a misplaced rail and was banked. The engineer, closely followed by the fireman, jumped from the engine, and ran into a cornfield, and started up a man that lay concealed there. Upon bringing the culprit back to the wreck the enraged passengers wanted to lynch him, but the engineer, a stern, cold, determined man, prevented them, saying that he would take charge of him, and through the intercession of the conductor, the trembling wretch was left in charge of the engineer.

The train was righted and was soon speeding on its way. The prisoner, who had confessed his fiendishness, had been seated on the engine and the fireman placed beside him as a guard. When the train was on a smooth piece of track, howling along at a speed of twenty-five miles an hour, the engineer beckoned the fireman to stand out of the way. The fireman stepped aside, and the engineer picked up a round stick of wood, and struck the criminal such a blow upon the head that it stunned him. He then caught the quivering form of the poor wretch, and, opening the furnace doors, threw his body into the hot, seething hell of flame.

The doors were shut, the train rattled along, and never, until upon his death-bed the engineer confessed the act, was it ascertained what had been the fate of the fiend who had been in the habit of throwing the train off the track.—Indianapolis Sentinel.

A CINCINNATI BLACKSMITH'S FATE.—Cincinnati has a blacksmith who, embalmed in heroic verse, should stand side by side with Longfellow's village smithy. He has long loved a maiden, whom he has courted with a fervor and heat equal to his own forge fire. But she was harder than iron. She wouldn't melt. He called one evening, arrayed in a manner so gorgeous that the lilies of the field were not a circumstance. His hair and handkerchief discounted the perfumes of Araby. His store clothes were of the primest pattern, his beaver of a slick and shining black, and his neck-tie sufficient to encumbrance the seas and make the green-eyed red. So far it was all smooth sailing, but the trowsers was the rock on which he split. They were good high-water trowsers, and would have made tip-top knee-shorts of the Revolutionary time. But for modern unmentionables there was too much calf-skin displayed between his southern boundary and his number eleven soles.

The lady was struck dumb by his appearance, and forthwith sailed out of the room with a vez retrousse. Then came the crisis. With a stagy step he strode into the back room; a flash, a report, a heavy fall, and all was over. The first words they heard was the cooing of the young woman, soft and gentle, evidently from the heart; not, however, in the undistinguishable language of love, but in plain English, to this effect: "Oh, you ugly brute, I wish you had shot yourself." The prose of the case is that this son of Vulcan had prepared a pistol, loaded with powder and chewed paper bullets, intending by the effect to bring his fair to terms. He didn't. He don't go there any more, either. He says measles are hereditary in the family.

The total population of the provinces of Quebec, Ontario, New Brunswick, Nova Scotia, Manitoba, and the city of Halifax, by the census recently taken, is 3,517,598, or about one million less than the State of New York alone.

After an extensive practice of upwards of thirty years, continues to secure patents in the United States; also in Great Britain, France and other foreign countries. Caveats, Specifications, Assignments, and all papers for Patents, executed on reasonable terms with dispatch. Researches made to determine the validity and utility of Patents of inventions, and legal and other advice rendered in all matters touching the same. Copies of the claims of any patent furnished, by remitting one dollar. Assignments recorded in Washington.

No Agency in the United States possesses superior facilities for obtaining Patents or ascertaining the patentability of inventions.

All necessity of a journey to Washington to procure a Patent and the usual great delay there, are here saved inventors.

TESTIMONIALS.

"I regard Mr. Eddy as one of the most capable and successful practitioners with whom I have had official intercourse. CHARLES MASON, Commissioner of Patents."

"I have no hesitation in assuring inventors that they cannot employ a man more competent and trustworthy and more capable of putting their applications in a form to secure for them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office. EDMUND BURKE, Late Commissioner of Patents."

"MR. R. H. EDDY has made for me over THIRTY applications for Patents, having been successful in almost every case. Such unmistakable proof of great talent and ability on his part leads me to recommend ALL inventors to apply to him to procure their Patents, as they may be sure of having the most faithful attention bestowed on their cases, and at very reasonable charges. "WELL

Old Wheezy, what's the matter with you and why are you muffled up so?"

"Wretched cold! Can't speak aloud. My throat's so sore and lungs so oppressed it pains me to talk."

"Now, Old Boy, I was in the same predicament and have been wonderfully cured. Met a friend who urged me to take

PULMOCINE CORDIAL

For the Throat and Lungs.

Bought a bottle at the

on Market Street. Now I'm going to tell you the truth. The bottles are small and sell at only

50

Cents each, but the

PULMOCINE CORDIAL

is powerful. A half bottle completely cured me; a single dose

RELIEVED MY THROAT INSTANTANEOUSLY.

— THE —

PULMOCINE CORDIAL

Is a condensed cure-all. Try it—and take off that muffler."

"I WILL."

OF
THE GREAT REMEDY FOR
CONSUMPTION!

and acknowledged by many prominent physicians to be the most Reliable Preparation ever introduced for the RELIEF and CURE of all

LUNG COMPLAINTS.

This well known remedy is offered to the public, sanctioned by the experience of over forty years, and when resorted to in season seldom fails to effect a speedy cure of

Coughs, Colds, Croup, Bronchitis, Influenza, Whooping Cough, Hoarseness, Pains or Soreness in the Chest or Side, Bleeding at the Lungs, Liver Complaints, &c. &c.

CONSUMPTION

by a timely resort to this standard remedy, as is proved by hundreds of testimonials received by the proprietors.

Dr. Wistar's Balsam of Wild Cherry

does not dry up a Cough and leave the cause behind, as is the case with most preparations, but it loosens and cleanses the lungs and allays irritation, thus removing the cause of the complaint

CLERGYMEN, LAWYERS, SINGERS,

and all those whose occupation requires an unusual exercise of the vocal organs, will find this the ONLY PREPARATION which will effectually and instantaneously relieve their difficulties.

BEWARE OF COUNTERFEITS.

Remember that the genuine Wistar's Balsam has on the outside wrapper the signature of "I. BUTTS," and the printed name of the proprietors, "SETH W. FOWLE & SONS, BOSTON." All others are base imitations. Examine the wrapper carefully before purchasing.

CLEAR YOUR THROAT!
Relieve Your Lungs.
For the terrible diseases engendered by the lung-trying climate of New England,
Pulmocine Cordial
Is a speedy and reliable Preventive and Remedy. EVERY FAMILY should have a bottle at hand to check the sudden growth of all Pulmonary Diseases. For the Asthma, Coughs, Croups, Laryngitis, or inflammation of the larynx, Diphtheria, and all kindred THROAT DISEASES at all times prevalent, it is the ounce of PREVENTION. Children attacked with Whooping Cough or Croup should be immediately cared for. These painful attacks come with scarcely a moment's warning, when a physician may be out of immediate reach. A dose of PULMOCINE CORDIAL gives speedy relief, and the little ones are spared hours of pain and agony. As "a stitch in time saves nine," so does the possession of this FAMILY MEDICINE prevent the spread of disease. Parents seeing their children gasping with pain, friends and relatives beholding each other in peril from suffocation by the choking pain in the throat, paralyzed with fear and not knowing the best course to pursue, are liable to apply the wrong remedial agents. There is no safety in delay, no time to waste in such cases. CONSUMPTION, that fearful scourge of the human race, lies at the door of all thus afflicted. BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL checks it (unless in its advanced stage at which time there is no local cure) relieves the pressing, suffocating feeling at the lungs, and the patient's danger is past.
BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL is no new discovery. Twenty-three years ago it was used by one of New England's most famous physicians as the best PULMONARY CURATIVE he could prescribe, after a dozen years spent in experimenting with it before he was satisfied that the Materia Medica could add nothing in its favor.
Buchman's Pulmocine Cordial
Is the ultima thule of Medical Discovery.
Among its many ingredients are WILD CHERRY BARK, SQUILL ROOT, LIQUORICE ROOT, BLOOD ROOT, &C. It is a BLOOD PURIFIER, gently stimulating. It increases expectoration and is diuretic. It is sudorific and alterative. It is a necessary family medicine. It is a Tonic, and a powerful aid to the digestive organs. It is a gentle sedative, and relieves nervousness. It is aromatic and agreeable to the taste.
For Coughs, Croup, Diphtheria, Asthma, &c.
USE BUCHMAN'S
PULMOCINE CORDIAL.
The Pulmocine Cordial is not a quack medicine, is not an experiment, is not composed of any ingredients "discovered" by "walking in paradise" in South America or anywhere else, nor by one who discovered a weed and thereby cured himself. Most of the ingredients are such as our best educated physicians daily use for the complaints specified, in some form or other. The recipe is that perfected by one of New England's most learned and famous physicians, who used it entirely in his daily practice until his death. It is offered to the profession and to the public, absolutely pure and unadulterated.

The Singer
SEWING MACHINE
STILL LEADS THE MARKET.
The Success o the Company is far beyond that o any other similar concern; the Daily Manufacture
—OF—
400 OF THE SINGERS
Failing to Supply the Constant Demand.
All other machines call the public attention to some new loop or stitch or tension or finish, some advantage in running or needles or feed or prices —and many of these we have said very good points, and the agents selling them use them to divert entirely the would-be purchaser from fairly considering the facts in the case; but the
SINGER
seems to unite the good qualities of all, and is never found wanting.
THE SINGER
IS THE OLDEST
SEWING MACHINE
IN THE MARKET,
All others being copied from its first model. does two-thirds the sewing done in this country and preserves its advantages over all others combined.

$1000 REWARD.
BRIGGS' ALLEVANTOR is composed of Ammonia, Chloroform, Spirits of Camphor, Tincture of Lupuline, Oil of Juniper, and Alcohol. This compound is unequalled in the annals of medicine for the cure of Nervous or Sick Headache, Neuralgia, Trembling or Twitching of the Nerves, and all Nervous Diseases. It will counteract all poisons, banish pimples, cure scaly eruptions, itching, humors, &c.; it equalizes the circulation, invigorates the system, increases the action of the heart, without exciting the brain, cures Heartburn, Palpitation and Fluttering of the Heart, Dyspepsia, &c. Briggs' Allevantor absolutely possesses more curative properties than any other preparation. Physicians, chemists, and others are requested to examine and test the remedy, and $1000 will be paid if found different from representation.
COUCHS. Much has been said and written, and many remedies have been offered for the relief and cure of throat and lung diseases; but nothing has been so eminently successful, or obtained such a wide celebrity, as Briggs' Throat and Lung Healer.
CORNS! The excruciating pain produced by Corns, the unceasing twinging from Bunions, the piercing, distressing pain from Ingrowing Nails, cannot be described. Thousands suffer, not knowing there is a cure. Briggs' Corn and Bunion Remedies are no acid or potash compounds, but are reliable, soothing, and effectual, and just merit the success they have earned from an appreciative public. The Curative is a healing ointment; immediate relief is obtained by its application, and it will positively cure the worst cases of Festered Corns, Inflamed and Ulcerated Bunions, the sorest instep, the largest and severest Blisters, the most extensive Callosities on the soles or heels of the feet, unequalled in the cure of Chilblains or Frosted Feet. The Allevantor for ordinary corns and preventing their formation is absolutely unexcelled by anything ever known.
PILES have been a terror to mankind for centuries, and almost every attempt to cure them has been baffled. By unceasing study and experimenting, Dr. Briggs has discovered an absolutely cure for internal, bleeding, external, and itching piles. Briggs' Pile Remedies are mild, safe and sure.

NAPOLEON IN MEXICO.—He was led into Mexico in a will-of-the-wisp chase after that most mythical of conceptions, the Latin race. By this time the Latin race is the bete noire of the steady veterans of the French Foreign Office; and when their august master prepares to mount his hobby-horse, all the old stagers, who never heard of the Latin race till within the last ten years, begin to shake their heads. The truth is that Napoleon III. would never have ventured on the rash enterprise of founding a Mexican Empire, in the teeth of the Monroe doctrine and under the guns of the United States, if he had not disbelieved in American unity, and speculated on the disruption of the Stars and Stripes.

This was a blunder, and a very serious blunder, because it showed an ignorance of the internal strength and vigor of the people of the North. The Emperor shared it in common with several other acute thinkers; but there was this difference between the two cases, that private gentlemen and ladies can afford to make mistakes, which Emperors cannot. Half measures were thus once more the bane of French policy.

The immediate corollary of the Mexican Expedition was naturally the recognition of the Southern Confederacy; but if Napoleon III. was not imprudent enough to be decoyed into such a hazardous proceeding, he ought not to have committed himself to a contemporary move which was sure to be blocked unless Southern independence was assured. The shock of the downfall of Richmond was felt, accordingly, up to the very palace of Maximilian. From the moment the North had crushed the South, the retreat of the French from Mexico became a mere question of time; and the French Emperor, who has lowered his spear successfully to Cavour and Count Bismarck, was compelled to lower it to Mr. Seward too. His closing mistake was his attempt to cover up the decay of an Empire by a war, for which the nation was unprepared.

THOSE SURPRISE PARTIES, somehow, nearly all turn out unpleasantly. They tell about one that came off out in Connecticut recently, which was not half as joyous as a well-conducted funeral. It was reported of a man and his wife, who had been married many years without having any children, that they had at last been made happy by the birth of a daughter. Some of their friends determined to give the man a presentation surprise party. So about forty persons marched up to the house, one evening, carrying a cradle and lots of gum-rings and bibs, and bottles with gum-nozzles, and a baby carriage, and some little night-gowns, and a coral armlet, and agross of soothing-syrup, and socks, and paregoric. And they all burst into the parlor at once on tiptoe. And when the man in amazement asked them what they meant by such conduct, they said they were coming in quietly so as not to wake the baby. And when he blushed and stammered, and asked "what baby?" they said his baby, and began to hand him the things, and to load him up with soothing-syrup and gum-strings, until he got mad and floored one of the guests with a quart bottle of paregoric, and held him down until he explained. And then it was revealed, that it was all a mistake about the little daughter; that no such arrival had taken place at all, but that the arrival was false. And then the surprise party was a great deal more surprised than the man was; and the guests gathered up that infant furniture and tried to pretend to the old man that they never thought he had a daughter, but that they understood he had accepted a position as director in an orphan asylum, and they had brought around a few things for him to distribute among the poor fatherless children. The man said it was singularly thin, and then the company went home.

—The Napa, California, Register of Dec. 28th tells this singular story: Two miles this side of Vallejo, on Wednesday, our friend of the Young Creek, Captain Smith, saw quite a large sea lion that with a sturgeon was enjoying a merry Christmas. The lion was throwing the dead fish in the air, tantalizing a flock of gulls that sailed above him in the vain hope of having sturgeon for dinner. This is a common amusement with sea lions, their quickness and activity in the water making it almost an impossibility for the gulls to get even a pick.

—In Bret Harte's lecture are given a good many illustrations of the California humor of '49, but none more striking than one relative to the trial of a horse thief. The jury had occupied for an unpleasantly long period a room adjoining the one in which the trial had taken place, when the judge becoming impatient, opened the door and remarked: "Take your time, gentlemen; but remember that we want this room to lay out the corpse."

—In many of the towns of Vermont the partridge have appeared and joined the flocks of poultry. The snow is so thick that they cannot get any food and so they unite forces with the domestic fowls in perfect peace.

Bangor has been entertaining an angel unawares, in no less a person than the woman who is now talked of for queen of the Sandwich Islands. Mrs. Bishop, who visited that city last summer, and the local paper says 'that "those merchants who can recollect having seen Mrs. Bishop at their places of business, may now advertise that their stores are under the patronage of her most gracious majesty the queen of the Sandwich Islands."

The people of Littleton, recently subscribed for and bought a hearse, and now they complain that a cemetery corporation have taken it in charge, and won't allow its use to any but stockholders. A few days ago a soldier of the war of 1812 died in town. He was in indigent circumstances, and owned no cemetery lot, consequently two dollars had to be forthcoming in order that the hearse might be used at his burial.

President Grant takes a very decided stand against the continuance of polygamy in Utah, and it is intimated that he will soon send a special message to Congress on the subject. In a recent conversation with some Western gentlemen, he said that institution must be abolished, and if Congress will provide adequate legislation, such legislation shall be enforced, if General Sheridan has to go there with 10,000 men. The desired legislation is that which will enable the United States marshal there to impanel juries which the Mormons cannot control.

FIRE IN CONCORD.—Early Friday morning, fire broke out in Union Block, corner of Main and Depot streets. The block was destroyed, the owners, Lund & Fellows losing $20,000; insurance $15,000. Danforth & Ingalls, druggists, lost $3000. Wm. Marshall, clothier, lost $3000. Vogler & Clough, furniture dealers, lost $15,000; insured for $8,000. Mrs. Vogler, confectionery dealer, lost $1200. Benj. Carr, photographer, lost $3000—insured. E. P. Gerould, photographer, lost about $2,000—insured. Mrs. Vogler's loss of household goods was $1200; insured for $800.

CHARLES LOUIS NAPOLEON BONAPARTE, was the third son of Louis Bonaparte, ex-King of Holland, his mother being Hortense the daughter of the Empress Josephine, by her first marriage. The deceased potentate was born on April 20th, 1808, at the Tuilleries in Paris. When seven years old he accompanied his uncle, the first Napoleon, to the Champ de Mai, where he was presented to the Deputies of the people and to the army. Soon afterwards the family was banished from France as an immediate result of Waterloo. Louis and his mother lived first at Augsburg and afterward in Switzerland. The youth studied gunnery at a military academy on the Shores of Lake Thum, in the latter country.

In 1830, on the occasion of the Revolution and Louis Philippe's accession to the throne, he and his family asked permission to return to France, but were refused. In the beginning of 1831 he and his brother settled in Tuscany, and took part in the revolution at Rome. He then, after his brother's death, made his way to England, only to leave it immediately for the castle Ahrenenberg, in Thurgau, where he remained many years. He now became an author, publishing in succession "Reveries Politiques," in which he declared his belief that France could only be regenerated by one of Napoleon's descendents; a work on Switzerland; and a manual of artillery.

In 1836 he made an attempt to seize the Fortress of Strasburg, but failed miserably, he himself being captured, and held in confinement for some days, when he was conducted to Paris, which city he had hoped to enter at the head of a victorious army. Through the exertions of his mother in a great measure, his life was spared, on condition that he would come to this country, which he accordingly did. He did not stay long however, but returned shortly to Switzerland, from which country he was banished soon after, in consequence of the representations of the French Government. He then visited England the second time, and in 1839 published his most celebrated work on Napoleonic ideas. In 1840 he made a second attempt to secure the French crown by chartering a steamer to Boulogne, at which port he landed with fifty-three associates. The garrison, with one exception, refused to join him and he was captured on the beach in an attempt to get afloat again. Again he was taken to Paris a prisoner, and was tried before 160 Peers of France who sentenced him to perpetual imprisonment in a French fortress. He was confined in Ham for six years, making his escape on May 25, 1846, by assuming as a disguise the dress of a workman. He crossed the frontier into Belgium and took refuge in England once more. In that country he stayed until the revolution of 1848, which led to his being elected a representative of the National Assembly, and afterwards President of the French Republic.

On the 2d of Dec. 1851, Louis Napoleon made his celebrated coup d'etat, imprisoned nearly every statesman of ability in Paris, seized the most distinguished generals opposed to him, dissolved the Assembly, and proclaimed himself Dictator. He had won the army to his side previously, and thus was enabled to offer himself to the people as President for ten years. A plebiscite was overwhelmingly in his favor, and he was elected.

But this state of things only lasted a year. In Dec. 1852 he was proclaimed Emperor, and assumed the title of "Napoleon III, Emperor of the French, by the grace of God and the will of the People." Eventually he was recognized by the rest of the European powers. But the height of his ambition was not yet reached. He hoped to be dictator of Europe as his uncle had been, and with much adroitness sought and secured an alliance with England, so that he could humble Russia. The Crimean war was virtually conducted by his generals; he had more troops in the field than the English, who were restrained from active measures over and over again by the refusal of their allies' support.

The Emperor married, in 1853, Eugenie Marie de Guzman, Countess de Teba, and a son was born them in 1856. In 1858 Orsini, with his historical bombs, made an unsuccessful attempt to take his life. In 1859-60 he aided Italy in her war with Austria, the result of which was the consolidation of the former country by the acquisition of the Duchies, and the cession of Savoy to France as payment for the obligation. Still further to make himself popular he went to war with Mexico, and placed the unfortunate Archduke Maximilian on the throne. He also gave the Pope his material support, and his troops defeated the Garibaldians at Mentana, near Rome, in Oct., 1867.

Strongly pressed, the Emperor now and again granted concessions in the way of popular government in France, and at the end of 1869 M. Emile Ollivier was charged with forming a cabinet which should represent the majority of the Legislative body. In 1870 Prince Leopold of Hohenzollern was proposed as a candidate for the vacant throne of Spain, and because the King of Prussia would not give an undertaking that the Prince should not cease to be a candidate, Napoleon went to war with him. The events of the Franco-Prussian war are so recent that it is unnecessary to recall them; after a series of disastrous defeats, the Emperor, with one of his his armies, was surrounded at Sedan, by the Germans, and compelled to surrender on the 1st of September, 1870. He was conveyed a prisoner to Cassel, where he remained until peace was concluded between the two powers. Then, a Republic having been established in France, he, for the fourth time, took refuge in England, and lived with his wife and son at Chiselhurst, in Kent.

Within a week before his death two operations for the removal of stone in the bladder had been performed on him, it was said successfully. He did not survive them, however, more than three or four days.

The ex-Empress Eugenie, has been with him almost hourly from the beginning of his present sickness. Her grief at her husband's condition was very great, and it is feared the sudden calamity which has now overtaken her may produce serious results upon her already overtaxed nervous and physical system.

Correspondence.

BOSTON, Jan. 10, 1873.

The quiet of the city seems almost unbroken since the opening of the year. True, we have the sleighing in the suburbs, we have the credit of the small-pox to a degree much greater than the circumstances warrant, and we have frequent fires, but the latter seem of small moment to those who faced the flames Nov. 9th and 10th. The burnt district is a busy place, for a "train," and ere the autumn leaves shall again glorify the hills of New England the change from desolation to thrift will astonish even those by whose energy the wondrous transformation is to be wrought.

The new Post Office, in the old South Church, will at least be more handy to the majority of our citizens than its present location in Faneuil Hall. Of the conveniences of the new position in arrangement I can not speak by authority. Next week will show.

The Highland Railway, started despite the immense influence of the Metropolitan R. R. monopoly, has proved very successful, and the cars of the line, with their chaste ornamentation of Scotch plaid, are filled to their utmost capacity. To the masses street railways have become a necessity, and we will not inveigh against them, even though some glaring faults are apparent in their management.

In California wines, Messrs. Perkins, Stern & Co., still retain the lead for the popularity and excellence of their goods. As the pioneers in an extensive branch of home industry they are entitled to this recognition, and their wines, which are sold in all parts of the country, are most satisfactory to consumers.

The new elevator of the Boston and Albany Railroad, corner of Chandler and Berkeley streets, is probably the most solid building in the city. The stale joke as to whiskey being the largest grain "elevator" in this country has grown threadbare from being so often applied to this immense stack of bricks, granite and lumber.

I would acknowledge the receipt of cards for the recent "hop" given by Rand Brothers, at the St. Cloud, New York. These hops have become celebrated among up-town New Yorkers, and that the "Sons of Portsmouth" succeed equally well in every path of life is shown by the following notice from the New York Express:—

Hotel accommodations in this city are getting to be so important a feature in domestic life, that they are becoming year by year more firmly established and broadly patronized. Families of position find in them the best advantages of a permanent home, without the intolerable annoyances of kitchen servitude, which has deprived housekeeping of half its comforts and nearly all its independence. The St. Cloud, on the corner of Forty-second street and Broadway, kept by the Rand Brothers, is among the very pleasantest of these establishments. * * * * All these advantages, with a thoroughly liberal and well-managed establishment, has made this Pioneer Hotel a great success. Last year a large adjoining house was added to the main building to accommodate the permanent guests who had become too numerous for the hotel proper. This year great improvements have been made in the apartments, the offices, and the most spacious of the three dining-rooms, one of the largest, lightest and most tastefully arranged rooms in the city. A new elevator, one of the most elegant affairs that Otis Tuft & Co. ever sent from their establishment, runs up and down its course from the offices to the roof in rather less than a minute when the steam is at its force. * * * Altogether, this establishment has prospered wonderfully, and deserves to prosper. If a vigilant and generous management ever commanded success, it has been that of Rand Brothers.

CORNS.—Since pride and fashion have had control of mankind, and shoemakers were compelled to make boots and shoes to fit fancy instead of the feet, the suffering from Corns, Bunions, Ingrowing Nails, Sore Insteps, Blistered Heels, Callosities on the bottom of the feet, &c., cannot be described. But Briggs' Corn and Bunion Remedies will cure all such torments, and proper fitting boots will prevent their reproduction. Sold by all druggists. al2

A GOOD THING DULY APPRECIATED.—No beneficial revolution ever goes backward; and this maxim is as invariably in medicine as in politics. The advent of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, twenty years ago, produced a revolution in the treatment of a large class of ailments, and that revolution has ever since been in "the full tide of successful experiment." If that tide has borne the proprietors of this celebrated vegetable specific "on to fortune," it has also borne thousands of human beings, who were languishing under the effects of disease, weak and hopeless, out of the depths of despondency into the paradise of health and cheerfulness. It is no exaggeration to say, that to the vigor, the regularity of habit of body, the good appetite and perfect digestion, acquired under the operation of this unequalled tonic and corrective, multitudes of people in every walk of life, who had been vainly physicked in the usual way, owe the blessings of renewed health and the prospect of prolonged life.

PILES.—The unceasing torture from internal bleeding, external and itching piles is fast wearing away the thousands of those who are afflicted and their hope and courage have long since given place to despair. Let those who see this cheer up, for a mild and sure cure may be had by using BRIGGS' PILE REMEDIES.

A SURE CURE follows the use of BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL—the best known remedy for THROAT and LUNG COMPLAINTS. Only 50 cts. a bottle.

YOU ARE TROUBLED WITH A BAD BREATH.—It annoys your friends as well as yourself. You would like to get rid of it, but scarcely know what means to adopt. We will tell you. Use the fragrant Sozodont; it will cleanse and beautify your teeth, and leave your breath pure.

ARE YOU ALARMED ABOUT YOURSELF? Have you a distressing cough? Is your throat choked up with phlegm. Does a long breath pain you. If so you have reason to be frightened. But take heart, cheer up, a single bottle of Hale's Honey of Horehound and Tar will cure you. Crittenton's 76th Avenue. Sold by all Druggists.

Pike's Toothache Drops cure in 1 minute.

INSTANTANEOUS is the operation of BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL in all cases of SORE THROAT, HOARSENESS, COUGHS, CROUP, and LUNG AFFECTIONS. It is beneficial in all cases. Sold for 50 cents per bottle.

Only One.

On Thursday evening we were informed that two persons, if not more, had been taken to the Pest House by the Health Officers, suffering from the worst kind of small-pox—the Boston variety; and a little later the number of patients had been increased to five. Not choosing to assist in getting up a needless scare, we refrained from mentioning the rumors, which had for a foundation the following facts:

On Tuesday, the 7th, a young man named Quinn arrived home in this city from Boston. Soon after his arrival the Health Officers were notified that he had small-pox, and a prompt investigation satisfied them that Quinn was not in a condition to be safely allowed abroad; but he strongly objected to going to Pest Island and promised to return whence he came, at once. On Thursday he was found on Water Street by Capt. Shillaber, who immediately applied for an officer to compel compliance with his orders; Mayor Marvin answered the application with the information that the entire police force was at the disposal of the Health Department, if necessary. The City Marshal accompanied Capt. Shillaber, and Quinn was transferred to the Pest House, where he now remains and will remain until he is entirely recovered. He was not nearly so numerous on Friday morning as on Thursday night.

The Other Side.

We recently chronicled the sinking of the schooner Addison Gilbert, by a collision with the sloop M. M. Hamilton in the lower harbor. The mate of the sloop, Mr. Stephen F. Bennett, of Portland, in a letter to the Boston News, says:—

The sloop M. M. Hamilton, from Boston bound to Portland, while beating into Portsmouth on the morning of the 7th, about one o'clock, was run into by schooner Addison Gilbert.

The schooner was running out of the harbor with a fair wind, and had she kept on her course would have passed by the sloop to leeward, but putting her helm down with the intention of going across the sloop's bow, the vessels came together, and the schooner was sunk.

It was stated in the Boston Daily News by the Capt. of the schooner that he had his proper lights set, and on his right course. He had no lights set whatever, and was decidedly and wholly in the wrong.

The Sons.

We have before us a circular of the Sons of Portsmouth resident in New York, requesting a meeting of the Sons and Daughters at the St. Cloud Hotel on the evening of Jan. 9th, to respond to the invitation sent by the committee of citizens to participate in the reunion next Fourth of July. The Rand Brothers, (Portsmouth boys) proprietors of the St. Cloud, offered the use of their rooms free of expense. The circular closes with the following quotation from the poem of James T. Fields, Esq., at the 1853 reunion:—

"Oh, take us back with all our years,
Ye treasured haunts of youth!
Forgive a few fond foolish tears,
The heart's warm stamp of Truth!
We come in manhood's riper hours
To lay our garlands down,
And braid a wreath of fresher flowers
For thee our native town!"

"God bless the spot we love so well—
The earth has none more fair;
T'is honest pride,—our bosoms swell
To breathe their native air!
Come lads, a cheer to speak our joy,
While here our flag unfurls—
A Health for Portsmouth Man and Boy,
And don't forget the Girls."

City Council.

In Board of Mayor and Aldermen, Thursday evening, a protest by Ald. Hatch and Mendum against the action of the Board in refusing to amend the record of the meeting of Dec. 12, was recived and placed on file.

Voted, That the whole proceedings relative to resignation and reinstatement of Mr. Barsantee be presented to Judge Doe for his decision.

Ayes, Ald. Waldron, Annable, Giddings and Wilson, 4; nays, Ald. Mendum and Hatch, 2. The Mayor vetoed the vote.

A motion that Geo. E. Barsantee be paid for his services up to the time of his resignation was negatived, Ald. Mendum only voting in the affirmative.

Com. on Fire Dept. reported that heating apparatus can be attached to steamers' boilers for about $75. The same committee were instructed to report the value of property belonging to late fire companies Nos. 5 and 6, with a view to purchasing the same.

John H. Grant's rent was remitted for quarter ending Dec. 31.

Laconics.

Mayor Horton of Dover was in town on Thursday, on business connected with the Portsmouth & Dover Railroad.

The tableaux and pantomimes at the Temple, Friday evening, were very successfully carried out, and we hope the Young People's Union received a considerable addition to its fund. The opening tableau was, we think, the best of the series. The pantomimes were ludicrous and the statuary perfect in representation. Bluebeard was well done, as was the most recent of his many wives. Pickles seem to have been favorite with the ladies in those days as in the present time, which, we doubt not, explains the wonderful manner in which the suspended (?) heads were preserved. We hope Mr. Bartlett will return again and favor our citizens with new representation.

There will be a Sunday School exhibition at the Methodist church next Tuesday evening, consisting of recitations, dialogues, allegories and music. A first class entertainment will be given for a trifling admission.

Stocks for sale at auction by Col. Hackett this noon.

Isaac P. Greenleaf of Boston, the well known lecturer on Spiritualism will speak at the hall known as the "Republican Headquarters," No. 5 Congress street, tomorrow afternoon and evening. Services at the usual hours. The public are invited. Meetings to be continued each Sabbath until further notice.

Our neighbor of the Journal attempts a whitewashing feat by referring to Senator Patterson as being attacked by the New York Sun, (the most infamously conducted paper in the country) and ignoring the sworn testimony of Hon. Oakes Ames, before the congressional committee. We regret very much that any respectable U. S. Senator needs whitewashing.

Railroad To Newcastle.—Marginal Railroad.

The knowing ones say that a survey has been completed of a proposed branch road to Newcastle from the Concord Railroad, leaving the main track and passing under the Eastern Railroad and thence through Barberry lane, near the powder house. The proposed line crosses Middle street below the residence of Rufus K. Oxford, Esq., and continues across the field of C. H. Mendum, Esq., crosses Wibird, Union and Broad streets, Miller and Richards Avenues, and South street at the gravel pit east of Cotton's cemetery. From thence the line runs to and crosses the first bridge to Great Island. Wharves will be built at Newcastle, which offers unlimited facilities for commercial business. We presume legislative action will be necessary to secure the privilege of building this road across one of the principal thoroughfares.

We hear that the Portsmouth & Dover Railroad corporation has been negotiating with the owners of wharves on our city front for the privilege of laying a track and running cars over the wharves, some such action being necessary to enable the road to receive direct from vessels coal and produce shipped for transportation over the new road. As yet the matter is held in abeyance.

Clippings.

From the Portsmouth Journal.

—Look into the well filled rooms of the Young Peoples' Union any night, if you would be delighted at pleasant and profitable scenes.

—The Governor and Council have appointed Mr. Samuel Dodge of this city, a Justice of the Peace and Quorum throughout the State.

—Nearly 750 tons of fifteen inch ice has already been cut from Marston's Pond, near Lincoln Hill, by Mr. John L. Downs. The huge cakes are pronounced of extra clear quality.

—The lecture which Rev. Carlos Martyn was to have delivered last Sabbath evening, was postponed on account of the storm, and will be given next Sabbath evening in the North Church at 7 o'clock. The subject is, "Trade and Traders, as Viewed from the Pulpit."

—The aqueduct water has run low and slow in many parts of our city lately. Some householders who have depended on the up-stairs running supply, have been obliged to bring it from the cellar. Do not leave the water running at night to prevent freezing. The waste can be ill afforded.

—The meeting at Irving Hall last week, called in the interest of the return of the Sons, by the Market Street clerks, drew together an enthusiastic number. Maj. Daniel J. Vaughan was appointed permanent Chairman and Freeman F. Sanborn permanent Secretary. A committee was appointed to canvass the city for the purpose of enrolling the names of those who will join in forming an independent military company, of 100 men, to do escort duty on that day. A general interest appears to be taken in this important matter, and the proffers of aid are encouraging to those who have the matter in charge. It is proposed to ask the State for the loan of equipments, hence the expense will be very light to those who add their names to the roster. Another meeting will be held at an early day.

Twenty Years Love.—Can husband and wife love and cherish each other for twenty years without "words" or angry dispute? We would give a good deal to get at the answers—affirmative, negative or doubtful—such a simple question will provoke. "Certainly," confidently say the young couple in the first happy flush of the honeymoon. "It would be absurd to expect such a thing," is the thought of many a Benedict of fifty. The latter is the very general opinion in Weston-super-mare, England. There, last month, Mr. Knylake, according to an old custom, as President of the Weston Cottager's Show, and in the presence of a crowded assembly, invited the cottagers to come foward and claim a flitch of bacon offered to the cottager and his wife who had "loved and cherished each other for twenty years without words or angry disputes, and who had in all things faithfully performed their marriage vows." There was not even a claimant. We are happy to say, however, such wedded bliss is not impossible. In the year 1757—we are sorry to have to go back so far—in pursuance of a similar ancient custom, a flitch of bacon was claimed at Dunmow in Essex, by a man and his wife, who had the same delivered to them as of right, as "they had never quarreled, neither had either repented, nor had one offended the other from the day of their marriage for twenty years. The townspeople of Dunow were so much pleased that they immediately got up a procession in their honor, and chaired them on men's shoulders.

IRON in the BLOOD.

DYSPEPSIA, DEBILITY, DROPSY, HUMORS,

PERUVIAN SYRUP

Makes the Weak Strong.

The Peruvian Syrup, a Protected Solution of the Protoxide of Iron, is so combined as to have the character of an aliment, as easily digested, and assimilated with the blood as the simplest food. It increases the quantity of Nature's Own Vitalizing Agent, Iron in the blood, and cures "a thousand ill," simply by Toning up, Invigorating and Vitalizing the System. The enriched and vitalized blood permeates every part of the body, repairing damages and waste, searching out morbid secretions, and leaving nothing for disease to feed upon.

This is the secret of the wonderful success of this remedy in curing Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, Dropsy, Chronic Diarrhœa, Boils, Nervous Affections, Chills and Fevers, Humors, Loss of Constitutional Vigor, Diseases of the Kidneys and Bladder, Female Complaints, and all diseases originating in a bad state of the blood, or accompanied by debility or a low system. Being free from Alcohol, in any form, its energizing effects are not followed by corresponding reaction, but are permanent, infusing strength, vigor, and new life into all parts of the system, and building up an Iron Constitution.

Thousands have been changed by the use of this remedy, from weak, sickly, suffering creatures to strong, healthy, and happy men and women: and invalids cannot reasonably hesitate to give it a trial.

See that each bottle has PERUVIAN SYRUP blown in the glass.

Morning Chronicle.

EXCITING SCENE IN A RAILWAY CAR. When the 6 o'clock train on the Hudson River Railroad left New York on Christmas Eve, Mayor Eastman was one of the passengers on the first car ahead of the first sleeper. Two or three seats ahead of him sat a finely dressed and noble-looking man who suddenly gave a frightful shriek, and snapped and barked like a dog. The passengers in the car rose to their feet, some of them making for the door panic-stricken. The stranger seized hold of the back of the seat in front of him, and, barking again, grated his teeth in a fearful manner, and closed his mouth on the top of the seat back, tearing out strips of wood with his teeth, and spitting them out on the floor.

Mayor Eastman and one or two others rushed forward to him, and endeavored to hold him, but were unsuccessful. His strength seemed superhuman. His eyes rolled wildly and he seemed to be in the greatest agony. A cup of water was brought him, upon seeing which he seized the edge of the metallic cup between his teeth and bit a piece out of it as clean almost as if it had been cut with a knife. A brakeman now arrived and aided the passengers, when finally, by overpowering numbers, the unfortunate man was compelled to lie down in the seat.

By the time the train reached Peekskill he had quieted down considerably. All efforts to ascertain who he was proved unavailing. The mark on the inside of his hat shows that it was made in Utica. He had several boxes with him filled with Christmas gifts. Some of the passengers thought he had the delirium tremens, while others felt convinced that it was a case of hydrophobia. Several times it was feared he would bite or otherwise inflict injury upon those who were endeavoring to hold him. When the train left the city he was sleeping, but he was closely watched. He was evidently a gentleman of considerable means. Mayor Eastman and Mr. Charles Chichester both say it was the most fearful scene they ever witnessed. — Poughkeepsie Eagle.

A CURIOUS STORY.—The Lynchburg Virginian narrates an incident in the career of the late Confederacy which goes to show how greed may overcome patriotism. Richmond was the headquarters of the Treasury Department, and the national currency was issued there. At a time when a new issue of bonds had just been ordered, there was employed in the Treasury Department a man named Elam, who saw the way to sudden wealth through a bold move, which he with an associate proceeded at once to make.

One night the two men entered the treasury building through a back window, and taking the plates, from the denomination of $5 to $1000, they placed them on the press and printed, on the regular paper, five million dollars. There was no more difficulty in printing them than in printing an ordinary business card, and there were no precautions taken to prevent such an enterprise as that undertaken by the two worthies. All that remained to be done to make the bonds fit for circulation was to have them signed.

The signing at this time was done by the young ladies in the department, one hundred of whom were thus employed. The men persuaded two of these to sign their bonds, and after a division they had each two and a half millions of bonds, worth at that time their face value in gold or silver.

The discovery came in its natural way. The paper was missed. The men were flush with their money, offering hundred dollar bills in payment of small debts, and in other ways acted suspiciously. One was arrested, and being terribly frightened confessed his guilt and implicated the other. Both were thrown into prison, from which one afterward escaped and went North, but the other suffered the penalty of his crime on the gallows.

As for the bonds, nothing was ever known of them. Whether they were concealed, destroyed, or put in surreptitious circulation is uncertain, but the former supposition is the most probable.

ATTEMPTS TO ASSASSINATE LOUIS NAPOLEON.—At least six plots to assassinate the late Louis Napoleon were made. In October, 1852, when Napoleon, who was on the eve of becoming Emperor, was at Marseilles, an infernal machine, formed by 250 gun barrels charged with 1500 balls, was to have been discharged against the Prince and his cortege, but the design was not carried out. On July 5, 1853, a fresh attempt was made to assassinate him as he was going to the Opera Comique. Twelve Frenchmen were arrested as concerned in the conspiracy. On April 28, 1855, Jean Liverani fired two shots at the Emperor in the Grand Avenue of the Champs Elysees. In 1857, Thibaldi and Bartolotti Grilli went from England to Paris to assassinate the Emperor, but were discovered, arrested, tried and punished. On January 14, 1858, Orsini, Gomez, Pieri and Rudio threw their shells at the Emperor. On December 24, 1863, Greco, Trabucco, Imperatore and Scaglioni, who had gone from London with the intention of killing the French Emperor, were arrested in Paris.

—Seventy Chinamen, who have been in this county three months, employed at the Berver Falls cutlery works, at Pittsburgh, Penn., have struck because they have discovered that their brethren, who have been in the works longer, are paid higher.

—Four boys have been arrested at Wauslon, Ohio, for firing a shot-gun volley into a troupe of small boys that they met while out gunning. The inexperience of the artists prevented the shot from taking effect.

Jacksonville, Northwestern & Southeastern R. R.

HAVING THIRTY YEARS TO RUN.

Bearing interest at 7 per cent. in Gold Coin, "of equal to the present standard."

Coupons payable in New York, London, or Frankfort on the Main, at the option of the holder. When desired, bonds will be registered by the Farmers' Loan and Trust Co. Interest payable January and July.

This road is now completed from Jacksonville to a junction with the CHICAGO & ALTON R. R. at Virden, a distance of over 30 miles. The road, so far as completed, is thoroughly equipped, ENTIRELY PAID FOR, and in full operation, and it is upon the completed portion only, that bonds amounting to $600,000 are now offered at 85 and accrued interest in currency. Bonds upon the remaining portion of the road will be sold at a much higher price and will be offered only upon completed road. This road traverses the garden of the State, crosses all the most important roads, controls the enormous coal mines at Virden, and its bonds are most highly esteemed by those whose investigation has been most searching. We have personally examined every detail of this Company, and have gone repeatedly over the entire line. We are consequently enabled to recommend these bonds as an absolutely perfect security.

AMERICAN & FOREIGN PATENTS.

R. H. EDDY, SOLICITOR OF PATENTS, For Inventions, Trade Marks or Designs, NO. 76 STATE ST., OPPOSITE KILBY ST., BOSTON, After an extensive practice of upwards of thirty years, continues to secure patents in the United States; also Great Britain, France and other foreign countries. Caveats, Specifications, Assignments, and all papers for Patents, executed on reasonable terms with dispatch. Researches made to determine the validity and utility of Patents of inventions, and legal and other advice rendered in all matters touching the same. Copies of the claims of any patent furnished, by remitting one dollar. Assignments recorded in Washington.

No Agency in the United States possesses superior facilities for obtaining Patents or ascertaining the patentability of inventions.

All necessity of a journey to Washington to procure a Patent and the usual great delay there, are here saved inventors.

TESTIMONIALS.

"I regard Mr. Eddy as one of the most capable and successful practitioners with whom I have had official intercourse. CHARLES MASON, Commissioner of Patents."

"I have no hesitation in assuring inventors that they cannot employ a man more competent and trustworthy and more capable of putting their applications in a form to secure them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office. EDMUND BURKE, Late Commissioner of Patents."

"MR. R. H. EDDY has made for me over THIRTY applications for Patents, having been successful in almost every case. Such unmistakable proof of great talent and ability on his part leads me to recommend ALL inventors to apply to him to procure their Patents, as they may be sure of having the most faithful attention bestowed on their cases, and at very reasonable charges. JOHN TAGGART."

OF

WILD CHERRY!

THE GREAT REMEDY FOR

CONSUMPTION!

and acknowledged by many prominent physicians to be the most Reliable Preparation ever introduced for the RELIEF and CURE of all

LUNG COMPLAINTS.

This well known remedy is offered to the public, sanctioned by the experience of over forty years, and when resorted to in season seldom fails to effect a speedy cure of

Coughs, Colds, Croup, Bronchitis, Influenza, Whooping Cough, Hoarseness, Pains or Soreness in the Chest or Side, Bleeding at the Lungs, Liver Complaints, &c. &c.

CONSUMPTION

CURED

by a timely resort to this standard remedy, as is proved by hundreds of testimonials received by the proprietors.

Dr. Wistar's Balsam of Wild Cherry

does not dry up a Cough and leave the cause behind, as is the case with most preparations, but it loosens and cleanses the lungs and allays irritation, thus removing the cause of the complaint

CLERGYMEN, LAWYERS, SINGERS,

and all those whose occupation requires an unusual exercise of the vocal organs, will find this the ONLY PREPARATION which will effectually and instantaneously relieve their difficulties.

BEWARE OF COUNTERFEITS.

Remember that the genuine Wistar's Balsam has on the outside wrapper the signature of "I. BUTTS," and the printed name of the proprietors, "SETH W. FOWLE & SONS, BOSTON." All others are base imitations. Examine the wrapper carefully before purchasing.

CLEAR YOUR THROAT!
Relieve Your Lungs.
For the terrible diseases engendered by the lung-trying climate of New England,
Pulmocine Cordial
Is a speedy and reliable Preventive and Remedy. EVERY FAMILY should have a bottle at hand to check the sudden growth of all Pulmonary Diseases. For the Asthma, Coughs, Croup, Laryngitis, or inflammation of the larynx, Diphtheria, and all kindred THROAT DISEASES at all times prevalent, it is the cure of PREVENTION. Children attacked with Whooping Cough or Croup should be immediately cared for. These painful attacks come with scarcely a moment's warning, when a physician may be out of immediate reach. A dose of PULMOCINE CORDIAL gives speedy relief, and the little ones are spared hours of pain and agony. As "a stitch in time saves nine," so does the possession of this FAMILY MEDICINE prevent the spread of disease. Parents scaring their children gasping with pain, friends and relatives beholding each other in peril from suffocation by the choking pain in the throat, paralyzed with fear and not knowing the best course to pursue, are liable to apply the wrong remedial agents. There is no safety in delay, no time to waste in such cases. CONSUMPTION, that fearful scourge of the human race, lies at the door of all thus afflicted. BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL arrests it (unless in its advanced stage at which time there is no local cure) relieves the pressing, suffocating feeling at the lungs, and the patient's danger is past.
BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL is no new discovery. Twenty-three years ago it was used by one of New England's most famous physicians as the best PULMONARY CURATIVE he could prescribe, after a dozen years spent in experimenting with it before he was satisfied that the Materia Medica could add nothing in its favor.
Buchman's Pulmocine Cordial
Is the ultima thule of Medical Discovery.
Among its many ingredients are WILD CHERRY BARK, SQUILL ROOT, LIQUORICE ROOT, BLOOD ROOT, &c. It is a BLOOD PURIFIER, gently stimulating. It increases expectoration and is diuretic. It is sudorific and alterative. It is a necessary family medicine. It is a Tonic, and a powerful aid to the digestive organs. It is a gentle sedative, and relieves nervousness. It is aromatic and agreeable to the taste.
For Coughs, Croup, Diphtheria, Asthma, &c.
USE BUCHMAN'S
PULMOCINE CORDIAL.
The Pulmocine Cordial is not a quack medicine, is not an experiment, is not composed of any ingredients "discovered" by "walking in pastures" in South Africa or anywhere else, nor by one who discovered a weed and thereby cured himself. Most of the ingredients are such as our best educated physicians daily use for the complaints specified, in some form or other. The recipe is that perfected by one of New England's most learned and famous physicians, who used it entirely in his daily practice until his death. It is offered to the profession and to the public, absolutely pure and unadulterated.

BRIGGS' ALLEVANTOR is composed of Ammonia, Chloroform, Spirits of Camphor, Tincture of Lupuline, Oil of Juniper, and Alcohol. This compound is unequalled in the annals of medicine for the cure of Nervous or Sick Headache, Neuralgia, Trembling or Twitching of the Nerves, and all Nervous Diseases. It will counteract all poisons, banish pimples, cure scaly eruptions, itching, humors, &c.; it equalizes the circulation, invigorates the system, increases the action of the heart, without exciting the brain, cures Heartburn, Palpitation and Fluttering of the Heart, Dyspepsia, &c. Briggs' Allevantor absolutely possesses more curative properties than any other preparation. Physicians, chemists, and others are requested to examine and test the remedy, and $1000 will be paid if found different from representation.
COUGHS, and written, Much has been said many remedies have been offered for the relief and cure of throat and lung diseases; but nothing has been so eminently successful, or obtained such a wide celebrity, as Briggs' Throat and Lung Healer.
CORNS! The excruciating pain produced by Corns, the unceasing twinging from Bunions, the piercing, distressing pain from Ingrowing Nails, cannot be described. Thousands suffer, not knowing there is a cure. Briggs' Corn and Bunion Remedies are no acid or potash compounds, but are reliable, soothing, and effectual, and just merit the success they have earned from an appreciative public. The Curative is a healing ointment; immediate relief is obtained by its application, and it will positively cure the worst cases of Festered Corns, Inflamed and Ulcerated Bunions, the sorest instep, the largest and severest Blisters, the most extensive Callosities on the soles or heels of the feet, unequalled in the cure of Chilblains or Frosted Feet. The Allevantor for ordinary corns and preventing their formation is absolutely unexcelled by anything ever known.
PILES have been a terror to mankind for centuries, and almost every attempt to cure them has been baffled. By unceasing study and experimenting, Dr. Briggs has discovered an absolutely cure for internal, bleeding, external, and itching piles. Briggs' Pile Remedies are mild, safe and sure.

THE WISHING-RING.

A young farmer, whose farming did not prosper particularly well, was sitting resting on his plough for a moment as he wiped his brow, when an old witch crept up to him and said, "Why do you toil so hard, and all for nothing? Walk straight before you for two days and you will come to a large fir-tree, which stands alone, towering over all the other trees of the forest. If you can but fell it, your fortune is made."

The farmer did not wait to be told twice, but taking his axe on his shoulder, started on his way. After walking two days, he came to the fir-tree, and immediately set to fell it. Soon it toppled and crashed to the earth, when from the top branches dropped a nest containing two eggs. The eggs rolled on the ground and broke; as they broke, forth came a young eaglet from one, and a small golden ring from the other. The eaglet grew visibly till it reached half the height of a man, shook its wings, as if to try them, raised itself from the ground, and then cried: "You have released me! as a token of my gratitude, take the ring the other egg contained—it is a wishing ring. Turn it on your finger, speak your wish aloud and it will immediately be granted. But the ring has only one wish; when that is accomplished, it will lose all power and become no more than other rings. Therefore, reflect well on what you wish for, so that you may not have to repent afterwards."

Having so spoken, the eagle rose high into the air, swept, for some time, in wide circles over the farmer's head, and then, like an arrow from a bow, shot swiftly towards the East. The farmer took the ring, put it on his finger, and started homeward. Towards evening he reached a town. At the door of his shop a goldsmith stood who had many valuable rings for sale. The farmer showed him his ring, and asked him what was about the value of it.

"Mere trumpery," answered the goldsmith. The farmer laughed heartily, telling the man it was a wishing-ring, and of more value than all the rings in his shop put together. Now the goldsmith was a false, designing man, so he invited the farmer to stay all night at his house, saying: "It must bring one good luck to entertain a man who is the possessor of such a precious jewel, so pray remain with me." He accordingly entertained him well with plenty of wine and civil words, but when he went to sleep at night, he drew his ring stealthily from his finger, and put on it instead a common ring quite like it in appearance. The next morning the goldsmith could hardly wait, with any degree of patience, till the farmer had taken his departure. He awoke him in the early dawn, saying: "You have so far to go, you had better start early." As soon as the farmer was safe on his journey, the goldsmith went into his room, and having shut the shutters that no one might see, he bolted himself in, and, standing in the middle of the room, and turning the ring on his finger, exclaimed:—

"I wish to have a hundred thousand silver crowns immediately!"

Hardly were the words spoken, when bright five-shilling pieces began to rain down from the ceiling; shining, silver crowns poured down so fast and hard that at last they began to beat him unmercifully about the head and shoulders and arms. Calling piteously for help, he tried to rush to the door, but before he could reach it and unbolt it, he fell bleeding to the ground. Still the rain of silver crowns did not cease, and soon, under the weight of it, the flooring gave way, and the unfortunate goldsmith and his money fell down into a deep cellar. And still it rained on, till the hundred thousand silver crowns were completed, and then the goldsmith lay dead in his cellar, with the mass of money upon him. Attracted at last by the noise, the neighbors rushed to the spot, and, on finding the goldsmith dead under his money, exclaimed; "It really is a great misfortune when blessings rain down like cudgels." Then the heirs came and divided the spoil.

Meantime, the farmer went happily home, and showed the ring to his wife.

"We now never want for anything, dear wife," he said; "our fortune is made. But we must consider well what we must wish for."

The wife had a bright idea ready at hand.

"Let us wish ourselves some more land," said she; "we have so little. There is just a nice strip which stretches into our field. Let us wish for that."

"That would never be worth while," replied the husband; "we have only to work well for a year, and have a moderate share of good luck, and we can buy it for ourselves."

And the man and his wife worked hard for a whole year, and the harvest had never been so plentiful as that Autumn, so they were not only able to buy the strip of land, but had money to spare.

"You see," said the husband, "the land is ours and the wish too."

Then the good woman thought it would be a capital thing to wish themselves a cow and a horse.

"Wife," answered the husband, again clinking the surplus money in his pocket: "it would be folly to sacrifice out wish for such a trumpery thing. We can get the cow and the horse without that."

And, sure enough, in another year's time, the horse and the cow had been well earned. So the man rubbed his hands cheerfully, and said:—

"Another year has passed, and still the wish is ours, and yet we have all we want; what good luck we have!"

The wife, however, began to be very impatient, and tried seriously to induce her husband to wish for something.

"You are not like your old self," she said crossly; "formerly, you were always grumbling and complaining, and wishing for all sorts of things; and now, when you might have whatever you want, you toil and work like a slave, are pleased with everything, and let your best years slip by. You might be king, emperor, duke, a great rich farmer with loads of money, but no—you can't make up your mind what to choose."

"Pray do cease continually worrying and teasing me," cried the farmer; "we are both of us young, and life is long. The ring contains but one wish, and that must not be squandered. Who knows what may happen to us, when we might really need the ring? Do we want for anything now? Since the ring has been ours have we not seen in the world that all men marvel at us? So do be sensible and amuse yourself, if you like, by thinking what we shall wish for."

And so the matter was allowed to rest for the present. It really seemed as if the ring brought blessings on the house, for barns and granaries grew fuller and fuller, from year to year; and, in the course of time, the poor farmer became a rich and prosperous one. He worked all day with his men as if the whole world depended upon it; but in the evening, when the vesper bell sounded, he was always to be seen resting, contented and well-to-do, at his threshold, to be wished "Good evening" by the passers by. Now and then when they were quite alone and no one near to hear the woman still reminded her husband of the ring and made all sorts of propositions to him. He always answered there was time enough to think about it and that the best ideas always occurred to one last. So she gradually fell into the way of mentioning it less often, and at last it rarely happened that the ring was ever alluded to at all. The farmer, it is true, turned the ring on his finger twenty times a day and examined it closely, but he took good care never to express the slightest wish at the time.

And so thirty and forty years went by, and the farmer and his wife grew old and their hair snow-white, and still the wish remained unspoken. At last it pleased God to show them a great mercy, and He took them to Himself both in one night. Children and grandchildren stood weeping around the coffin, and, as one of them tried to withdraw the ring from the dead man's finger, his eldest son said:—

"Let our father take his ring to the grave. There was some mystery about it. Probably it was some love token, for our mother often looked at the ring too; perhaps she gave it him when they both were young."

So the old farmer was buried with the ring which should have been a wishing ring, but was not one, and yet had brought as much good luck to the house as man could desire. For it is strange as regards the true and the false, but a bad thing can be turned to better account in good hands than a good thing in bad.—Good Things.

Schooner Congress, from Pensacola, December 3, for Rockport, Texas, foundered at sea in a gale, 60 miles southeast of the latter port. When the schooner commenced sinking, a boat was lowered and two seamen, Alexander King and John Riley, got in it, but a sudden lurch of the schooner broke the painter holding the boat, which was swept away. The schooner immediately sunk and it is supposed all were lost. King and Riley were rescued six days after by a Mexican vessel, at Carizian Island, near San Fernando.

The British brig Augola, from Barbadoes for Boston, loaded with brass and copper, was overhauled by the revenue cutter Moccasin, and found to be without a manifest. Her hatches were sealed and she was allowed to proceed.

Fires are reported at Jacksonville, Ill., loss $100,000; at Springfield, Ill., loss $80,000; Cincinnati, O., loss $20,000; and in Centre street, New York city, loss $10,000.

A San Franciscan brought a burglar to bay with a pistol, when the two men discovered that they were brothers. The offender fell upon his knees, declared he did not know it was his brother's house, and was not only forgiven, but provided with lodgings in the house, and afterwards taken into the employ of his injured relative. The two had not seen each other for ten years.

The tender, baggage, mail and smoking cars of the through night express from New York for Wasaington were thrown from the track at Carrollton switch, within the city limits. The engine passed safely, when the tender, owing to a broken flange on one of the wheels, jumped the track, carrying off three cars, one of which upset. With the exception of one passenger, whose hand was slightly cut, no one was injured.

A freight train eastward bound on the Erie Railroad compelled an express train to stop about two miles west of Callicoon. Shortly afterwards another express freight train ran into the passenger train, completely demolishing the rear car. One passenger named Frederick Hoffman had his leg broken. No other person was injured. The rear car took fire from the engine, and the whole train of three sleeping cars and two passenger coaches were burned up. The baggage was saved.

The civil service advisory board, of which George William Curtis is president, will meet the latter part of this month for general consultation and such action as may be necessary upon their system of civil service. This is the first meeting of that board since adjournment, nearly a year since, and the adoption by the president of their rules and regulations.

The House committee on appropriations has decided to give the Postmaster-General the additional half-million dollars which he asks to increase the compensation of railroad companies for the transportation of mails. The amount will be included in the amendment to the regular annual postal appropriation bill, to be reported in a few days.

The Geneva Award.—Hon. William M. Evarts has prepared an argument designed to establish the proposition that claims of insurance companies and individuals for indemnity from the Geneva award for losses by rebel cruisers stand on equal and similar footing. To support this view Mr. Evarts publishes a memorandum reviewing the history of the presentation of individual and insurance claims, in which he contends that he has made it plain that the United States presented and Great Britain received claims of Insurance companies precisely as those of individuals, in no way distinguishing between them, and that insurance companies made contracts to insure against losses by the Alabama and other cruisers, with the understanding that they would have claims against Great Britain for any losses they might make by reason of such insurance upon any particular vessel. After reviewing all the diplomatic intercourse before and during the Geneva arbitration, Mr. Evarts concludes that it appears that the claims of original sufferers and those of the insurance companies were computed and disposed of on precisely the same footing. No action has yet been taken by Congress looking to the disposition of the Geneva award, although General Butler is preparing a report which will open the way for legislation.

Strange Pets.—Near the head waters of the Cache branch of Indian creek there resides an old Shawnee Indian woman, by the name of Net-tella-quah, familiarly called in the immediate neighborhood, Aunt Netty. She occupies a small log cabin in a rocky cleft or gulch remote from the Aubery and Kansas City road, and about one mile from the road. This old woman cannot be less than ninety years of age, although she will not under any consideration state her exact age. She is a perfect recluse, as much so as though she were dead and buried. Few visit her lonely cabin, and those who intrude once upon her privacy seldom care to venture again. An attache of this paper, in company with Mr. Enoch H. Downs of Cass county, paid a visit to the old Indian cabin a few days ago for the purpose of examining a rare collection of reptiles, said to be kept by the old squaw. After some little difficulty the cabin was discovered in a bend of the creek, completely concealed from view by precipitous rocky banks, except from the south side of the ravine.

A huge, vicious, mastiff wolf dog showed his ugly fangs, and for a time disputed entrance to the cabin. The door opened and a hideous old squaw made her appearance at the aperture, and in a guttural voice she said something to the dog, which at once retreated behind the stone chimney at the end of the cabin. Without bidding the party enter the old squaw retreated herself within the cabin, leaving the door open. Following the old woman into the cabin, our reporter and his guide were for a moment blinded by the smoke and darkness. Standing near the door for a few minutes they were enabled to see the old squaw seated upon a block of wood near a smouldering fire, smoking a small red pipe, and apparently unconscious of the presence of a stranger. Mr. Downs, well acquainted with the old hag's taste for whiskey and tobacco, laid a quantity of each in her lap. The sight of these unexpected luxuries had a magical effect upon the squaw. Her small, dull black eyes glittered with joy, and her leathery face brightened with satisfaction. She arose on being made acquainted with the object of the visit, dragged out a large box and barrel from near the fire, which at first appeared to be filled with leaves, but on closer examination were found to contain the old hag's family pets. Muttering some whining, sing-song word," evidently of endearment, she put her hand down into the barrel and brough forth first a huge "black racer," which, half torpid, coiled itself slowly into a knot upon the stove hearth.

Then she took out several black snakes of various sizes, one of which was no less than four feet in length. Then she lifted out a perfect knot of mixed snakes, spotted, striped and yellow, which were knotted and entwined in a coil as large as a half bushel measure. All of these loathsome reptiles, she said, she had collected in the country around about. Some of them she had had for years. Each snake she called by name, and after laying the writhing mass upon the warm hearth, left them to squirm and uncoil in the warmth generated by the fire. Turning to the box she opened the lid, and pointed to a large yellow and black boa constrictor, which lay coiled up, filling one-half of the box. She caught it gently by the neck and the tail and lifted it also out upon the hearth, and then took therefrom a huge brown snake of a variety unknown to our reporter. Each of these monsters was at least four or five feet in length, and appeared to be far more active than the smaller snakes. She then dragged forth an old skin robe from her bed in the corner near the fire, and unrolled a perfect medley of rattlesnakes of all hues, all sizes, thicknesses and ages. These she handled roughly, rolling the squirming mass out upon the hearth, where the visitors, at a safe distance, might view the loathsome sight at leisure. Upon the walls hung a variety of snake skins, rattles, dried snake's heads, lizards and of dried meat.

The sight was the most repugnant ever witnessed by our reporter. The hag sat down upon the hearth, laughing and chattering her horrid gibberish, and proceeded to wind the two largest snakes about her wrinkled old neck, and then to uncoil the half torpid masses of snakes. In a short time she had her lap full of the squirming reptiles, and appeared to handle and play with them like so many harmless kittens. The visitors, unable to withstand the loathsome, sickening sight, and effluvia generated in the close, dark den, soon took their leave, leaving the old squaw to the company of her singular pets. She devotes much of her time to playing with them, allowing them to crawl over her bed and over the floor. She feeds them upon birds and insects. The former she catches alive and feeds to the larger snakes at intervals of one or two weeks. She works a small patch of garden, and depends mostly for other necessaries upon the surrounding country, in which she begs. She refused to follow her tribe south when they departed a few years ago, and they loathed her so much for her hideous habits that they did not regret leaving her. In the warm months she permits her pets to roam at will over the cabin, and in no instance has she been bitten by any of them, although they will hiss and dart forth their poisonous fangs spitefully at times, yet she appears to control them with a few whining words and a glance of her dull, black eyes. It is needless to say old Aunt Netty has few visitors, and those who have visited her are not anxious to repeat the visit.

—A man was found dead at Syracuse lately with an injured head. Suspicion pointed to a man who had been seen some time earlier with the dead man. The head of the murdered one was cut open and it was found that death had been caused by a stab in the eye, which had been done with a peculiar pipe stem and the stem was still lodged in his brain. The stem belonged to the pipe of the suspected man, and no one can deny the usefulness of a post mortem examination in this case.

Business Notices.

Don't let that Sore Throat get the upper hands of you. Pulmocine Cordial will cure it. For sale by druggists and at the Union Store: 50 cts. per bottle.

Corns.—Since pride and fashion have had control of mankind, and shoemakers were compelled to make boots and shoes to fit fancy instead of the feet, the suffering from Corns, Bunions, Ingrowing Nails, Sore Insteps, Blistered Heels, Callosities on the bottom of the feet, &c., cannot be described. But Briggs' Corn and Bunion Remedies will cure all such torments, and proper fitting boots will prevent their reproduction. Sold by all druggists. a12

A Good Thing Duly Appreciated.—No beneficial revolution ever goes backward; and this maxim is as invariably in medicine as in politics. The advent of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, twenty years ago, produced a revolution in the treatment of a large class of ailments, and that revolution has ever since been in "the full tide of successful experiment." If that tide has borne the proprietors of this celebrated vegetable specific "on to fortune," it has also borne thousands of human beings, who were languishing under the effects of disease, weak and hopeless, out of the depths of despondency into the paradise of health and cheerfulness. It is no exaggeration to say, that to the vigor, the regularity of habit of body, the good appetite and perfect digestion, acquired under the operation of this unequalled tonic and corrective, multitudes of people in every walk of life, who had been vainly physicked in the usual way, owe the blessings of renewed health and the prospect of prolonged life.

Piles.—The unceasing torture from internal bleeding, external and itching piles is fast wearing away the thousands of those who are afflicted and their hope and courage have long since given place to despair. Let those who see this cheer up, for a mild and sure cure may be had by using Briggs' Pile Remedies.

A Sure Cure follows the use of Buchman's Pulmocine Cordial—the best known remedy for Throat and Lung Complaints. Only 50 cts. a bottle.

You Are Troubled With a Bad Breath.—It annoys your friends as well as yourself. You would like to get rid of it, but scarcely know what means to adopt. We will tell you. Use the fragrant Sozodont; it will cleanse and beautify your teeth, and leave your breath pure.

Are You Alarmed About Yourself? Have you a distressing cough? Is your throat choked up with phlegm. Does a long breath pain you. If so you have reason to be frightened. But take heart, cheer up, a single bottle of Hale's Honey of Horehound and Tar will cure you. Crittenton's 76th Avenue. Sold by all Druggists.

Pike's Toothache Drops cure in 1 minute.

Instantaneous is the operation of Buchman's Pulmocine Cordial in all cases of Sore Throat, Hoarseness, Coughs, Croup, and Lung Affections. It is beneficial in all cases. Sold for 50 cents per bottle.

LOCAL AFFAIRS.

Consumption of Gas.

The American citizen is proverbially good natured and not excessively quarrelsome. He submits to injury and generally contents himself with a growl when imposed on by a corporation. Send him a bill of outrageous charges and he pays it after taking the usual modicum of protestation. Rings conspire to rob him and he thinks it is only smartness on the part of robbers. He will help a corporation steal his rights by neglecting to mind his business when it is threatened. One gets used to such things and only thinks of the future nonchalantly, with reference to bills payable, as a coming evil of unknown extent.

Portsmouth's gas company evidently realizes the situation and is thus far master of it. The company is composed of honorable gentlemen individually—but the corporation of collective gentlemen behave wondrously unlike the individuals personally. We know not the system of multiplication in vogue under its management and there are others about town who do not see how the division of four by two leaves a quotient of four and a quarter. Gas meters are wonderful in effect. Seal all the burners in an office, house or store, and use no gas for three months, and along comes a bill at the end of the quarter as regularly as ever.

Gas takers last year thought they were imposed on, and their remonstrances brought down the price per cubic foot from five and one-tenth to four and eight-tenths mills. 'Twas well! The tumult subsided, and many thought the corporation had a soul. Gradually, however, the gas consumed gave less and less illumination, till finally, as a citizen expresses it, "'twas necessary to light a lamp to see it burn." Patient consumers refrained from fault finding, however, until their gas bills appeared, and they were astounded at the result. We expected our own would be larger than usual, but the result was astonishing. For the quarter ending Dec. 31, 1872, it increased over the corresponding quarter in 1872 more than thirty-four per cent. Then we sallied out and found we were not alone in our dismay. But comparatively few bills had been delivered, yet we found a dozen or so in a short time, one gentleman informing us that his bill for the last quarter of 1872 was $68, and for the last quarter of 1871, $37. We append the result of our investigations for the last quarters of 1871 and 1872, the discount being subtracted.

The bills of Messrs. Wm. P. Walker, N. K. Walker, and N. K. Walker & Son show a slight decrease, their consumption of gas at stores and residences being estimated at the usual quantity. The bill of M. T. Betton & Co. shows a decrease of three cents, but Mr. Betton informed us that he closed his store earlier in 1872 than in 1871, used fewer burners, and on two evenings of each week the store was not opened for the past quarter. He estimated the consumption of gas for the quarter just closed at less than one-half that used in the last quarter of 1871.—One of the gentlemen in the foregoing list, on being asked if he could account for his increased bill, thought the loss to the Gas company by the refusal of the Kearsarge Mills corporation to take any more gas, was being made up from the pockets of the consumers who still use it! Others account for the increase as coming from the miserably poor gas made of late from inferior coal, which gives less light and smokes but does not fail to register itself on the meters. We place these facts before our readers as facts worthy of being considered.—Gas stock sold at $114 at auction on Saturday, which shows prosperity in its management. The Market street merchants had not received their bills on Saturday, and we hope our announcement of increased expense will serve to accustom them to the new system without the necessity of unscriptural remarks. We bail the advent of J. C. Tiffany & Son, of Olifeant fame, as the prelude to a new state of affairs, and hope means will be devised by which the relief they have brought to the Kearsarge Mills may be extended to citizens. The result of the reduction of three tenths of a mill per cubic foot and the increased allowance of four and a sixth per cent. discount from former rates to prompt payers are so peculiar that we earnestly hope that further reduction of tenths of mills per cubic foot and increase of discount rates will be spared our already reduced fellow citizens, lest the remedy be fatal to the patients.

Almost Had Him.

A horse thief named Samuel Clark was arrested in Portland on Friday on a charge of stealing a horse and sleigh from parties in Boston. Clark belongs in Biddeford, and was in this city on Friday, having left his team at Wenham, Mass. City Marshal Johnson having been notified by telegraph of the theft, suspected Clark as soon as he saw him get off the train, and followed him about town until he was assured (by parties who thought they knew the character of Clark) that he was not that kind of a man, and that he (the Marshal) was on the wrong track.—Of course the latter was much chagrined upon learning of the arrest of his man in Portland a few hours later.

It is said that Clark is very respectably connected in Biddeford, and was formerly engaged in the tailoring business in that city, about which time he married an estimable lady, who has since separated from him. Dissipation in its various forms has brought him to his present unenviable condition.

Locontes.

We are requested to state that Prof. L. T. Townsend, who failed to put in an appearance last week, will positively lecture at the Methodist church this (Monday) evening. The entertainment will be free to all, and hence it will be necessary to go early to secure a seat.

A slight fire occurred at the Navy Yard at half past six on Saturday morning, and had it not been for its timely discovery, a large amount of property would have been threatened and perhaps destroyed. It originated beneath one of the forges of the smiths' department in the iron platers' shop, having been smouldering all night. The building which contained this blacksmith's shop also contained large machine shop well stocked with heavy machines of every necessary kind, a cabinet's makers' shop in the second story and a large pattern shop, all of which combined would have been sufficient to have caused a great conflagration, had it not been checked. The occurrence of a fire in the Navy Yard seems almost inexcusable, when so much money is spent by the government in providing watchmen and marines to prevent such a catastrophe.

Old Time Chronicles, No. 66.

BY UNCLE JOSEPH.

Exeter was settled in 1638. The next year a "Combination" was formed; this was a short document for civil government, and was signed by thirty-five men, probably all there were of age in the place. The names of some of these signers have continued in the town, or in others near by, in a direct line of descent to the present day, a period of 234 years.

Henry Roby was the ninth signer; he was afterwards one of the selectmen, then removed to Hampton, where he became a justice of the peace and finally died.

Thomas Leavitt. This name is written Levvit. Some of the name have been in this part of the State all thro' its history. Dudley Leavitt, the almanac maker, was born in Exeter. He was a descendant of John Leavitt, who came over from England in 1628. He was in Hingham, Mass., in 1636. We cannot say that he lived in Exeter himself, but some of his posterity did.

John Cram. This name is written Crame. But John could not write, and gave his signature by "making his mark." He was the first Cram in America. He afterwards moved to Hampton Falls, where some of his descendants are still living; others are in Raymond, Charlestown, Mass., and in Barnard, Vt. Until within a few years some were in Pittsfield, and may be there yet.

Godfrey Dearborn. This name is written Godfrie Dearborne; but he could not write, and made his mark. It is said he was from Exeter, in the westerly part of England. Exeter, in this State, was named for the English town, and it may have been through Mr. Dearborn's influence. He was the patriarch of that family in this country, and his descendants are numerous in different sections and States. He was one of the selectmen of Exeter in 1648, but soon moved to Hampton, where also he was selectman, for three years. He was a large landholder, and lived about one-third of a mile west of where Hampton depot now stands, on a place which has been held in the name of his descendants ever since. He died Feb. 4th, 1686. Some of his posterity live in Exeter, Hampton, North Hampton and in very many other towns, all around.

TOTAL MARINE DISASTERS IN DECEMBER. We glean that the vessels belonging to or bound to or from ports in the United States totally lost and missing during the past month is 78, of which 49 were wrecked, 13 abandoned, 3 sunk by collision, 2 burned, 4 foundered, and 7 missing. They are classed as follows:

4 steamers, 9 ships, 17 barques, 17 brigs and 31 schooners. Their total value, exclusive of cargoes, is estimated at $2,700,000. The whole number of vessels belonging to or trading to ports in the United States reported totally lost and missing during the year 1872 was 437, valued at $11,097,000. The number of vessels lost in 1871 was 445, valued at $11,985,000. Total for the two years, 882, valued at $23,082,000.

The Cape Ann Advertiser gives the following in reference to the fishery disasters of 1872:

The year now closed, although not so disastrous in regard to loss of life and property attending the fishing business as its predecessor, has not been without its losses. We find by reviewing the list that twelve vessels and sixty-three lives have been lost the present season, against twenty twenty vessels and one hundred and forty lives last year. The total tonnage of vessels lost this season is 576,583, their value $55,000, insurance $49,121. The Georges fleet have been remarkably free from disaster, only one vessel and eleven lives having been lost, against ten vessels and ninety-seven lives last year. Four vessels and forty-nine lives have been lost in the Bank fishery, this season, against four vessels and twenty-eight lives last year. Seven vessels and two lives have been lost in the shore fishery, and one man lost in the Newfoundland fishery. The other branches of the business have been prosecuted without disaster. Of the sixty-three men lost this year, twenty-one were known to be married, leaving twenty-one widows and thirty-two fatherless children.

DEATHS.

In Raymond, Jan. 1, Mr. GEORGE E. BEAN, aged 29 years. He was of the fifth generation from Lieut. Benjamin Bean, who settled on the farm upon which the late Mr. Bean lived and died, in 1752. George E. Bean was one of the Selectmen in 1871.

IRON in the BLOOD.

DYSPEPSIA, DEBILITY, DROPSY, HUMORS,

PERUVIAN SYRUP

Makes the Weak Strong.

The Peruvian Syrup, a Protected Solution of the Protoxide of Iron, is so combined as to have the character of an aliment, as easily digested, and assimilated with the blood as the simplest food. It increases the quantity of Nature's Own Vitalizing Agent, Iron in the blood, and cures "a thousand ill," simply by Toning up, Invigorating and Vitalizing the System. The enriched and vitalized blood permeates every part of the body, repairing damages and waste, searching out morbid secretions, and leaving nothing for disease to feed upon.

This is the secret of the wonderful success of this remedy in curing Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, Dropsy, Chronic Diarrhœa, Boils, Nervous Affections, Chills and Fevers, Humors, Loss of Constitutional Vigor, Diseases of the Kidneys and Bladder, Female Complaints, and all diseases originating in a bad state of the blood, or accompanied by debility or a low system. Being free from Alcohol, in any form, its energizing effects are not followed by corresponding reaction, but are permanent, infusing strength, vigor, and new life into all parts of the system, and building up an Iron Constitution.

Thousands have been changed by the use of this remedy, from weak, sickly, suffering creatures to strong, healthy, and happy men and women: and invalids cannot reasonably hesitate to give it a trial.

See that each bottle has PERUVIAN SYRUP blown in the glass.

Dr. FRANZ LISZT says: "I consider the CHICKERING Piano superior to any made in Europe or America, and am fully convinced that they were justly entitled to the First Prize."

Chickering & Sons' Mammoth Manufactory is more than one-third larger than any other Piano-Forte Manufactory in the world, and is, in every respect, the most complete as regards machinery and the facilities for doing the very best class of work. Messrs. C. & Sons have, since the establishment of their business in 1823, made and sold 40,000 Pianos, and these Standard Instruments are now offered at Reduced Rates upon the "ONE PRICE SYSTEM," free from all discounts and commissions; and they are, beyond all reputation, the VERY BEST and VERY CHEAPEST FIRST-CLASS PIANOS now offered.

A CARD.

We call especial attention to our

UPRIGHT PIANOS,

Which are, in every particular, the finest instruments of their class manufactured, and second only to the Grand Piano, for which they are a good substitute.

Every Piano warranted for five years.

THE POLE KAT.—My friend did you ever examine the fragrant pole kat clussly?

I guess not. They're kritters who won't bear examining with a microskope.

They are butiful beings, but oh! how deceptive.

Their habits are few, but unique.

They bild their houses ov earth, and the houses have but one door tew them and that iz a front door.

When they enter their houses they don't shut the door after them.

They are called pole kats because it iz not convenient to kill them with a klub, but with a pole, and the longer the pole the more convenient.

Writers on natural history disagree about the right length ov the pole to be used, but I would suggest that the pole be about 365 feet, espeshally if the wind iz in favor ov the pole kat.

When a pole kat iz suddenly wallopped with a long pole, the fust that he, or she, or it duz, iz to embalm the air of meany miles in diameter, with an skrimonious eiltaktory refreshment which permeates the etherial fluid with an entirely original smell.

This iz less popular in the fashionable world than lubin's extract, but the day may cum when it will be bottled up, like musk, and sold for $7 1-2 cents per bottle; bottles small at that.

A pole kat will remove the filling from a hen's egg, without braking a hole in the shell bigger than a marrow fat pea.

How this iz did historians hav left us to doubt.

This iz vulgarly called "sucking eggs."

This iz an accomplishment known among humans, which it iz said they learnt from the pole kats. Pole kats also deal in chickens, young turkeys, and goslins.

They won't tutch an old goose; they are sound on that question.

Man is the only phellow who will attempt tew bite into an old goose, and histeeth fly oph a grate meany times before he loosens eany of the meat.

A pole kat travels under an alias, which is called skunk. There iz a grate meany aliases that there iz no accounting for, and this iz one of them.

I have kaught skunks in a trap. They are much easier to get into a trap than to git out of it.

In taking them out of a trap grate judgment must be had not tew shake them up; the more yu shake them up the more ambrosial they am.

One pole kat in a township iz enuff, espeshily if the wind changes once in a while.

A pole kat's skin's worth 2 dollars in market, after it is skinned: but it is worth 3 dollars and fifty cents tew skin him.

This is one way to make 12 shillings on a wet day.—Josh Billings.

THE MANUFACTURE OF DOLLS' SHOES.—One would hardly think that the manufacture of dolls' shoes could rise to the dignity of a business. Within the past six or eight years, however, it has grown into considerable importance, and there are several manufacturers who devote their whole time to this department, employing quite a number of operatives. They make use of scraps of morocco, etc., from shoe manufactories and binderies, which were formerly thrown away. At first the shoes were made of a simpler character, and, as far as any special shape was concerned, they were merely semblances of shoes. But within two or three years, there has been much improvement made both in the style and mode of manufacture; the fashions of the day are followed closely, and the pets of the household must have their dolls dressed in all respects similar to other people, and therefore several pairs of shoes must be provided for the several dresses—slippers, ties, walking-boots, shoes, etc.,—and in various colors. The heels are made of composition, and cemented to the sole, which is also the manner of fastening the soles and uppers together. Buttons are put on and button-holes made; others are embellished with slides and bows. One of the most popular makers of these articles produces 50,000 pairs per annum, using about 20,000 feet of morocco and sheep, mostly of scraps, besides cutting considerable whole stock, of all the fashionable colors—yellow, bronze, blue, pink, drab and green—which sell to the findings dealers at from $1.50 to $4.50 per dozen. There are two grades of shoes, one for common dolls and one for wax dolls, the latter of which are made with great care, and are really a very neat and pretty article, some of them being large enough for a flesh and blood baby of tender months.

TO CURE CORNS.—The Journal of Applied Chemistry says: "Soak the feet well in warm water, then with a sharp instrument pare off as much of the corn as can be done without pain, and bind up the part with a piece of linen or muslin, thoroughly saturated with sperm oil, or, what is better, the oil which floats upon the surface of herring or mackerel. After three or four days the dressing may be removed by scraping, when the new skin will be found of a soft and healthy texture, and less liable to the formation of a new corn than before. We have the recipe from a source which we cannot well doubt, and publish it for the benefit of many readers."

THE PHENOMENA OF THE BRAIN. One of the most inconceivable things in the nature of the brain is that, although the organ of sensation, it should itself be insensible. To cut the brain gives no pain; yet in the brain resides the power of feeling pain in any part of the body. If the nerve which leads to it from the injured part be divided, we become instantly unconscious of suffering. It is only by communication with the brain that any kind of sensation is produced; yet the organ is itself insensible. But there is a circumstance more wonderful still. A certain portion of the brain itself may be removed without destroying life. The animal lives and performs all those functions which are necessary to simple vitality, but it has no longer a mind. It can not think or feel. It requires that the food should be pushed into its stomach; once there it is digested, and the animal will even thrive and grow fat. We infer, therefore, that a part of the brain is simply intended for the exercise of the intellectual faculties, whether of the lower degree, called instinct, or of that exalted kind bestowed on man, called reason, we cannot tell.

AMERICAN & FOREIGN PATENTS.

R. H. EDDY, SOLICITOR OF PATENTS, For Inventions, Trade Marks or Designs, No. 76 BATH ST., OPPOSITE KILBY ST., BOSTON, Attends extensive practice of upwards of thirty years, continues to secure patents in the United States; also in Great Britain, France and other foreign countries. Caveats, Specifications, Assignments, and all papers for Patents, executed on reasonable terms with dispatch. Researches made to determine the validity and utility of Patents of inventions, and legal and other advice rendered in all matters touching the same. Copies of the claims of any patent furnished, by remitting one dollar. Assignments recorded in Washington.

No Agency in the United States possesses superior facilities for obtaining Patents or ascertaining the patentability of inventions.

All necessity of a journey to Washington to procure a Patent and the usual great delay there, are here saved inventors.

TESTIMONIALS.

"I regard Mr. Eddy as one of the most capable and faithful practitioners with whom I have had official intercourse. CHARLES MASON, Commissioner of Patents."

"I have no hesitation in assuring inventors that they cannot employ a man more competent and trustworthy and more capable of putting their applications in a form to secure for them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office. EDMUND BURKE, Late Commissioner of Patents."

"MR. R. H. EDDY has made for me over THIRTY applications for Patents, having been successful in almost every case. Such unmistakable proof of great talent and ability on his part leads me to recommend ALL inventors to apply to him to procure their Patents, as they may be sure of having the most faithful attention bestowed on their cases, and at very reasonable charges. JOHN TAGGART."

MARRIAGE GUIDE,

Being a private instructor for married persons or those about to be married, both male and female, in everything concerning the physiology and relations of our sexual system, and the production and prevention of offspring, including all the new discoveries never before given in the English language, by WM. YOUNG, M. D. This is really a valuable and interesting work. It is written in plain language for the general reader, and is illustrated with numerous Engravings. All young married people, or those contemplating marriage, and having the least impediment to married life, should read this book. It discloses secrets that every one should be acquainted with; still it is a book that must be locked up and not lie about the house. It will be sent to any address on receipt of 50 cents. Address, Dr. WM. YOUNG, No. 416 Spruce street, above Fourth, Philadelphia.

☞ AFFLICTED AND UNFORTUNATE.—No matter what may be your disease, before you place yourself under any one of the notorious QUACKS—native and foreign—who advertise in this or any other paper, get a copy of Dr. Young's Book and read it carefully. It will be the means of saving you many a dollar, your health and possibly your life. o15dy

This road is now completed from Jacksonville to a junction with the CHICAGO & ALTON R. R. at Virden, a distance of over 30 miles. The road, so far as completed, is thoroughly equipped, ENTIRELY PAID FOR, and in full operation, and it is upon the completed portion only, that bonds amounting to $600,000 are now offered at 85 and accrued interest in currency. Bonds upon the remaining portion of the road will be sold at a much higher price and will be offered only upon completed road. This road traverses the garden of the State, crosses all the most important roads, controls the enormous coal mines at Virden, and its bonds are most highly esteemed by those whose investigation has been most searching. We have personally examined every detail of this Company, and have gone repeatedly over the entire line. We are consequently enabled to recommend these bonds as an absolutely perfect security.

All other machines call the public attention to some new loop or stitch or tension or finish, some advantage in running or needles or feed or prices—and many of these are as we have said very good points, and the agents for selling them use them to divert entirely the would-be purchaser from fairly considering the facts in the case; but the

For Inventions, Trade Marks or Designs,
No. 76 STATE ST., OPPOSITE KILBY ST., BOSTON.
After an extensive practice of upwards of thirty years, continues to secure patents in the United States; also in Great Britain, France and other foreign countries. Caveats, Specifications, Assignments, and all papers for Patents, executed on reasonable terms with dispatch. Researches made to determine the validity and utility of Patents of inventions, and legal and other advice rendered in all matters touching the same. Copies of the claims of any patent furnished, by remitting one dollar. Assignments recorded in Washington.
No Agency in the United States possesses superior facilities for obtaining Patents or ascertaining the patentability of inventions.
All necessity of a journey to Washington to procure a Patent and the usual great delay there, are here saved inventors.
TESTIMONIALS.
"I regard Mr. Eddy as one of the most capable and successful practitioners with whom I have had official intercourse. CHARLES MASON, Commissioner of Patents."
"I have no hesitation in assuring inventors that they cannot employ a man more competent and trustworthy and more capable of putting their applications in a form to secure for them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office. EDMUND BURKE, Late Commissioner of Patents."
"MR. R. H. EDDY has made for me over THIRTY applications for Patents, having been successful in almost every case. Such unmistakable proof of great talent and ability on his part leads me to recommend ALL inventors to apply to him to procure their Patents, as they may be sure of having the most faithful attention bestowed on their cases, and at very reasonable charges. $1000 REWARD.
BRIGGS' ALLEVANTOR is composed of Ammonia, Chloroform, Spirits of Camphor, Tincture of Lapulina, Oil of Juniper, and Alcohol. This compound is unequalled in the annals of medicine for the cure of Nervous or Sick Headache, Neuralgia, Trembling or Twitching of the Nerves, and all Nervous Diseases. It will counteract all poisons, banish pimples, cure scaly eruptions, itching, humors, &c.; it equalizes the circulation, invigorates the system, increases the action of the heart, without exciting the brain, cures Heartburn, Palpitation and Fluttering of the Heart, Dyspepsia, &c. Briggs' Allevantor absolutely possesses more curative properties than any other preparation. Physicians, chemists, and others are requested to examine and test the remedy, and $1000 will be paid if found different from representation.
COUCHS. Much has been said and written, and many remedies have been offered for the relief and cure of throat and lung diseases; but nothing has been so eminently successful, or obtained such a wide celebrity, as Briggs' Throat and Lung Healer.
CORNS! The excruciating pain produced by Corns, the unceasing twinging from Bunions, the piercing, distressing pain from Ingrowing Nails, cannot be described. Thousands suffer, not knowing there is a cure. Briggs' Corn and Bunion Remedies are no acid or potash compounds, but are reliable, soothing, and effectual, and just merit the success they have earned from an appreciative public. The Curative is a healing ointment; immediate relief is obtained by its application, and it will positively cure the worst cases of Festered Corns, Inflamed and Ulcerated Bunions, the sorest instep, the largest and severest Blisters, the most extensive Callosities on the soles or heels of the feet, unequalled in the cure of Chilblains or Frosted Feet. The Allevantor for ordinary corns and preventing their formation is absolutely unexcelled by anything ever known.
PILES have been a terror to mankind for centuries, and almost every attempt to cure them has been baffled. By unceasing study and experimenting, Dr. Briggs has discovered an absolutely cure for internal, bleeding, external, and itching piles. Briggs' Pile Remedies are mild, safe and sure.
For sale by J. H. THACHER, WM. R. PRESTON, Portsmouth; JAMES O. TREFETHEN, Kittery; E. S. SAFFORD, Kittery Point; H. M. CURTIS, Newcastle, and dealers generally.
CORNS, Bunions, Bad Nails, and other diseases of the feet, Scrofulous and Cancerous Humors, Piles, etc., skillfully treated at the great central Chiropodical and Healing Institute, No. 765 Broadway, New York. DR. J. BRIGGS, President; DR. ALEXANDER WEBBER, Secretary. ap9

The Great Blood Purifier.
A valuable Indian compound, for restoring the health, and for the permanent cure of all diseases arising from impurities of the blood, such as
Scrofula Scrofulous Humors, Cancers, Cancerous Humor Erysipelas, Canker Salt Rheum, Pimples and Humors on the Face, Ulcers, Coughs, Catarrh, Bronchitis, Neuralgia, Pains in the Side, Rheumatism, Dyspepsia, Constipation Costiveness, Dizziness Piles, Headache Nervousness, Dimness of Sight, Pain in the Stomach Pains in the Back, Kidney Complaints
Female Weakness, and General Debility.
This preparation is scientifically and chemically combined, and so strongly concentrated from roots, herbs and barks, that its good effects are realized immediately after commencing to take it. There is no disease of the human system for which the VEGETINE cannot be used with PERFECT SAFETY, as it does not contain any metallic compound. For eradicating the system of all impurities of the blood, it has no equal. It has never failed to effect a cure, giving tone and strength to the system debilitated by disease. Its wonderful effects upon these complaints are surprising to all. Many have been cured by the VEGETINE that have tried many other remedies. It can well be called

The Chronicle

The Locomotive Engineer.

Not in every man's life does it come to make an ascent in a balloon; not in every man's life does it come to ride upon a locomotive engine. Both are exciting experiences, and the vast majority of the human species would prefer to be excused from either sensation. Only a very few have experienced the former, and until aerial navigation is reduced to a more apparent utility than at present, few will seek the wonders and dangers that are patent to all who navigate the atmosphere in our present inflated style. There is too much "gas" about it.

But the locomotive engine has become a great power, not only in the development of our past territorial area, but in adding to the value of our older settled States; in giving access to the great markets for the produce of those who till New England's broken; lands in opening new scenes of beauty for those who wish to leave the city's din and heat and strife, for the quiet, the beauty, and the pure, cool air of the mountains, the sea side and the vernal country. All over the land the tremendous lever of the iron roadway, with its horses fed on steam, is most sensibly felt. The sturdy farmer learns that he who deals in bright silks and glittering jewels is not necessarily effeminate and can not always be classed with the Shylocks of tradition. The most dauntless climbers of forbidding hills, the most ardent disciples of the rod, the line and the fly; the most liberal and genial companions for a ride, a drive or a sail, come from out the bricks and mortar of the great cities—from the dry goods store, from the jeweller's bench; from the musty lore of church and law and state; from the stifling air of the city press, from mercantile life in all its forms. They take no credit for their enthusiasm; the touch of a natural life is a holiday to those who most of the year live in a forcing-house where brain and heart are taxed at the expense of body and soul.

And so the railroad may be hailed as a missionary:—bringing city and country together; uniting North and South, East and West; levelling the distinctions betwixt Yankee and Hoosier, 'twixt Cracker and Wolverine.

I should forget my text did I dwell on half the advantages the iron road brings, long ere I had absorbed the space you grant to correspondents, and then I should tax you far beyond what you would be willing to grant of those columns ever so appreciated by the shrewdest of the advertising community. The Engineer was my theme, — a worthy one most will admit.

Back in our Pullman cars, freed from dust, noise, from sun and heat and jar, we are apt to forget that far in the van stands one whose every movement is to us a message of safety and speed, whose constant tension of brain, nerve and eye ministers to our comfort, our safety; to our impatience of time and distance even. Leave the sumptuous cars the Eastern Railroad has been so thoughtful as first to give to New England patrons; if you are a newspaper man, a correspondent or one having influence enough to secure the privilege of risking your neck and clothing for an hour or two, we may secure a chance to ride with Charlie Green, Peter Page, Johnson, or some of the many excellent engineers the road employs.

Don't fancy you are to have a state-room or any extended accommodation; it is only by sufferance you are allowed in the very limited accommodations of the cab at all. The firemen cheerfully give up to you the ledge which serves him as a seat during his few minutes of rest, and a regard for common decency could not ask for more.

The great bell in the depot gives a warning note, the conductor shouts "all aboard;" the stalwart engineer moves the polished brake upon which his hand has been fixed for many minutes, the engine gives a number of quick stertorous coughs and we are moving out of the depot. The signal line is anxiously seen to be aright, the tender has its full allowance of coal and water, the gauge cocks have been tested, the bearings oiled, and the casual observer would suppose the engineer and fireman would now "have an easy time of it." Mistaken souls! let them go with us. Right ahead stands one of those well-known signs, on two great upright standard timbers, the crossboard bearing the all-familiar warning: "Look out for the Engine while the bell rings." The fireman drops the shovel with which he has been moving forward the food for his iron steed, clasps the greasy, sooty, leather cord, and a brazen tongue gives out its note of warning to those who thread the angling highway. Dropping the cord, he opens the furnace door,—a glare, a rush of heat that threatens to devour us, and the quick movements of brawny arms are giving new life to the fires that feed life to the passive steed that draws us.

Years ago you learned not to "talk to the man at the wheel." You will learn more quickly not to talk to the man at the engine brake on a railway train; firstly, because you cannot make him hear you; secondly, because he is engaged every moment in the conduct of his train; lastly, because you are not likely to be there unless he knows you are one suitable to be admitted into a domain where eternal vigilance is not only the price of liberty but of life itself for vast numbers.

By little country roads, where whistle and bell must both send out their warning far in advance of the train's arrival; by stations where no stop is made, and premonitory signals must be given; around sharp curves, where eye and ear are alert for possible danger; over lonesome bridges, where an anxious glance is cast at the draw signals, with every nerve alert the engineer guides his impetuous steed. The snow or the rain begins to fall, visions fails to pierce the gathering gloom, and the intensity of the strain on the nerves of the man whose right arm holds the lives of hundreds is fearful. Night settles down, and even the powerful headlight seems feeble to combat the cimmerian darkness which may hide the gaunt spectre of death.

Wendell Phillips, with silver tongue, may prate of the recklessness of engineers. Let him ride with them by day and by night, in sunshine and in storm; let him watch them on nights when hardly a human being is to be seen on the streets of Boston, in the pitiless rain or sleet and less pitiless darkness, shifting cars, watching signals, straining eyes to interpret orders from conductors. He will not have far to go from his comfortable quarters in Essex street, even if he visits the maze known as the "Diamond," where the Boston and Albany and Providence railroad cross; but I think an hour's watch on a blustering night might give even Mr. P. some new ideas on "the dignity of labor." Common sense teaches that no sane man willingly risks his life for no good purpose, and those who are best acquainted with the great "Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers" will be the first to repudiate any aspersion against their character as careful men.

There are more picturesque scenes than I have depicted. There is an exhilaration in dashing along by town and by river,—in the free rush of air and the roar of the furnace, — in the sense of responsibility and the confidence that such trust is well bestowed, in the defiance of biting winds, of pelting rains, of driving sleet, and of the softly falling snow that bars man's progress with its fleecy purity. A ride by night on the forward engine, when the deep snow calls for two or more locomotives and the great plow precedes all, is well worth remembering, even though a little tedious, if not actually dangerous. Through the levels we make good headway; the headlights cast a beauteous glow on falling snow as well as on the jet of crystal thrown up from the monster plow. A cut is coming; it will be packed, and the engines are given full head. Into the drifts we go; we feel the heavy drag of the immense mass, we strive to crowd through, the spray of snow from the plough falls far back of the second engine, and we are through——or stuck! In the latter case comes shovelling, and hours (sometimes days) late the train reaches its destination, and the weary engineer joins his anxious family. For my part I wish to give my feeble testimony in praise of the locomotive engineer, and only wish I could do it in a more emphatic manner. M.

The bill authorizing the construction of ten steam sloops-of-war is expected to come up in the Senate to-day. Senator Cragin, who has the bill in charge, has prepared an exhaustive speech reviewing the condition of our navy and mercantile marine, the causes of their decline and the best means for their restoration. The debate in the Senate on the bill will probably be suggestive and interesting, as several prominent Senators are intending to participate.

Washington Correspondence.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan. 10.

Congress is once more at work and the first thing they did after the morning hour on Monday was to open the doors of the Committee examining the Credit Mobilier. They came open reluctantly, though the yeas and nays shows that about everybody who voted at all, voted for it. Public sentiment had got so started it demanded more, and Randall's resolutions to prosecute to recover what it is alleged was wrongfully obtained by that Corporation, and Wilson's resolution to investigate it generally, also passed. The last will not probably amount to much for want of time before Congress closes. When the committee opened the doors the press people called over the testimony and the papers are full of it. Of the Congressmen on the McComb letter Boutwell and Blaine came out clean-handed. Ames had a big job on his hands and his success and his profits were depending upon public confidence very largely, for a flow of money to carry it on. The large profits were beginning to breed trouble inside, and from parties who wanted to get in. Washburne had moved to overhaul it in the house, which would expose its operations, check its flow of funds, and perhaps bring down the whole fabric with a crash. To protect "us," as Ames says, Congressmen must be interested; and to get them to look into the matter they must be pecuniarily interested, says Ames, in one of his letters. So without any other feeling but that of benevolence he put his stock where it would do good, and being on the spot could tell best where. In one letter he says he thinks Grimes might possibly sell some of the stock for $350 a share, which fixes its value. The dividends were very large, even at that figure, yet he placed it at $100 per share. Then a Senator or Representative got thirty shares for $3000, that were worth $10,500; those lucky enough to get it were so modest they let Ames keep this stock as Trustee, and took the dividends indirectly. There are some people so unchaitable as to attribute this modesty to unworthy motives, and suggest that if it had been done by anybody but honorable and christian gentlemen, it would be corrupt! This may be so, but what is the use of making such a fuss about it? Nobody steals or seels himself, but a poor devil.

The amendments of the Senate to the bill appropriating a million and a quarter for work done by the Washington Board of Public Works on the streets, were adopted in the House, and the hungry contractors and laborers who have been out of funds for a long time will soon be flush. Next morning after this was done the Board went for the Treasury again, in the shape of asking Uncle Sam to give $150,000 for the City Hall, which cost the city $113,000, including all repairs and expenses ever since it was occupied by the city,—and Sam will be a niggard if he don't fork over without a question. The Board of Health next went for the Treasury. They only asked for $40,000 to take care of the small pox. These Boards are expensive luxuries, that nobody but Uncle Sam would tolerate,—outside New York city. The old fellow gives them $20,000 yearly for their services while fleecing him, besides what they get out of the city. I don't like to hear the old gentleman called niggardly, when he does so much for this city. Besides this million and a quarter he paid $200,000 for streets, $200,000 for police, $265,000 to fix up parks, $70,000 to bring water, besides building and supporting Reform Schools, Insane Asylums, Lying-in Asylums, Deaf and Dumb Asylums, etc. The old gentleman has spent two millions and a half for the benefit of this District directly, and two million more for parks and building which benefit it, indirectly. As the old fellow got in debt last month three millions—the first time since Grant's administration began — he has a right to haul in a little; perhaps it's a good thing he fell short. A good many people had begun to think there was no bottom to his pocket, and it will serve to check them up, I hope. He will have all he can do to pay off half as much of the debt as he did last year. A part of what he fell behind was for Pacific and other Railroad interest, not included in the debt statement.

A good deal of time is taken up every year in Congress over Indian appropriations and Indian matters. Suppose we should try boarding them at first class hotels, where it would cost less than the present system?

The attempt to increase the President's salary from $25,000 to $50,000 failed, Mr. Holman making a point of order that it was changing the law in an appropriation bill, in which Mr. Dawes (in the chair) ruled against him; but on an appeal from Dawes' decision the House sustained Holman's view and the proposition to increase failed. The salary of the President has been indirectly increased by providing almost everything demanded in keeping up the President's establishment. Instead of increasing the President's salary, a pension upon the ground that he was compelled to increase expenses ever after, would be much better. It is pretty hard for a President who can't lay up much on his salary to keep up afterwards, as he feels he must, a sort of open house. It would, however, open a wide door for extension and abuse as a precedent.

Orton's statements on telegraphing before the Committee got a bad showing from the Post Office department. It is a great monopoly, feeding upon the public, and will die hard, like all other great monopolies. The telegraphs and railroads are destined to come under Government control. It was but a short time ago, the railroads and canals stopped carrying coal to New York, to put up the prices. Is every industry driven by steam, as well as the people who have to be warmed, to depend upon the caprices of railroads, as to whether they will bring coal or not?

Quite a discussion arose in the House upon the appropriation for the Bureau of Education. Everybody has the ballot, and intelligence should direct it, for the safety of the Government. Ignorance generates the dangerous classes; self-protection demands general education, and where it is not otherwise provided, the State owes to every child, that the wealth which labor has produced, and he is to defend, should provide him the means of acquiring it.

A bit of romance will be more interesting than any news I can add; I can give only the outlines as told to me. An English lady had occasion to write the Department in regard to a Pension belonging to some one on account of services during the rebellion. There was something about the letter which attracted the clerk's attention, and he called a brother clerk's attention to it, who was also interested by it and answered it in such a way as to invite an answer back. The letter was shown by the girl to her father, who seemed impressed that the writer would prove an impostor, and was not entitled to an answer. The lady, however, had an overmastering impulse to answer, and was not inclined to believe the writer an impostor until he should develope as such. Her answer led to a continued correspondence, which became so agreeable that photographs followed, with which both were pleased. The business of the Department required some one to go to Europe on account of it, and this clerk sought and obtained the opportunity and of course hastened with all practicable speed to see his fair correspondent. They at once formed a mutual admiration society too strong to be broken up, and the lady came back as the wife of the clerk, and was one of the noted assistants on New Year's day at the reception of a wife of a high government functionary, noted for the brilliancy of her entertainments. There were few who graced their position better on that day than the wife of the once clerk, who is now a lawyer in good practice, having graduated from the Law School while a clerk. X. E.

CORNS.—Since pride and fashion have had control of mankind, and shoemakers were compelled to make boots and shoes to fit fancy instead of the feet, the suffering from Corns, Bunions, Ingrowing Nails, Sore Insteps, Blistered Heels, Callosities on the bottom of the feet, &c., cannot be described. But Briggs' Corn and Bunion Remedies will cure all such torments, and proper fitting boots will prevent their reproduction. Sold by all druggists. a12

A GOOD THING DULY APPRECIATED.—No beneficial revolution ever goes backward; and this maxim is as invariably in medicine as in politics. The advent of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, twenty years ago, produced a revolution in the treatment of a large class of ailments, and that revolution has ever since been in "the full tide of successful experiment." If that tide has borne the proprietors of this celebrated vegetable specific "on to fortune," it has also borne thousands of human beings, who were languishing under the effects of disease, weak and hopeless, out of the depths of despondency into the paradise of health and cheerfulness. It is no exaggeration to say, that to the vigor, the regularity of habit of body, the good appetite and perfect digestion, acquired under the operation of this unequalled tonic and corrective, multitudes of people in every walk of life, who had been vainly physicked in the usual way, owe the blessings of renewed health and the prospect of prolonged life.

PILES.—The unceasing torture from internal bleeding, external and itching piles is fast wearing away the thousands of those who are afflicted and their hope and courage have long since given place to despair. Let those who see this cheer up, for a mild and sure cure may be had by using BRIGGS' PILE REMEDIES.

A SURE CURE follows the use of BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL—the best known remedy for THROAT and LUNG COMPLAINTS. Only 50 cts. a bottle.

YOU ARE TROUBLED WITH A BAD BREATH.—It annoys your friends as well as yourself. You would like to get rid of it, but scarcely know what means to adopt. We will tell you. Use the fragrant Sozodont; it will cleanse and beautify your teeth, and leave your breath pure.

LOCAL AFFAIRS.

The Return of the Sons.

A very satisfactory meeting of the Sons and Daughters of Portsmouth residents in New York and vicinity was held at the St. Cloud Hotel on Thursday evening. The Messrs. Rand placed one of their fine suites of private parlors at the disposal of their friends, and were active in their endeavors to advance the objects of the meeting. Mr. S. J. Nowell called the meeting to order and nominated Col. E. R. Goodrich as chairman and Mr. John L. Salter as secretary, and the nominations were confirmed unanimously. Col. Goodrich asked to be excused from acting in any official capacity, although willing to serve "in the ranks" as earnestly as any, but the meeting urged his acceptance of the chair, which he finally took, with a few appropriate remarks on the object of the meeting and the reunion of the Sons next July.

It was moved that a committee of organization be appointed from those present, to whom should be delegated the power of selecting from the entire list of residents an executive committee. Mr. Albert Remick offered as a substitute, a motion that a permanent organization of a society of Sons be effected, and that the chair appoint a committee of five to present to the meeting a board of officers, to appoint an executive committee and prepare a plan of organization. The previous motion was withdrawn and Mr. Remick's motion carried. The chairman appointed as a committee, Messrs. Albert Remick, Samuel J. Nowell, S. G. Folsom, Henry S. Lambert and George J. Laighton. The committee retired for consultation on board of officers.

During their absence the assemblage, which now crowded the large parlors, interchanged pleasant greetings and congratulations, many of those present not having met for years. The list of Sons and Daughters resident in New York, numbering over two hundred, was read by Mr. Salter. At 9 o'clock the committee reported the subjoined board of officers, and on motion they were unanimously elected.

President, Archibald A. Peterson.
Vice Presidents, Charles L. Frost, Edwin R. Goodrich, D. D. Badger, Jacob H. Thompson, Thomas P. Salter.
Secretary, E. P. Nowell.
Assistant Secretary, John L. Salter.
Treasurer, Jacob Wendell.

It was moved and seconded that the chair appoint a committee to advise those gentlemen of their election, and Col. Goodrich appointed Messrs. George J. Laighton and Samuel J. Nowell.

It was moved by Mr. Nowell "That the Board of Officers have authority to fill vacancies which may arise in the Board." Passed.

Mr. Wendell said that he felt obliged to decline to accept the office of Treasurer, that he should be pleased to do privately all in his power to further the objects of the meeting, but his own business so completely occupied his time as to preclude his acceptance of the position. On the call from the chairman the meeting reluctantly accepted Mr. Wendell's resignation, and the vacancy will be filled by the Board of Officers.

Mr. E. P. Nowell smilingly moved that a transfer be made in the ticket by which he should be Vice President and Col. Goodrich Secretary, but the Col. said "it wouldn't go!" and no one seconded the motion.

It was moved and seconded, that the thanks of the society be tendered to Messrs. Rand Bros., for their courtesies.

The names of those present, among whom were a large number of ladies, were then taken by Mr. Laighton and recorded by the Sec'y. At 10 o'clock, P. M., the meeting adjourned, subject to the action of the Board of Officers.

The reunion was a great pleasure to every one present, and the enthusiasm manifested indicates a large delegation from New York and Brooklyn, next summer. Col. E. R. Goodrich is entitled to the warmest congratulations on the success of his efforts.

Gas Consumption.

Messrs. Editors:—In the edition of the CHRONICLE, Monday morning, we notice your article on the "Consumption of Gas," and with your permit would like to say a few words.

The Portsmouth Gas Co. make pretensions that the rates are lower at the present day than heretofore. Now, if such is the case, will you, or can they explain the following?

We burn three burners less in our store, and have done so for the past three months, than at any other time since we have been in business.

Our gas bill for six weeks, commencing May 24th, 1871, to July 8th, 1871, was $5.10. For four weeks corresponding, in 1872, our bill was $7.20, an increase of $2.10 in two weeks less time! For the seven months from June to December, 1871, our bill was $48.63; for the same time in 1872, it was $73.60, an increase of $25.03,—and at the same time we burned less gas in the store.

We have spoken about the matter to the proper authorities, but can get no satisfaction beyond the reply "the meter must be out of order," etc.

TERHUNE & BERRY.

Laconics.

The Temple quartette are to give a concert at Saco, this evening. Why can't they favor Portsmouth?

It is said that Hon. J. W. Johnson, the well known wool dealer of Enfield, and Hon. Frank Jones of this city were the purchasers of 2000 new shares of Eastern Railroad stock by auction at Boston last week. The stock was put up with the privilege of taking fifty shares or the whole. The bidding ceased at $102 and when Mr. Jones was asked how many shares he would take, he replied "All of them."

The crew of a brig laying at anchor in the lower harbor, Sunday, being pretty thoroughly tired out, went below for a rest, leaving a fire burning. Not long afterwards the crew of a fishing schooner, anchored near by, saw so much smoke coming from the brig that they fancied something was wrong, and boarding the latter vessel found her mainsail burning. The fire was easily put out, but not until the sail was destroyed. Had the flames reached the tarred rigging it would have been a hard job to have saved the brig.

The adjourned meeting of the committee of Seventy will be held at the Common Council room to-morrow evening at 7 1-2 o'clock.

Read our racy Washington correspondence and obtain a little insight into the goings-on at the national Capital. The manner in which New Hampshire might have a Senator in Congress who might be assigned thirty shares in Credit Mobilier to be held in trust while he might pocket the dividends is explained.

The exhibition of the Methodist Sunday School will take place in the church on State street, this evening. The exercises will consist of dialogues, recitations and singing, and will commence at a quarter past 7 o'clock. Admission—for adults, 15 cents; for children under 12 years of age, 10 cents.

Ex-Gov. Colby of New London is in a very low state of health, and his decease may be expected at any time.

THAT HORRID BOY.—Figaro, down at San Francisco, tells this:—A little brother is sometimes more agreeable when he becomes an angel over yonder. Our friend Parker knows a little brother whom he would gladly wait at once over to the thither shore if society had not an absurd predjdice against premeditated murder. Young Parker loved Miss Clamm, sister of said babe, and a few evenings ago he called upon the lady for the purpose of proposing to her. They sat on the sofa in the front parlor alone. As the evening wore on Parker plucked up courage, nudged over to Miss Clamm's side of the sofa, and began some preliminary remarks about his "eternal happiness," his "heart's longings," his "soul's idol," his "love's young dream," etc. Just as he had taken Miss Clamm's little hand in his and was about to squeeze it, a terrific sneeze was heard beneath the sofa. Parker and Clamm both sprang up. Parker dragged the sofa away from the wall, and there lay young Clamm snickering and chuckling as if he had rich things stored in him; and when Miss Clamm flew at him and boxed his ears he remained silent; but escaping, he ran to the door, and standing there with his hand on the knob, he observed:

"Never you mind! I'm a-goin right up stairs to tell ma that you and old Parker have been a-sitting down yer kissing each other, and squeezin' hands, hud huggin' like mad—a carryin' on scandalous. I'm goin' to tell ma—certain! And you jist wait till pa comes, and if he don't boot that Parker outen the front door quicker than lightnin' my name ain't William Henry Clamm. Oh! he'll go fur yo, mister! He'll root around in here like a maniac when he hears you've been kissin' sis! Never you mind!" And then W. H. Clamm faded into the entry. Parker and Clamm have not yet agreed to consolidate.

CLEAR YOUR THROAT!

Relieve Your Lungs.

For the terrible diseases engendered by the lung-trying climate of New England,

Pulmocine Cordial

Is a speedy and reliable Preventive and Remedy. EVERY FAMILY should have a bottle at hand to check the sudden growth of all Pulmonary Diseases. For the Asthma, Coughs, Croups, Laryngitis, or inflammation of the larynx, Diphtheria, and all kindred THROAT DISEASES at all times prevalent, it is the ounce of PREVENTION. Children attacked with Whooping Cough or Croup should be immediately cared for. These painful attacks come with scarcely a moment's warning, when a physician may be out of immediate reach. A dose of PULMOCINE CORDIAL gives speedy relief, and the little ones are spared hours of pain and agony. As "a stitch in time saves nine," so does the possession of this FAMILY MEDICINE prevent the spread of disease. Parents seeing their children gasping with pain, friends and relatives beholding each other in peril from suffocation by the choking pain in the throat, paralyzed with fear and not knowing the best course to pursue, are liable to apply the wrong remedial agents. There is no safety in delay, no time to waste in such cases. CONSUMPTION, that fearful scourge of the human race, lies at the door of all thus afflicted. BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL arrests it (unless in its advanced stage at which time there is no local cure) relieves the pressing, suffocating feeling at the lungs, and the patient's danger is past.

BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL

is no new discovery. Twenty-three years ago it was used by one of New England's most famous physicians as the best PULMONARY CURATIVE he could prescribe, after a dozen years spent in experimenting with it before he was satisfied that the Materia Medica could add nothing in its favor.

Buchman's Pulmocine Cordial

Is the ultima thule of Medical Discovery.

Among its many ingredients are WILD CHERRY BARK, SQUILL ROOT, LIQUORICE ROOT, BLOOD ROOT, &c. It is a BLOOD PURIFIER, gently stimulating. It increases expectoration and is diuretic. It is sudorific and alterative. It is a necessary family medicine. It is a Tonic, and a powerful aid to the digestive organs. It is a gentle sedative, and relieves nervousness. It is aromatic and agreeable to the taste.

For Coughs, Croup, Diphtheria, Asthma, &c.

USE BUCHMAN'S

PULMOCINE CORDIAL.

The Pulmocine Cordial is not a quack medicine, is not an experiment, is not composed of any ingredients "discovered" by "walking in pastures" in South America or anywhere else, nor by one who discovered a weed and thereby cured himself. Most of the ingredients are such as our best educated physicians daily use for the complaints specified, in some form or other. The recipe is that perfected by one of New England's most learned and famous physicians, who used it entirely in his daily practice until his death. It is offered to the profession and to the public, absolutely pure and unadulterated.

IRON in the BLOOD.

DYSPEPSIA, DEBILITY, DROPSY, HUMORS,

PERUVIAN SYRUP

Makes the Weak Strong.

The Peruvian Syrup, a Protected Solution of the Protoxide of Iron, is so combined as to have the character of an aliment, as easily digested and assimilated with the blood as the simplest food. It increases the quantity of Nature's Own Vitalizing Agent, Iron in the blood, and cures "a thousand ills" simply by Toning up, Invigorating and Vitalizing the System. The enriched and vitalized blood permeates every part of the body, repairing damages and waste, searching out morbid secretions, and leaving nothing for disease to feed upon.

This is the secret of the wonderful success of this remedy in curing Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, Dropsy, Chronic Diarrhoea, Boils, Nervous Affections, Chills and Fevers, Humors, Loss of Constitutional Vigor, Diseases of the Kidneys and Bladder, Female Complaints, and all diseases originating in a bad state of the blood, or accompanied by debility or a low system. Being free from Alcohol, in any form, its energizing effects are not followed by corresponding reaction, but are permanent, infusing strength, vigor, and new life into all parts of the system, and building up an Iron Constitution.

Thousands have been changed by the use of this remedy, from weak, sickly, suffering creatures to strong, healthy, and happy men and women; and invalids cannot reasonably hesitate to give it a trial.

See that each bottle has PERUVIAN SYRUP blown in the glass.

Morning Chronicle.

WHOM WILL YOU MARRY?—Young lady, that young man with a round face who visits you, may not be the one to make you always happy, although he dances beautifully, is very gay, agreeable and handsome, and you allow yourself to love him without a thought in regard to his capability of making you happy in the future. He may talk fluently, and whisper words of love in your ear, and you will embark with him in the pleasant ship of matrimony, not knowing whether it has ballast or compass. It may be pleasant for a short time, but in a few years you may find that your husband has not the business qualities to make you comfortable in life. You now find that you are the wife of a poor, shiftless wretch; you are heart broken and miserable—wrecked on the shoals of life.

Many of the most noble ladies of earth have been dazzled by the display of youth, and married to repent and weep in bitterness of soul.

Now, young ladies, before you allow your mind and affections to be captivated by any young gentleman inform yourself in regard to his moral character and business habits. He may say pleasant things to you and draw splendid pictures of the future; but unless his moral character and business habits correspond with his words, discard him at once, for most likely he will draw you into the whirlpool of ruin.

Do not always choose those who have smooth words and soft hands, but look rather to their everyday actions and achievements; if they shine forth with the endeavors of a trustworthy man; if he is not guilty of using tobacco or strong drink, and has a mind of his own, although he may be a little awkward in his manners, this is the man that will make his mark in the world. Set your cap for him. Such a man will wade through the deepest difficulties, and ride over mountains of obstacles, and make himself useful in the world.

Such a man will lead you in the green and flowery paths of earth.—Fannie in Ohio Farmer.

—In the average height of mountain ranges, Switzerland does not compare with Colorade, or for that matter, with any Western Territory. The mean height of the Alps is from eight to nine thousand feet above the level of the sea. The mean height of the Rocky Mountains is from ten to twelve thousand feet. It is probable that the average height in Colorado, which is the tableland of the continent, will approach very nearly to twelve thousand feet.

CENTAUR.

See the long line of myriad dead
With hoof of horse and human head
Rise up and speak!
"'Twas proud Olympus gave us birth;
For a thousand years we roamed the earth—
Eat perfumed flowers of the century plant,—
Drank liquid from the volcano's mouth,
Slew man and beast to play our part,
Then restored to life by the Centaur's art;
Chased wild mares on the field of Mars,
Lived on the earth, and slept among the stars."

On other mission now we're sent,
To bless mankind with an emollient,
Of which the world ne'er hath dreamt,
Even our CENTAUR LINIMENT.
It banishes pains and all such things,
Cures burns and scalds, poisonous stings—
Rheumatic horrors scares away,
Limbers stiff joints in a single day.
Poor cripples in their hobbling way,
Limp in on crutches—then walk away.
Fear not, dumb horse, thy friend now speaks,
Who'll heal your wounds, and make you leap
Ten bars—piles of oats to boot,
And frisk about like yonder colt.
Yellow wrapper is the thing for brutes,
White wrapper alone the family suits.

J. F. Ludwig, of Hoboken, N. J., says: "The Centaur Liniment has cured me of Rheumatism, after intense suffering for five years."

"I tried many remedies for my sprained ancle without relief. The second bottle of Centaur Liniment cured it perfectly. Chas. Hall, 616 Pine St., Phila."

H. Marsh, Esq., Supt. of Adams Express Stables, New York, says: "All owners of horses should know the Centaur Liniment. We find it the best thing ever used in our stables."

This testimony could be repeated for a month. If you want to avoid suffering, just try the Centaur Liniment. Sold by all druggists. J. B. ROSE & CO., 53 Broadway, N.Y.

Children cry for Pitcher's Castoria.—A substitute for Castor Oil. It assimilates the food, cures Wind Colic, and causes natural sleep. It does not contain morphine, is pleasant to take, never gripes and never fails. The best physic known.

—Some close observer, commenting on the alacrity with which workmen left their labors at the stroke of twelve, remarked, "I have seen a man who had his pick in the air knock off work and leave it there rather than waste the time to put it down after twelve struck."

—A lady called on a witty friend who was not at home, and finding the piano dusty, wrote upon it "slattern." The next day they met, and the lady said, "I called on you yesterday." "Yes, I saw your card on the piano."

—A gentleman meeting a friend who was wasting away with consumption, exclaimed, "Ah, my dear fellow, how slow you walk!" "Yes," replied the consumptive, "I walk slow but I'm going fast."

and acknowledged by many prominent physicians to be the most Reliable Preparation ever introduced for the RELIEF and CURE of all

LUNG COMPLAINTS.

This well known remedy is offered to the public, sanctioned by the experience of over forty years, and when resorted to in season seldom fails to effect a speedy cure of

Coughs, Colds, Croup, Bronchitis, Influenza, Whooping Cough, Hoarseness, Pains or Soreness in the Chest or Side, Bleeding at the Lungs, Liver Complaints, &c. &c.

CONSUMPTION

CURED

by a timely resort to this standard remedy, as is proved by hundreds of testimonials received by the proprietors.

Dr. Wistar's Balsam of Wild Cherry

does not dry up a Cough and leave the cause behind, as is the case with most preparations, but it loosens and cleanses the lungs and allays irritation, thus removing the cause of the complaint

CLERGYMEN, LAWYERS, SINGERS,

$1000 REWARD.
BRIGGS' ALLEVANTOR is composed of Ammonia, Chloroform, Spirits of Camphor, Tincture of Lupuline, Oil of Juniper, and Alcohol. This compound is unequalled in the annals of medicine for the cure of Nervous or Sick Headache, Neuralgia, Trembling or Twitching of the Nerves, and all Nervous Diseases. It will counteract all poisons, banish pimples, cure scaly eruptions, itching, humors, &c.; it equalizes the circulation, invigorates the system, increases the action of the heart, without exciting the brain, cures Heartburn, Palpitation and Fluttering of the Heart, Dyspepsia, &c. Briggs' Allevantor absolutely possesses more curative properties than any other preparation. Physicians, chemists, and others are requested to examine and test the remedy, and $1000 will be paid if found different from representation.
COUCHS, Much has been said and written, and many remedies have been offered for the relief and cure of throat and lung diseases; but nothing has been so eminently successful, or obtained such a wide celebrity, as Briggs' Throat and Lung Healer.
CORNS! The excruciating pain produced by Corns, the unceasing twinging from Bunions, the piercing, distressing pain from Ingrowing Nails, cannot be described. Thousands suffer, not knowing there is a cure. Briggs' Corn and Bunion Remedies are no acid or potash compounds, but are reliable, soothing, and effectual, and just merit the success they have earned from an appreciative public. The Curative is a healing ointment; immediate relief is obtained by its application, and it will positively cure the worst cases of Festered Corns, Inflamed and Ulcerated Bunions, the sorest instep, the largest and severest Blisters, the most extensive Callosities on the soles or heels of the feet, unequalled in the cure of Chilblains or Frosted Feet. The Allevantor for ordinary corns and preventing their formation is absolutely unexcelled by anything ever known.
PILES have been a terror to mankind for centuries, and almost every attempt to cure them has been baffled. By unceasing study and experimenting, Dr. Briggs has discovered an absolutely cure for internal, bleeding, external, and itching piles. Briggs' Pile Remedies are mild, safe and sure.
For sale by J. H. THACHER, WM. R. PRESTON, Portsmouth; JAMES O. TREFETHEN, Kittery; E. S. SAFFORD, Kittery Point; H. M. CURTIS, Newcastle, and dealers generally.

CORNS, Bunions, Bad Nails, and other diseases of the feet, Scrofulous and Cancerous Humors, Piles, etc., skillfully treated at the great central Chiropodical and Healing Institute, No. 705 Broadway, New York. DR. J. BRIGGS, President; DR. ALEXANDER WEBBER, Secretary. ap9

The Chronicle

Portraits of our Governors.

No apology is needed because of the length of the following letter. It treats of a topic which commands the hearty accord of every son of New Hampshire, and in a manner at once interesting and instructive:

WASHINGTON, D. C., Dec. 28, 1872.

HON. BENJAMIN F. PRESCOTT, Secretary of the State of New Hampshire:

My Dear Sir:—Your letter of recent date relating to the portraits of the Governors of New Hampshire, has been received. Your zeal is commendable. I am highly pleased at your success. The gallery has become exceedingly valuable. Every son of the old Granite State must feel a just pride and satisfaction, while viewing the collection of so many distinguished men who have graced the gubernatorial chair and rendered the history of New Hampshire illustrious. I earnestly desire that the catalogue may be completed, and I rejoice at the present prospect of success. The origin of this interesting feature of the Council Chamber you well understand; but it may not be amiss to give its history.

In the month of August, 1859, while Secretary of State, I visited in company with Governor Ichabod Goodwin, our State beneficiaries at the Deaf and Dumb Asylum, at Hartford, Conn. During our stay in that city, we enjoyed the hospitalities of Rev. Dr. Daniel Goodwin, the President of Trinity College, and brother of our excellent Governor, who kindly conducted us to the many places of interest in that city, among which was the State capitol.

On being ushered into the Senate Chamber, we noticed that its walls were adorned with the portraits of the Governors from the first, the patriot Trumbull—to the no less patriotic Buckingham, the then executive of the State. The collection was complete from 1769, with the exception of Governors Matthew and Roger Griswold. There were the fine old portraits of three of the colonial Governors in the peculiar costume of the times, John and Fitz John Winthrop and Gov. Saltonstall, whose administrations covered a long, but not the entire period, from 1657 to 1724.

Connecticut has done honor to its eminent chief magistrates by preserving the likenesses of the Trumbulls, the Wolcotts, Huntington, Edwards, Ellsworth, Baldwin, Buckingham and other occupants of the chair of State. Since my visit there the brave and unswerving Hawley has added new lustre to the group, and its brilliancy is still further increased by our own New Hampshire Jewell shedding additional radiance on the scene.

This care for the memory of their distinguished public servant was suggestive, and I immediately resolved on inaugurating a movement for a similar object in our own State. Our intimate acquaintance at that time caused me to confer with you on the subject. You commended the project, and recommended an artist of excellent reputation, Adna Tenney, Esq., whose studio was on Main street, Concord, as a suitable person to execute, in a satisfactory manner, and at reasonable compensation, any orders in the line of his profession.

He had already painted my portrait, as well as your own, both of which were regarded as eminently life-like and correct. Gov. Goodwin was requested to sit for his portrait, and it was finished to our satisfaction. Our noble Governor, whose generosity is proverbial, when apprised of our purpose, gave his approval, and proposed to defray the expense of his own, but the offer was declined. My associates at the State House — Allen Tenney, the accomplished Deputy, and my immediate successor in office, and now practicing attorney at Norwich, Conn., Col. Peter Sanborn, State Treasurer, and now an honored citizen of Concord, Joseph C. Abbott, Adjutant General, and more recently U. S. Senator from North Carolina, and myself donated it to the State.

Gov. Goodwin then ordered the portrait of ex-Gov. Ralph Metcalf, then deceased, as his contribution to the collection. Ex-Governors Anthony Colby and William Haile promptly responded to our application and favored us with their portraits.

Through the exertion of myself and successors in office, and pre-eminently yourself, there are now suspended in the Council Chamber portraits of Josiah Bartlett, 1790-3; Jeremiah Smith, 1809; William Plumer, 1812, 1816-18; Samuel Bell, 1819-22; David L. Morrill, 1824-26; Benjamin Pierce, 1827, 1829; Matthew Harvey, 1830; Samuel Dinsmoor, Sen., 1831-3; Isaac Hill, 1836-8; Anthony Colby, 1846; Jared W. Williams, 1847-8; Noah Martin, 1852-3; Nathaniel B. Baker, 1854; Ralph Metcalf, 1855-6; William Haile, 1857-8; Ichabod Goodwin, 1859-60; Nathaniel S. Berry, 1861-2; Joseph A. Gilmore, 1863-4; Frederick Smyth, 1865-6; Walter Harriman, 1867-8; Onslow Stearns, 1869-70; James A. Weston, 1871.

There is also the promise of portraits, which will be delivered at an early day, of William Badger, 1834-5; Samuel Dinsmoor, Jr., 1849-51; Ezekiel A. Straw, 1872. There is wanting the portrait of Matthew Thornton, President, while the province was governed by a convention after the Royal Governor withdrew, 1775. Also is wanting the portrait of Meshach Weare, President, 1776-84 under temporary constitution. Under constitution of 1784, were Presidents Meshach Weare, 1784; John Sullivan, 1786-7 1789; John Langdon, 1785-1788.

Under the constitution of 1792, were Governors, John Taylor Gilmap, 1794-1804, 1813-15; John Langdon, 1805-8, 1810-11; Levi Woodbury, 1823; John Bell, 1828; John Page, 1839-41; Henry Hubbard, 1842-3; John H. Steele, 1844-5.

The portraits of all these eminent men should be secured and I have no doubt that the descendents of the departed Governors will have sufficient family pride to honor the memory of their distinguished ancestors by supplying the deficiency. If originals cannot be spared, Mr. Tennie, who is now at Concord, will faithfully furnish copies, or work up from any existing likeness, a suitable portrait and of uniform size to those already contributed. If unable to make the contribution there are friends who will be willing to defray the expense. I have, in a previous letter, given all the information in my possession concerning the descendants of the missing Governors, with whom correspondence should be commenced or continued.

If you should go to New Haven, I would advise you to visit the "Trumbull Gallery." There are many portraits there of our revolutionary patriots, particularly the Signers of the Declaration of Independence, painted by Trumbull himself. Also, at Philadelphia, in Independence Hall, and in the public and private galleries of art many rare portraits are to be found. The State is greatly indebted to you for your fidelity and enthusiasm in this matter. Although difficult at the outset to make much progress, now that the object is so well secured, there are additional incentives to complete it.

Dartmouth College and Phillips Exeter Academy, from which you honorably graduated, must also appreciate your efforts, in procuring portraits of many distinguished officers and alumni of their respective institutions, which now grace their own halls of learning. If it is possible to obtain any portraits of the Provincial Governors the efforts should now be made.

Full length portraits of Lieut. Gov. John Wentworth, 1717-30, and Gov. Benning Wentworth 1741-66, are now in the well preserved Wentworth mansion, on Pleasant street, Portsmouth. Mark Hunking Wentworth, Esq., an estimable citizen of that city, whose pride of an honored ancestry is commendable, would no doubt esteem it a privilege to present to the State copies of the originals, which he so highly prizes, and prefers retaining in the possession of the family. If the portrait of Gov. John Wentworth, 1767-75, is not in the collection, he may be able to procure it. It is possible there may be in existence portraits of the earlier Provincial Governors, and enquiries among the antiquarians of New England might give some light on the subject.

A communication inserted in the "N. E. Historical and Genealogical Register" at Boston, might result in obtaining valuable information. Has the portrait which was sent by express, from, I know not where, directed to the State House, Agusta, Maine, and by the authorities there forwarded to Concord, supposing it had been misdirected, been claimed or recognized?

The grand, old mansions of Governors Benning and John Wentworth and John Langdon, built in "ye olden times," and also the stately residences of Governors Woodbury and Goodwin, of later construction, at Portsmouth, are still commanding in appearence and retain their architectural attractiveness. Their ample, and to my youthful eye, palatial proportions, upon which I gazed with admiration in my boyhood days, look somewhat smaller now; but their connection with the historic past continues to invest them with such interest as to excite emotions of more than ordinary veneration. An interesting addition to your collection might be made by procuring large photographic views of these old mansions; and the present occupants would no doubt contribute the same. Perhaps one of the Wentworth houses, which was removed for the new High School Building, may have been photographed before its demolition.

January 4, 1873.

Absence from the city has prevented the completion of this letter; and since writing the foregoing, I have been informed that portraits of Gov. John Langdon, who was also a member of the Continental Congress and U. S. Senator from New Hampshire, are in possession of the Elwyn family in Philadelphia, and that Dr. A. Langdon Elwyn, a grandson of the revolutionary patriot, has kindly consented to present one of them to the State.

I addressed a letter recently to Major Matthew Thornton Betton, of Portsmouth, (19th N. H. Reg. of Vols.), a great-grandson of the first President of New Hampshire and a Signer of the Declaration of Independence, which elicited the information that the family had been again consulted and had no knowledge of any portrait of Matthew Thornton in existence; but the gallant Captain James S. Thornton of the U. S. Navy, another lineal descendant, (great-grandson), who as executive officer of the "Kearsarge," fought the "Alabama" with such consummate skill and intrepidity, informs me through a friend, and will write to you on the subject, that he has quite recently come into possession of an engraved likeness of his honored ancestor, which was copied from a drawing made by a foreign artist, now in the collection of Mr. Emett, of Philadelphia, and will present to the State a copy in oil, a most valuable and much desired acquisition.

I am, very truly and sincerely, your friend,

THOMAS L. TULLOCK.

Credit Mobilier.

Judge Poland's committee resumed its investigation of the Credit Mobilier, on Monday, and received a statement from Mr. Dawes in which he denied ever having had any interest in the concern. The testimony of Charles H. Neilson, son-in-law of Mr. James Brooks, was taken, and it proved to be very damaging to the Representative from New York. He stated that his father-in-law furnished him $10,000 to invest in Credit Mobilier and from that investment showed that immense profits had accrued, and made it appear clearly enough thar Mr. Brooks was the controlling spirit in the whole transaction. The House was somewhat excited when these developments reached it, and the democrats are talking of expelling Mr. Brooks.

Assessing the Revenue.

We have received from Hon. J. H. Ela, Fifth Auditor of the Treasury, his annual report to the Secretary. Auditor Ela reports that 11,566 letters were written and 15,406 accounts adjusted during the year, involving $720,071,736.40. From the report we learn that the compensation allowed for collecting internal revenue in this district was $2050.20; clerk hire, $594; printing and advertising $18.50; postage and express, $32; rent, $60; compensation of assistant assessors, $3395.18; compensation of storekeepers, $772; total, $7,121.88.

Conventions.

At the republican State convention held at Concord on Tuesday, Governor Straw was unanimously nominated for re-election.

On balloting for Railroad Commissioner, Mr. Edward P. Hodsden of Dover was nominated, receiving 430 votes. J. W. F. Hobbs had 58, and Russell B. Wiggin 12. Col. Daniel Hall of Dover presided over the convention.

Readables.

Willie Clark, the lad who a short time ago nearly threw off the track a Boston and Albany railroad train near Chester, Mass., died of brain fever, Saturday morning, at his father's house in West Springfield, where he had been since bailed out of jail on suspension of sentence. The excitement of the arrest and trial, working on the boy's feeble mind, quite shattered the nervous system, and for the past three weeks he has been wildly insane, until at last death released him from the power of earthly jaws.

The late "liberal" reform movement has won a post mortem victory. The owner of a public hall in Pittsburg brought suit against the liberal managers of that city for hall rent, and the case being brought to trial, lost his temper and draped in mourning an eye of the liberal counsel. For this unseemly conduct in court the case was dismissed and the adherents of the lost cause consider it a great triumph for reform. They also save their money.

Business Notices.

Don't let that SORE THROAT get the upper hands of you. PULMOCINE CORDIAL will cure it. For sale by druggists and at the Union Store: 50 cts. per bottle.

COUNSEL FOR AILING.—Nothing is cheaper to those who give it than good advice: nothing is more valuable to those who receive it in the right spirit and promptly act upon it. Well, then, we advise the feeble, the ailing, the despondent to become strong and hearty and cheerful. "Ah!" reply all these unfortunates in a breath, "it needs no wiseacre to teach us that such a change is desirable; but how is it to be effected?" Your patience, sick and sorrowful friends, will inform you. Learn then that there is such sanitary value in the famous vegetable restorative known as Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, that no phase of muscular or nervous debility, no species of bilious disorder, no variety of that torment called dyspepsia, no case of chills or fever, no form of hypochondria, that may not be cured by the persevering use of this harmless but irresistible invigorant, alterative and corrective.

CORNS.—Since pride and fashion have had control of mankind, and shoemakers were compelled to make boots and shoes to fit fancy instead of the feet, the suffering from Corns, Bunions, Ingrowing Nails, Sore Insteps, Blistered Heels, Callosities on the bottom of the feet, &c., cannot be described. But Briggs' Corn and Bunion Remedies will cure all such torments, and proper fitting boots will prevent their reproduction. Sold by all druggists. al2

PILES.—The unceasing torture from internal bleeding, external and itching piles is fast wearing away the thousands of those who are afflicted and their hope and courage have long since given place to despair. Let those who see this cheer up, for a mild and sure cure may be had by using BRIGGS' PILE REMEDIES.

A SURE CURE follows the use of BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL—the best known remedy for THROAT and LUNG COMPLAINTS. Only 50 cts. a bottle.

HOW THE RICH MAY DO GOOD.—Thousands of the poor are suffering from coughs and colds caused by exposure. Send to each of these, one bottle of Hale's Honey of Horehound and Tar. Thus countless lives may be saved at a trifling cost. The remedy is admitted to be infallible. Crittenton's, 7 6th Avenue. Sold by all druggists.

Pike's Toothache Drops cure in 1 minute.

INSTANTANEOUS is the operation of BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL in all cases of SORE THROAT, HOARSENESS, COUGHS, CROUP, and LUNG AFFECTIONS. It is beneficial in all cases. Sold for 50 cents per bottle.

CENTAUR.

At midnight on his wooded hills,
The Centaur lay dreaming of the hour,
When mankind, cured of aching ills,
Should know his all-healing power.
Nor long he waited. The blind could see,—
Straightened were limbs by pain long bent,
Cripples ran, and the lame on bended knee
Gave thanks for the Centaur Liniment.

The Centaur Liniment is the greatest pain-reliever the world has ever seen. Rheumatism, whether inflammatory, sciatic or nervous, is made to disappear. Swellings cease to pain, wounds are healed, burns are cured without a scar, and stings and bites are rendered harmless.

Mrs. R. Prowell, 492 Atlantic St., Brooklyn, N. Y., writes: "I have had the rheumatism for ten years. I have tried everything. The Centaur Liniment is the only thing that does me good."

Mr. Chas. Hill, 616 Pine St., Philadelphia, writes: "That two bottles of Centaur Liniment has cured a most severe sprain of his ankle."

J. H. Martin of 533 Seventh Avenue, N. Y., says: "The Centaur Liniment has cured me of a terrible case of inflammatory rheumatism and cannot be too highly recommended."

59 BROADWAY, N. Y., Aug. 21st, 1872.

"All horse owners should have the Centaur Liniment. We used it in our stables and find it the best thing ever adopted."

LOCAL AFFAIRS.

To Delinquent Subscribers.

We have a dozen names on our books which we shall publish if the cash is not forthcoming this month.

Gas Bills.

Messrs. Editors:—There is no mystery about the gas bills; that is, supposing the same system to be now in force that was some years ago. A gentleman whose house had been closed a good part of a quarter complaining that there was no reduction in his bill, was told "that the company, if they found that the meter did not register as much as usual, assumed it to be wrong, and added accordingly."

FACT.

Curb Stone Merchants.

Messrs. Editors:—If you think it advisable to some time say a word about the practice of selling goods on the pavement I think it will do good. I refer particularly to flowers. It seems to me that if parties desire to sell goods they had better take a store, or else we must all move out.

MARKET SQUARE.

Kittery.

The fine large French roofed building in process of erection by John B. Trefethen near the centre of the Navy Yard village, already makes an attractive appearance and will supply one of the greatest needs of the Kittery people. It is three stories in height and when finished will make four convenient stores below, a part of them we learn being already engaged, while the upper stories will afford two spacious halls some thirty-six by ninety feet.

Laconics.

The adjourned meeting of the committee of Seventy will be held at the Common Council room this (Wednesday) evening at 7 1-2 o'clock.

A dancing master with an eye to business has introduced for the season a quadrille called the "Kiss Quadrille," in which the gentlemen kiss the ladies as they "swing the corners." The young people are anxiously inquiring whether or not this dance will be the style here this winter.

MILITARY.—The adjourned meeting of those interested in forming an independent Company of Infantry, for escort duty on the coming Fourth of July, will be held at rooms under Irving Hall, Market Street, Wednesday evening, Jan. 15, at 8 o'clock. A full attendance is desired. PER ORDER.

PRESENTATION.—One hundred ladies and gentlemen of Concord have presented Mr. John F. Byron, the affable clerk of the Eagle Hotel, with a $250 gold watch and chain. The Patriot says Dr. A. H. Crosby was unanimously called to the chair, and two able-bodied gentlemen charged with the duty of bringing "the prisoner" before the court, which duty they performed in prompt fashion. "John" came in wearing one of his most obliging smiles, not for a moment suspecting the nature of the plot against him. Dr. Crosby—the charge of guiltiness of all the best qualities which belong to a model for all hotel clerks being proved against the accused—read the sentence of the court, which was that, for this unusual crime, the unfortunate Byron should be compelled to wear the aforementioned watch and chain during all the years of his natural life; and the learned judge added the fervent wish that these years should be many, in which sentiment all present joined. The unhappy man was deeply affected when the instruments of his punishment were fastened upon him, and said a few words in extenuation of his crime, of a somewhat penitential character. He confessed that he had sometimes believed that he would have been better to have been watched, but never could be made to even imagine that he ought to be chained. He quoted sundry passages from Homer and other Latin authors, from Shakspeare, Milton, and his great name sake, Byron, expressive of the virtue of gratitude, and promised to abide by the feelings they expressed, in the hope that an executive pardon might come for him in good time. John had a good deal of heart in his speech, and was, in some particulars, rather eloquent.

THE GYRO PIGEON.—In order to avoid the cruelty attending pigeon-shooting matches, it is proposed to substitute mechanical birds for live pigeons. The "bird" consists of a piece of steel, as nearly as possible the size of a pigeon, with extended wings, looking something like a screw propeller, which by a coiled spring is thrown into the air, made to fly through space. It can, by means of a stand worked in a ball and socket joint, be made to take any direction at the start, but once launched, its flight is quite as erratic as that of the most capricious "blue rock." The bird itself is painted white or black according to the fancy of the sportsman, and when shot at and struck, the leaden pellets leave their mark on the metal. This gives the crack shot an opportunity to tell to a nicety how many shots he has sent into the flying mark. It allows even a system of handicapping, both simple and satisfactory.

HOW TO DO IT.—The New York Herald of Sunday, in a vigorous editorial, calls for the immediate trial and hanging, all at one time, of all of the murderers now in the Tombs, for an awful example to the lawless. It says:—

Let the next few weeks be remarkable for the rigor of the laws. One after another let the men in the Tombs charged with murder be brought from their cells and put upon trial. If they are guilty they must pay the penalty of guilt. Nothing must be allowed to weigh against this one consideration. Stokes was convicted. Let the others be convicted also when their crimes are established. Above all let this work be done speedily. When all are tried, let all who are convicted be hanged together. Crime has run such a bold course that it needs an equal bold punishment. All these men who so heedlessly murdered their fellow-beings, expiating their offence on the same gallows, would be a spectacle, ghastly it is true, and repulsive to every gentle instinct, but the lesson it would teach would be as lasting as it would be salutary. The lesson is needed. No more favorable time than the present can be found for teaching it to those who would otherwise commit crime in the expectation of immunity from punishment.

JERSEY LIGHTNING.—The manufacture of applejack has been carried on during the past season to an unusual extent. For many years the mountain districts of Pennsylvania and New Jersey have been looked upon as the chief producers of this liquor; and from recent reports it would seem that New Jersey, at least, still holds her proud position. It the Fourth Internal Revenue District, comprising the counties of Morris, Passaic, Sussey, and Bergen, the distilleries have prepared no less than 150,000 gallons of applejack. This quantity, when watered according to rule, will represent 600,000 gallons; and if all the other internal revenue districts in which apple whiskey is a steady drink will only make as large a showing, the time is not far distant when this beverage will supersede both rye and bourbon. The tax of 70 cents per gallon on these 150,000 gallons distilled in the Fourth Internal Revenue District of New Jersey will yield $150,000, of which sum, to the honor of the distillers and of the revenue collecter, be it said, $49,000 has already been paid into the Treasury.

—A gentleman gave a letter of introduction to a student of music about to visit Leipsic, who wished to put himself under the instruction of Professor ——, a famous teacher of music in the latter city. Upon the student's return home, the gentleman asked: "How did you like Professor——?" "Oh, wonderfully! He gave me fine lessons; but he is a very singular man. He kept praying all the time he was teaching me." "Praying? Why, what do you mean?" "Well, while I was playing, he clasped his hands, lifted his eyes to the ceiling, and kept saying, 'Good Lord, what sin have I committed to deserve this punishment!"

A boy who was told he should always try to cheer the aged, tried "three times three and a tiger" on his grandmother, Christmas morning, and the old lady was so startled that she spilled a box full of snuff on him. He looks upon the beauties of nature with his left eye now.

CLEAR YOUR THROAT!

Relieve Your Lungs.

For the terrible diseases engendered by the lung-trying climate of New England,

Pulmocine Cordial

Is a speedy and reliable Preventive and Remedy. EVERY FAMILY should have a bottle at hand to check the sudden growth of all Pulmonary Diseases. For the Asthma, Coughs, Croup, Laryngitis, or inflammation of the larynx, Diphtheria, and all kindred THROAT DISEASES at all times prevalent, it is the ounce of PREVENTION. Children attacked with Whooping Cough or Croup should be immediately cared for. These painful attacks come with scarcely a moment's warning, when a physician may be out of immediate reach. A dose of PULMOCINE CORDIAL gives speedy relief, and the little ones are spared hours of pain and agony. As "a stitch in time saves nine," so does the possession of this FAMILY MEDICINE prevent the spread of disease. Parents seeing their children gasping with pain, friends and relatives beholding each other in peril from suffocation by the choking pain in the throat, paralyzed with fear and not knowing the best course to pursue, are liable to apply the wrong remedial agents. There is no safety in delay, no time to waste in such cases. CONSUMPTION, that fearful scourge of the human race, lies at the door of all this afflicted. BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL arrests it (unless in its advanced stage at which time there is no local cure) relieves the pressing, suffocating feeling at the lungs, and the patient's danger is past.

BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL

is no new discovery. Twenty-three years ago it was used by one of New England's most famous physicians as the best PULMONARY CURATIVE he could prescribe, after a dozen years spent in experimenting with it before he was satisfied that the Materia Medica could add nothing in its favor.

Buchman's Pulmocine Cordial

Is the ultima thule of Medical Discovery.

Among its many ingredients are WILD CHERRY BARK, SQUILL ROOT, LIQUORICE ROOT, BLOOD ROOT, &c. It is a BLOOD PURIFIER, gently stimulating. It increases expectoration and is diuretic. It is sudorific and alterative. It is a necessary family medicine. It is a Tonic, and a powerful aid to the digestive organs. It is a gentle sedative, and relieves nervousness. It is aromatic and agreeable to the taste.

For Coughs, Croup, Diphtheria, Asthma, &c.

USE BUCHMAN'S

PULMOCINE CORDIAL.

The Pulmocine Cordial is not a quack medicine, is not an experiment, is not composed of any ingredients "discovered" by "walking in pastures" in South America or anywhere else, nor by one who discovered a wood and thereby cured himself. Most of the ingredients are such as our best educated physicians daily use for the complaints specified, in some form or other. The recipe is that perfected by one of New England's most learned and famous physicians, who used it instinctively in his daily practice until his death. It is offered to the profession and to the public, absolutely pure and unadulterated.

IRON in the BLOOD.

DYSPEPSIA, DEBILITY, DROPSY, HUMORS,

PERUVIAN SYRUP

Makes the Weak Strong.

The Peruvian Syrup, a Protected Solution of the Protoxide of Iron, is so combined as to have the character of an aliment, as easily digested, and assimilated with the blood as the simplest food. It increases the quantity of Nature's Own Vitalizing Agent, Iron in the blood, and cures "a thousand ills," simply by Toning up, Invigorating and Vitalizing the System. The enriched and vitalized blood permeates every part of the body, repairing damages and waste, searching out morbid secretions, and leaving nothing for disease to feed upon.

This is the secret of the wonderful success of this remedy in curing Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, Dropsy, Chronic Diarrhœa, Boils, Nervous Affections, Chills and Fevers, Humors, Loss of Constitutional Vigor, Diseases of the Kidneys and Bladder, Female Complaints, and all diseases originating in a bad state of the blood, or accompanied by debility or a low system. Being free from Alcohol, in any form, its energizing effects are not followed by corresponding reaction, but are permanent, infusing strength, vigor, and new life into all parts of the system, and building up an Iron Constitution.

Thousands have been changed by the use of this remedy, from weak, sickly, suffering creatures to strong, healthy, and happy men and women: and invalids cannot reasonably hesitate to give it a trial.

See that each bottle has PERUVIAN SYRUP blown in the glass.

A VERITABLE SMIKE.

If there is a village called Staunton in Augusta county, of the Valley of Virginia, and an association of a family name like Brittingham, with its most select social history of no very remote date, there remains slight reason for questioning the truth of a pleasant little story recounted therefrom by a correspondent of the Atlanta (Ga.) Constitution, in the terms herewith somewhat refined and condensed.

It must have been in or about the year 1830 that a peripatetic circus company pitched tent in the village above named, for the profit to be reaped from the patronage of country gentry and plantation hands, and gave such entertainment of light fantastic equestrianism, athletic contortion and ground and lofty tumbling as have not yet lost their periodical zest for rural neighborhoods. The small village inn and every other receptacle for transitory guests in the place were taxed to give temporary domicile to the small army of show people; but one there was of the vagabond cavalcade who, instead of billeting with his roystering comrades took the first opportunity to slip away from both tent and village and follow a road winding afar amongst retired plantations.

This was a mere boy, haggard and precociously rueful of glance and figure, escaping from a bondage in which frequent stripes had not been wanting to make him something lower than a horse in nightly feats of the arena. Things had come to such a pitch in his maltreated young life that he preferred a future of beggary on foot to the lash-countered tinsel of the beggar on horseback; and upon reaching the stately Brittingham plantation he began his new career by asking at the door for a glass of water. The sight of a white boy on the tramp was a novelty for that part of the country in those patriarchal days, and hence the whole household, with the planter at their head, were attracted to the scene. Upon being kindly questioned by old Mr. Brittingham, the fugitive Smike of the circus frankly revealed his story and situation, and that with a piteous earnestness of speech and manner which might have extorted sympathy from the roughest phase of human nature.

His response was an offer of immediate refuge and protection in the good old, hearty, hospitable style; and the whimper with which he accepted did him no harm in the estimation of his new friends. From thenceforth the runaway of the ring was a privileged inmate of the fine house for a year, enjoying every kindness that benevolence could devise; but at the end of that period, when another circus was tented in neighboring Staunton, and he went there with the throng to see, the influence of the old vagabond habit proved stronger in his nature than the newer ambition, and the boy, being naturally of sawdust, to the sawdust returned. Not, however, without something gained for the refinement of his whole future life, in a sentiment of ardent gratitude to his benefactors, and an ardor to excel in his natural lot for the honor of that beneficent emotion. Only a circus rider was he again, to be sure; but the something of a better sphere of life with which he went back to horses and clowns was a something potential to make him rise above the creatures of smaller experience.

By skill as a performer, sobriety of private character, and a shrewdness not the less effectual for its honesty, his progress through the remaining years of his minority was a continual ascent, and in his twenty-first year he had attained the dignities of manager and proprietor. Many times in these prosperous days he brought his thriving circus to Staunton, and always improved the opportunity to present himself at the hospitable door where a simple glass of water had been the lens through which his friendless, vagrant boyhood had caught its first view of the world's clearer face. The same welcome was there still, the same disposition in his own heart to whimper; and "God bless you" sounded in it all.

The desolation of war supplanted the tent of the showman with that of the soldier in the once happy valley at last, and Sheridan rode to slaughter where erst the peaceful vaulter through hoops had urged his spangled steed in the merry round of the ring. While the circus still gathered golden gain in distant, uninvaded States, fire and sword raged in tempests around the home of the Brittinghams, until smoke-blackened chimneys marked the place where that home had been, and the churchyard closed upon the aged eyes most mournful for the desolation. Not until the spring of 1870 could the circus man, now well advanced in years himself, hear aught of the surviving family that, upon the destruction of their homestead and the death of their chief, had wandered away from the old plantation.

At the time mentioned, when the now mammoth equestrian enterprise was giving entertainments in Kansas, a poorly dressed, hollow-cheeked man applied for some unskilled employment about the tents. "Your name," said the rich showman, "is Brittingham." There could be but one answer, reluctantly given, — "Yes." With a strange look the rich proprietor grasped both hands of the other in his own. "Thee," said he "you are the son of the best man that ever lived, and I thank God that you have come to share in all that your father has a mortgage upon for eternity. Take my tent, my people, my horses, my bank-book, and then you'll have just the interest of the one unpaid debt of my life."

Here was good feeling, and no mistake; the kind of feeling that needs some sort of unexpectedness of origin to make it perfectly sublime, and just enough of the commonness of common natures about it to excuse nature's common way of betraying its simplest effect. The two men cried over each other without the slightest regard to sex, and then the southerner begged off as well as he could by finally consenting to accept a loan, only that, of $5000 for the purchase of a farm. The Yankee would not "let up on him," to use his own words, a cent cheaper, and added a season ticket to the show for the whole family.

Two years later—which brings things pretty well up to the present time—the aforesaid out-and-out, double-twisted, dyed-in-the-wool down-easter was at Washington with his "city of tents," chromatic posters, unrivalled array of talent, and other epizootic symptoms. One night after the performance, he was sitting in the room of his hotel, making merry with many friends, when a card was brought to him by a waiter, followed by its immediately invited owner. Mr. Brittingham, of Kansas, now in a high state of agricultural affluence, had called to pay back that loan, on his way down to Virginia to see what could be done for the restoration of the old place. "He wants to pay me back, gentlemen—pay me back!" ejaculated the showman, by way of general introduction to the company. "Why, heaven bless you, my boy, if it was twenty-five thousand, I'd dodge you as many years to make you keep it—and a hundred thousand more. You're the son of the best man that ever lived; a man that made a man of me; and I'd like to see myself paid back!" Now for a flourish by the band, and enter Master Jack Robinson, all a-tremble on a slippery calico steed, to be soundly lashed in private if he don't keep on; sound again, and enter Signor Jacques L'Oiseaulis, on two piebald thoroughbreds, at $100 a week; one more crash, and behold the mammoth equestrian enterprise of the age, exclusively commanded and owned by the former Smike of the Staunton Dotheboys Circus. There's nothing polite or nicely intellectual about all this; but sawdust is as good as any other soil for the planting of kind deeds and the horse going round the ring with his rider does not trample down what grows perennial from that style of seed to fill rude lives with a memorial incense to the gods.

LUNG COMPLAINTS.

This well known remedy is offered to the public, sanctioned by the experience of over forty years, and when resorted to in season seldom fails to effect a speedy cure of

Coughs, Colds, Croup, Bronchitis, Influenza, Whooping Cough, Hoarseness, Pains or Soreness in the Chest or Side, Bleeding at the Lungs, Liver Complaints, &c. &c.

CONSUMPTION

by a timely resort to this standard remedy, as is proved by hundreds of testimonials received by the proprietors.

Dr. Wistar's Balsam of Wild Cherry

does not dry up a Cough and leave the cause behind, as is the case with most preparations, but it loosens and cleanses the lungs and allays irritation, thus removing the cause of the complaint

CLERGYMEN, LAWYERS, SINGERS,

and all those whose occupation requires an unusual exercise of the vocal organs, will find this the ONLY PREPARATION which will effectually and instantaneously relieve their difficulties.

BEWARE OF COUNTERFEITS.

Remember that the genuine Wistar's Balsam has on the outside wrapper the signature of "I. BUTTS," and the printed name of the proprietors, "SETH W. FOWLE & SONS, BOSTON." All others are base imitations. Examine the wrapper carefully before purchasing.

Coupons payable in New York, London, or Frankfort on the Main, at the option of the holder. When desired, bonds will be registered by the Trustee—the Farmers' Loan and Trust Co. Interest payable January and July.
This road is now completed from Jacksonville to a junction with the CHICAGO & ALTON R. R. at Virden, a distance of over 30 miles. The road, so far as completed, is thoroughly equipped, ENTIRELY PAID FOR, and in full operation, and it is upon the completed portion only, that bonds amounting to $600,000 are now offered at 85 and accrued interest in currency. Bonds upon the remaining portion of the road will be sold at a much higher price and will be offered only upon completed road. This road traverses the garden of the State, crosses all the most important roads, controls the enormous coal mines at Virden, and its bonds are most highly esteemed by those whose investigation has been most searching. We have personally examined every detail of this Company, and have gone repeatedly over the entire line. We are consequently enabled to recommend these bonds as an absolutely perfect security.

The Singer
SEWING MACHINE
STILL LEADS THE MARKET.
The Success of the Company is far beyond that of any other similar concern; the Daily Manufacture
—OF—
400 OF THE SINGERS
Failing to Supply the Constant Demand.
All other machines call the public attention to some new loop or stitch or tension or finish, some advantage in running or needles or feed or prices—and many of these are as we have said very good points, and the agents selling them use them to divert entirely the would-be purchaser from fairly considering the facts in the case; but the
SINGER
seems to unite the good qualities of all, and, is never found wanting.
THE SINGER
IS THE OLDEST
SEWING MACHINE
IN THE MARKET,
All others being copied from its first model. does two-thirds the sewing done in this country and preserves its advantages over all others combined.
It is readily kept clean, and has THE BEST TENSION EVER INVENTED; it is higher speeded and requires but little power to run; it works equally well upon the finest and heaviest goods; it does all the varieties of work known to the art.

AMERICAN & FOREIGN PATENTS.
R. H. EDDY, SOLICITOR OF PATENTS,
For Inventions, Trade Marks or Designs,
NO. 76 STATE ST., OPPOSITE KILBY ST., BOSTON,
After an extensive practice of upwards of thirty years, continues to secure patents in the United States; also in Great Britain, France and other foreign countries. Caveats, Specifications, Assignments, and all papers for Patents executed on reasonable terms with dispatch. Research made to determine the validity and utility of Patents of Inventions, and legal and other advice rendered in all matters touching the same. Copies of the claims of any patent furnished, by remitting one dollar. Assignments recorded in Washington.
No Agency in the United States possesses superior facilities for obtaining Patents or ascertaining the patentability of inventions.
All necessity of a journey to Washington to procure a Patent and the usual great delay there, are here saved inventors.
TESTIMONIALS.
"I regard Mr. Eddy as one of the most capable and successful practitioners with whom I have had official intercourse. CHARLES MASON, Commissioner of Patents."
"I have no hesitation in assuring inventors that they cannot employ a man more competent and trustworthy and more capable of putting their applications in a form to secure for them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office. EDMUND BURKE, Late Commissioner of Patents."
"MR. R. H. EDDY has made for me over THIRTY applications for Patents, having been successful in almost every case. Such unmistakable proof of great talent and ability on his part leads me to recommend ALL inventors to apply to him to procure their Patents, as they may be sure of having the most faithful attention bestowed on their cases, and at very reasonable charges.

$1000 REWARD.
BRIGGS' ALLEVANTOR is composed of Ammonia, Chloroform, Spirits of Camphor, Tincture of Lupuline, Oil of Juniper, and Alcohol. This compound is unequalled in the annals of medicine for the cure of Nervous or Sick Headache, Neuralgia, Trembling or Twitching of the Nerves, and all Nervous Diseases. It will counteract all poisons, banish pimples, cure scaly eruptions, itching, humors, &c.; it equalizes the circulation, invigorates the system, increases the action of the heart, without exciting the brain, cures Heartburn, Palpitation and Fluttering of the Heart, Dyspepsia, &c. Briggs' Allevantor absolutely possesses more curative properties than any other preparation. Physicians, chemists, and others are requested to examine and test the remedy, and $1000 will be paid if found different from representation.
COUGHS, and Much has been said and written, and many remedies have been offered for the relief and cure of throat and lung diseases; but nothing has been so eminently successful, or obtained such a wide celebrity, as Briggs' Throat and Lung Healer.
CORNS! The excruciating pain produced by Corns, the unceasing twinging from Bunions, the piercing, distressing pain from Ingrowing Nails, cannot be described. Thousands suffer, not knowing there is a cure. Briggs' Corn and Bunion Remedies are no acid or potash compounds, but are reliable, soothing, and effectual, and just merit the success they have earned from an appreciating public. The Curative is a healing ointment; immediate relief is obtained by its application, and it will positively cure the worst cases of Festered Corns, Inflamed and Ulcerated Bunions, the sorest instep, the largest and severest Blisters, the most extensive Callosities on the soles or heels of the feet, unequalled in the cure of Chilblains or Frosted Feet. The Allevantor for ordinary corns and preventing their formation is absolutely unexcelled by anything ever known.
PILES have been a terror to mankind for centuries, and almost every attempt to cure them has been baffled. By unceasing study and experimenting, Dr. Briggs has discovered an absolutely cure for internal, bleeding, external, and itching piles. Briggs' Pile Remedies are solid, sale and sure.
For sale by J. H. THACHER, WM. R. PRESTON, Portsmouth; JAMES O. TREPETHEN, Kittery; E. S. SAFFORD, Kittery Point; H. M. CURTIS, Newcastle, and dealers generally.
CORNS, Bunions, Bad Nails, and other diseases of the feet, Scrofulous and Cancerous Humors, Piles, etc., skillfully treated at the great central Chiropodical and Healing Institute, No. 765 Broadway, New York. DR. J. BRIGGS, President; DR. ALEXANDER WEBBER, Secretary. ap9

NATURE'S REMEDY.
VEGETINE
The Great Blood Purifier.
A valuable Indian compound, for restoring the health, and for the permanent cure of all diseases arising from impurities of the blood, such as
Scrofula Scrofulous Humors, Cancers, Cancerous Humor Erysipelas, Canker Salt Rheum, Pimples and Humors on the Face Ulcers, Coughs Catarrh, Bronchitis, Neuralgia, Pains in the Side, Rheumatism, Dyspepsia, Constipation Costiveness, Dizziness Piles, Headache Nervousness, Faintness at the Stomach Pains in the Back, Kidney Complaints
Female Weakness, and General Debility.
This preparation is scientifically and chemically combined, and so strongly concentrated from roots, herbs and barks, that its good effects are realized immediately after commencing to take it. There is no disease of the human system for which the VEGETINE cannot be used with PERFECT SAFETY, as it does not contain any metallic compound. For eradicating the system of all impurities of the blood, it has no equal. It has never failed to effect a cure, giving tone and strength to the system debilitated by disease. Its wonderful effects upon these complaints are surprising to all. Many have been cured by the VEGETINE that have tried many other remedies. It can well be called POUND FOOLISH.—It is strange that a people so shrewd as the Americans should not look more carefully to their credit. The United States have almost everything that should recommend them to the confidence of the borrowing public. Their resources are practically unlimited and their prosperity is always advancing. There is no great likelihood of their being involved again in a costly war. They are steadily paying off their debt, if not quite so quickly as predicted. Yet while the three per cents of "played out" England stand at 91 1-2, the funds of the States may be bought to yield over 6 per cent. The chief reason is, no doubt, that there is a suspicion abroad that in conceivable eventualities the country might repudiate. In the case of a foreign war the popular feeling might insist on seizing on such weapons as lay ready to hand, and might denounce the remittance of dividends to Europe as affording aid and comfort to the enemy. For our own part, we can hardly doubt that the country is too sound at heart and too intelligent ever to do anything dishonorable and short-sighted. At the same time the fact remains that prominent politicians have from time to time put forward possible repudiation as one of the planks in their platform, and that mixed audiences have listened to their views with complacency, and sometimes with enthusiasm. Such speeches are freely discounted by investors, with the evidences they afford of a laxity of moral tone which may easily confound itself with patriotism in times of political excitement. And the result is seen in the price of American securities as compared with our own.—Pall Mall Gazette.

NERVE TUNING.—An Italian has lately made an interesting discovery. He claims to have discovered a method by which nerves may be tuned like violin strings and brought into harmony with each other. His theory is that nervous systems, like musical instruments, are all liable to change of tone, and this change is of little importance if all the nerves change together, as by attention to diet and temperature the evil may be correct en masse, but when, owing to accident or uneven wear, the general harmony of the nerves is destroyed, a disconnected action is the result, and a special mode of treatment is required, of which he professes to possess the key. The gentleman calls himself a "nerve tuner." Only fancy having one's nerves screwed up to any key. When they are flat they can be sharpened, when too sharp they can be made natural. The all-knowing Shakespeare seems to have anticipated such a thing when he makes Lady Macbeth say to her hesitating husband, "but screw your courage to the sticking point." There is nothing new under the sun.

SMALL-POX RAMPANT.—On Saturday last, a man ruddy in the face with small-pox entered the Custom House, visited several desks, circulated around among the clerks and people generally and found his way into the collector's office. Another visited the institution yesterday and offered a paper to a naval office clerk, who declined to take the same. He walked about considerably, contaminating the air and endangering the health and life of its inmates, who reside in all parts of New England, and of course are liable to disseminate the contagion broadcast. Many of these infected persons go there for permits to the Marine Hospital. Several clerks have died from the disease caught there in former years; some have with difficulty escaped death, and others have communicated to members of their family, and those members have died, while themselves recovered. Boston Traveller.

—In the efforts to secure an award for the widow and family of Admiral Dahlgren, some of the representations made are not strictly accurate. For instance, it is said that the nation has used the product of Dahlgren's labor and genius for twenty years without a penny of compensation. The fact is that, while Dahlgren was perfecting his invention, he was kept on shore-duty and an act of Congress passed, giving him the sea-pay of the officer next above him in grade; that all the costly experiments by which his gun was developed were made at the expense of the government; and that the inventor received rapid and generous promotion solely on account of his gun. So that while it may be proper to make an award for his family, it is not correct to say that the admiral received no compensation for his services.

—The culture of oranges in Florida is beginning to attract considerable attention. A correspondent writes from there that he has just visited one orchard of fifteen acres for which the owner had refused $75,000, and another of eighteen acres for which there is a standing offer of $90,000 in gold. The latter produced last year a gross income of $10,000. There is, however, this to be considered: it takes six years for a grove to begin to bear, and eight or ten more before it becomes profitable. An orange tree ten years old is expected to produce from one to three thousand oranges, and these are sold on the trees from one to three cents each. There are usually 100 trees to the acre, and counting an average of 1,000 oranges to the tree this yield at 1 1-2 cents each would give $1,500 per acre.—Indianapolis Journal.

The Daily Chronicle,

Portsmouth, N. H.

THURSDAY, JANUARY 16, 1873.

Resolutes.

Comptroller Green of New York has submitted a communication to Mayor Havemeyer giving a comprehensive report of the condition of the finances of the city. The expenditures for 1872, the first year of the reform government were $8,720,866 less than the year 1871, the last of the Tammany ring rule. The State tax of 1873 is especially burthensome on the county of New York, and a further reduction of expenses in the various departments of the municipal government is counseled.

Ship Tuscarora, from Mobile for Liverpool with cotton, is reported to have foundered off Gibraltar, with the loss of ten seamen and the captain. The ship was owned in Philadelphia.

Startling facts have lately come to light tending to expose a system of wholesale cattle stealing at Corinne, Utah, extending over a period of two years. Sixteen affidavits have been made by a butcher and his wife, who were engaged in much of the slaughtering. Letters, giving directions in regard to the stolen battle, and arranging to drown or shoot them if necessary to avoid discovery, are said to have been traced to parties arrested. Sixteen indictments have already been found by the grand jury. Three of the parties are in jail and two were released on $8000 bail. The people of Corinne are rejoicing over the breaking up of the gang. Nearly four hundred cattle have been traced.

Mr. Bogy, who is to succeed Frank Blair in the Senate, was an ardent southern sympathizer, and his election is regarded by the republican representatives from Missouri, as a triumph of what remains of the rebel element in the State. Senator Schurz's return is made extremely doubtful by the election of Bogy, since the State is not likely to select both its Senators from the city of St. Louis.

In the Caldwell investigation a democratic member of the legislature testified that both the friends of Caldwell and those of Sydney Clark tried to buy his vote. The Caldwell side first offered $2000 cash. The Clark side then agreed to pay this and throw in a saddle horse. The Caldwell party learning of this increased their cash offer to $2700. The witness finally refused both offers and voted for a democrat.

The Senate committee on patents has reported adversely on an application for an extension of the Babcock fire-extinguisher patent.

At South Glastonbury, Conn., while a gang of workmen were engaged in cutting out a frozen-up gasometer attached to a cotton mill, one of them using a pick cut a hole through the apparatus, and another laborer out of curiosity to see how the inside looked put in a lighted match, and a tremendous explosion occurred. The gas-maker, Mr. Quirk, was instantly killed, an employe had both legs broken, and four others were more or less hurt. Two men were blown fifteen feet down an embankment.

There was a second trial of the Ley torpedo at the station in Newport (R. I.) harbor on the 14th. After being launched she started off in good order, but unfortunately when about five-eighths of a mile from shore one of the wires of her cable parted and she at once became unmanageable. The distance run, although not over the prescribed course, was about two miles, and was made in the short space of twenty minutes and thirty seconds. The trial was to demonstrate her capacity of running two statute miles from the shore, and had not the accident happened she would have accomplished it. The board were convinced of her efficiency.

The steamer Edgar Stewart, which recently sailed from Aspinwall and Carthagena, with a full cargo of arms and ammunition and some 40 recruits for the Cuban revolutionists, under the Cuban General Aguero, has successfully landed all her cargo on the Cuban coast.

Mr. G. B. Lamar, of Georgia, who has an immense claim for cotton pending against the United States, is said to be the famous blockade-runner Lamar, who, according to Col. Browne, "was of more assistance to the rebel cause than any other man." We presume that Mr. Lamar's record will be well examined before he is allowed to draw a million or two from the U. S. Treasury.

Napoleon was buried on the 15th, immense crowds collecting along the line of march. Twenty five thousand people viewed the body.

Small-pox is spreading in New York. It has appeared in the deaf and dumb institution, where there are five hundred and fifty inmates, and also in a large tenement house occupied by sixty-five families of almost every nationality. Health inspectors have again begun their rounds to vaccinate.

Louisiana proposes to be well represented in the U. S. Senate. Pinchback's legislature has elected Pinchback Senator, and Warmouth's legislature is at work electing Warmouth for the long term, having already elected Gen. W. L. McMillen to fill the remainder of Kellogg's term.

Hon. Wm. B. Small,

Of Newmarket, was renominated by the republicans of this district, on the 15th, as a candidate for Congressman. Hon. G. M. Herring, of Farmington, presided at the convention, which was held at Dover. Hon. James W. Emery, of this city, withdrew before the convention met; Charles S. Whitehouse, Esq., of Rochester, in behalf of Hon. Samuel M. Wheeler, of Dover, withdrew that gentleman's name; and the convention proceeded to a formal ballot, with the following result:

Whole number of votes	253
Necessary to a choice	127
Scattering	6
Daniel Hall	5
J. G. Hall	9
Charles W. Thurston	28
John J. Merrill	29
Wm. B. Small	176

And Mr. Small was declared the nominee of the convention. A committee of four was appointed to inform Mr. Small of his nomination, and that gentleman appeared before the convention and accepted in a brief speech. A series of resolutions was adopted and the convention adjourned.

At Manchester, on the 15th, Hon. Austin F. Pike of Franklin was unanimously nominated for candidate for Congress by the republicans.

At Lebanon, on the 15th, Gen. Simon G. Griffin was nominated a candidate for Congress, by the republicans.

Hon. Wm. P. Newell of Manchester has been renominated for Councillor in the third district by the republicans.

Hon. George Foster of Bedford has been nominated for re-election as Senator by the republicans of the third district.

Capt. J. Albert Sanborn of this city is the democratic candidate for Register of Deeds in this county.

The democrats of this district have nominated Lafayette Hall, Esq., of Newmarket, for a candidate for Senator.

Republican Committees.

The republican State central committee organized on the 14th by the unanimous choice of Orren C. Moore of Nashua, as chairman; B. F. Prescott, of Concord, secretary; Carlos G. Pressey, of Concord, treasurer. Hon. Daniel Hall, of Dover, and Hon. David A. Warde, of Concord, were chosen as executive committee. The Rockingham County members of the committee are Wm. B. Merrill, of Exeter; Elbridge G. Peirce, Jr., Portsmouth; Wm. B. Small, Newmarket; Sewall D. Tilton, Raymond; D. Frank Fellows, Brentwood; John Elkins, Danville; Benjamin W. Hoyt, Epping; John N. Brown, Seabrook.

Credit Mobilier.

The double-barrelled investigation into the transactions in Credit Mobilier stock continues. On the 14th, Judge Poland's committee examined the secretary of the Credit Mobilier Company, Mr. Ham, the assistant treasurer, Mr. Crane, and the president, Mr. Thomas Durant.

The latter testified that he sold one hundred of his own shares to James Brooks in person, and that Neilson was not known in the matter at all, the transaction being entirely with Mr. Brooks. Mr. Crane testified that as attorney for Durant he received from Mr. Brooks his check for $7000 and draft for $3000, and that for this he transferred from Durant to Neilson one hundred shares of Credit Mobilier, together with the accured earnings in the shape of two hundred shares of Union Pacific road and five $1000 first morigage bonds.

The Credit Mobilier gun was made to do excellent service for the "reform" purists, when aimed at republican legislators of the highest reputation during the Presidential campaign, but seems to kick badly, just about now.

STOKES' CHANCES.—A New York correspondent writes on date January 8th: The impression that Stokes will be executed is general among prominent lawyers, some of whom say he may get a stay of proceedings, but can not escape ultimately. Governor Dix, in his message, says it will be in vain to hope for the suppression of crime unless retribution is prompt and certain. Nobody expects any clemency from the new Governor in the case of Stokes or any other in the Tombs. Stokes' demeanor in jail to-day was very quiet. He spent several hours with his clergyman. He will be removed to-morrow to his former well-furnished cell, the Sheriff having decided that his safe keeping is not endangered there.

The other murderers in the Tombs awaiting trial have expressed various opinions in regard to the sentence of Stokes. King received the news suddenly and was somewhat shocked. Scannel has not said anything, with the exception of asking how Stokes stood during the sentence. Foster, who has got a stay of proceedings, and is on the second tier of the prison, has felt very despondent since he heard of the conviction of Stokes. His appetite has been affected and he seems stupefied. Charley said to another prisoner: "By gracious, he is gone, Stokes is." Simmons has behaved with a dogged and sullen obstinacy. Stokes holds no communication with other prisoners, prefers to keep to himself, and hardly ever utters a word except to the keeper or a reporter.

Epizootic Redivirus.

The Worcester Spy says that all the horses of the Hamilton Woolen Co., of Southbridge, Mass., about a dozen in number, have been attacked a second time with epizootic. The disease is a sort of bilious pneumonia accompanied by inflammation of the bowels. Three horses have died of it.

The Newburyport Herald says:

"Mr. Charles H. Coffin, of West Newbury, lately had a horse taken sick of the epizootic. Shortly after he made a pen of the stable in which the horse had been, and in it he kept a couple of calves. These were taken with similar symptoms as had shown themselves in the disease of the horse, and one calf died and the other will probably not live. The case shows that the disease can be communicated to other animals than horses."

—A Georgia negro was overpaid $100 on a check by a bank, and he returned the money. The local paper says this is another evidence that the race can never be civilized.

☞ Persons suffering with Liver Complaint in any of its various forms will do well to call at Gilbert's Root and Herb Store, and try some of his Liver Lozenges. Many have tried them and are rejoicing to-day.

THROW NOT PEOPLE'S FAULTS In their teeth, for there are few teeth that have not faults of their own. There is but one way to preserve them without spot or blemish, and that is, by the daily use of the best dentrifice in existence, fragrant Sozodont, cool, refreshing and agreeable.

COUNSEL FOR AILING.—Nothing is cheaper to those who give it than good advice; nothing is more valuable to those who receive it in the right spirit and promptly act upon it. Well, then, we advise the feebly the ailing, the despondent to become strong and hearty and cheerful. "Ah!" reply all these unfortunates in a breath, "it needs no wisecacre to teach us that such a change is desirable; but how is it to be effected?" Your patiences, sick and sorrowful friends, will inform you. Learn then that there is such sanitary value in the famous vegetable restorative known as Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, that no phase of muscular or nervous debility, no species of bilious disorder, no variety of that torment called dyspepsia, no case of chills or fever, no form of hypochondria, that may not be cured by the persevering use of this harmless but irresistible invigorant, alterative and corrective.

CORNS.—Since pride and fashion have had control of mankind, and shoemakers were compelled to make boots and shoes to fit fancy instead of the feet, the suffering from Corns, Bunions, Ingrowing Nails, Sore Insteps, Blistered Heels, Callosities on the bottom of the feet, &c., cannot be described. But Briggs' Corn and Bunion Remedies will cure all such torments, and proper fitting boots will prevent their reproduction. Sold by all druggists. a12

PILES.—The unceasing torture from internal bleeding, external and itching piles is fast wearing away the thousands of those who are afflicted and their hope and courage have long since given place to despair. Let those who see this cheer up, for a mild and sure cure may be had by using BRIGGS' PILE REMEDIES.

A SURE CURE follows the use of BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL—the best known remedy for THROAT and LUNG COMPLAINTS. Only 50 cts. a bottle.

HOW THE RICH MAY DO GOOD.—Thousands of the poor are suffering from coughs and colds caused by exposure. Send to each of these, one bottle of Hale's Honey of Horehound and Tar. Thus comfort lives may be saved at a trifling cost. The remedy is admitted to be infallible. Crittenton's, 7 6th Avenue. Sold by all druggists.

Pike's Toothache Drops cure in 1 minute.

INSTANTANEOUS is the operation of BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL in all cases of SORE THROAT, HOARSENESS, COUGHS, CROUP, and LUNG AFFECTIONS. It is beneficial in all cases. Sold for 50 cents per bottle.

CENTAUR.

At midnight on his wooded hills,
The Centaur lay dreaming of the hour,
When mankind, cured of aching ills,
Should know his all-healing power.
Nor long he waited. The blind could see,—
Straightened were limbs by pain long bent,
Cripples ran, and the lame on bended knee
Gave thanks for the Centaur Liniment.

The Centaur Liniment is the greatest pain-reliever the world has ever seen. Rheumatism, whether inflammatory, sciatic or nervous, is made to disappear. Swellings cease to pain, wounds are healed, burns are cured without a scar, and stings and bites are rendered harmless.

Mrs. R. Prowell, 492 Atlantic St., Brooklyn, N. Y., writes: "I have had the rheumatism for ten years. I have tried everything. The Centaur Liniment is the only thing that does me good."

Mr. Chas. Hill, 616 Pine St., Philadelphia, writes: "That two bottles of Centaur Liniment has cured a most severe sprain of his ankle."

J. H. Martin of 533 Seventh Avenue, N. Y., says: "The Centaur Liniment has cured me of a terrible case of inflammatory rheumatism and cannot be too highly recommended."

59 BROADWAY, N. Y., Aug. 21st, 1872.

"All horse owners should have the Centaur Liniment. We used it in our stables and find it the best thing ever adopted."

H. MANSN,
Supt. Adams Express Co. Stables."

Such testimonials can be repeated indefinitely. Try it once. We will warrant it every time. Sold by all Druggists.

LOCAL AFFAIRS.

To Delinquent Subscribers.

We have a dozen names on our books which we shall publish if the cash is not forthcoming this month.

Railroad Hearing.

A hearing was had at the City Rooms at 10 o'clock on Wednesday forenoon, before the Railroad Commissioners and board of Aldermen, jointly, to appraise damages to Mark H. Wentworth against the Portsmouth & Dover Railroad for crossing his land. Owing to the illness of C. P. Gage, Esq., chairman of the board of Railroad Commissioners, the hearing was postpoued to Tuesday, the 28th inst. Mr. Wentworth of this city and Mr. Coleman of Newington are the only persons on this side of the Piscataqua river who present claims for damages, all other claims having been adjusted.

Those Gas Bills.

Messrs. Editors:—Several people (including the editors of the CHRONICLE) have grumbled somewhat at the bills sent in by the Portsmouth Gas Company, and wondered how a reduction in the price of gas should result in a general increase in the quarter's bills; but nobody seems able to explain how a company which furnishes such inferior gas can get up such superior accounts against consumers. I believe the true solution of the conundrum to be as follows: "the meaner and more impure the gas, the faster it will flow through the meter." Why this is so I cannot explain, but I am told so "on good authority." I don't know as I am called upon to explain it, anyway, as I am not the Portsmouth Gas Company,—wish I was,—but if the statement is correct the mystery of the big gas bills is a mystery no longer, for nothing meaner was ever produced, in this world, than the gas which has not lighted our ways for the past six months. Messrs. Editors, let us pray that no further reduction in the price (and quality) of gas ever occur in this city, for if such a trifling reduction (in price) enables the Gas Company to reach so deep into the pockets of the people, free gas would bankrupt every consumer in the city, in less than a week.

CHANDELIER.

Lacontes.

Portsmouth was well represented at the Dover convention which renominated Hon. Wm. B. Small. Gosport was represented by Messrs. N. F. Mathes and Aaron Young; Londonderry by A. F. Thurston; Newington by Wm. O. Sides; and Hampton by John E. Rider.

The meeting of persons interested in getting up a volunteer company to do escort duty next 4th of July, was postponed from Wednesday evening (on account of the meeting of the committee of seventy) to Friday evening, the 17th, at which time a full attendance is requested.

A reminder of cooling beverages, such as "ice-cold soda," etc, was on exhibition in front of the Custom House on Wednesday, in the shape of a specimen block of ice, cut by the Portsmouth Ice Company. There may come a time when that lump of coldness will be coveted, but nobody wants to steal it just now.

A meeting of the general committee of the proposed celebration of the Sons of Portsmouth was held at the City Rooms on Wednesday evening, Wm. H. Sise in the chair. On motion of Mr. Wm. R. Boardman, a Historian was nominated and elected to write out a full and readable account of the return of the Sons in '73, and of all meetings connected therewith. A committee, consisting of Messrs. Boardman, Preston and Tisley, were appointed to wait upon the owners of the Rundlett field on Middle street, to ascertain upon what terms the said field can be procured for the erection of a large tent on the coming Fourth. No other business of importance was transacted.

State News.

The eighth annual reunion of the Veterans' Union of New Hampshire took place in Manchester on the 14th. The business meeting occurred in Grand Army Hall in the afternoon, and the following officers for the ensuing year were elected: President, Brigadier-General J. N. Patterson; vice-president, A. B. Thompson; secretary and treasurer, General John M. Haines all of Concord; executive committee, Colonel Thomas F. Barker of Boston, Colonel Solon A. Carter of Keene, Captain William Pitt Moses of Great Falls, Major T. W. Challis of Manchester, Surgeon S. G. Dearborn of Milford. The banquet, to which an invitation had been extended to every member of the Union and every New Hampshire officer, was at Haseltine's Hotel, at 9 o'clock in the evening. Brigadier-General M. T. Donohue was president and Major A. B. Thompson, deputy secretary of State, toastmaster. General Donohue opened the feast of reason, and toasts were responded to by General A. F. Stevens, District-Attorney Rolfe, Colonel William H. Hackett, Captain O. E. Michaelis, ex-Governor Fred Smyth, United States Senator-elect Wadleigh, Col. T. L. Livermore, George A. Marden of Lowell and others, the festivities and exchange of good feeling being kept up to a late hour.

The piano stock manufactory of Parker & Young, at Lisbon, was entirely destroyed by fire on Saturday, the 11th, loss $20,000, insured $7500. The printing office in the same building, of Parker & Bennett, was also a total loss; loss $1500, insured for $1000. The fire throws about twenty men out of employment.

George Sherburne, a married man, who recently ran away from Concord with a young girl named Josephine Drew, was arrested at Jersey City Jan. 13 and held for the arrival of the Concord officers. They boarded for a short time in Jersey City, when the girl suddenly died, and Sherburne went to Philadelphia, returning Monday night, when he was arrested.

Isaac Nutter of Rochester, 81 years old, died suddenly on the 3d. He was born upon the farm where he died.

The House of Bonaparte.

Eugenie-Marie de Guzman, Countess of Teba ex-Empress of the French, and widow of Napoleon, was born at Malaga, in Spain, May 5, 1826. Her mother was Donna Maria Manuela Kirkpatrick, of Closeburn, Countess Dowager de Montijo, whose father was English Consul at Malaga at the period of her marriage with the Count de Montijo, an officer in the Spanish army connected more or less closely with the houses of the Duke de Frias, representative of the ancient admirals of Castile, of the Duke of Fyars and others of the highest rank, including the Kings of Arragon.

The marriage of the Emperor and Eugenie was celebrated in magnificence on January 29, 1853, at Notre Dame. The life of the Empress Eugenie from the time of her marriage to the breaking out of the Prussian war was comparatively uneventful. After the departure of the Emperor for the army in July, 1870, she assumed the Regency, and held it until the disaster of Sedan became known in Paris, when the angry and bewildered populace surrounded the Tuileries and the unhappy Empress, in terror of her life, fled with the Prince Imperial in disguise to England. She then took up her residence at Chiselhurst, where she was soon rejoined by the Emperor.

The young Prince Napoleon Eugene Louis Jean Joseph was born on the 15th of March, 1856, and is therefore now drawing toward the completion of his seventeenth year. While still in arms he was placed on the muster roll of the French Imperial Guards as a private in the regiment; for, as it was intended that he should receive a military education, and afterward assume a military command, it was designed as a compliment to the army that he should, at least nominally, go through all the gradations of the service. When old enough to begin to learn the military exercises he was put through them with other youths of his own age, and in this way was taught the bayonet and other drills before he was eight years old. By this time, too, he had been made a non-commissioned officer of his regiment, and passed step by step through the various grades toward the rank of colonel. But, while special attention was given to his military training, his education as a citizen was not neglected. Besides the ordinary rudiments of instruction he received lessons in two or three handicrafts, the last of which was the setting up of types in the imperial printing office of Paris. The late Napoleon was extremely attached to this his only son and heir. The boy is not reported to possess much force of character; but the world may be destined to hear from him yet.

THE OREGON PAPERS are making fun of the last earthquake in that region, for it affected persons in quite different ways. A young gentleman and lady were out walking at the time. About half an hour after they returned from their promenade, and then learned for the first time that there had anything occurred. People rushed into the streets scantily clad. One loving husband, who had "just stepped out to see a man on business," rushed home, with a billiard cue that he had forgotten to replace, in his hand. His wife has vetoed all business engagements after eight o'clock, P. M. One irascible gentlemen jumped from bed scantily attired, possessed himself of the cowhide, and made for the room up stairs, of his boys, and rushed into it, exclaiming, "I'll show you how to be fighting at this time of night."

THE REASON WHY.—"Warrington's last, which appeared on Saturday, was looked for with a good deal of interest. As was expected, it was mainly confined to an explanation of how he was defeated, and it assigns every reason but the true one. The Middlesex Club, the Grand Army, the Butler-Boutwell combination, Masonry, &c., &c., are the agents credited with the work.—The true verdict is a felo de se—and "Warrington" is a fellow deceived, if he thinks differently.—Lowell Courier.

CLEAR YOUR THROAT!

Relieve Your Lungs.

For the terrible diseases engendered by the lung-trying climate of New England,

Pulmocine Cordial

Is a speedy and reliable Preventive and Remedy. EVERY FAMILY should have a bottle at hand to check the sudden growth of all Pulmonary Diseases. For the Asthma, Coughs, Croups, Laryngitis, or inflammation of the larynx, Diphtheria, and all kindred THROAT DISEASES at all times prevalent, it is the ounce of PREVENTION. Children attacked with Whooping Cough or Croup should be immediately cared for. These painful attacks come with scarcely a moment's warning, when a physician may be out of immediate reach. A dose of PULMOCINE CORDIAL gives speedy relief, and the little ones are spared hours of pain and agony. As "a stitch in time saves nine," so does the possession of this FAMILY MEDICINE prevent the spread of disease. Parents seeing their children gasping with pain, friends and relatives beholding each other in peril from suffocation by the choking pain in the throat, paralyzed with fear and not knowing the best course to pursue, are liable to apply the wrong remedial agents. There is no safety in delay, no time to waste in such cases. CONSUMPTION, that fearful scourge of the human race, lies at the door of all this afflicted. BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL arrests it (unless in its advanced stage at which time there is no local cure) relieves the pressing, suffocating feeling at the lungs, and the patient's danger is past.

BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL

Is no new discovery. Twenty-three years ago it was used by one of New England's most famous physicians as the best PULMONARY CURATIVE he could prescribe, after a dozen years spent in experimenting with it before he was satisfied that the Materia Medica could add nothing in its favor.

Buchman's Pulmocine Cordial

Is the ultima thule of Medical Discovery.

Among its many ingredients are WILD CHERRY BARK, SQUILL ROOT, LIQUORICE ROOT, BLOOD ROOT, &c. It is a BLOOD PURIFIER, gently stimulating. It increases expectoration and is diuretic. It is sudorific and alterative. It is a necessary family medicine. It is a Tonic, and a powerful aid to the digestive organs. It is a gentle sedative, and relieves nervousness. It is aromatic and agreeable to the taste.

For Coughs, Croup, Diphtheria, Asthma, &c.

USE BUCHMAN'S

PULMOCINE CORDIAL.

The Pulmocine Cordial is not a quack medicine, is not an experiment, is not composed of any ingredients "discovered" by "walking in pastures" in South America or anywhere else, nor by one who discovered a weed and thereby cured himself. Most of the ingredients are such as our best educated physicians daily use for the complaints specified, in some form or other. The recipe is that perfected by one of New England's most learned and famous physicians, who used it entirely in his daily practice until his death. It is offered to the profession and to the public, absolutely pure and unadulterated.

IRON in the BLOOD.

DYSPEPSIA, DEBILITY, DROPSY, HUMORS,

PERUVIAN SYRUP

Makes the Weak Strong.

The Peruvian Syrup, a Protected Solution of the Protoxide of Iron, is so combined as to have the character of an aliment, as easily digested, and assimilated with the blood as the simplest food. It increases the quantity of Nature's Own Vitalizing Agent, Iron in the blood, and cures "a thousand ill," simply by Toning up, Invigorating and Vitalizing the System. The enriched and vitalized blood permeates every part of the body, repairing damages and waste, scarching out morbid secretions, and leaving nothing for disease to feed upon.

This is the secret of the wonderful success of this remedy in curing Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, Dropsy, Chronic Diarrhœa, Boils, Nervous Affections, Chills and Fevers, Humors, Loss of Constitutional Vigor, Diseases of the Kidneys and Bladder, Female Complaints, and all diseases originating in a bad state of the blood, or accompanied by debility or a low system. Being free from Alcohol, in any form, its energizing effects are not followed by corresponding reaction, but are permanent, imparting strength, vigor, and new life into all parts of the system, and building up an Iron Constitution.

Thousands have been changed by the use of this remedy, from weak, sickly, suffering creatures to strong, healthy, and happy men and women; and invalids cannot reasonably hesitate to give it a trial.

See that each bottle has PERUVIAN SYRUP blown in the glass.

CHINESE SLAVERY IN MONTANA.—We shall not much blame our puritanical friends of New England, says the Virginia City Montanian of December 26th, if they raise their voices in holy horror on learning that in enlightened Montana a system of abject slavery is allowed to be practised among our Mongolian population. It is a disgraceful fact that there is such a system, and to our knowledge there has as yet been no steps taken by the authorities to abolish the custom. Although having a certain forced reverence for our American laws, it is plain to be seen that these Celestials are among themselves still governed by the prevailing laws and customs of the Chinese Empire, and hold each other amenable to the penalties for crime or debt that were wont to be inflicted in their native land.

Nearly all the Chinese who come to Montana are coolies owned and controlled by Chinese companies in California, and are required to pay over whatever wages they may earn—or a greater portion of them, at least—to a boss, who sends it on to his company. The female portion are all, or nearly all, held as slaves for the purpose of a licentious traffic, which they are compelled to indulge in for the benefit of their owners. They are held as property, bought and sold like stock or merchandise, and are pledged to secure the payment of debts. An ordinary Chinawoman, young and in good health, is marketable at from $400 to $600, while one of extraordinary attractions frequently brings from $800 to $1,000. There is no humbug about these transactions, and that these Chinese slaveholders have no fear of the American law on the subject will be seen from the following advertisement, which is bona-fide and paid for:

CHINESE ADVERTISEMENT.

Wang Gen Owes Dr. Yee Cheugh Five Hundred and Fifty Dollars. He cannot pay it. So, according to Chinese law, he left his woman, Sing Gim, in Dr. Yee Cheugh's possession, as collateral, security, until the money shall be paid. All right. By and by, all same yesterday, Sing Gim stole Three Hundred and Seventy Dollars from Dr. Yee Cheugh, and ran away. Now then, all Chinamen take notice that if you keep Sing Gim, you must pay me Nine Hundred and Twenty Dollars, all same Wang Gen.

DR. YEE CHEUGH.

VIRGINIA CITY, Dec. 10, 1872.

We have known of many other instances of the kind transpiring in different parts of the territory, and presume that, to some extent, only a knowledge of "this nefarious traffic in human souls" is nothing new. Not long since one of these boss Chinamen, owning two or three moon-eyed beauties, importuned a prominent gentleman of this city to purchase one at the rather exhorbitant figure of $1,000, at the same time warranting her to be obedient, and free from all "ways that are dark and tricks that are vain." This property was not the kind the importuned wished to pay taxes upon, and he therefore declined to purchase. We are not very intensely interested in the welfare of the heathen Chinee, but for humanity's sake call the attention of the purifying Puritans to this new field of labor.

A HARD-HEARTED EMPLOYER.—John writes:

That man was once in the dry goods business in Boston. His boss sent him to Europe. He got wrecked. For weeks he was missing. At last he reached shore and he made his way to the store, when the following conversation ensued:

Boss—Where in the world have you been, sir?

Man—I've been wrecked, sir—wrecked, and floating upon the broad bosom of the Atlantic for two long weeks, with "water, water everywhere, and not one single drop to drink."

Boss—Been floating around upon the broad bosom of the Atlantic, have you? What did I hire you for? hired you to buy goods for me, and here, right in the middle of the busy season, you take two weeks' vacation, and go fooling away your time in an open row-boat, sir.

Man—But, my dear sir, I couldn't help it. I was wrecked.

Boss—Wrecked, sir, wrecked? What business have you to get wrecked? I have crossed the ocean fifty times, and I never got wrecked. We don't want you any longer, sir; we don't want you, sir. I'll dismiss any man who is such an old lunkhead that he can't take one single trip to Europe without getting wrecked.

—A Norwich gentleman of broad social views wrote a note to the handsaddle who wrestles with his mockery, inviting her to take a sleigh-ride with him. Unfortunately the slave was unable to read and brought the note to the wife of his bosom to decipher. Wrecked and heart-sick, the miserable woman waited in agonizing suspense till her husband's return, and the family physician says he didn't consider it possible for a delicate female to do so much damage.

OF

WILD CHERRY!

THE GREAT REMEDY FOR

CONSUMPTION!

and acknowledged by many prominent physicians to be the most Reliable Preparation ever introduced for the RELIEF and CURE of all

LUNG COMPLAINTS.

This well known remedy is offered to the public, sanctioned by the experience of over forty years, and when resorted to in season seldom fails to effect a speedy cure of

Coughs, Colds, Croup, Bronchitis, Influenza, Whooping Cough, Hoarseness, Pains or Soreness in the Chest or Side, Bleeding at the Lungs, Liver Complaints, &c. &c.

CONSUMPTION

by a timely resort to this standard remedy, as is proved by hundreds of testimonials received by the proprietors.

Dr. Wistar's Balsam of Wild Cherry

does not dry up a Cough and leave the cause behind, as is the case with most preparations, but it loosens and cleanses the lungs and allays irritation, thus removing the cause of the complaint

CLERGYMEN, LAWYERS, SINGERS,

and all those whose occupation requires an unusual exercise of the vocal organs, will find this the ONLY PREPARATION which will effectually and instantaneously relieve their difficulties.

BEWARE OF COUNTERFEITS.

Remember that the genuine Wistar's Balsam has on the outside wrapper the signature of "I. BUTTS," and the printed name of the proprietors, "SETH W. FOWLE & SONS, BOSTON." All others are base imitations. Examine the wrapper carefully before purchasing.

This road is now completed from Jacksonville to a junction with the CHICAGO & ALTON R. R. at Virden, a distance of over 30 miles. The road, so far as completed, is thoroughly equipped, ENTIRELY PAID FOR, and in full operation, and it is upon the completed portion only, that bonds amounting to $600,000 are now offered at 85 and accrued interest in currency. Bonds upon the remaining portion of the road will be sold at a much higher price and will be offered only upon completed road. This road traverses the Capital of the State, crosses all the most important roads, controls the enormous coal mines at Virden, and its bonds are most highly esteemed by those whose investigation has been most searching. We have personally examined every detail of this Company, and have gone repeatedly over the entire line. We are consequently enabled to recommend these bonds as an absolutely perfect security.

The Singer
SEWING MACHINE
STILL LEADS THE MARKET.
The Success the Company is far beyond that of any other similar concern; the Daily Manufacture
—OF—
400 OF THE SINGERS
Failing to Supply the Constant Demand.
All other machines call the public attention to some new loop or stitch or tension or finish, some advantage in running or needles or feed or prices—and many of these are as we have said very good points, and the agents selling them use them to divert entirely the would-be purchaser from fairly considering the facts in the case; but the
SINGER
seems to unite the good qualities of all, and is never found wanting.
THE SINGER
IS THE OLDEST
SEWING MACHINE
IN THE MARKET,
All others being copied from its first model, does two-thirds the sewing done in this country and preserves its advantages over all others combined.
It is readily kept clean, and has THE BEST TENSION EVER INVENTED; it is higher speeded and requires but little power to run; it works equally well upon the finest and heaviest goods; it does all the varieties of work known to the art.

AMERICAN & FOREIGN PATENTS.
R. H. EDDY,
SOLICITOR OF PATENTS,
For Inventions, Trade Marks or Designs,
No. 76 STATE ST., OPPOSITE KILBY ST., BOSTON,
After an extensive practice of upwards of thirty years, continues to secure patents in the United States; also in Great Britain, France and other foreign countries. Caveats, Specifications, Assignments, and all papers for Patents, executed on reasonable terms with dispatch. Researches made to determine the validity and utility of Patents of inventions, and legal and other advice rendered in all matters touching the same. Copies of the claims of any patent furnished, by remitting one dollar. Assignments recorded in Washington.
No Agency in the United States possesses superior facilities for obtaining Patents or ascertaining the patentability of inventions.
All necessity of a journey to Washington to procure a Patent and the usual great delay there, are here saved inventors.
TESTIMONIALS.
"I regard Mr. Eddy as one of the most capable and successful practitioners with whom I have had official intercourse. CHARLES MASON, Commissioner of Patents."
"I have no hesitation in assuring inventors that they cannot employ a man more competent and trustworthy and more capable of putting their applications in a form to secure for them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office.
EDMUND BURKE,
Late Commissioner of Patents."
"MR. R. H. EDDY has made for me over THIRTY applications for Patents, having been successful in almost every case. Such unmistakable proof of great talent and ability on his part leads me to recommend ALL inventors to apply to him to procure their Patents, as they may be sure of having the most faithful attention bestowed on their cases, and at very reasonable charges.

$1000 REWARD.
BRIGGS' ALLEVANTOR is composed of Ammonia, Chloroform, Spirits of Camphor, Tincture of Lupuline, Oil of Juniper, and Alcohol. This compound is unequalled in the annals of medicine for the cure of Nervous or Sick Headache, Neuralgia, Trembling or Twitching of the Nerves, and all Nervous Diseases. It will counteract all poisons, banish pimples, cure scaly eruptions, itching, humors, &c.; it equalizes the circulation, invigorates the system, increases the action of the heart, without exciting the brain, cures Heartburn, Palpitation and Fluttering of the Heart, Dyspepsia, &c. Briggs' Allevantor absolutely possesses more curative properties than any other preparation. Physicians, chemists, and others are requested to examine and test the remedy, and $1000 will be paid if found different from representation.
COUGHS, Much has been said and many remedies have been offered for the relief and cure of throat and lung diseases; but nothing has been so eminently successful, or obtained such a world celebrity, as Briggs' Throat and Lung Healer.
CORNS! The excruciating pain of corns, the throbbing, the burning, the unceasing twinging from Bunions, the piercing, distressing pain from Ingrowing Nails, cannot be described. Thousands suffer, not knowing there is a cure. Briggs' Corn and Bunion Remedies are no acid or potash compounds, but are reliable, soothing, and effectual, and just merit the success they have earned from an appreciative public. The Curative is a healing ointment; immediate relief is obtained by its application, and it will positively cure the worst cases of Festered Corns, Inflamed and Ulcerated Bunions, the sores instep, the largest and severest Blisters, the most extensive Callosities on the soles or heels of the feet, unequalled in the cure of Chilblains or Frosted Feet. The Allevantor for ordinary corns and preventing their formation is absolutely unexcelled by anything ever known.
PILES have been a terror to mankind for centuries, and almost every attempt to cure them has been baffled. By unceasing study and experimenting, Dr. Briggs has discovered an absolutely cure for internal, bleeding, external, and itching piles. Briggs' Pile Remedies are mild, safe and sure.

A Few Days' Trial Free.
Don't trust advice; your own experience is safer.
The "Domestic" is so easy, so ready, and so useful, that you will not be willing to part with it.
No other Sewing Machine was ever a quarter as successful. The secret of its success lies in the machine itself, viz: Its ever-ready reliability for all kinds of work.
It costs more to do without it than to buy it. Other machines are useful; but don't judge the "Domestic" by them. Try it. If it does not justify your expectation, you lose nothing.

The Chronicle

"A Tar-Heel."

Stuck away in a corner, rolled up almost like a ball, was the countryman who paid 50 cents for having his boots pulled off.

"Please read my ticket," he said, handing it to me; "I can't read."

I did so and asked where he was from.

"Indiana," he replied.

Indiana, and can't read! It was too unnatural, and I ventured to ask him if he was born in that State.

"No, sir," he answered; I was born in North Carolina."

My guess was right, after all. He was a veritable Tar-heel.

"How long have you been living in Indiana," I asked.

"Two years. I'm just now going back."

"Don't you like it up there?"

"Not so mighty well. A Southern man don't have a show. You see I was in the rebel army four years. I'm willing to acknowledge that I am whipped, but I don't want to take all the blame on our side for all the trouble. Up in Indiana they seem to think that all the blame should go agin the South, I don't quite acknowledge them principles, and that makes discord. The Democrats sorter held up for me, but there ain't many about where I live. We only polled thirty-four votes in the township out of about of about three hundred."

"You got in among the Radicals, then?"

"No; the sort about where I live are not old straight-out 'Publicans. I call them worse than Radicals."

"Are you going to return to North Carolina?"

"Yes; I can't be satisfied in Indiana. A Southern poor man has little show there, I tell you. 'Pears like the whole community is suspicious of him. Then I believe every man gets along better among his own sort of people. The Northern folks are different from the Southerns — a heap different. They don't even chaw tobacco alike. Up there they use what they call 'fine-cut'. I don't want any of it in mine. We North Carolinians stick to the old plug. Well, but that ain't the only difference. Southern people have bigger hearts. They are more kind and considering. They don't make money their god like the Yankees. I know men about Indianapolis that have got money enough to buy out half of North Carolina, but still they are on the hunt for more. Seems like they can't get enough. So much money, or trying to get more, or something makes them cross. They won't stop and talk like a Southern man. If you ask one of them the way anywhere, he will nearly snap your head off. A Southern man will stop, and give you all the directions you want and talk with you a long time, and ask you about your crops and family, and if you won't come in and take a drink, and if you don't want to come around to the field and see some of his stock, and all that. But up North, I tell you, they don't do things in that style. They won't stop long enough to answer you a civil question. In the cities every fellow walks like the devil was after him. A Northern man in a city will walk faster than a North Carolina horse can go, and they will run over you if you don't get out of the way, which a horse won't do. I never saw such people to stave ahead and let every fellow look out for himself. 'Pears like they don't care anything for one another. They ain't jovial, and don't go in for a good time like we in North Carolina. You can stay in Indiana a year and never be invited to drink, but you can't in North Carolina. But they get us on the money. They have got more money than we have, that's a fact. The two people are alike only in one way, they have both got to die and leave what they have, and there we have the advantage, for we ha'nt verymuch to leave and be sorry for."

"So you don't like Indiana?" I mused.

"No; she's too cold and swift for me. I want to get back to the North State, where things run more according to my notion. I am plum sick of Indiana. The old woman has soured on it too. She says she would rather have a dirt floor cabin home in North Carolina than a whole township up in Indiana."

ANOTHER LAZARUS.—The alleged exploits of a German professor, in restoring a dead French Communist to life, are related with apparent truthfulness by Paris and London papers. It is stated the Professor begged two condemned Communists, named Dodu and Brun, from M. Theirs, in order that he might, as a scientific experiment, kill them and bring them to life at the end of three months after death. His plan was to inject a solution of calx into the system, by which decomposition was to be prevented; and according to this theory the patient might be revived, not only at the end of three months, but of three hundred years, according to desire. In the presence of medical men and public functionaries the Professor, having administered chloroform to each of the men, injected the solution, and then bled them till they died. The corpses were then dessicated by the heat of the furnaces till they shriveled, and till the skin became yellow, like leather. In this state they remained in a moderate temperature for the prescribed three months, and then the process of revivification began by injecting the blood of two healthy laborers, and by the application of the galvanic battery. The process completely failed in the case of Dodi; but in the case of Brun the result was, to say the least, surprising. First, the opaque eyeballs rolled in their yellow sockets, the muscles began to twitch, the heart to beat; and, at last, after fourteen hours of treatment, Brun spoke, rose from the table, swallowed a bowl of beef-tea and several glasses of brandy, and audibly grumbled of soreness in his limbs, and of pain in the regions that had rested on the table. He is said to be now alive and well in Switzerland, under the assumed name of Fourbe, while a post mortem examination showed that a fatty degeneration of the heart had prevented the revival of Dodi. The attention of persons wishing to be revivified is called to this circumstance, as showing that heart disease is especially to be avoided by them.

Readables.

Seven persons were burned to death at a fire in Lilchfield, England.

Workmen are turning the Old South Church in Boston into a post office. We read that the parts of the pews and the pulpit have been saved, in the idea that at the expiration of the two years' lease to the government, it may be possible to restore them. On either side of the tower, two additions have been made to the building, bringing it out even with the street. Inside, the church will be cut up by letter boxes, counters, and benches. The galleries will be partitioned off into offices and cost rooms.

Velvet boots are worn by the New York fashionables, to match the dress.

For deliberation and careful attention to the business in hand, we recommend to public consideration the treasurer of Columbia County, New York. He has been at it a good many years, but he has walked off at last with all that is available in the reserve fund of the county, amounting to about one hundred and fifty thousand.

Some one says that Judas Iscariot would have made a very poor Congressman.—Patriot.

But Peter would have been eligible, But, wouldn't he? Simon Peter denied his master, you remember.

John Early, his two children and a span of horses were drowned in the river in Jefferson county, Wis., by the breaking of the ice on which the horses ran.

Thirty buildings were burned at Greenville, Pa., on the 16th.

The Union Pacific is badly snowed up, and the running of trains is considerably impeded.

Additional reinforcements for the Spanish army in Cuba have sailed for Havana.

An Eastern Virginia farmer recently ploughed up the remains of an "ancient mariner," encased in a birch bark coffin, which had been protected from decay by a thick coating of coal tar. Some silver coins of the time of Queen Anne were found upon the body.

A boiler in a factory at Charleroi, Belgium, exploded. Eleven persons were killed and a large number wounded.

The typhoid fever among the prisoners in the county jail of San Francisco is so bad that the sheriff asks authority to take away 100 inmates convicted of minor offences, for the purpose of relieving the overcrowded condition of the prison, and thus checking the ravages of the disease.

George Schedfelis murdered his wife in New York on the 14th with a table knife.

FROZEN TO DEATH.—A special from St. Paul, Minnesota, says reports were received of an increased number of deaths in the vicinity of Lake Hinsley. Thirteen dead bodies were found between Fort Ridgeway and Beaver Falls; six children on the way to school were frozen to death. A despatch from Fergus Falls states that seven bodies were found there, and estimates the number of victims within a radius of twenty-five miles at fifty. Among the most terrible incidents is that of a man who went for a doctor to attend his wife, and was frozen to death on his way home. Next day when the doctor reached the house, he found that the woman had given birth to a child, and that both were frozen to death. A gentleman who has experienced the storm estimates the loss of life and property as being greater than that caused by the famous Sioux massacre of 1862.

Boston Correspondence.

BOSTON, Jan. —, 73.

I hope when any of your citizens are beautifying their grounds they will follow the example of the late Wm. P. Jones and have their enclosures so made that the public may enjoy the beauties of their gardens; a privilege that may be granted without cost to the owner, and perhaps may prove a safeguard against predatory urchins. I well remember years ago scaling a high fence at early dawn, selecting the choicest Bartlett pears, and—giving them away. The incentive was the safeguard interposed. Doubt children, make stringent rules for their conduct, and they will strive to evade the last and deserve the former. I don't think Mr. Jones' trust in his low fence has ever been betrayed." His flower-beds, free to the view of all, have never been despoiled of a flower, unless by some transient marauder alive to no sense of the beautiful and with no idea of gratitude for those willing to share the pleasures which wealth enables them to enjoy with the less fortunate. Several of the finest gardens on Canal street, New Orleans, are (or used to be) furnished with double gates of ample width;—a solid wooden gate, to keep out the dust during the ebb and flow of traffic in the heat of the day; a light, low iron gate, permitting full view of the grounds when the solid gates were opened at evening and on the Sabbath. Please, good "Fathers of Portsmouth," when the "Sons" come home next Fourth, do not let them march entirely between two upright walls of pine board,—but let them see some of the beauties which have made the old city best loved by those who love her best.

At last old, historic Lexington has a paper—it is headed "Lexington Minute-Man." Considering its size, I am not prepared to place the accent; it may be called Min ute-Man, or more likely Mi nute Man.

Enterprise does not always bring its full reward, even when strict attention and fair dealing in business accompany it. A painful illustration of this truth, and one that calls forth this allusion, is found in the recent case of S. S. Houghton, so well known to all shoppers in Boston for his fine "Ladies' Pavilion" and his immense stocks of small wares (there and elsewhere) at low prices. On the 23d of October the great store at 55 Tremont street, known as the Ladies' Pavilion was burned, at a loss (above insurance) which then seemed immense. Mr. Houghton at once shew his energy by compounding with creditors and settling damages with the fire underwriters, and was fully prepared to continue his immense business; and to pay the percentage cheerfully accepted by those who held most of his paper. But, alas, the fire fiend made sad havoc in his raid of Nov. 9th and 10th, and the insurance companies shared the general ruin.

Now comes the sorry part of the story, the part that brings a flush to the cheek of those who have believed in the fairness and "manifest destiny" of Boston as New England's commercial emporium, and as the opponent of all that was choicest and most straightforwarded in American mercantile life. The breaking of the insurance companies destroyed the means on which Mr. H. depended largely to meet his obligations. A meeting of his creditors is called, the assignees are appointed mainly from Boston, and the debtor is placed in bankruptcy. So far, so good. But now another element is introduced—(I do not speak exceathedra, as I have neither conversed with Mr. H. or the assignees, but got my points from "town talk,")—a heavy pressure from outside, supposed to be from some small jobbers and retail dealers in small wares, leads to the nominal "crushing out" of one who has hitherto numbered his employees by hundreds;—employees, whose tears on the morning of Oct. 23d last appealed to the public sympathies for a good employer as well as for those whom the fire had deprived of their daily bread. I lay no charge at any man's door. I do not put this meanness of "striking a man when down" upon any one; but even the leases held in Mr. Houghton's name were fiercely fought for by some one. To the credit of him who had the control of that at 72 and 74 Tremont, he replied that "so long as the premises were occupied as a store, and so long as Mr. H. desired them, he could have them," despite the tempting offers made. To the credit of New York merchants be it said that to Mr. Houghton they have offered large stocks of goods, on his own time, even though their names appear on his list in the court of bankruptcy. Energy and fair dealing still reap their reward, and so thousands will be glad to know that "Houghton" may still be found in full operation, at 72 Tremont street, opposite the Tremont House.

I can't say exactly what the boys in Boston are doing in the way of organizing for a "return" to Portsmouth next "Fourth," but I do know that individual, there is a determination to make a turnout that numerically shall justify any demonstration of welcome that shall be tendered them.

The active measures of our new Mayor in regard to the treatment of the small-pox has won encomiums from all. The matter, (though important,) assumes more gigantic proportions at a distance from the city than with the dwellers therein. M.

A QUEER SUIT.—A singular suit begun against Secretary Boutwell by one Bartholomew Clifford Galvin to recover the sum of $2,000,000, being the alleged value of certain plans which he furnished to Mr. Boutwell which would, he asserts, enable the Secretary to equalize the price of gold and of paper currency. The plaintiff in his declaration, which is a strange document, says that he called on the Secretary at his office in Washington on the 9th of July, 1869; that while there it was agreed that he should prepare his plans, and that on the 11th of September following he presented them. By these plans, he recites, the Secretary could, without the necessity of any legislation, whatever, make sales of gold in such a way as to control the gold market and regulate the price, gold to be sold by him on a descending scale of prices until it reached par. He should sell whenever he pleased and in what quantities he pleased, the people to be compelled to buy at these prices, and importers to buy just as much as will pay their customs duties. The declaration concludes by reciting that the Secretary has acted to a great extent in accordance with the plans, and that as he, according to the plaintiff's allegations, had promised to make adequate compensation if he used the plans, he should be compelled to do so by law. The complainant is deaf, and proposes to act as his own attorney.

The Republican Convention.

In the third Congressional district had two ballots. The first ballot resulted as follows:

Whole number of votes,	240
James W. Patterson had	1
Wm. Haile	2
Ira Colby, Jr.	18
Levi W. Barton	22
Chester Pike	44
Henry W. Blair	49
Simon G. Griffin	104

And there was no choice. Messrs. Colby, Pike and Barton were withdrawn by their friends and the second ballot was as follows:

Barton	1
Blair	113
Griffin	126

And Gen. Simon G. Griffin was declared the nominee.

DISASTERS.—The brigantine Mary E. Jones of Clyde River, from Shelburne for Boston, has been lost at sea. The crew were saved, but two passengers, daughters of David Sutherland, of Clyde River, were drowned in the cabin.

Newfoundland journals contain the following: The schooner Elizabeth, of Carbonear, was wrecked near the channel. Five dead bodies were recovered. The schooner Magnolia, from Sydney, has been lost at Chance Bay. The captain and four men were drowned. The mate was the sole survivor. He was washed ashore and saved.

The ship Chillingham Castle was wrecked on the voyage from Shields for Malta, and twenty-six persons were drowned.

THROW NOT PEOPLE'S FAULTS In their teeth, for there are few teeth that have not faults of their own. There is but one way to preserve them without spot or blemish, and that is, by the daily use of the best dentrifice in existence, fragrant Sozodont, cool, refreshing and agreeable.

COUNSEL FOR AILING.—Nothing is cheaper to those who give it than good advice: nothing is more valuable to those who receive it in the right spirit and promptly act upon it. Well, then, we advise the feeble, the ailing, the despondent to become strong and hearty and cheerful. "Ah!" reply all these unfortunates in a breath, "it needs no wiseacre to teach us that such a change is desirable; but how is it to be effected?" Your patience, sick and sorrowful friends, will inform you. Learn then that there is such sanitary value in the famous vegetable restorative known as Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, that no phase of muscular or nervous debility, no species of bilious disorder, no variety of that torment called dyspepsia, no case of chills or fever, no form of hypochondria, that may not be cured by the persevering use of this harmless but irresistible invigorant, alterative and corrective.

CORNS.—Since pride and fashion have had control of mankind, and shoemakers were compelled to make boots and shoes to fit fancy instead of the feet, the suffering from Corns, Bunions, Ingrowing Nails, Sore Tongue, Blistered Heels, Callosities on the bottom of the feet, &c., cannot be described. But Briggs' Corn and Bunion Remedies will cure all such torments, and proper fitting boots will prevent their reproduction. Sold by all druggists. s12

PILES.—The unceasing torture from internal bleeding, external and itching piles is fast wearing away the thousands of those who are afflicted and their hope and courage have long since given place to despair. Let those who see this cheer up, for a mild and sure cure may be had by using BARONS' PILE REMEDIES.

A SORE CURE follows the use of BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL—the best known remedy for THROAT and LUNG COMPLAINTS. Only 50 cts. a bottle.

HOW THE RICH MAY DO GOOD.—Thousands of the poor are suffering from coughs and colds caused by exposure. Send to each of these, one bottle of Hale's Honey of Horehound and Tar. CENTAUR.

At midnight on his wooded hills,
The Centaur lay dreaming of the hour,
When mankind, cured of aching ills,
Should know his all-healing power.

Nor long he waited. The blind could see.—
Straightened were limbs by pain long bent,
Cripples ran, and the lame on beaded knee
Gave thanks for the Centaur Liniment.

The Centaur Liniment is the greatest pain-reliever the world has ever seen. Rheumatism, whether inflammatory, sciatic or nervous, is made to disappear. Swellings cease to pain, wounds are healed, burns are cured without a scar, and stings and bites are rendered harmless.

MRS. R. Prowell, 492 Atlantic St., Brooklyn, N. Y., writes: "I have had the rheumatism for ten years. I have tried everything. The Centaur Liniment is the only thing that does me good."

Mr. Chas. Hill, 616 Pine St., Philadelphia, writes: "That two bottles of Centaur Liniment has cured a most severe sprain of his ankle."

J. H. Martin of 533 Seventh Avenue, N. Y., says: "The Centaur Liniment has cured me of a terrible case of inflammatory rheumatism and cannot be too highly recommended."

59 BROADWAY, N. Y., Aug. 21st, 1872.

"All horse owners should have the Centaur Liniment. We used it in our stables and find it the best thing ever adopted."

H. MARSH,
Supt. Adams Express Co. Stables."

LOCAL AFFAIRS.

Conventions.

The republican councillor convention for this district met at Newmarket on Thursday. John Hodgdon 2d of Portsmouth was chosen President, and John M. Davis, Secretary. Hon. S. Plummer Dow was nominated by acclamation.

The senatorial convention for this district will be held to-day at the State street ward room in this city.

The county convention will meet at Exeter next Tuesday.

The Ball

At Congress Hall, Wednesday evening, in aid of the Catholic building fund, was a complete success so far as the numbers in attendance and the good time they had were concerned, though we should suppose the low price of tickets precluded any great addition to the fund from that source. The hall, gallery and retiring-rooms were crowded with a jovial company, and dancing was kept up until a late hour. Of the music, it is enough to say that Harlow's Band furnished it. The hall was neatly and tastefully decorated with flags, and the State Street ward room, where an excellent turkey supper was served, also presented a very handsome appearance—before the hungry dancers visited it at midnight.

Laconics.

Mr. W. I. Trafton proposes to give his ninth and last Bal Masque at Congress Hall on the 30th inst. Desirous of making it the most successful affair of the kind in this city, he offers a silver pitcher to the most comically dressed gentleman. Turner's band is to furnish the music.

The CHRONICLE brags that Portsmouth was well represented at the Dover convention.—Evening Paper.

Big thing to "brag" of, wasn't it Billy?

Frank W. Hackett, Esq., has taken up his residence in Washington, where he intends practising his profession. Mr. Hackett went to Minnesota for his health about two years ago, and having fully recovered went to Geneva as private secretary to Hon. Caleb Cushing.

Messrs. Trafton & Co., finding that more help was needed to keep up their increasing business have just placed Mr. Bickford on the road as Messenger, and all business entrusted to his care will be done in a prompt and faithful manner.

Rye.

The Farmer's club is officed as follows:—

President, Emmons B. Philbrick. Vice-Pres., David Jenness. Sec., Emery C. Jenness. Ladies are to become members.

On the 15th, Mr. Chas. J. Brown delivered an excellent essay on the subject, "Will Farming Pay?" It was instructive and entertaining. Other lectures will follow.

Rye has a representative interest in the opening of the Hoosac tunnel, Mr. Augustus W. Locke being the engineer in charge of the eastern heading just opened.

State News.

New Hampshire is one of the nine States in which the post-office receipts exceed the expenditures; the surplus on her behalf last year was over $30,000.

Mrs. John Atwood of New London fell on her kitchen floor, and fractured her thigh.

Albert S. Piper, a lad sixteen years old, was sentenced on the 14th, to ten years imprisonment for burning the wooden mill of Noone Brothers, at Peterboro', in February last, at which time a Mrs. Upton was consumed in the flames.

Orin H. Doane's house at Laconia, occupied by the county paupers, was burned by an incendiary fire, on the 13th. Loss $3000; insured for $2100.

The democrats have nominated Hon. Wm. H. Gove for candidate for Senator in the 8th district, Edward L. Knowlton of Concord in the 4th, and Simeon S. Stickney in the 7th.

The vote for a candidate for Congress in the second district convention, was for Hon. Austin F. Pike 179, Geo. C. Gilmore of Manchester 29, Joseph B. Clark 1.

Arrangements have been made and work will be commenced in a few days on the White Mountain extension, with a view of completing the same to the Twin Mountain House in Carroll, early next summer.

An ordinance to repeal the social evil act and all its supplemental legislation was introduced in the St. Louis City Council and was almost unanimously rejected.

The Railroad Fight.

AUGUSTA, ME., Jan. 15th.

The hearing of petitioners for the charter of a railroad from Bath to Portland was had to-day before the committee on Railroads. The petitioners contemplate the ultimate construction of a through shore line to Bangor via Rockland. The Boston & Maine and Grand Trunk railroads second this enterprise as a prospective relief from the dictation of the Maine Central, which now controls the entire travel between Portland and Bangor. Quite an interest is stirred up by the movement, which is really an effort to break the monopoly of the Maine Central.

The petitioners were represented by Chas. W. Larrabee of Bath, and T. H. Hubbard of Biddeford. Hon. R. D. Rice, President of the M. C. Road, and Hon. James W. Bradbury opposed the claims of the petitioners.

A bill will probably be enacted by the present Legislature making vaccination compulsory.

The State Temperance Convention organized to-day. Gov. Perham is President. There is a full attendance from all parts of the State, and much interest is manifested. At a mass meeting this evening, Hon. Neal Dow made a characteristic speech which was well received. The temperance pioneers want to hold all the ground they have gained in the way of prohibition, but the more popular sentiment, and that which is sustained by the Governor in his message, is, that the cider clause be stricken out, and the balance of the law stand as it is.

The editor in the Senate, in relation to whom you expressed some doubts of the ability of his compatriots to provide a place for, seems to have found his sphere of action large enough for his powers of endurance, as editors usually do, and we saw him to-day among the committee on railroads, in the Senate chamber behind a breastwork of railroad maps and public documents, listening with all the apparent gravity of a juror and the wisdom of a legislator combined, to the din of the railroad war which the day has ushered in. He does not seem to lack duly, but is only troubled by his inability to be in hearing on two or more committees at the same time.

District supervision and uniformity of text books are among the questions proposed by the Superintendent of Schools to the Committee on Education. It is designed to have supervisors chosen by town committees in each Representative district. Compulsory attendance and supervision are the foremost questions. M.

A Boston & Maine Accident.

A serious accident occurred on the morning of the 15th, on the Boston and Maine extension road, just this side of Wells Village. A supply train of two cars loaded with planks had passed down on the road, when, by the breaking of a stake, one of the planks fell from the train across the track. The construction train, consisting of twenty loaded gravel cars and a box car, containing from fifty to sixty men, followed, backing down the track. The box car being foremost, struck the plank, the concussion throwing the former 300 feet from the track, and striking a rock which it broke completely in two, was thrown over on its side, the men, stove and other contents of the car being piled in one indiscriminate mass. Twenty or thirty of the men were more or less injured. Michael Colton of Great Falls, deaf and dumb, was severely injured internally and his injuries will probably result fatally. Charles Simpson of Kennebunk, Me., had an arm broken; Thomas Cowley, Berwick, Me., skull broken and head severely cut; the conductor was thrown from the top of the car and badly injured in the back; several Dover parties were hurt and others badly cut about the face and head.

BOSTON'S NEW BOARD OF HEALTH organized on the 15th by the choice of Alonzo W. Boardman president, and immediately voted to take the Roxbury almshouse as a small-pox hospital. Mayor Pierce directed the building to be cleared at once, and within three hours of the time from the passage of the order, four female patients had already been admitted. Every arrangement has been made to secure against fire, and Cochituate water has introduced today.

The inward bound Pullman train over the Eastern railway, on the morning of the 15th, met with a slight accident and was detained about two hours, caused by one of the wheels of the Pullman car getting off the track between Revere and Chelsea, in which condition it was run, before discovered, nearly to Everett, a distance of about two miles. The wheel cut off spike heads, and deeply marked timbers, but the passengers were hardly aware that there was anything the matter, so staunch was the car.

Steamship Erie, built at Newburyport in 1867, has been burned at Pernambuco with 20,000 bags of coffee.

Luther's translation of the Bible is said to have had thus far a circulation of 361,000,000 copies.

IRON in the BLOOD.

DYSPEPSIA, DEBILITY, DROPSY, HUMORS,

PERUVIAN SYRUP

Makes the Weak Strong.

The Peruvian Syrup, a Protoxide of Iron, in so combined as to have the character of an aliment, as easily digested and assimilated with the blood as the simplest food. It increases the quantity of Nature's Own Vitalizing Agent, Iron in the blood, and cures "a thousand ills," simply by Toning up, Invigorating and Vitalizing the System. The enriched and vitalized blood permeates every part of the body, repairing damages and waste, searching out morbid secretions, and leaving nothing for disease to feed upon.

This is the secret of the wonderful success of this remedy in curing Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, Dropsy, Chronic Diarrhœa, Boils, Nervous Affections, Chills and Fevers, Humors, Loss of Constitutional Vigor, Diseases of the Kidneys and Bladder, Female Complaints, and all diseases originating in a bad state of the blood, or accompanied by debility or a low system. Being free from Alcohol, in any form, its energizing effects are not followed by corresponding reaction, but are permanent, imparting strength, vigor, and new life into all parts of the system, and building up an Iron Constitution.

Thousands have been changed by the use of this remedy, from weak, sickly, suffering creatures to strong, healthy, and happy men and women; and invalids cannot reasonably hesitate to give it a trial.

See that each bottle has PERUVIAN SYRUP blown in the glass.

Morning Chronicle.

A STRANGE BED-FELLOW.—The slumbers of two young gentlemen, residents of Avondale, says the Cincinnati Commercial, were a few nights since disturbed in such a manner as to cause serious apprehensions, not only on their part but also on the part of the household of which they are members.

These young gentlemen, at a late hour, retired for the night, and when fully wrapped in the arms of Morpheus, a pet raccoon that had been adopted by the family during the day, a fact of which our heroes had not been advised, crept out only into the room but into the bed where the sleepers were sweetly reposing. The coon took advantage of the situation and worked its way down under the bed-clothing towards the limbs of the sleepers, he began evolutions peculiar to that animal. Until then apparent disturbance had been created, but the sharp nails on the clammy feet of Mr. Coon, when brought in contact with the tender bark of the limbs aforesaid, soon penetrated them and created a sensation.

The first sleeper to awaken was more than astonished to find the circulation of blood in his dexter leg impeded by the firm embrace of something, he knew not what.

His hand was soon sent on a reconnoissance of the situation; a growl and sharp bite produced demoralization, resulting in the withdrawal of that member and the hasty removal of the recumbent body, accompanied with vigorous and loud cries of distress. Sleeper No. 2 was by this time aroused and rushed for the gas, which, when lit, revealed his terrified bed-fellow perched upon the headboard of the bed, kicking lustily to be freed from the coon which was clinging to his leg, and which, like Aunt Jemima's plaster, the more he tried to pull it off the more it stuck the faster.

By this time the family put in appearance, duly armed with pokers, shovels and brooms, all ready for the fray, and charging upon the enemy captured him without any loss of blood, but the cost of a few hairs.

HOW IT WORKS.—The Boston Advertiser, referring to the report of the Massachusetts Railroad Commissioners, says:—

It is officially reported that not only has no railroad been built under the general law of 1872, but no notices of association have been filed, and the commissioners have not even been notified formally of the intention to organize a company. A more complete vindication of a law was never afforded. While this general law was pending there were perhaps a dozen petitions before the legislature for new charters. The law gave them all charters for the asking, and it turns out that not one of the parties wanted what they requested. The opponents of the act foresaw as a result of it the most reckless railroad construction in our history. Instead of inducing people to invest without regard to the needs of the community, it has served as an instrument to sift practicable from impracticable schemes, and lo! not one the roads asked for was thought of sufficient importance to attract the capital to build it.

By MASON & HOADLEY. This thorough and practical method has acquired a Golden Reputation as one of the VERY BEST instructive Books for Self-Study. Published with American, also with Foreign Fingering. Price $3.

GEMS OF STRAUSS.—The surprising success of this brilliant book continues, and other offers are eagerly called for. 200 large pages of the best Strauss Music. Price—boards, $2 50; cloth, $3.00; fine gilt, for presents, $4.00.

EMERSON'S SINGING SCHOOL has abundant material for the instruction of evening and other Singing Classes. Widely used. Costs less than a church-music book. Price 75 cents.

WINNER'S NEW SCHOOLS for the Piano-Forte, Cabinet Organ, Melodeon, Guitar, Cornet, Violin, Flute, Accordeon, Clarionet, Flute, and Flageolet. Price of each book, 75 cents. These little works are great favorites, because they are cheap, are full of easy and lively music, and have enough of instructive matter for the wants of amateurs.

The above books mailed, post-paid, for the retail price.

CLEAR YOUR THROAT!

Relieve Your Lungs.

For the terrible diseases engendered by the lung-trying climate of New England,

Pulmocine Cordial

Is a speedy and reliable Preventive and Remedy. EVERY FAMILY should have a bottle at hand to check the sudden growth of all Pulmonary Diseases. For the Asthma, Coughs, Croups, Laryngitis, or inflammation of the larynx, Diphtheria, and all kindred THROAT DISEASES at all times prevalent, it is the ounce of PREVENTION. Children attacked with Whooping Cough or Croup should be immediately cared for. These painful attacks come with scarcely a moment's warning, when a physician may be out of immediate reach. A dose of PULMOCINE CORDIAL gives speedy relief, and the little ones are spared hours of pain and agony. As "a stitch in time saves nine," so does the possession of this FAMILY MEDICINE prevent the spread of disease. Parents seeing their children gasping with pain, friends and relatives beholding each other in peril from suffocation by the choking pain in the throat, paralyzed with fear and not knowing the best course to pursue, are liable to apply the wrong remedial agents. There is no safety in delay, no time to waste in such cases. CONSUMPTION, that fearful scourge of the human race, lies at the door of all thus afflicted. BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL arrests it (unless in its advanced stage at which time there is no local cure) relieves the pressing, suffocating feeling at the lungs, and the patient's danger is past.

BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL

is no new discovery. Twenty-three years ago it was used by one of New England's most famous physicians as the best PULMONARY CURATIVE he could prescribe, after a dozen years spent in experimenting with it before he was satisfied that the Materia Medica could add nothing in its favor.

Buchman's Pulmocine Cordial

Is the ultima thule of Medical Discovery.

Among its many ingredients are WILD CHERRY BARK, SQUILL ROOT, LIQUORICE ROOT, BLOOD ROOT, &c. It is a BLOOD PURIFIER, gently stimulating. It increases expectoration and is diuretic. It is sudorific and alterative. It is a necessary family medicine. It is a Tonic, and a powerful aid to the digestive organs. It is a gentle sedative, and relieves nervousness. It is aromatic and agreeable to the taste.

For Coughs, Croup, Diphtheria, Asthma, &c.

USE BUCHMAN'S

PULMOCINE CORDIAL.

The Pulmocine Cordial is not a quack medicine, is not an experiment, is not composed of any ingredients "discovered" by "wandering pastures" in South America or anywhere else, nor by one who discovered a weed and thereby cured himself. Most of the ingredients are such as our best educated physicians daily use for the complaints specified, in some form or other. The recipe is that perfected by one of New England's most learned and famous physicians, who used it entirely in his daily practice until his death. It is offered to the profession and to the public, absolutely pure and unadulterated.

WISTAR'S BALSAM OF WILD CHERRY!

THE GREAT REMEDY FOR

CONSUMPTION!

and acknowledged by many prominent physicians to be the most Reliable Preparation ever introduced for the RELIEF and CURE of all

LUNG COMPLAINTS.

This well known remedy is offered to the public, sanctioned by the experience of over forty years, and when resorted to in season seldom fails to effect a speedy cure of

Coughs, Colds, Croup, Bronchitis, Influenza, Whooping Cough, Hoarseness, Pains or Soreness in the Chest or Side, Bleeding at the Lungs, Liver Complaints, &c. &c.

CONSUMPTION CAN BE CURED

by a timely resort to this standard remedy, as is proved by hundreds of testimonials received by the proprietors.

Dr. Wistar's Balsam of Wild Cherry

does not dry up a Cough and leave the cause behind, as is the case with most preparations, but it loosens and cleanses the lungs and allays irritation, thus removing the cause of the complaint

CLERGYMEN, LAWYERS, SINGERS,

and all those whose occupation requires an unusual exercise of the vocal organs, will find this the ONLY PREPARATION which will effectually and instantaneously relieve their difficulties.

BEWARE OF COUNTERFEITS.

Remember that the genuine Wistar's Balsam has on the outside wrapper the signature of "I. BUTTS," and the printed name of the proprietors, "SETH W. FOWLE & SONS, BOSTON." All others are base imitations. Examine the wrapper carefully before purchasing.

This road is now completed from Jacksonville to a junction with the CHICAGO & ALTON R. R. at Virden, a distance of over 20 miles. The road, so far as completed, is thoroughly equipped, ENTIRELY PAID FOR and in full operation, and it is upon the completed portion only, that bonds amounting to $600,000 are now offered at 85 and accrued interest in currency. Bonds upon the remaining portion of the road will be sold at a much higher price and will be offered only upon completed road. This road traverses the garden of the State, crosses all the most important roads, controls the enormous coal mines at Virden, and its bonds are most highly esteemed by those whose investigation has been most searching. We have personally examined every detail of this Company, and have gone repeatedly over the entire line. We are consequently enabled to recommend these bonds as an absolutely perfect security.

Researches made to determine the validity and utility of Patents of inventions, and legal and other advice rendered in all matters touching the same. Copies of the claims of any patent furnished, by remitting one dollar. Assignments recorded in Washington.
My Agency in the United States possesses superior facilities for obtaining Patents or ascertaining the patentability of inventions.
All necessity of a journey to Washington to procure a patent and the usual great delay there, are here saved inventors.
TESTIMONIALS.
"I regard Mr. Eddy as one of the most capable and successful practitioners with whom I have had official intercourse. CHARLES MASON, Commissioner of Patents."
"I have no hesitation in assuring inventors that they cannot employ a man more competent and trustworthy and more capable of putting their applications in a form to secure for them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office. EDMUND BURKE, Late Commissioner of Patents."
"MR. R. H. EDDY has made for me over THIRTY applications for Patents, having been successful in almost every case. Such unmistakable proof of great talent and ability on his part leads me to recommend ALL inventors to apply to him to procure their Patents, as they may be sure of having the most faithful attention bestowed on their cases, and at very reasonable charges.

BRIGGS' ALLEVANTOR is composed of Ammonia, Chloroform, Spirits of Camphor, Tincture of Lupuline, Oil of Juniper, and Alcohol. This compound is unequalled in the annals of medicine for the cure of Nervous or Sick Headache, Neuralgia, Trembling or Twitching of the Nerves, and all Nervous Diseases. It will counteract all poisons, banish pimples, cure scaly eruptions, itching, humors, &c.; it equalizes the circulation, invigorates the system, increases the action of the heart, without exciting the brain, cures Heartburn, Palpitation and Fluttering of the Heart, Dyspepsia, &c. Briggs' Allevantor absolutely possesses more curative properties than any other preparation. Physicians, chemists, and others are requested to examine and test the remedy, and $1000 will be paid if found different from representation.
COUCHS. Much has been said and many remedies have been offered for the relief and cure of throat and lung diseases; but nothing has been so eminently successful, or obtained such a wide celebrity, as Briggs' Throat and Lung Healer.
CORNS! The excruciating pain and agony produced by Corns, the unceasing twinging from Bunions, the piercing, distressing pain from Ingrowing Nails, cannot be described. Thousands suffer, not knowing there is a cure. Briggs' Corn and Bunion Remedies are no acid or potash compounds, but are reliable, soothing, and effectual, and just merit the success they have earned from an appreciative public. The Curative is a healing ointment; immediate relief is obtained by its application, and it will positively cure the worst cases of Festered Corns, Inflamed and Ulcerated Bunions, the corest instep, the largest and severest Blisters, the most extensive Callosities on the soles or heels of the feet, unequalled in the cure of Chilblains or Frosted Feet. The Allevantor for ordinary corns and preventing their formation is absolutely unexcelled by anything ever known.
PILES have been a terror to mankind for centuries, and almost every attempt to cure them has been baffled. By unceasing study and experimenting, Dr. Briggs has discovered an absolutely cure for internal, bleeding, external, and itching piles. Briggs' Pile Remedies are mild, safe and sure.

TEXAN CATTLE.—It is often said by our local journalists that "the Texas cattle trade is dying out," and that "the day of the Texas cattle trade is over;" but the long horns cross the Texan border in vast droves, and their owners' pocket books grow plethoric in consequence, notwithstanding.

It is conceded, however, that this year has failed in the realization of the usual profits from this trade. The well known severity of last winter so reduced the cattle which survived that the spring grass did no more than "start them" in taking on flesh enough to cover their bare ribs and wasted joints, and the summer grass was so light that by the end of August they were scarcely in better condition than when the winter began in 1871, and yet it would hardly pay to winter them again and the consequence was that many lean and inferior cattle have been shipped from Kansas the present season. More power to the muscles and grinders of the restaurant frequenters in Chicago and New York.

Before giving the number of exportations I will sum up the cost of a steer five years old, ready for shipment. There are three grades of saleable Texas cattle, viz: 2 year olds, 3 year olds and four year olds. Yearlings exchange hands some, but there is no demand when 2 year olds can be had. A 2 year old steer is worth from $11 to $14, according to size and condition. It costs on an average about $3 to winter him, though the contract price is $5, and he must be wintered twice, which will carry him into his fifth year, when he takes on flesh most readily, and is considered altogether the most remarkable steer offered. The cost in summer is not lessened, it being a mere trifle of herders' labor, and it is generally "lumped" with losses by straying, drowning and other accidents, which amount to about $2 a head. Here, then, is the cost of a marketable steer, taken at two years: First cost, say $12; first summer and winter's keep, $5; second summer and winter's keep, $5; third summer's keep, $2—a total of $24 cost. Such a steer is worth about $32 on the ground, or delivered at the cattle pens at the depot, and this leaves a margin of $8 profit.

A three-year old is worth from $14 to $20; cost of keeping to same age, viz., his fifth year, is $7, making total cost from $21 to $27, and worth about the same as the former. A four year old costs at first from $20 to $26, and they are generally wintered, making the cost of their keep $7 till the time of shipment, or from $27 to $33 total cost. But these are heavy cattle, being one year older, and bring about $43 at the cattle pens. It will thus be seen that the profit realized per head is not far from $8 on the average; and yet, if the column of accidents swell to such an extent as to take one-third of the whole, which was the case in the last year pretty generally, this profit will be eaten up entirely, and if the dealer comes out "square" he ought to be thankful, but he ain't; on the contrary, he "cusses his luck" and tries again.

The column of "accidents" is the most fruitful source of loss to the dealer, and one main cause for the swelling of this column the past year has been the inadequate shelter from storms. Dealers have trusted to the balmy reputation of the State, but have found to their sorrow the enbalming influence of the "norther," as one of the tidal waves roll over the land. Notwithstanding all the difficulties and losses, however, the Texas cattle trade of Kansas makes a good showing this year.

The Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe railroad handled, from August 15 to Nov. 21, 4,610 cars of cattle, of which 3,187 came from Wichita. The cars contain generally 18 head, making a total in three months of 82,980 head shipped by this one road.

The Kansas Pacific railroad has, perhaps, shipped as many cattle from Ellsworth as was shipped from Wichita, viz: 67,386 head, and from Solomon 10,026 head, and from Abilene the same number, 10,026 head, making a total from these five points of shipment of 160,418 during the three months or over from August 15 to Nov. 21, representing ready income of $6,614,690 to the State, and a net profit of $1,283,344 to the cattle dealers.

This doesn't look much like a "dying-out" of the trade, when it is remembered that I have taken the shipments of only five points in the State as a basis of calculation.

There are probably 100,000 head more of Texans in the State than went into it last winter, but it will be noticed that the shipping points are fast moving to the west and south of Abilene, and the time is no far distant when the long horns will be thrust out of the State altogether.

—A loud-mouthed politician met with a ludicrous accident in the private office of the Postmaster on Monday evening. Said politician had in his mouth a huge cud of tobacco, which he did not wish to expectorate upon the nice carpet, and not noticing the large pane of glass which separated the anteroom he put his head through with a crash and discharged his cargo upon the mat outside, no less to his own astonishment than that of those present.—Newburyport Herald.

Credit Mobilier.

On Thursday, Senator Patterson of New Hampshire appeared before Judge Poland's investigating committee and made the following statement:

I have had no transactions with the Union Pacific Railroad or with Mr. Ames which in my judgment call for investigation, or which any respectable business man would think of criticising. Still I am glad to respond to your invitation to be present this morning, and with your permission will give you a brief but complete statement of all there is to this matter, so far as I am concerned. I entered Congress after all the land grants and subsidies to the Union Pacific Railroad had been made; the only legislation which has arisen since, in respect to it, the wisdom and policy of which any one questions, so far as I know, was the act of 1864, which was passed during my first session in Congress. I was not as well informed in respect to the merits of this great work as I am now, but I have never regretted the vote I gave at that time; I then had but a slight acquaintance with Ames, having never seen him before I entered Congress. At a later period we were thrown together, and brought into relations of a somewhat intimate friendship.

Near the close of 1867, when no men could have anticipated any further legislation upon this subject and since when, if we accept the transfer of the office of the company to Boston, there has been some show giving a construction to a curious act on a question raised unexpectedly by the Secretary of the Treasury, may be so considered, Ames came over to the Senate and proposed to sell me thirty shares of stock in the Credit Mobilier. He represented at one time that he did this as a friend looking to my interest. I asked him to explain to me what the Credit Mobilier was, and he did so. I then asked him if it was proper stock for a member of Congress to hold. He said he thought it was, as they did not expect to ask for any further legislation, and to give strength to his views he mentioned several distinguished gentlemen of acknowledged integrity, who had other stock or property, and to take stock in the company. I then inquired if he thought it would be a profitable investment. He replied that he did, or he should not have offered it to a friend. I said I should be glad to take some stock, but could not as I had no money. When you get some money which you wish to invest, said Ames, come to me and you shall have the stock. At that time I proposed to take the stock, and doubtless Ames meant I should, but I never found it convenient to take it before I concluded it was not best to take it, and so the purchase was not consummated. I never received, directly or indirectly, nor did any one ever hold for me in trust, one pennyin worth of stock in the Credit Mobilier.

I have been thus explicit because I have been misrepresented in respect to this thing, and not because I see any breach of propriety or personal integrity in a congressman's purchasing or holding this more than paper, wool, legal tenders, bonds, bank notes, bank stocks, or any other species of property liable to be affected by legislation, but upon which legislation was not anticipated at the time of the purchase. On two occasions subsequently I purchased of Mr. Ames stock and bonds in the Union Pacific Railroad, which were placed in the hands of a friend in New York for sale. My friend sold them at a fair profit. For this stock and bonds I paid the full market price in money earned by myself.

These transactions were bona fide purchases, and not exchanges of stock or distributions of dividends. It was a small investment, but reasonably profitable, and I regret that it was not larger, as it was both honest and honorable, and I doubt if there is any member of Congress who would deny the right or propriety of such a purchase today. This is the whole of my connection with Mr. Ames or with the Union Pacific Railroad. I have never purchased or received any property of any kind which had any connection, direct or indirect, with my vote or political influence.

In answer to questions of Judge Poland, Mr. Patterson testified that his first purchase was in 1869 and the other in 1871.

THE BURNED STEAMSHIP.—Further information is received regarding the burning of the Erie. She did not burn at the port of Pernambuco, but at sea, about twelve miles from Parahiba, ninety miles north of Pernambuco. She was seen on fire on the first day of January by a passing schooner. Five of the boats filled with the passengers and crew were also seen making their way shoreward. The Erie carried a crew of seventy-nine, including twenty-one in the master's department, thirty-six in the engineer's, twenty in the steward's, and two watchmen. At this season of the year the vessels of this line start on the homeward trip with about twenty passengers, which would make the number of persons on board the ship about ninety.

She was valued at $500,000, and was insured for two-thirds of that amount, but the company are as yet unable to give any estimate of the cargo. She was one of the largest American-built steamships afloat, her length being 325 feet, beam 44 feet, depth 36 feet. She had a capacity when launched of 2900 tons, which was subsequently increased to 3451 tons by the raising of her bulwarks. She was built of oak, was barque rigged, and divided into four water-tight compartments. She was propelled by a screw worked by four low-pressure engines, and was provided with four safety-valves and 1200 return-tubes. For extinguishing fires she was provided with 580 feet of hose, 300 feet of which was attached to four double-acting pumps. One hundred fire-buckets, twenty-one axes and 220 life-preservers were also kept at available points. On board were eight boats, six of wood and two of metal, each twenty-six feet long and eight and a half feet wide, with water and provisions in water-tight compartments in the head and stern. The boats were capable of carrying fifty passengers comfortably and seventy by crowding.

The Fisherville Elopement.

On the 25th of November last, Josephine Drew, of Fisherville, a pretty, artless-appearing school girl, fifteen years old, left her home in the morning and never returned. Inquiry and search showed that she had gone off with one George Sherburn, a married man, whose contemptible meanness was further shown by his last act at his home, which was to break open his little daughter's savings-box and steal therefrom the few dollars it contained. Nothing more was heard of the deluded and ruined child until the 13th inst., when officer Chadwick of Concord received notice from the police of Jersey City that she was dead, and the brute whose villainy had murdered her, in custody. Mr. Chadwick immediately set out for Jersey City, and brought the wretch back to Concord.

It seems that the couple reached Jersey City on November 26th, and took lodgings with a respectable lady, Mrs. Cornelison, representing themselves as recently married and as having suffered from the Boston fire. Here, after a few days, the poor girl became seriously ill, and Mrs. Cornelison's family physician pronounced her complaint typhoid fever, induced by mental depression and sorrow. She lived until Dec. 18, when death terminated her sufferings.

During the last hours of her illness she frequently called for her mother, in heart-rending tones repeating, "Oh, if I only had my mother!" and on one occasion, when Sherburn was called away for a brief space from her bedside, she whispered to Mrs. Cornelison: "Oh, when I get well I will do everything for you; I do love you so; but, Mrs. Cornelison, we are not married. I have known him only six weeks. We are advertised. I want my mother."

A coroner was notified of the case previous to the interment, but declined to authorize a post mortem examination, Dr. Petrie, the physician who attended her, saying that while she was undoubtedly weakened by the excesses of the brute, there was nothing in her death to arouse suspicion.

Sherburn arrived in Concord at 11 o'clock, Thursday forenoon, and was taken from the cars directly to the police station, followed by a large crowd, which was kept out of the station, however. In a few moments he was removed from the office, for the purpose of being lodged in jail, and just as the officers emerged the feelings of Mr. Drew, the father of the girl, overcame his judgment, and he seized the prisoner, and commenced a vigorous assault, getting in several powerful blows about his head before he could be taken off by officers, the crowd meanwhile setting up the cry of "kill him!" "kill him!" For a moment or two the excitement ran high, and but for the exertions of the police force, part of whom gave their attention to Drew, while the others took Sherburn to a hack, and drove him to jail, he would probably have been killed on the spot, in a few moments.

Sherburn was arraigned before Police Judge Dana, of Concord, on Friday, on a charge of adultery, to which he made a plea of guilty and was held in $2000 bonds to answer at a higher court.

PURCHASE OF SAMANA.—A party of Boston and New York capitalists have purchased the peninsula and Bay of Samana. By decree of the Dominican government, the Samana Bay Company has perpetual possession of the peninsula and bay. The business of the region will be conducted by a board of directors, who may be citizens of Santo Domingo or of the United States. The company may purchase and own property of every description, real and personal, on the island of Santo Domingo or elsewhere, and have power to sell; may issue bonds to any extent; have power to establish steamship lines for trade in all parts of the world; may build roads, ways and telegraph lines over the entire island; have their own police and tribunals; may sail under any flag, or their own flag, with seamen of any or every nationality.

COPPER MINING.—The Mining Gazette publishes some interesting statistics as to the copper production of Lake Superior during the year just closed, compared with the yield of 1871. The total amount mined this year was 15,174 tons and 213 pounds, as against 16,000 tons and 743 pounds in 1871—showing a falling off in 1872 of 902 tons and 530 pounds. While the tables show a decrease in the products of the mines, as to quantity, the profits arising from the mining operations have been greater than during the previous year. The latter circumstance is due to the great demand for copper which has prevailed throughout the season, and to the fact that but a moderate amount could be obtained from all sources. The slight decrease in quantity was caused by the strike last spring among the miners, and some circumstances of less consequence which diminished the production.

The total yield of Calumet and Hecla for the last twelve months was nearly 10,000 tons of mineral, representing a money value of about $5,000,000, over three-fifths of which is profit. The Gazette sees no reason to doubt that this mine will continue for several years to produce generously and to pay large dividends. The affairs of the Quincy seem to be in very good condition, and it has recently been suggested that with deeper mining the Minnesota, National and Cliff mines may again be made to yield largely. The other mines have generally paid fairly, and the stockholders have money in their pockets as the result of the season's operations.

Fires are reported in New York, loss $135,000; at Chicago, where a handsome church was destroyed, involving a loss of $175,000; at Hot Springs, Ark., loss $19,000; and at other places.

CREDIT MOBILIER.—The "awful disclosures" which were anticipated when the public were permitted to look into the room where the investigation of the doings and misdoings of this concern, which is too wicked to be called by a respectable Yankee name, were going on, do not yet appear. Mr. Oakes Ames, a Director in the Pacific Railroad and the Credit Mobilier, and by whose efforts it was built, testifies that he was active in selling its stock, and that he induced members of Congress and others to take it, not for the purpose of obtaining their votes, for the road at that time needed no Congressional legislation, but to secure their money and influence and make them feel an interest in the success and prosperity of the enterprise generally. He acted apparently just as the projectors and Directors of the Portsmouth and Dover Railroad are now acting, and just as those concerned in similar enterprises always act. They are anxious to have everybody take hold and help the thing along. Further than this no wrong appears to have been done or intended. There is not a particle of evidence that any member of Congress voted differently from what he would have done had the road never been thought of. Republican and Democratic members alike were subscribers to its stock and consequently interested in the success of the road. The idea of there being anything improper in the transaction would never have been thought of, had not one McComb, who formerly had some connection with the road and was not allowed to profit by it to the extent of his wishes, quarreled with Ames and the other Directors, and to be revenged upon them, started, during the recent Presidential campaign, the precious load of calumny and falsehood with which the Greeley papers then teemed. This is the whole story. Mr. Ames was anxious to have all the help he could obtain in building the road, and very naturally may have represented the stock which he was selling to be more valuable than it really was. Members of Congress, willing to have a good thing for their money, may have been desirous of investing it where they were promised ten per cent. dividends, and some of them, quite as naturally, were anxious to have nothing to do with it when they found that the road was threatened with a lawsuit from McComb and others, and that their political opponents were using their connection with the concern to their own and their party's detriment.—Journal.

CENTAUR.

At midnight on his wooded hills,
The Centaur lay dreaming of the hour,
When mankind, cured of aching ills,
Should know his all-healing power.

Nor long he waited. The blind could see,—
Straightened were limbs by pain long bent,
Cripples ran, and the lame on bended knee
Gave thanks for the Centaur Liniment.

The Centaur Liniment is the greatest pain-reliever the world has ever seen. Rheumatism, whether inflammatory, sciatic or nervous, is made to disappear. Swellings cease to pain, wounds are healed, burns are cured without a scar, and stings and bites are rendered harmless.

Mrs. R. Prowell, 492 Atlantic St., Brooklyn, N. Y., writes: "I have had the rheumatism for ten years. I have tried everything. The Centaur Liniment is the only thing that does me good."

Mr. Chas. Hill, 616 Pine St., Philadelphia, writes: "That two bottles of Centaur Liniment has cured a most severe sprain of his ankle."

J. H. Martin of 533 Seventh Avenue, N. Y., says: "The Centaur Liniment has cured me of a terrible case of inflammatory rheumatism and cannot be too highly recommended."

59 BROADWAY, N. Y., Aug. 21st, 1872.

"All horse owners should have the Centaur Liniment. We used it in our stables and find it the best thing ever adopted."

PERSONS SO DESIRING will be VACCINATED free of expense to themselves, on application to Dr. Whittier, City Physician, at No. 45 Congress Street.

A LDEN'S IMPERISHABLE EVAPORATED!

FRUITS & VEGETABLES.

Having lost nothing but water, they return, when put in water, to their original condition, both in quantity and flavor.

DIRECTIONS:—To every pound of Fruit add four quarts cold water, come to a boil slowly and stew 15 to 30 minutes, add half the usual amount of Sugar used with fresh fruit.

To every pound Sweet Corn add full one quart of cold water, soak 6 to 8 hours, then bring it to a boil, when it will be ready for the table; add Salt and Milk, to the taste.

We are now in receipt from the factories of quantities of Apples, Peaches, Pears, Cherries, Huckleberries, Blackberries, Cranberries, Sweet Potatoes, Pumpkins, Green Peas, Lima Beans, and Sweet Corn.

In the opinion of the most Eminent Physicians and Chemists these Dried products are far more wholesome than "Canned" or "Dried" fruit—they having been Super-matured or ripened though the Aldes Peramatic Process, and prepared perfectly clean without exposure to flies or dirt.

These are the cheapest and best fruits in the Market, and you cannot tell them from fresh fruit when cooked.

LOCAL AFFAIRS.

Laconics.

The distinguished literary editor of the CHRONICLE speaks of "Homer and other Latin authors." This is the editor who remarked—when we said, at the close of the year, "yesterday's edition of the Advertiser ended the year 1872"—he was glad to know what ended it.—Portland Advertiser.

"Homer and other Latin authors" occurred in the Concord Patriot's humorous article on a presentation of a watch and chain to Mr. John F. Byron of the Eagle Hotel. We quoted it and gave credit to the Patriot. We were not aware before that "yesterday's edition of the Advertiser" still lay undigested on the abdominal arrangements of our down east contemporary. Don't effervesce too rapidly, friend of our early days.

By an advertisement in another column it will be seen that the City Physician is ready to vaccinate all who choose, free of charge. The city authorities some time ago perfected their arrangements for fighting a small-pox epidemic, if it should come, and have exercised a praiseworthy vigilance to prevent its coming, thus far with gratifying success; and if the citizens generally will but take ordinary precaution, personally, and not mistake fear of small-pox for the disease itself, we may reasonably expect our city to escape any extended prevalence of the disease.

The Kearsarge mills have declared a dividend of three and one half per cent.

Skiff & Gaylord's Minstrels are coming, next month.

A drum and fife corps organized on Thursday evening,—seven fifes and eight drums,—to do duty on the coming 4th of July.

A new express company, to run between this city and Boston, is said to be among the probabilities.

The Committee on Invitations of the Sons' celebration desire that all who have friends abroad natives of this city, may hand in their names at once, at the City Clerk's office.

There will be a service and sermon particularly for children, at the Unitarian church, on Sunday afternoon at a quarter before 3 o'clock. Parents and children are invited.

The City Marshal's report for 1872 gives the number of arrests as 869; lodgings furnished, 683; amount of fines and costs collected during the year, $1,434.42; revenue from dog tax, $111.

City Council.

In Board of Mayor and Aldermen, Thursday evening, the Mayor presented the following communication:

To the Board of Mayor and Aldermen:—

Herewith I surrender to the custody of the Board the charges made by me at a special meeting held the 11th day of December, A. D. 1872, against Police Officer George E. Barsantee, with the recommendation that they be placed on file.

Respectfully submitted.

T. E. O. MARVIN, Mayor.

The following preamble and resolution were adopted:

Whereas, George E. Barsantee has presented his claims for services as police officer, and a question has arisen whether his claim up to the time of his resignation shall be allowed;

Resolved, That a hearing be had upon the charges made against said Barsantee; and that a time be fixed for the hearing, and that he be notified thereof.

Voted, That the time for said hearing be fixed by the Mayor.

The application of Steam Fire Engine Co. No. 1, for an advance payment of $100, was granted.

The Mayor presented a communication recommending the vaccination at the public expense, of all persons who are willing to be vaccinated, but who are unable to bear the expense.

Voted, That the Mayor be authorized to contract with some physician for the vaccination of such persons.

The subject of moving trees in Woodbury street was referred to the Committee on Streets with power to act.

The Senatorial Convention.

The republican Senatorial convention for this District met in the Ward Room on State street promptly at 11 o'clock on Friday morning, and organized by the judicious choice of Col. William H. Hackett as presiding officer, and Mr. H. H. Ham, Jr., as Secretary. Mr. Hackett remarked before proceeding to the business of the hour, that it was the usual custom to give a Senator a term of two years, and in view of the fact that the present incumbent had discharged his Senatorial duties the past year in a manner satisfactory to his constituents, this rule would doubtless not be deviated from, although he did not wish to anticipate the action of the convention. A motion was then made by Robert O. Dennett, Esq., of this city, that Hon. Warren Brown of Hampton Falls be re-nominated. The chairman put the question, and requested a rising vote upon it. Every delegate instantly rose on his feet and Mr. Brown was declared the nominee by a unanimous vote.

The candidate, being present in the hall, was loudly called for, in response to which he came forward and spoke substantially as follows:

Mr. President and Gentlemen of the Convention:—I thank you kindly for the honor that you have again conferred upon me by renominating me as your candidate for Senator in the First District; and let me assure you that, if elected, I shall in the future, as in the past, do my best to properly fulfill the responsible duties imposed upon me. And let me express the hope that every Republican shall be found as true to his principles in the coming contest as in years previous, for it needs only this to maintain the position of our State in the van of elections that will follow the inauguration of our illustrious chief magistrate.

The Convention was very well attended, notwithstanding the bad weather, and the meeting was spirited and harmonious.

IMPORTANT LEGAL DECISIONS.—The January number of the American Law Record, presents two decisions of such general interest to business men as to be worthy of extensive newspaper mention.

The first case is that of Gray vs. The Portsmouth and Boston Express, in the Supreme Court of New Hampshire, and involves the question whether a common carrier, receiving goods directed to a certain point and payment for the whole distance, is responsible for loss occuring on connecting lines not under its management, but to which the goods are transferred on their way to the destination. The lower court held that they were not so responsible, and the Supreme Court sustained the judgment in an elaborate opinion of thirty-six pages. It occurs to us that a directly opposite decision has been reached in other States of the Union, though we are unable at present to point out the cases.

Another point of little less interest and importance received settlement as follows: "When a contract is made by a common carrier in one State to transport goods from that State into another, and the goods are lost, the rights of the parties are governed by the law of the State in which the loss happens."

DEATH OF A VETERAN EDITOR.—The venerable Dr. Joshua Leavitt, of the Independent, died of apoplexy in New York on Thursday last. He started the New York Evangelist and was for many years its editor, and afterwards edited an anti-slavery paper in connection with Arthur Tappan, which he abandoned when the Garrison wing obtained control of the Anti-slavery Society. Then he went to Boston and started the Emancipator. He took a most important part in organizing the liberty party and was prominent in many reforms, political and social. He wrote much on free trade, and obtained two years ago the Cobden medal for the best essay on that subject. He edited also the first hymn and tune book for churches published in this country. His age was seventy-nine.

Readables.

Miss Delia Norton was killed by being caught in a belt and whirled around a shaft in a paper-hanging manufactory at Boston, Thursday.

Among the visitors to the municipal court at Boston, Thursday, was a man all broken out with small-pox. They put him out.

The Boston Journal says "the returns at the City Registrar's office show that the small-pox disease is abating."

Mr. William Merritt has finally been compelled to resign the superintendency of the Boston & Maine Railroad, which he has held for so many years. He tendered his resignation about a year ago when it became evident that he must have rest, but the directors urged him to take a vacation and see if his health could not be recovered. He did so and went to Europe on a three months tour, returned feeling much better, but a resumption of his duties again broke down his health and he has been compelled to withdraw entirely.

The democrats and liberals of the Illinois legislature unanimously nominated Lyman Trumbull for re-election to the U. S. Senate.

The democratic Senatorial caucus of New York nominated Ex-Judge Charles Wheaton for the U. S. Senate, he receiving 25 votes against 11 for Ex-Judge Henry R. Seldon, one of the prime movers in the liberal republican whirlwind. Judge Wheaton is comparatively unknown, and it is said he owes his nomination to his aid to Hon. John O. Whitehouse in buying his way into Congress from the Dutchess district.

Clippings.

From the Portsmouth Journal.

—Who owns those rowdies who collect around the Temple entrances, insulting ladies and gentlemen, and chiefly the former, who are compelled to run their gauntlet?

—Steamer Enterprise, which ran for several years between Boston, this city and Biddeford, is now engaged in the general carrying trade between Mobile and Havana.

—The singing school inaugurated by Prof. Sweet, at the Methodist chapel on Daniel Street, is meeting with good success, nearly one hundred and seventy-five scholars now attending on Wednesday and Saturday afternoons. Prof. Sweet will hold a public meeting in the Methodist Vestry Wednesday evening next, for the purpose of organizing a corps of Singers to cooperate with those of adjacent towns in the proposed Musical Convention to be held in this city, and all interested in the advancement of Music are requested to be present, as some of the important Choruses will be put in rehearsal that evening.

—The directors of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals held a meeting Monday evening at the residence of John S. Pickering, Esq., a large number being present. The resignation of Mr. N. Dana Whipple, as Secretary, was accepted and Dr. A. P. Stevens was elected to fill the vacancy. A committee of six were appointed to make arrangements for the giving of a public address soon by Dr. Stevens. It was voted that one thousand copies of the N. H. law protecting dumb animals be printed, and circulated. A general interest in the organization was reported.

—Capt. Faunce has completed his inspection of our coast in the interest of the life-saving service. He recommends that a station be established at Gerrish's Island, owing to its favorable situation and particular adaptation. The Secretary of the Treasury strongly approves and recommends to the House Committee on Commerce that a station be made at that point. Washington advices state that the necessary apparatus will undoubtedly be supplied at once. A boat's crew of six surfmen will be employed, the regulations requiring that all persons employed must be of good moral character, and providing minutely for every detail. The whole service will be under the charge of a Captain in the Revenue Marine.

IRON in the BLOOD.

DYSPEPSIA, DEBILITY, DROPSY, HUMORS,

PERUVIAN SYRUP

Makes the Weak Strong.

The Peruvian Syrup, a Protected Solution of the Protoxide of Iron, is so combined as to have the character of an aliment, as easily digested, and assimilated with the blood as the simplest food. It increases the quantity of Nature's Own Vitalizing Agent, Iron in the blood, and cures "a thousand ills," simply by Toning up, Invigorating and Vitalizing the System. The enriched and vitalized blood permeates every part of the body, repairing damages and waste, searching out morbid secretions, and leaving nothing for disease to feed upon.

This is the secret of the wonderful success of this remedy in curing Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, Dropsy, Chronic Diarrhœa, Boils, Nervous Affections, Chills and Fevers, Humors, Loss of Constitutional Vigor, Diseases of the Kidneys and Bladder, Female Complaints, and all diseases originating in a bad state of the blood, or accompanied by debility or a low system. Being free from Alcohol, in any form, its energizing effects are not followed by corresponding reaction, but are permanent, infusing strength, vigor, and new life into all parts of the system, and building up an Iron Constitution.

Thousands have been changed by the use of this remedy, from weak, sickly, suffering creatures to strong, healthy, and happy men and women; and invalids cannot reasonably hesitate to give it a trial.

See that each bottle has PERUVIAN SYRUP blown in the glass.

Morning Chronicle.

GOING CATTING.—Dave Mosher is a guide and trapper in the primitive wilds north of Sacandaga Lake; and the Black Cat Valley, a favorite resort of rock martes, is one of his favorite stamping grounds. A recent morning as Dave was going the rounds of his traps, he met with the adventure referred to, and though his bravery is unquestioned, it is confidently believed that he will give a wide berth to the next panther he meets in the woods. While leisurely examining a trap, he observed a terrible commotion under a wide birch tree beyond him. On going forward to see what was the matter, a long, gaunt, tawny-colored, fierce looking animal, sprang upon a lower limb of the birch and bid defiance with glaring eyes. It was driven to desperation by hunger. Dave raised the old rifle and fired, and in one-fourth of a minute all the clothes upon him would not have made a bib for a china doll. He directly found himself beside a log, partly scalped, with his lower limbs looking as though they had been through a threshing machine, while, at the same moment, with a spit and a scream, a panther disappeared up the mountain side. Dave crawled home, as may be supposed, in very dilapidated condition.

BLOSSY'S LOVES.—We anxiously await the Cincinnati Enquirer containing the obituary notice of the late Emperor. Bloss always had an idea that the two greatest men on earth were George H. Pendleton and Charles L. Napoleon—with a decided preference for G. H. P. There isn't a man living who can pass a competitive examination with Bloss on the histories of these two great men. He knows the date of every battle won and lost by the two Napoleon's, and knows every time Pendleton made a speech in Congress and wanted to be President. If we were to name the day of extreme happiness and the day of extreme misery in the life of Bloss, we should designate for the former the day of Pendleton's nomination for President by the Ohio Democratic Convention, and for the latter the occasion of Napoleon's surrender at Sedan. Now that Napoleon is gone, Bloss will have an undivided love for Pendleton. — St. Louis Democrat.

It is suggested that Nye—not Bill, but the facetious James, of the Senate—shall be sent to China to represent this Government at the Court of Pekin. He will be able to return, with interest, the valuable lesson which Bret Harte makes the "heathen Chinee" teach Bill Nye, who was really a distant relative of James, or ought to have been, if he was!

CLEAR YOUR THROAT!

Relieve Your Lungs.

Pulmocine Cordial

Is a speedy and reliable Preventive and Remedy. EVERY FAMILY should have a bottle at hand to check the sudden growth of all Pulmonary Diseases. For the Asthma, Coughs, Croups, Laryngitis, or inflammation of the larynx, Diphtheria, and all kindred THROAT DISEASES at all times prevalent, it is the ounce of PREVENTION. Children attacked with Whooping Cough or Croup should be immediately cared for. These painful attacks come with scarcely a moment's warning, when a physician may be out of immediate reach. A dose of PULMOCINE CORDIAL gives speedy relief, and the little ones are spared hours of pain and agony. As "a stitch in time saves nine," so does the possession of this FAMILY MEDICINE prevent the spread of disease. Parents seeing their children gasping with pain, friends and relatives beholding each other in peril from suffocation by the choking pain in the throat, paralyzed with fear and not knowing the best course to purpose, are liable to apply the wrong remedial agents. There is no safety in delay, no time to waste in such cases. CONSUMPTION, that fearful scourge of the human race, lies at the door of all thus afflicted. BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL arrests it (unless in its advanced stage at which time there is no local cure) relieves the pressing, suffocating feeling at the lungs, and the patient's danger is past.

BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL

is no new discovery. Twenty-three years ago it was used by one of New England's most famous physicians as the best PULMONARY CURATIVE he could prescribe, after a dozen years spent in experimenting with it before he was satisfied that the Materia Medica could add nothing in its favor.

Buchman's Pulmocine Cordial

Is the ultima thule of Medical Discovery.

Among its many ingredients are WILD CHERRY BARK, SQUILL ROOT, LIQUORICE ROOT, BLOOD ROOT, &c. It is a BLOOD PURIFIER, gently stimulating, it increases expectoration and is diuretic. It is sudorific and alterative. It is a necessary family medicine. It is a Tonic, and a powerful aid to the digestive organs. It is a gentle sedative, and relieves nervousness. It is aromatic and agreeable to the taste.

For Coughs,
Croup,
Diphtheria,
Asthma, &c.

USE BUCHMAN'S

PULMOCINE CORDIAL.

The Pulmocine Cordial is not a quack medicine, is not an experiment, is not composed of any ingredients "discovered" by "walking in pastures" in South America or anywhere else, nor by one who discovered a weed and thereby cured himself. Most of the ingredients are such as our best educated physicians daily use for the complaints specified, in some form or other. The recipe is that perfected by one of New England's most learned and famous physicians, who used it entirely in his daily practice until his death. It is offered to the profession and to the public, absolutely pure and unadulterated.

WISTAR'S BALSAM

OF

WILD CHERRY!

THE GREAT REMEDY FOR

CONSUMPTION!

and acknowledged by many prominent physicians to be the most Reliable Preparation ever introduced for the RELIEF and CURE of all

LUNG COMPLAINTS.

This well known remedy is offered to the public, sanctioned by the experience of over forty years, and when resorted to in season seldom fails to effect a speedy cure of

Coughs, Colds, Croup, Bronchitis, Influenza, Whooping Cough, Hoarseness, Pains or Soreness in the Chest or Side, Bleeding at the Lungs, Liver Complaints, &c. &c.

CONSUMPTION

CURED

by a timely resort to this standard remedy, as is proved by hundreds of testimonials received by the proprietors.

Dr. Wistar's Balsam of Wild Cherry

does not dry up a Cough and leave the cause behind, as is the case with most preparations, but it loosens and cleanses the lungs and allays irritation, thus removing the cause of the complaint.

CLERGYMEN, LAWYERS, SINGERS,

and all those whose occupation requires an unusual exercise of the vocal organs, will find this the ONLY PREPARATION which will effectually and instantaneously relieve their difficulties.

BEWARE OF COUNTERFEITS.

Remember that the genuine Wistar's Balsam has on the outside wrapper the signature of "I. BUTTS," and the printed name of the proprietors, "SETH W. FOWLE & SONS, BOSTON." All others are base imitations. Examine the wrapper carefully before purchasing.

The road, so far as completed, is thoroughly equipped, ENTIRELY PAID FOR, and in full operation, and it is upon the completed portion only, that bonds amounting to $600,000 are now offered at $5 and accrued interest in currency. Bonds upon the remaining portion of the road will be sold at a much higher price and will be offered only upon completed road. This road traverses the garden of the State, crosses all the most important roads, controls the enormous coal mines at Virden, and its bonds are most highly esteemed by those whose investigation has been most searching. We have personally examined every detail of this Company, and have gone repeatedly over the entire line. We are consequently enabled to recommend these bonds as an absolutely perfect security.

After an extensive practice of upwards of thirty years, continues to secure patents in the United States; also in Great Britain, France and other foreign countries. Caveats, Specifications, Assignments, and all papers for Patents, executed on reasonable terms with dispatch. Researches made to determine the validity and utility of Patents of Inventions, and legal and other advice rendered in all matters touching the same. Copies of the claims of any patent furnished, by remitting one dollar. Assignments recorded in Washington.
No Agency in the United States possesses superior facilities for obtaining Patents or ascertaining the patentability of inventions.
All necessity of a journey to Washington to procure a Patent and the usual great delay there, are here saved inventors.
TESTIMONIALS.
"I regard Mr. Eddy as one of the most capable and successful practitioners with whom I have had official intercourse. CHARLES MASON, Commissioner of Patents."
"I have no hesitation in assuring inventors that they cannot employ a man more competent and trustworthy and more capable of putting their applications in a form to secure for them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office. EDMUND BURKE, Late Commissioner of Patents."
"MR. R. H. EDDY has made for me over THIRTY applications for Patents, having been successful in almost every case. Such unmistakable proof of great talent and ability on his part leads me to recommend ALL inventors to apply to him to procure their Patents, as they may be sure of having the most faithful attention bestowed on their cases, and at very reasonable charges.

BRIGGS' ALLEVANTOR is composed of Ammonia, Chloroform, Spirits of Camphor, Tincture of Lapulina, Oil of Juniper, and Alcohol. This compound is unequalled in the annals of medicine for the cure of Nervous or Sick Headache, Neuralgia, Trembling or Twitching of the Nerves, and all Nervous Diseases. It will counteract all poisons, banish pimples, cure scaly eruptions, itching, humours, &c.; it equalizes the circulation, invigorates the system, increases the action of the heart, without exciting the brain, cures Heartburn, Palpitation and Fluttering of the Heart, Dyspepsia, &c. Briggs' Allevantor absolutely possesses more curative properties than any other preparation. Physicians, chemists, and others are requested to examine and test the remedy, and $1000 will be paid if found different from representation.
COUGHS, Much has been said and written, and many remedies have been offered for the relief and cure of throat and lung diseases; but nothing has been so eminently successful, or obtained such a wide celebrity, as Briggs' Throat and Lung Healer.
CORNS! The excruciating pain produced by Corns, the unceasing twinging from Bunions, the piercing, distressing pain from Ingrowing Nails, cannot be described. Thousands suffer, not knowing there is a cure. Briggs' Corn and Bunion Remedies are no acid or potash compounds, but are reliable, soothing, and effectual, and just merit the success they have earned from an appreciative public. The Curative is a healing ointment; immediate relief is obtained by its application, and it will positively cure the worst cases of Festered Corns, Inflamed and Ulcerated Bunions, the severest Instep, the largest and severest Blisters, the most extensive Callosities on the soles or heels of the feet, unequalled in the cure of Chilblains or Frosted Feet. The Allevantor for ordinary corns and preventing their formation is absolutely unexcelled by anything ever known.
PILES have been a terror to mankind for centuries, and almost every attempt to cure them has been baffled. By unceasing study and experimenting, Dr. Briggs has discovered an absolutely cure for internal, bleeding, external, and itching piles. Briggs' Pile Remedies are mild, safe and sure.

The Chronicle

THE ACUTE COOLIES.—The peculiarity of the Chinaman, as noted by Truthful James, has become proverbial, and the rapidity with which he acquaints himself with "tricks that are vain" is equally notorious. The seventy Coolie cutlers who have recently created a disturbance at Beaver Falls, near Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania, have exhibited amazing smartness, and each of the seventy is a worthy fellow-countryman of Ah Sin.

It seems that early in the summer of last year the proprietors of the Beaver Falls Cutlery Works imported seventy-five Coolies for factory hands, and they at once took the place of some discharged Caucasians, in a short time proving that they were excellent workers. The indignation which, of course, followed the deposition of the white men and the introduction of the Mongolians soon subsided, and the Coolies quietly worked at their trade for six months, receiving as a daily compensation the sum of seventy-five cents in gold. The Chinamen, as we have already said, performed their work with skill and neatness, and gave ample satisfaction to their employers. All went well until, on the first day of December, the proprietors of the Beaver Falls Cutlery Works hired sixty-nine more Celestials, and endeavored to satisfy them with the meagre sum of sixty cents per day.

It was not long before these last emigrants from the land of rice and chop-sticks discovered the imposition, and, after numerous conferences, a delegation of soft-eyed (but keen-witted) orientals visited the superintendent and requested an advance in their wages from sixty to seventy-five cents a day. The Board of Managers considered the matter and finally decided not to comply with the request, fearing that, if they did so, the result would be future encroachments on the part of the heathen. The consequences are that the Chinamen have refused to work without more "payee"—in fact, they have gone on a strike. When we consider that there are four hundred millions of such clever people, it is with a feeling of pity for future importers of cheap labor.

A POSSIBLE JOKE.—The Scotchman is nothing if not logical. His highest idea of amusement is an intricate process of ratiocination. The jests which delight other men are meaningless to him—if Sydney Smith is to be believed; but by the way of recompense, Nature has so formed him that he is tickled by trigonometry, pleased with the humor of Euclid, and accepts the Calculus as the best specimen of comic literature. The theatre, the novel, and the other innocent amusements of humanity have no attraction for him. When he desires to divert his mind, and is determined to celebrate a saturnalia of dissipation, he provides himself with a store of serious facts, and in a private orgy of generalization, deduces theories of tremendous importance, until his riotous humor is spent and he returns, clothed and in his right mind, to the routine of his every-day work.

This fondness of the Scotchman for building airy theories upon a basis of substantial facts is curiously illustrated by the new theory of the cure for national drunkenness, recently propounded by a citizen of Edinburgh. This fearless reasoner had observed that in Italy, where wine is extremely cheap, drunkenness is almost unknown, whereas in Scotland, where whiskey and gin are comparatively dear, drunkenness is a national reproach. From these incontrovertible premises he proceeded to deduce the cause of drunkenness, which to his mind clearly consisted in the high price of the intoxicating beverage. Proceeding a step further, he reasoned that the cure must be found in cheapening the means of drunkenness. Whereupon, with fearless confidence in logic characteristic of his race, he proposed that whiskey and gin should be sold throughout Scotland at a merely nominal price, so that the intemperate Scotchman, finding these fluids as cheap as the Italian finds wine, would treat them with the contempt that principally flows from too great familiarity, and would become as temperate as are the people of wine-growing Italy.

Contented with the conclusive argument in favor of free whiskey, the inventor of the new cure for drunkenness disdained to fortify his position by other arguments. He did not trace the analogy between his system and the Hahnemannic theory that like cures like. Neither did he cite the fact that in communities such as Edinburgh, where men are abundant, cannibalism has no attractions, while among a shipwrecked crew upon a desert island, where the human life is exceedingly scarce, and consequently, according to the laws of political economy, exceptionably valuable, cannibalism is a not infrequent practice. With a large liberality he left the application of the important facts to his grand and original theory to other workers in the same field; and his abstinence in this matter is a clear proof that he regarded the single argument set forth by him as absolutely impregnable.

The new theory has, at least, the merit of simplicity. It is a cheap remedy for drunkenness, and the community that might adopt it would find it far easier of enforcement than is that sterner remedy, the Prohibitory Liquor law. Still it may be doubtful whether Edinburgh, or even New York, would ever adopt it. Indeed, there are already those who hint that its inventor is an entirely new kind of Scotchman, with an abnormal tendency to joke, and that he wickedly intended, in propounding his curious theory, to seduce his unwary fellow-countrymen into the serious treatment of an original Scottish joke.—N. Y. Times.

MONDAY, JANUARY 20, 1873.

The Annual Reunion

Of the publishers and editors of New Hampshire, at Nashua, on the 17th, was a most enjoyable affair. Heedless of the storm, about fifty ladies and gentlemen were early on hand and were kindly cared for by Mr. Cushing of the Tremont House. The business of the annual meeting, which has been neglected heretofore, occupied a large portion of the time. A resolution was passed allowing members who may join the Association in the future and afterwards pass from active duties as printers, editors or publishers, to become honorary members. It was voted that honorary members be allowed to join in all excursions and enjoy all the privileges that active members are entitled to at their reunions. Another important vote was passed, providing that in the future no tickets for excursions shall be issued to members in arrears. This action will cause a diminution in the number of excursionists or add a considerable sum to the treasury. Under the old arrangement, a person could secure tickets for two excursions, neglect to pay his assessments, and when called on for payment, inform the treasurer that he did not consider himself a member of the Association. A few men despicable enough to use this subterfuge have been found in New Hampshire.

The Association finally disposed of a resolution excluding cuts and large type from advertisements, by indefinitely postponing it. A resolution of thanks was tendered the indefatigable Recording Secretary, Mr. C. F. Livingston, for his faithful reports of meetings and excursions. It was voted that all persons chosen honorary members who do not respond to the notification of their election be dropped from the list. A number of gentlemen were chosen members, Job Jenness, Esq., of Rye Beach fame, and Col. William H. Hackett of Portsmouth being of the number.

During the afternoon, the ladies enjoyed a sleigh ride about the city, while the gentlemen visited the card works, meeting again at the extensive iron works.

The officers elected for the ensuing year are as follows: President, P. B. Cogswell of Concord; Vice Presidents, F. W. Miller, of Portsmouth, C. M. Langley, of Nashua, E. L. Goddard of Claremont; Secretary, C. F. Livingston of Manchester; Corresponding Secretary, Howard F. Hill, of Concord; Treasurer, Thos. W. Lane of Manchester; Executive Committee, John M. Hill, Geo. E. Jenks of Concord, and W. A. Wallace of Canaan.

At Pennichuck Hall, the Association and invited guests listened to an exhaustive address on the early printing days in Hanover by Prof. Sanborn of Dartmouth College; and to a similar paper on printing in Strafford county, written by George Wadleigh, Esq., and read by J. B. S. Libbey, Esq., of the Dover Enquirer. A congratulatory message was received by telegraph from the Maine Association at Augusta, and was responded to.

The banquet tendered the Association by the citizens of Nashua came off at the Tremont House at nine o'clock, the exercises closing at midnight, the music by a quadrille band tempting but few to leave the feast of reason.

Mayor Chandler welcomed the guests in an appropriate address, after which prayer was offered by Rev. H. A. Phillbrook, and the party partook of the feast that had been prepared for them.

After supplying the wants of the inner man, the Nashua Double Quartette favored the guests with some fine music. The President, P. B. Cogswell, then introduced Mr. Clark M. Langley as toast master, who required the party to stand during the reading of the first toast, which was "To the memory of Benjamin Franklin." The toasts and responses were as follows: "The State of New Hampshire; her works do praise her," Mr. O. C. Moore of the Nashua Telegraph, who read a letter from Governor Straw. "The newspaper and periodical press of New Hampshire," Simeon Ide of Claremont. "The mechanics and citizens of Nashua," Major A. H. Dunlap. "Vermont Journalists," Colonel Hopkins of Montpelier. "Benjamin Franklin, printer, patriot and philosopher," sung by the quartette. "Old Dartmouth;" Prof. Sanborn. The other toasts were: "The Newspaper Correspondent — What he lacks in facts he makes up in fiction;" "The Merrimack—Now it binds five cities in a silver chain." "The City of Nashua;" "The Memory of Thayer and Beard—Pioneers of New Hampshire Journalism;" "The Electric Telegraph;" responded to by Dr. Gallinger of Concord, President Merrill of the Massachusetts Association, O. C. Moore, Esq., Dr. Stackpole of Dover, and Wm. A. Wallace, Esq., of Canaan. A humorous speech was made by Lieut. George A. Marden of Lowell in response to the toast, "The Ladies." The exercises closed with "Auld Lang Syne."

The reunion in the city of Nashua will always be remembered with pleasure by the participants. Mayor Chandler, Superintendents Welman, Murray and Pierce, and Messrs. Moore and Tangley of the Telegraph were especially successful in making the occasion one of pleasantest remembrance. We would like to see Nashua and Nashuans oftener, but just think of making four changes of cars en route to the promised land, Strawberry Bank! We left Nashua for Lowell at 7 A. M. Saturday, changed cars at Lowell for Lawrence, ("first car, sir, for Lawrence, or you'll be carried to Salem,") changed to the Boston & Maine at Lawrence by rushing across the Concord train, and again exchanged trains at Newmarket Junction, feeling then that we were indeed homeward bound. Our old and esteemed associate, F. W. M., wishing to reach Epping, started for Manchester by the 7 A. M. freight train from Nashua and had just fifteen seconds to spare to make the necessary connection there with the first down train from Concord which we found waiting at Newmarket Junction.

"Where are we going next July?" was the question most frequently asked by the ladies and gentlemen at Nashua. The Association talked the matter over. Some desired to go with the jolly men from Maine. Dixville Notch was favorably considered by others; and it was announced that Messrs. Makes & Poor would like to accommodate the company at their new hotel at Gosport. Ex-President Hill stated that the Montreal excursion was so unwieldy that any attempt to unite the various New England Associations on a joint excursion again would be almost useless. Finally the matter was referred, as usual, to the executive committee to arrange.

Ames vs. Patterson.

In regard to certain discrepancies between the testimony of Congressmen implicated in the Credit Mobilier and the testimony of Hon. Oakes Ames, Mr. Ames says he would like to be summoned before the committee again, when he will produce a few receipts to confirm his assertions. It is believed that Mr. Ames has a receipt from Senator Patterson for 30 shares of stock, although Mr. P. vehemently denied before the committee that he ever had any.

The dignity of justice was beautifully illustrated in a Pittsburg court recently. A witness struck a lawyer in the eye, and the latter took his head in chancery, and draped it in black. The presiding magistrate then fell upon the unfortunate witness and ejected him from the room by means of vigorous and well-directed kicks. Another witness contradicted a lawyer, and subsequently disappeared down the avenue at a high rate of speed with the lawyer in pursuit.

Perhaps the most remarkable feature in the general failure of the coalition of last year is the refusal of the Missouri Legislature to renominate Frank Blair to the Senate. It is well known that when the Cincinnati Convention was on the point of doing a respectable thing and nominating Mr. Adams, Frank Blair lighted suddenly in one of the hotels, and between two days arranged the coup that resulted in Mr. Greeley's receiving the empty honor. With the disappearance of Messrs. Blair and Trumbull, and the apparent quenching for the time being of Mr. Schurz, the U. S. Senate will have little to remind it of the curious campaign of 1872.

It is suggested that Nyé—not Bill, but the facetious James, of the Senate—shall be sent to China to represent this Government at the Court of Pekin. If the Bonapartists are wise they will hail with pleasure, and strive to increase, any disposition of M. Theirs to exclude the remains of Napoleon from the sacred soil. M. Klotz, architect to the Cathedral of Strasburg, states that the cost of reparation rendered necessary by the Prussian bombardment will be 598,000 francs. A quarter of a million francs is required for the stone works; new roofs, 187,000 francs; repairs to the painted windows, 143,218 francs. During the twenty-four days bombardment the cathedral was struck in more than three hundred places; the debris amounts to more than three hundred cart loads.

THAWING OUT PORK.—An original genius last week bought a hog at the store of Jas. Fellows, West Andover. As the hog was frozen, the purchaser concluded the best way to thaw it out was to put it into cold water. He took it to a pond near by, cut a hole in the ice, and, after tying the hog by the leg to a neighboring tree, left it to thaw. The next morning, when he went after his pork, the hole was frozen up, and in cutting it open the axe glanced, severed the rope, and down to the bottom went the porker, and the owner is waiting for a thaw to open the pond.—Mirror.

HELP YOURSELF.—Fight your own battles. Hoe your own row. Ask no favors of any one, and you'll succeed five thousand times better than one who is always beseeching some one's patronage. No one will ever help you as you help yourself, because no one will be so heartily interested in your affairs. The first step will not be such a long one, perhaps; but, carving your own way up the mountain, you make each one lead to another, and stand firm in that while you chop still another out. Men who have made fortunes are not those who had $5000 given them to start with, but started fair with a well-earned dollar or two. Men who have by their own exertions acquired fame, have not been thrust into popularity by puffs begged or paid for, or given in friendly spirit. They have outstretched their hands and touched the public heart. Men who win love do their own wooing, and I never knew a man to fail so signally as one who had induced his affectionate grandmamma to speak a good word for him. Whether you work for fame, for love, for money, or for anything else, work with your hands, heart and brain. Say "I will!" and the day you will conquer. Never let any man have ktio say, "I have dragged you up." Too many friends hurt a man more than none at all.—Grace Greenwood.

COUNSEL FOR AILING.—Nothing is cheaper to those who give it than good advice; nothing is more valuable to those who receive it in the right spirit and promptly act upon it. Well, then, we advise the feeble, the ailing, the despondent to become strong and hearty and cheerful. "Ah!" reply all these unfortunates in a breath, "it needs no wiseacre to teach us that such a change is desirable; but how is it to be effected?" Your patience, sick and sorrowful friends, will inform you. Learn then that there is such sanitary value in the famous vegetable restorative known as Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, that no phase of muscular or nervous debility, no species of bilious disorder, no variety of that torment called dyspepsia, no case of chills or fever, no form of hypochondria, that may not be cured by the persevering use of this harmless but irresistible invigorant, alterative and corrective.

CORNS.—Since pride and fashion have had control of mankind, and shoemakers were compelled to make boots and shoes to fit fancy instead of the feet, the suffering from Corns, Bunions, Ingrowing Nails, Sore Instepes, Blistered Heels, Callosities on the bottom of the feet, &c., cannot be described. But Briggs' Corn and Bunion Remedies will cure all such torments, and proper fitting boots will prevent their reproduction. Sold by all druggists. a12

PILES.—The unceasing torture from internal bleeding, external and itching piles is fast wearing away the thousands of those who are afflicted and their hope and courage have long since given place to despair. Let those who see this cheer up, for a mild and sure cure may be had by using BRIGGS' PILE REMEDIES.

A SURE CURE follows the use of BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL—the best known remedy for THROAT and LUNG COMPLAINTS. Only 50 cts. a bottle.

A SILENT DISEASE PUNISHES THE PATIENT ONLY; but a vociferous cough or a horrible cold punishes a whole household. There can be no peace, no rest, until it is cured, and when a single bottle of Hale's Honey of Horehound and Tar will banish the nuisance, is it worth while to do it? Crittenton's, 7 6th Avenue. Sold by all Druggists.

Pike's Toothache Drops cure in 1 minute.

FRAGRANT SOZODONT hardens and invigorates the gums, purifies and perfumes the breath, cleanses, purifies and preserves the teeth from youth to old age. Sold by all Druggists.

INSTANTANEOUS is the operation of BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL in all cases of SORE THROAT, HOARSENESS, COUGHS, CROUP, and LUNG AFFECTIONS. It is beneficial in all cases. Sold for 50 cents per bottle.

CENTAUR.

At midnight on his wooded hills,
The Centaur lay dreaming of the hour,
When mankind, cured of aching ills,
Should know his all-healing power.

Nor long he waited. The blind could see,—
Straightened were limbs by pain long bent,
Cripples ran, and the lame on bended knee
Gave thanks for the Centaur Liniment.

The Centaur Liniment is the greatest pain-reliever the world has ever seen. Rheumatism, whether inflammatory, sciatic or nervous, is made to fly before it. Swellings cease to pain, wounds are healed, burns are cured without a scar, and stings and bites are rendered harmless.

MRS. R. Prowell, 492 Atlantic St., Brooklyn, N. Y., writes: "I have had the rheumatism for ten years. I have tried everything. The Centaur Liniment is the only thing that does me good."

Mr. Chas. Hill, 616 Pine St., Philadelphia, writes: "That two bottles of Centaur Liniment has cured a most severe sprain of his ankle."

J. H. Martin of 533 Seventh Avenue, N. Y., says: "The Centaur Liniment has cured me of a terrible case of inflammatory rheumatism and cannot be too highly recommended."

59 BROADWAY, N. Y., Aug. 21st, 1872.

"All horse owners should have the Centaur Liniment. We used it in our stables and find it the best thing ever adopted."

H. MARSH,
Supt. Adams Express Co. Stables."

Such testimonials can be repeated indefinitely. Try it once. We will warrant it every time. Sold by all Druggists.

FRUITS & VEGETABLES.

Having lost nothing but water, they return, when put in water, to their original condition, both in quantity and flavor.

DIRECTIONS:—To every pound of Fruit add four quarts cold water, come to a boil slowly and stew 10 to 30 minutes, add half the usual amount of Sugar used with fresh fruit.

To every pound Sweet Corn add full one quart of cold water, soak over night, then bring it to a boil, when it will be ready for the table; add Salt and Milk, to the taste.

We are now in receipt from the factories of quantities of Apples, Peaches, Pears, Cherries, Huckleberries, Blackberries, Cranberries, Sweet Potatoes, Pumpkins, Green Peas, Lima Beans, and Sweet Corn.

In the opinion of the most Eminent Physicians and Chemists these fruit products are far more wholesome than "Canned" or "Dried" fruit—they having been Super-matured or ripened thought the Alden Pneumatic Process, and prepared perfectly clean without exposure to flies or dirt.

These are the cheapest and best fruits in the Market, and you cannot tell them from fresh fruit when cooked.

LOCAL AFFAIRS.

Sudden Death.

Payne Durkee, Esq., Inspector in the Custom House, fell at the Methodist chapel, Sunday evening, about half past 8 o'clock. Officer Wallace being present kept the crowd back and had Mr. Durkee conveyed in a carriage to his home, where he died five minutes afterward. The cause of his death is believed to have been heart disease.

Mr. Durkee was a brother to Reuel Durkee, Esq., of Croydon. He was a gentleman in the true sense of the word, conscientious to a high degree, courteous to all, unassuming in manner, and had the respect of all who knew him. His sudden death will shock our readers who first learn of it on reading this.

Next Fourth of July.

At a meeting of the members of the G. A. R. on Friday evening, sixty names were enrolled to form a military company as a part of the State Militia. Forty-eight being the number allowed to a company, it is probable that another organization may be formed. The necessity of having an escort to the returning Sons, has aroused the pride of "the boys" who preferred the pleasure of this duty instead of having it performed by companies from other cities. As it will be a permanent institution, it is proposed that besides the uniform furnished by the State they provide themselves with one suitable for dress occasions, and as the expense will be more than some have the means to afford it is suggested that contributions be asked of our citizens, who will no doubt feel interested enough to assist in this enterprise by subscribing liberally. The following officers were elected: Daniel J. Vaughan, captain; William H. Lovell, 1st lieut.; John Moore, 2d lieut.; Edwin H. Leslie, 1st sergeant; M. E. Long, 2d sergt.; A. H. Purington, 3d sergt.; E. Churchill, 4th sergt.

We also learn that Capt. Geo. W. Towle is moving in the matter of reorganizing the old "Portsmouth Greys," and that he expects to turn out with sixty muskets, all the old members whom he has spoken with on the subject entering heartily into the plan. The last public parade of the "Greys" was when they performed escort duty on the former occasion of the Return of the Sons, twenty years ago next 4th of July; and not the least agreeable feature of the coming jubilee will be the turn-out, (for we do not doubt they will turn out,) at the second grand reunion, of the veterans, many of whose heads have changed color to match their handsome uniforms of the olden time, since they last appeared. The rising generation should have a chance to see what a creditable military company our city used to boast, and that chance Capt. Towle and his old comrades we hope will give them; and many older persons will feel rejuvenated at the sight of the soldierly body of men whose reputation was so well established twenty-five years ago.

A Small-Pox Importation.

The fishing schooner Alice Atwood, of Bristol, arrived in this harbor on Saturday, and came up to the wharf. She had a sick man on board, and the Board of Health were notified that it was a suspected case of small-pox. Promptly investigating the case, the health officers found the report well founded, and on Sunday morning the sick man was taken to Pest Island. The schooner, whose crew numbers fourteen men, one other of whom is sick, though his disease has not yet developed as small-pox, was removed from the wharf and placed in quarantine.

Laconics.

On Saturday evening about 7 o'clock, a kerosene lamp was accidentally broken in the second story of the building on the corner of Hanover and Bridge streets, occupied by Mr. George Stott as a grocery store. The non-inflammable liquid immediately took fire and ran about the floor, also finding its way through the floor to the ceiling of the room below, and for a few minutes a big fire seemed inevitable; but hard work and a liberal use of coats for smothering the flames happily averted the danger. Had the fire once got well under way, with the heavy gale then blowing, it would have made things warm for the neighbors.

A cold, easterly storm set in on Saturday, attended with a fall of sleet. Shortly before 7 o'clock, P. M., a bright flash of lightning was followed by a thunder peal. Yet Spring hasn't come!

A hanging garden of sponge is one of the latest novelties in window gardening.

WIDOWS AND WIDOWERS.—The one who said that he had observed this year that there were more men married than women, was right, after all, paradoxical as it sounds. The person who collects the statistics in England, Belgium and France, has been around, and here is the sum of his deductions, as given in Appletons' Journal. The reason why men marry more frequently than women is because three widowers marry for every widow that re-enters the married state. This, of course, is a delicate compliment, extracted even from the terrible dryness of a statistical table, to the ladies. Further than this, it is demonstrated that there is more hope for an old maid than for an old bachelor, in the ratio of 62 of the former who marry to 52 of the latter who are able to get anybody to take pity on their lonely state or estate as the case may be. The proportions of widowers to widows is startling. In England 66 widowers marry and only 21 widows; in Belgium 48 widowers and 16 widows, and in France the ratio is 40 to 12. As to the ages at which persons are married, young men from 15 to 20 usually marry girls some years their senior; men over 20 marry generally women younger than themselves. After 35 women almost invariably marry men younger than themselves.

THE ELLIS MURDER.—It is now said that the defence of Leavitt Alley, charged with the murder of Abijah Ellis, at Boston, will not be a denial of the killing, but an attempt to prove that an altercation occurred between the two in the stable, that the fatal blow was struck in self-defence, and that the subsequent cutting and hacking was for the purpose of concealing the body. This was precisely the plea that should have been made by Dr. John W. Webster, the murderer of Dr. Parkman, and which, it is said, was urged on him by his counsel when the government evidence had all been put in at his trial, when he might have been convicted of manslaughter in the third degree, and have saved conviction for the capital crime; but he steadily refused and was found guilty of murder, condemned and hanged. Ellis has, no doubt, been safely advised.

State News.

In the 5th district councillor and the 12th district senatorial republican conventions, held at Lancaster on Thursday evening, Chester C. Hutchins of Bath was nominated for councillor and Marcus D. Johnson of Stratford for senator.

Prof. Gideon L. Soule, Principal of Phillips Exeter Academy, has placed his resignation in the hands of the trustees, to take effect as soon as a competent scholar and teacher can be found to assume his duties.

PRAISE CHILDREN.—There is an old superstition that praise is too good a thing to be given to the children; that it is too rich for their mental digestion. Some parents are so afraid that a child will grow proud that they never praise him, and this course is often disastrous. It is apt to produce either too much self assertion—for self-assertion is a legitimate outgrowth of the withholding of commendation to which one is entitled—or to engender a self-distrust, or melancholy hopelessness of disposition. Praise is sunshine to a child, and there is no child that does not need it. It is the high reward of one's struggle to do right. Thomas Hughes says that you never can get a man's best out of him without praise. You certainly can never get a child's best out of him without praise. Many a sensitive child, we believe, dies of hunger for kind commendation. Many a child starving for the praise that a parent should give, runs off eagerly after the designing flattery of others. To withhold praise, where it is due, is dishonest, and in the case of a child, such a course often leaves a stinging sense of injustice.

Motives of common justice as well as regard for the future of the child should influence the parent to give generous praise for all that deserves it. Of course there is a difference in the constitution of children. Some cannot bear so much praise as others, and some need a great deal. It should never be indiscriminate. We remember a wonderful woman who taught school in our village until she had educated a part of three generations. She was one of the most successful of teachers. But her success lay in her gift of praising with discrimination. A bad boy who was a good scholar got praises for his brilliancy, sandwiched between her abomination for his bad behavior, and so was won to a better life; and we recall a good girl who had no gift of learning rapidly, but who was saved from utter despair by the praise she got for her untiring industry. Into the discouraged hearts of the children the praise of the teacher came like sunlight. And the virtue, like other fruits, can only ripen in the sunshine.—Rev. Edward Eggleston.

IRON in the BLOOD.

DYSPEPSIA, DEBILITY, DROPSY, HUMORS,

PERUVIAN SYRUP

Makes the Weak Strong.

The Peruvian Syrup, a Protected Solution of the Protoxide of Iron, is so combined as to have the character of an ailment, as easily digested, and assimilated with the blood as the simplest food. It increases the quantity of Nature's Own Vitalizing Agent, Iron in the blood, and cures "a thousand ills," simply by Toning up, Invigorating and Vitalizing the System. The enriched and vitalized blood permeates every part of the body, repairing damages and waste, searching out morbid secretions, and leaving nothing for disease to feed upon.

This is the secret of the wonderful success of this remedy in curing Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, Dropsy, Chronic Diarrhœa, Boils, Nervous Affections, Chills and Fevers, Humors, Loss of Constitutional Vigor, Diseases of the Kidneys and Bladder, Female Complaints, and all diseases originating in a bad state of the blood, or accompanied by debility or a low system. Being free from Alcohol, in any form, its energizing effects are not followed by corresponding reaction, but are permanent, infusing strength, vigor, and new life into all parts of the system, and building up an Iron Constitution.

Thousands have been changed by the use of this remedy, from weak, sickly, suffering creatures to strong, healthy, and happy men and women: and invalids cannot reasonably hesitate to give it a trial.

OF THESE

Standard Piano-Fortes

Have been made and sold since 1823, and

EIGHTY-ONE FIRST PREMIUMS

Have been awarded to our Firm

OVER ALL COMPETITION.

These Pianos are still regarded and universally conceded to be

The Standard Instruments of the World,

and are so pronounced by all the great artists.

Dr. FRANZ LISZT says: "I consider the CHICKERING Piano superior to any made in Europe or America, and am fully convinced that they were justly entitled to the First Prize."

Chickering & Sons' Mammoth Manufactory is more than one-third larger than any other Piano-Forte Manufactory in the world, and is, in every respect, the most complete as regards machinery and the facilities for doing the very best class of work. Messrs. C. & Sons have, since the establishment of their business in 1823, made and sold 40,000 Pianos, and these Standard Instruments are now offered at Reduced Rates upon the "ONE PRICE SYSTEM," free from all discounts and commissions; and they are, beyond all refutation, the VERY BEST and VERY CHEAPEST FIRST-CLASS PIANOS now offered.

A CARD.

We call especial attention to our

UPRIGHT PIANOS,

Which are, in every particular, the finest instruments of their class manufactured, and second only to the Grand Piano, for which they are a good substitute.

Every Piano warranted for five years.

Theodore Tilton's Troubles.

I have lately heard something which, it seems to me, ought to be told. And I have asked permission of the person who told it to me to give it to the world. Its title to credibility is undoubted. As surely as we can accept anything in life we have the right to accept this as a truthful narration of a story concerning which all the world is cognizant of everything but the truth.

When Theodore Tilton suddenly ended his brilliant career on the Independent every one familiar with the paper was astonished. But a few issues before the paper had celebrated one of its anniversaries with a famous display of type and illustrations, and in addition contained eulogies from both publisher and editor concerning one another, the expression of which, to say the least, is unprecedented in the newspaper world. The silence which followed was ominous. Mr. Tilton was evidently the offender. He established his new paper, the Golden Age, with his well-known energy and ambition, and received a handsome send-off from Mr. Greeley. Still Mr. Tilton had received a blow from which he could scarcely recover. His perceptible lapsing from orthodox convinced them he was capable of anything, and his many friends in the past, especially, made his grievances theirs, though they fought for him ignorant of that which they were to assail. Lately both Mr. Tilton and Bowen, having resumed amicable relations, have endeavored to make it appear as if they had never been disturbed. Mr. Tilton, as is his wont, does himself injustice.

Like most men, he possesses relatives, and like most men he has reason to curse them. One of them, a person very near to him, possessed almost with a mania for injuring him, who has left no stone unturned, who has halted at no malicious act that might injure him, who has made it the business of life to poison the minds of others against him, went to Mr. Bowen, and with an ingenious tissue of stories, obtained his confidence and capture his sense of justice and equity. The relations between Mr. Bowen and Mr. Tilton were such they could be dissolved at any time on the payment of six months' salary to Mr. Tilton in advance. Immediately Mr. Bowen, without rendering a reason, deposed Mr. Tilton, and refused the payment of the money. Litigation was commenced, and amid the annoyances resulting and the odium of his dismissal from the Independent, with the assistance of a few friends he began his new paper. It was scarcely started when, anxious to give full scope in that particular direction where he himself had been most cramped, he devoted a column to the "World's Progress," which was to embody the latest radical intelligence of the globe. The column he asked Stephen Pearl Andrews to edit, as he himself was in the front rank of radicalism, and a man of sufficient leisure to write. One day, Mr. Andrews asked him if he knew Mrs. Woodhull, and described her as one of the remarkable women of the day. Mr. Tilton not knowing this lady, he urged him to go down to Broad street and be presented. Accordingly Mr. Tilton went. They made a commonplace call, and talked on commonplace topics. The next morning, in the Times, I think, he read a letter from Mrs. Woodhull, containing an allusion to the Brooklyn scandal lately made public in Woodhull and Claflin's Weekly. In this letter however, the names were suppressed, two reverend gentlemen answering for personalities.

When Mr. Tilton reached his office that morning, he found on his desk Mrs. Woodhull's card, asking him to come to her office on particular business. He went down to 41 Broad street. Mrs. Woodhull asked him if he had seen the letter in the Times.

"Yes."

"Did you know who were the persons meant?"

"No."

"They were yourself and Mr. Beecher."

Mr. Tilton laughed incredulously.

"But I am no minister."

"Indeed! Never mind, you are one of the persons meant."

Mr. Tilton thought a moment. Here was a bold, daring woman—a woman of ability—who scrupled at nothing, a professed agitator, who believed that in unveiling the crimes of society, she was engaged in a high and holy duty. The story itself he treated with becoming scorn. She evidently believed it. Where did she gather her information? What were her means for knowing what she did know? As she talked rapidly and earnestly, he decided at all hazards, for Mr. Beecher's sake and his own, that this scandal must be suppressed. The world was only too quick to fasten the breath of rumor on the whitest of souls, and though true as truth, each would inevitably suffer if it went forth to the world, as Mrs. Woodhull intended it should.

The question then arose in his mind, how can her lips be sealed? She is a woman hunted down; her thoughts and sentiments are in advance of the age; then she had not avowed herself as in the last year, and with that sympathy for freedom of thought which has always characterized Mr. Tilton, he concluded he could best serve himself in serving her, and thereby seal her lips through gratitude to him.

All he did for her the world knows. Through the woman's suffrage agitations he defended her gallantly, as we have seen, when even then he did it at his own risk. He introduced her to his friends. She visited his family. He thought her a remarkable woman, possessing clairvoyant powers he could not dispute. He was open and above board in his friendship for her, yet already the world had besmeared his name in coupling with hers. Now his forced dismissal from the Independent was accounted for and justified by the credulous public.

When Mrs. Woodhull was advertised to deliver her lecture which set New York agog, Tilton threw himself into the breach with a courage which we must admire, and, to the consternation of his friends, introduced her to the public. Surely her gratitude at his self-sacrifice would compel her lips to silence. But still further sacrifice she asked of him, not making that the condition, however, of his consent, for no proposition of that kind was ever broached. Col. Blood wrote the life of Mrs. Woodhull. The manuscript was sent to Mr. Tilton, with the request that he would assume the responsibility of its authorship. This was asking a good deal of a man with the literary education of Theodore Tilton. He accepted it, and, with some revisions, it went forth to the world as Tilton's Life of Woodhull. It would seem that nothing more could be asked of a man. He still betriended her through all the storm of invective that went over the country; and I think, with all her vagaries, he honestly believed in her vigorous mind, and gave her credit for being an earnest, conscientious woman, erring as the world thought her, and believing in fidelity to what she thought to be right.—N. Y. Letter in Chicago Times.

CLEAR YOUR THROAT!

Relieve Your Lungs.

For the terrible diseases engendered by the lung-trying climate of New England,

Pulmocine Cordial

Is a speedy and reliable Preventive and Remedy. EVERY FAMILY should have a bottle at hand to check the sudden growth of all Pulmonary Diseases. For the Asthma, Coughs, Croups, Laryngitis, or inflammation of the larynx, Diphtheria, and all kindred THROAT DISEASES at all times prevalent, it is the ounce of PREVENTION. Children attacked with Whooping Cough or Croup should be immediately cared for. These painful attacks come with scarcely a moment's warning, when a physician may be out of immediate reach. A dose of PULMOCINE CORDIAL gives speedy relief, and the little ones are spared hours of pain and agony. As "a stitch in time saves nine," no one in possession of this FAMILY MEDICINE prevent the spread of disease. Parents seeing their children gasping with pain, friends and relatives rebuking each other in peril from suffocation by the choking pain in the throat, paralyzed with fear and not knowing the best course to pursue, are liable to apply the wrong remedial agents. There is no safety in delay, no time to waste in such cases. CONSUMPTION, that fearful scourge of the human race, lies at the door of all thus afflicted. BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL arrests it (unless in its advanced stage at which time there is no local cure) relieves the pressing, suffocating feeling at the lungs, and the patient's danger is past.

BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL

is no new discovery. Twenty-three years are it was used by one of New England's most famous physicians as the best PULMONARY CURATIVE he could prescribe, after a decade of years spent in experimenting with it before he was satisfied that the Materia Medica could add nothing in his favor.

Buchman's Pulmocine Cordial

Is the ultima thule of Medical Discovery.

Among its many ingredients are WILD CHERRY BARK, SQUILL ROOT, LIQUORICE ROOT, BLOOD ROOT, &c. It is a BLOOD PURIFIER, gently stimulating. It increases expectoration and is diuretic. It is sudorific and alterative. It is a necessary family medicine. It is a Tonic, and a powerful aid to the digestive organs. It is a gentle sedative, and relieves nervousness. It is aromatic and agreeable to the taste.

For Coughs, Croup, Diphtheria, Asthma, &c.

USE BUGHMAN'S

PULMOCINE CORDIAL.

The Pulmocine Cordial is not a quack medicine, is not an experiment, is not composed of any ingredients "discovered" by "walking in pastures" in South America or anywhere else, nor by one who discovered a weed and thereby cured himself. Most of the ingredients are such as our best educated physicians daily use for the complaints specified, in some form or other. The recipe is that perfected by one of New England's most learned and famous physicians, who used it entirely in his daily practice until his death. It is offered to the profession and to the public, absolutely pure and unadulterated.

SOLICITOR OF PATENTS,
For Inventions, Trade Marks or Designs,
NO. 76 STATE ST., OPPOSITE KILBY ST., BOSTON,
After an extensive practice of upwards of thirty years, continues to secure patents in the United States; also in Great Britain, France and other foreign countries. Caveats, Specifications, Assignments, and all papers for Patents, executed on reasonable terms with dispatch. Researches made to determine the validity and utility of Patents of inventions, and legal and other advice rendered in all matters touching the same. Copies of the claims of any patent furnished, by remitting one dollar. Assignments recorded in Washington.
No Agency in the United States possesses superior facilities for obtaining Patents or ascertaining the patentability of inventions.
All necessity of a journey to Washington to procure a Patent and the usual great delay there, are here saved inventors.
TESTIMONIALS.
"I regard Mr. Eddy as one of the most capable and successful practitioners with whom I have had official intercourse. CHARLES MASON, Commissioner of Patents."
"I have no hesitation in assuring inventors that they cannot employ a man more competent and trustworthy and more capable of putting their applications in a form to secure for them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office. EDMUND BURKE, Late Commissioner of Patents."
"MR. R. H. EDDY has made for me over THIRTY applications for Patents, having been successful in almost every case. Such unmistakable proof of great talent and ability on his part leads me to recommend ALL inventors to apply to him to procure their Patents, as they may be sure of having the most faithful attention bestowed on their cases, and at very reasonable charges.

$1000 REWARD.
BRIGGS' ALLEVANTOR is composed of Ammonia, Chloroform, Spirits of Camphor, Tincture of Lupulina, Oil of Juniper, and Alcohol. This compound is unequalled in the annals of medicine for the cure of Nervous or Sick Headache, Neuralgia, Trembling or Twitching of the Nerves, and all Nervous Diseases. It will counteract all poisons, banish pimples, cure scaly eruptions, itching, humors, &c.; it equalizes the circulation, invigorates the system, increases the action of the heart, without exciting the brain, cures Heartburn, Palpitation and Fluttering of the Heart, Dyspepsia, &c. Briggs' Allevantor absolutely possesses more curative properties than any other preparation. Physicians, chemists, and others are requested to examine and test the remedy, and $1000 will be paid if found different from representation.
COUCHS. Much has been said and written, and many remedies have been offered for the relief and cure of throat and lung diseases; but nothing has been so eminently successful, or obtained such a wide celebrity, as Briggs' Throat and Lung Healer.
CORNS! The excruciating pain produced by Corns, the unceasing twinging from Bunions, the piercing, distressing pain from Ingrowing Nails, cannot be described. Thousands suffer, not knowing there is a cure. Briggs' Corn and Bunion Remedies are no acid or potash compounds, but are reliable, soothing, and effectual, and just merit the success they have earned from an appreciative public. The Curative is a healing ointment; immediate relief is obtained by its application, and it will positively cure the worst cases of Festered Corns, Inflamed and Ulcerated Bunions, the worst instep, the largest and severest Blisters, the most extensive Callosities on the soles or heels of the feet, unequalled in the cure of Chilblains or Frosted Feet. The Allevantor for ordinary corns and preventing their formation is absolutely unexcelled by anything ever known.
PILES have been a terror to mankind for centuries, and almost every attempt to cure them has been baffled. By unceasing study and experimenting, Dr. Briggs has discovered an absolutely cure for internal, bleeding, external, and itching piles. Briggs' Pile Remedies are mild, safe and sure.
For sale by J. H. THACHER, WM. R. PRESTON, Portsmouth; JAMES O. TREFETHEN, Kittery; E. S. SAFFORD, Kittery Point; H. M. CURTIS, Newcastle, and dealers generally.

We Wait For You At Home.

BY MISS GARRIE K. RANDALL.

We are waiting at home by the ingle-side,
Where Pisciataqua's waters flow,
For our loved ones together from far away,
As they come twenty years ago.

There are some we shall miss as you gather home,
That we knew in the days gone by;
They are quietly sleeping the dreamless sleep,
Nor mark as the years swiftly fly.

And the children that played in the far off time
With their hearts filled with joy and glee,
They are children no longer, but others play
With their hearts just as light and free.

And the river flows on by the quiet town,
With its musical ebb and flow,
And the old mill still grinds by the North Mill Pond
Where you played in the long ago.

There are changes, tho' small, in the good old town,
Improvements, tho' they may be few;
So come one and all to the home of your youth,
A welcome is waiting for you.

We are waiting at home by the ingle-side,
For our loved ones to gather at home;
From the far distant West and the sunny South
And our dear New Englands they'l come.

O! then haste, lingering days, bring the joyous time
When the absent shall come once more,
To mothers and sisters and brothers and friends
Who will wait with wide open door.

The Woodhull Scandal.

The following letter from Mr. Theodore Tilton to the Brooklyn Eagle is, to say the least, a remarkable production. The Woodhull story has been more scouted as an unfounded falsehood than believed as a fact, but Mr. Tilton's letter plainly implies that there was some foundation for the scandal, somewhere, and that the truth of the whole matter would be terrible to somebody. Mr. Tilton would have done better to have let his pen lie idle than to have used it in writing such a mixture of denial, deprecation and semiconfession as the following:—

MY COMPLAINING FRIEND: Thanks for your good letter of bad advice. You say, how easy to give the lie to the wicked story, and thus end it forever.

But stop and consider. The story is a whole library of statements—a hundred or more—and it would be strange if some of them are not correct, though I doubt if they are. To give a general denial to such an encyclopedia of assertions, would be as vague and irrelevant as to take up the "Police Gazette," with its twenty-four pages of items, and say, "This is all a lie." So extensive a libel requires (if answered at all) a special denial for its several parts; and furthermore, it requires, in this particular case, not only a denial of things misstated, but a truthful explanation of other things that remain unstated and in mystery. In other words, the false story (if met at all) should be confronted and confounded by the true one.

Now, my friend, you urge me to speak, but when the truth is a sword, God's mercy sometimes commands it sheathed.

If you think I do not burn to defend my wife and little ones, you know not the fiery spirit within me. But my wife's heart is more of a fountain of charity, and quenches all resentments. She says: "Let there be no suffering, save to ourselves alone," and forbids a vindication to the injury of others. From the beginning, she has stood with her hands on my lips, saying, "Hush!" So when you prompt me to speak for her, you counteract her more Christian mandate of silence.

Moreover, after all, the chief victim of the public displeasure is myself alone; and so long as this is happily the case, I shall try, with patience, to keep my answer within my own breast, lest it shoot forth like a thunderbolt through other hearts. Yours truly,
THEODORE TILTON.

The Syracuse (N. Y.) Journal comments on the above letter, as follows:—

When Victoria Woodhull's story relative to Mrs. Tilton and Mr. Beecher first appeared, the statements contained in it were widely received as being incredible, although there were some persons who regarded them as substantially true. In point of fact, Mr. Beecher's reputation suffered very little in consequence of the attack made upon him by Mrs. Woodhull. The scandal which had been unleashed by that notorious Free Lover was regarded very generally as a falsehood having no foundation except the gossip which is indigenous to the circle of free thinkers in which Mrs. Woodhull moved. The excitement which was created by Mrs. Woodhull's story was dying out when Mr. Tilton's very strange letter to the Brooklyn Eagle made its appearance. But the contents of that letter will renew the interest which was taken in the scandal, and the public will wonder what there is in the background which prevents Mr. Tilton from taking up the libels in the Woodhull publication, and denying them seriatim; what horror there is which makes "the truth a sword" which "God's mercy commands to be sheathed;" what there is which "forbids a vindication to the injury of others;" what there is which causes Mrs. Tilton to stand with her hands upon her husband's lips, saying "Hush!" what there is which constrains Mr. Tilton to keep his answer within his own breast, "lest it shoot forth like a thunderbolt through other hearts." There is an envenomed arrow in this Tilton letter aimed straight at somebody; but who that somebody is, or whether that arrow is barbed with truth or falsehood, the public have no means of knowing at present. The suggestion, however, which almost instinctively arises in the mind after a perusal of the letter, is that Mr. Tilton would have acted more wisely if he had heeded his wife's injunction, "Hush!" and had not written anything pertaining to the social scandal which has beclouded his home, rather than give cause for the circulation of a hundred rumors worse perhaps than the truth.

At the Woman's Suffrage Convention in New York, Friday, the following incident occurred: Mrs. Elizabeth Cady Stanton was introduced, and as she approached the front of the stage, Mrs. A. F. Boyle arose in the audience, and spoke as follows: "Mrs. Stanton, allow me to ask you one question: Did you in the month of May, 1871, at No. 15 Thirty-Eighth street., New York city, or at any other time or place, tell that lady that Theodore Tilton had called on you in great mental agony and accused Henry Ward Beecher of having continuous illegal relations with his (Tilton's) wife, or of having been otherwise licentious to his (Tilton's) knowledge and to his sore distress? It is understood, of course, that I do not ask whether Mrs. Woodhull's published statement regarding the information she says you gave her is literally correct, but whether it is substantially so?"

Mrs. Stanton—"You must excuse me. I do not come here to answer such questions, but to discuss the matters pertaining to woman suffrage."

Mrs. Boyle—"Well, I don't say—"

Miss Anthony—"Will the lady please take her seat?" Mrs. Boyle—"I wish to know"—Mrs. Stanton—"Will you sit down?" The lady in compliance with the request sat down. The convention soon after broke up in confusion.

Rolling To The Front.

A dispatch from Washington says the Wilson Investigating Committee met on Monday, and Hon. E. H. Rollins, Treasurer of the Union Pacific Railroad Company, appeared as a witness, having with him two large trunks filled with books and papers.

A SAD CASE.—Willie Clark, the boy who was convicted at Springfield, of placing obstructions on the track of the Boston & Albany Railroad at Chester in November last, would have been sentenced to the State prison had not his death intervened, as already stated. It is now claimed that on his death bed he told his mother he was innocent of the crime, and was accused by deputy-sheriff Gamwell and told he could be let off easy if he confessed. Clark was rather a simple-minded youth, and his imbecility was the effect of a severe fever which he suffered from when a child. The reason given for his acknowledging the crime was that he could be frightened into saying anything, and Detective Crabtree and Sheriff Gamwell, who arrested him, placed him in a cell in the town hall where he was kept all night without clothing to keep him warm or a bed to lie on. The cold he caught, with the excitement, caused his death. It is claimed, also, that the stick of wood, only twenty inches long, fell from the train just in advance, and Clark is said to have been half a mile away at the time. Since his conviction another stick has been found in nearly the same position at the same place, which is known to have fallen from the engine.

BURNED TO DEATH.—Mrs. Louis James, a French woman residing in Fall River, was burned to death Sunday night. At twenty-five minutes before twelve, while Louis James, his wife and two children, one an infant in a cradle, were gathered around the stove the elder child upset a kerosene lamp which was standing on a small table near them. The lamp fell on the stove and broke into pieces; the oil took fire and quickly spread over the floor. The mother sprang to the cradle to save the child, when her own clothes took fire. Mr. James rescued the child, and then tried to save his wife, burning his arms terribly in the attempt. Before he could extinguish the flames Mrs. James was burned so badly that she lived but a few hours afterwards. She was twenty-four years of age and leaves four small children.

Political Gossip.

The contest in Massachusetts now lies between Dawes and Butler. Dawes was the architect of the present Governor of Massachusetts, Washburn. After a strong contest at Worcester, the Western Massachusetts crowd, backed by the respectability of the State, beat Butler. No sooner was the choice made than Washburn began to prepare the way for Dawes to be the next Senator. Butler was the lawyer of the Credit Mobilier Company, but he refused to take any stock or contingent in the enterprises of Messrs. Ames and Alley. Being the attorney, however, for the Credit Mobilier, he knew what persons were implicated in the transactions of his clients. He helped Boutwell to beware of any such complication, and therefore he and Boutwell appear at present with clean skirts. Butler abets Boutwell for the Senatorship, and expects Boutwell's assistance for himself for the Governorship, while both have the points to declare war upon Dawes for having taken Credit Mobilier stock.

Patterson, of New Hampshire, was beaten for the Senatorship by Edward Rollins; on account of this same Credit Mobilier. Patterson had said: "If you elect Ed. Rollins to the Senate, you merely elect a lobbyist for the Union Pacific Railroad." When this was reported to Rollins, he said: "Is it worse to have an agent for the railroad than to have been its hireling, as Patterson was, taking Credit Mobilier stock?" Both sides were shut up, and both Rollins and Patterson lost the Senate, while another man got it.

Mr. Dawes has had the misfortune of denying that he ever held any stock in the Credit Mobilier. He belongs to that weak class of public men who are easily frightened, and who deny in advance to the injury of their reputation, the explanation now is, that he wished to invest in the Cedar Rapids Railroad, and had $900 with which to make the investment. He went to Oakes Ames, and Ames said: "Your $900 can be made to turn out better if you will add $100 to it and buy in the Credit Mobilier." "Dawes wanted to know what the Credit Mobilier might be, and Ames replied that he would guarantee him in writing 10 per cent., provided he, Dawes, would share any greater dividends with him. Ames. Very much in the same manner Henry Wilson was taken in by Ames. Scofield, Kelley, Allison and Tim Wilson, besides Garfield and Bingham got into the same box. When Jerry Black was made attorney for Harry McComb, he told all that he knew in advance, and all hastened to unload, "because," said Black, "you men will all be ruined when this disclosure is made."

Having bravely knocked overboard Mr. Sumner, Massachusetts naturally falls into the hands of Butler. At this reading there seems to be little doubt but that Boutwell will come to the Senate, and Butler carry the gubernatorial nomination. This will make Butler an eminent candidate for the Presidency, in the list with Boutwell, Wilson, Morton, and Elihu Washburne.

Cooking supposed that he was in the line for the Presidency, but, like all men of little motives, he stopped to carry the New York Tribune—just as General Somebody stopped on the battle-field of Germantown to dislodge a few Grenadiers from some old house, and lost the main engagement. The New York Tribune has merely risen up and sat down upon Conkling, and Whitelaw Reid is a more notable man in this country to-day than Roscoe. Even the New York Times—that great mush-making apparatus—has gone back upon Roscoe, for he hears that the caboodle who control it mean to support Morgan or somebody else, against Conkling for the Senate.—Geo. Alf. Townsend.

A BIG THING ON ICE.—Billy Kelley, a compositor, who recently left Omaha for Sioux City, returned yesterday in company with John Henry, another compositor, the two boys having skated most of the distance from Sioux City down the Missouri river. They left that place Sunday morning at half-past six o'clock, and skated all day, laying up over night at a section house of the Sioux City & Pacific railroad. Next morning they resumed their trip at daylight, arriving at Missouri Valley junction about four o'clock, Monday afternoon, a distance, by the river, of about two hundred miles from the starting point.

During their travels Kelly froze both ears, his cheek, of wich he has plenty, and one heel; while Henry escaped with two frozen ears. This is probably one of the most remarkable and perilous skating feats ever undertaken in this country. The boys are to-day sticking type in the Bee office, and it will probably be some time before they undertake another similar spin on the ice.—Omaha Bee.

COUNSEL FOR AILING.—Nothing is cheaper to those who give it than good advice; nothing is more valuable to those who receive it in the right spirit and promptly act upon it. Well, then, we advise the feeble, the ailing, the despondent to become strong and hearty and cheerful. "Ah!" reply all these unfortunates in a breath, "it needs no wisecrack to tell us that such a change is desirable; but how is it to be effected?" Your patience, sick and sorrowful friends, will inform you. Learn then that there is such sanitary value in the famous vegetable restorative known as Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, that no phase of muscular or nervous debility, no species of biliary disorder, no variety of that torment called dyspepsia, no case of chills or fever, no form of hypochondria, that may not be cured by the persevering use of this harmless but irresistible invigorant, alterative and corrective.

CORNS.—Since pride and fashion have had control of mankind, and shoemakers were compelled to make boots and shoes to fit fancy instead of the feet, the suffering from Corns, Bunions, Ingrowing Nails, Sore Insteps, Blistered Heels, Callosities on the bottom of the foot, etc., cannot be described. But Briggs' Corn and Bunion Remedies will cure all such torments, and proper fitting boots will prevent their reproduction. Sold by all druggists. al2

PILES.—The unceasing torture from internal bleeding, external and itching piles is fast wearing away the thousands of those who are afflicted and their hope and courage have long since given place to despair. Let those who see this cheer up, for a mild and sure cure may be had by using BRIGGS' PILE REMEDIES.

A SURE CURE follows the use of BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL—the best known remedy for THROAT and LUNG COMPLAINTS. Only 50 cts. a bottle.

A SILENT DISEASE PUNISHES THE PATIENT ONLY; but a vociferous cough or a horrible cold punishes a whole household. There can be no peace, no rest, until it is cured, and when a single bottle of Dr. Wistar's Honey of Horehound and Tar will banish the nuisance, is it worth while to do it? CENTAUR.

At midnight on his wooded hills,
The Centaur lay dreaming of the hour,
When mankind cured of aching ills,
Should know his all-healing power.

Nor long he waited. The blind could see,—
Straightened were limbs by pain long bent,
Cripples ran, and the lame on beaded knee
Gave thanks for the Centaur Liniment.

The Centaur Liniment is the greatest pain-reliever the world has ever seen. Rheumatism, whether inflammatory, sciatic or nervous, is made to disappear. Swellings cease to pain, wounds are healed, burns are cured without a scar, and stings and bites are rendered harmless.

Mrs. R. Prowell, 492 Atlantic St., Brooklyn, N. Y., writes: "I have had the rheumatism for ten years. I have tried everything. The Centaur Liniment is the only thing that does me good."

Mr. Chas. Hill, 616 Pine St., Philadelphia, writes: "That two bottles of Centaur Liniment has cured a most severe sprain of his ankle."

J. H. Martin of 533 Seventh Avenue, N. Y., says: "The Centaur Liniment has cured me of a terrible case of inflammatory rheumatism and cannot be too highly recommended."

59 BROADWAY, N. Y., Aug. 21st, 1872.

"All horse owners should have the Centaur Liniment. We used it in our stables and find it the best thing ever adopted."

LOCAL AFFAIRS.

New Landing at the Shoals.

Mr. W. K. Pryor has completed the plan for and contracted with Leighton Brothers for the construction of a floating stage, ninety feet long, to be connected with the land by a wharf one hundred and thirty feet long and an intervening bridge sixty feet long, for the better landing of passengers and cargo at the Appledore House, Isles of Shoals. These constructions are all to be built at the old Union shipyard, of the strongest and best materials, and are to be completed by the first of May. Mr. Pryor (in company with Mr. Moses Plummer) planned and built the favorite little steamer Appledore, which vessel has proved perfectly adapted for the business for which she was designed, being swift, strong, roomy and a capital craft in a seaway; and the giving of the present contract to Mr. Pryor by the Leightons is a favorable commentary on the ability and faithfulness with which previous ones have been fulfilled.

The Sir Francis.

Surveyors went to Newburyport on Saturday to make a report on the steamer Sir Francis, ashore off Hampton Beach, but the heavy gale prevailing at the time prevented any attempt to board her. A despatch from Captain Moses B. Tower, stating that she was going to pieces, was received on Saturday.

A despatch to the Globe says the Sir Francis went to pieces in the northeast storm that raged so violently. For two miles the shore is strewn with the fragments, mainly of wood, which constituted the deck frame. Nothing now can be seen of the wreck, so long the object of interest. There was little left of the cargo except iron, coal, a steam-pump and similar articles.

Two young women were arrested on Saturday for being intoxicated, and were taken to the lockup. One of them was discharged in promising to leave the city, the other being retained in custody by the City Marshal, who thought her condition such that she should at once enter the bonds of matrimony. To this the young woman consented, but after all the necessaries—including a bridegroom—were procured, she refused to be married. The parties were arraigned before Judge Page, Monday, and held in $100 bonds each to appear on Saturday to answer to a charge of fornication. The young woman is said to be very respectably connected.

A gentleman in this city, whose "sweet tooth" is not in the least blunted by advancing years, received from his spouse on Christmas Day a lemon made of sugar, as a present, which said lemon he devoured with great gusto. Recently his better half sent him to a bureau drawer, on opening which he espied a beautiful cucumber, greener and much more natural than life. The memory of the sugar lemon was strong within him, his saccharine love overcame his sense of honor, honesty and marital faith, and he crammed just exactly one half the cucumber into his mouth, and bit. He is of the opinion that the manufacturer of candy cucumbers from scented soap is entirely indefensible and should be severely punished by law.

THE EXECUTIVE ORDER.—The President having heard that federal officeholders are also holding State and municipal offices which interfere with their duties to the government, has issued an order giving the following notice:

That from and after the fourth day of March, A. D., 1873, except as herein specified, persons holding any federal civil office, by appointment under the Constitution and laws of the United States, will be expected while holding such office not to accept or hold any office under any State or territorial government or under the charter or ordinance of any municipal corporation; and further, that the acceptance or continued holding of any such State, territorial or municipal office, whether elective or by appointment, by any person holding civil office as aforesaid under the government of the United States other than judicial offices under the Constitution of the United States, will be deemed a vacation of the federal office holden by such person, and will be taken to be and will be created as a resignation, by such federal officer, of his commission or appointment in the service of the United States. The offices of justice of the peace, notary public and of commissioners to take the acknowledgment of deeds of bail or to administer oaths, shall not be deemed within the purview of this order and are exempted from its operations, and may be held by federal officers. The appointment of deputy Marshal of the United States may be conferred upon sheriffs; and deputy postmasters, the emoluments of whose office does not exceed $600 per annum, are also excepted from the operations of this order and may accept and hold appointments under State, territorial or municipal authority, provided the same be found not to interfere with the discharge of their duties as postmasters.

MAN AND MONKEY.—The San Francisco Chronicle tells the following story which enthusiastic believers in the development theory may pervert into a justification of drunkenness on the ground that it is inherited.

Thomas Findley, importer of blooded fowls and proprietor of a saloon on Leidesdorff street, having constantly in mind the entertainment of his patrons, who are composed in the main of literary gentlemen, scientists, capitalists and the like, recently conceived and carried out the idea of augmenting the stock of curiosities in his saloon by the addition of two large intelligent monkeys. The animals arrived on the last steamer from the Orient, and in the course of a few hours were deposited at the saloon-door and formally introduced to the chief barkeeper, who greeted them with kindness and tendered them the freedom of the saloon, and soon had the pleasure of seeing the two monkeys—male and female swinging from rafter to rafter by their prehensile tails.

The customers watched the antics of the strangers with eager interest dubbed them Jem and Susie, and voted Jem a fellow of infinite jest, and the monkeys scampered to and fro the while and chattered merrily. Susie went to bed at a reasonable hour, and did not object to being locked in her cage, but Jem, the rascally fellow, would not tolerate the advances of any one, when near his cage, and was fain roosting over a door when the time for closing the saloon arrived. Next morning the barkeeper opened the door, glanced around, saw something flying through the air, and dodged his head just in time to escape a sound blow. He peeked into the window and saw Jem perched on a tall ale cask, with a pile of boxes around him, and looking like the enraged gorilla described by Du Chaillu, evidently waiting for the reappearance of the barkeeper's head.

Now the barkeeper, a man of inflexible will and a very Sampson in physical strength, is not a person who cares to risk his life unnecessarily, and therefore he reinforced his ranks and sought to over-awe Jem. The monkey was evidently determined not to yield without a desperate struggle, for he gathered all the available soda bottles and boxes and chunks of wood about his stronghold, and, upon the advance of the barkeeper and his command, hurled his missiles toward the enemy, with great rapidity and precision, and as long as his ammunition held out he could not be dislodged.

Finally Jem was brushed with a club and persuaded to keep quiet. The strong smell of liquor that permeated the air caused the barkeeper to look around with anxiety, and well he might. Jem had empted whiskey and brandy upon the floor, treated Susie to whiskey until she succumbed to its effects and was in a beastly state of intoxication, and had filled all the bottles with sawdust, the damage amounting to $40. Mr. Findley no longer takes any interest in quadrumanous animals of the class mammalia, but will cheerfully give information on the subject to person of an inquiring turn of mind or direct them to Robinson, "the tropical curiosity man" of Washington street, with whom Susie and Jem are residing.

AN ELOPEMENT PREVENTED.— A Virginia paper says: "A young man, whose name we could not learn, wooed and won the affections of a Miss Price, daughter of Mr. Chapman Price, a resident of Craig. The parents of the young lady bitterly opposed her marrying the youth in question on account of his dissipated habits. But opposition only added fuel to the flame, and confirmed the maiden in her determination to cling to her lover through thick and thin. Last week learning that Mr. Price would be from home, he procured a buggy and went to his residence to elope with the daughter to West Virginia, to be married. His affianced was ready and willing to go with him, but the mother set her foot firmly down, and vowed that he should not take the girl from the house, at the same time pointing to the gun and telling him that if he attempted to carry her off, she would shoot him. Treating these as the idle threats of a woman, the lovers continued their preparations for departure. All things being ready, they proceeded to the buggy, the young lady was handed in, the youth had taken his seat by her side and was in the act of driving off, when Mrs. Price cut short the whole proceeding by shooting the youth with the gun above mentioned. The physician who dressed his wound pronounces his recovery extremely doubtful, if not impossible."

IRON in the BLOOD.

DYSPEPSIA, DEBILITY, DROPSY, HUMORS,

PERUVIAN SYRUP

Makes the Weak Strong.

The Peruvian Syrup, a Protected Solution of the Protoxide of Iron, is so combined as to have the character of an aliment, as easily digested, and assimilated with the lowest and the simplest food. It increases the quantity of Nature's Own Vitalizing Agent, Iron in the blood, and cures "a thousand ills" simply by Toning up, Invigorating and Vitalizing the System. The enriched and vitalized blood permeates every part of the body, repairing damages and waste, searching out morbid secretions, and leaving nothing for disease to feed upon.

This is the secret of the wonderful success of this remedy in curing Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, Dropsy, Chronic Diarrhœa, Boils, Nervous Affections, Chills and Fevers, Humors, Loss of Constitutional Vigor, Diseases of the Kidneys and Bladder, Female Complaints, and all diseases originating in a bad state of the blood, or accompanied by debility or a low system. Being free from Alcohol, in any form, its energizing effects are not followed by corresponding reaction, but are permanent, imparting strength, vigor, and new life into all parts of the system, and building up an iron Constitution.

Thousands have been changed by the use of this remedy, from weak, sickly, suffering creatures to strong, healthy, and happy men and women; and invalids cannot reasonably hesitate to give it a trial.

See that each bottle has PERUVIAN SYRUP blown in the glass.

The Newburyport Ghost.

So far as has been heard from Newburyport is ahead of the rest of the world in ghostly revelations. While in less favored places these shadowy visitants cling to the traditional hour of midnight to make their earthly rovings, this ghost prances fearlessly about in mid-day, confining its visits to a schoolhouse, where about fifty little urchins are busied in overcoming the difficulties of the Primer, and the more abstruse complexities of Sargent's First Reader. And it plays mad pranks enough to set the whole fifty by the ears, and the noise it makes would be sufficient to turn any well-regulated school topsy-turvy with excitement. What whim induced it to choose this particular place for its ghostly orgies, no mortal can tell, not yet understanding spiritual ways, but no doubt it had a sufficient reason. If it would only condescend to impart it. The manifestation commenced about a year ago; the first that was heard was noises from the attic, a scrambling and tumbling and dragging as of pieces of wood. At first the teachers supposed it to be rats, and she set innumerable traps, but nothing was ever caught, and still the noise continued.

Of course the quiet of the school was sadly disturbed, but there was no alarm felt, as the teacher assured the scholars that it was only the rats, believing that it was, and was annoyed that nothing could be done to rid the place of them. The first suspicion she had that it was not these mischievous vermin was one day last summer, when one of the blinds flew violently open, and, on going to shut it another on the opposite side of the room opened as suddenly, while those already open shut simultaneously. For a few minutes the blinds had it all their own way, flying back and forth with almost lightning rapidity. There was not a breath of air stirring, so it could not have been the wind; all the children were in their seats, and it was utterly impossible that they could have played such mischievous pranks without being detected. She then stationed some of the children outside, but nothing was to be seen, and her suspicion that some boys outside were trying to annoy her was allayed, but the matter was as much a mystery as ever.

The build is an old-fashioned one, a story and a half in height, with a collar and an unfinished attic. A wide entry opens into the school-room, and from it lead the stairs, both up and down; a window opening into the school-room from the entry gives a full view of the doors, so that from their seats the scholars can see when any one opens the outer door and comes into the entry. The seats in the school-room are old-fashioned single benches, that were once painted green, but the paint has worn almost entirely off, and only one little spot now and then on a seat tells that it ever had any color. The benches and desks have been polished by the rubbing and scuffling of the hundreds of boys who have occupied them since the schoolhouse was built, and their wood-colored surfaces are marvels of shiny smoothness. Overhead is a round aperture leading to the attic, which serves as a ventilator. The teacher's desk formerly faced the pupils and stood exactly in front of the window opening into the entry, but since the demonstrations have become so marked Miss Perkins has moved the desk so that now she can command both the entry and the school-room.

A short time after the affair with the blinds a crash was heard in the entry, and on opening the door the brooms and dust brushes were found engaging in a sort of war dance, and, impelled by some unseen force, the dust pan came flying into the room, executing a series of back somersaults that would have driven a gymnast wild with envy, could he have witnessed it. The children were frightened, but she quieted them and then commenced her search for the disturbers of her peace. Upstairs and down-stairs she went, searching every corner, but there was no one to be found, and she returned to her desk more puzzled than ever, and a little startled too.

Until then nothing had been known outside of the place; the children had not mentioned it, because rats in an old building like that are nothing marvelous, and the teacher had said nothing, wisely concluding that the best thing to do was to await further developments and not create an excitement until there was something definite to become excited over. But by degrees the story leaked out, and was received by all who heard it with amused incredulity. The thought of spiritual manifestations was not entertained even by the teacher, who has always been very skeptical regarding all manifestations of this kind, and the idea of a ghost would have been laughed at as eminently absurd, except a very substantial ghost in the shape of boys who were trying to play tricks on her. She never doubted but this was the case, and set herself to work planning how she should catch the mischief makers.

One day, a little over two months ago, the children saw a face looking into the room through the window from the entry. They told Miss Perkins, and she looked quickly round, but there was no face there; she asked the children if it was any one whom they knew and they all said no, it was no boy of the town, and no one whom they had ever seen. In a moment it appeared again; all the children saw it, but it vanished before the teacher's head was turned. Turning now to face the window she saw it herself, a boy's face, gazing earnestly through the window into the room. She sprang quickly to the door and threw it open, and there the boy stood, a little fellow about 11 years old, with a pale face, and the saddest, sweetest mouth. Miss Perkins says, that ever she saw in her life, looking fearlessly up into her face out of a pair of blue eyes; he retreated into a corner, she followed him, and just as she was about to lay her hand on him he vanished. No door had opened, and yet he was gone.

Into the school room she went again and sat down frightened and perplexed; an exclamation from the children made her look up and there was the face looking down on her from the attic through the ventilator. The frightened children huddled around her, some fainted, others cried, and the rest clung pale and trembling to her dress. She comforted them as well as she could, assuming a calmness she was far from feeling, and succeeded in quieting them and restoring the room to order.

This appearance, of course, made a great excitement in the town, and the little school room was besieged with visitors until it became necessary to forbid persons an entrance. The children recovered from their fright and now talk of ghosts as rather a good joke. It has been seen once or twice since then, and heard much oftener, but the children are so used to the noises that they do not mind them in least and are seldom distracted from Primer and First Reader unless on some occasions the visitor becomes too noisily obstreperous, when it is necessary to humor him for a few moments by a cessation of lessons. The ventilator has been closed and the windows covered, so that his appearance, unless in their very midst, is quite impossible, and as yet he has not ventured inside the school room. His amusement at present seems to consist in turning the attic into a ghostly carpenter's shop, and he saws, hammers and planes, whistling in the meantime to himself, but quite loud enough to be heard down stairs.

When these demonstrations are at their height Miss Perkins will go up stairs, sometimes accompanied by one or two pupils, but they find nothing but the dusty old attic, as quiet and as cobwebby as old, musty attics usually are, nothing but the spiders that seem to have any life, and surely they cannot cause the terrible commotion that is always stilled as soon as any intruders appear. Nothing seems ever stirred from its place, and the most thorough search serves to reveal nothing.

What it is nobody can say, although plenty are found to sneer at the whole thing and to speak of it as the result of a distorted imagination. This theory perhaps, might hold good were it only the teacher who heard, and saw these things, but when forty or fifty children see and hear the same thing, the imagination can scarcely be the cause. The teacher, notwithstanding her former skepticism, is convinced that it is all produced by supernatural agency, and believes that the apparition she saw was a veritable ghost. Whether she is a so-called medium or not, certainly the appearances never come to her anywhere except in this school-room; in other places she is free from all demonstrations of the kind. Probably a spiritualist would claim that she was highly "mediumistic," as they term it; very highly indeed, for it is to but very few that actual presences are seen out of a trance. Miss Perkins is a delicate-looking girl, rather pale, with a striking face, not so pretty as peculiar, the most attractive feature of which is the eyes. They are dark brown, with a sort of abstracted, far-away look, as though she were seeing out from beyond her actual surroundings. She is evidently a very impressionable girl, with an excitable, nervous temperament. She speaks very quickly, showing her intense nervous force in her manner of speech.

She disclaims any knowledge of the manifestations and their causes, and is utterly powerless to control them. She can neither will them to come or go, so they are entirely out of her mental power. They no longer frighten her, but she takes them as a matter of course. Her coolness has its influence over the children, and they are now as fearless as she. The school continues with the number of pupils undiminished, and although some days their visitor is noisier and more troublesome than others, yet the sessions continue, and the pupils advance well in their studies.

Whether the mystery will ever be solved, and what its solution will be, just now it seems more of a mystery than ever, and Newburyport is still exercised over its day-light ghost. — Boston Post.

CLEAR YOUR THROAT!

Relieve Your Lungs.

Pulmocine Cordial

Is a speedy and reliable Preventive and Remedy. EVERY FAMILY should have a bottle at hand to check the sudden growth of all Pulmonary Diseases. For the Asthma, Coughs, Croups, Laryngitis, or inflammation of the larynx, Diphtheria, and all kindred THROAT DISEASES at all times prevalent, it is the choice of PREVENTION. Children attacked with Whooping Cough or Croup should be immediately cared for. These painful attacks come with scarcely a moment's warning, when a physician may be out of immediate reach. A dose of PULMOCINE CORDIAL gives speedy relief, and the little ones are spared hours of pain and agony. As "a stitch in time saves nine," so does the possession of this FAMILY MEDICINE prevent the spread of disease. Parents seeing their children gasping with pain, friends and relatives beholding each other in peril from suffocation by the choking pain in the throat, paralyzed with fear and not knowing the best course to pursue, are liable to apply the wrong remedial agents. There is no safety in delay, no time to waste in such cases. CONSUMPTION, that fearful scourge of the human race, lies at the door of all thus afflicted. BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL arrests it (unless in its advanced stage at which time there is no local cure) relieves the pressing, suffocating feeling at the lungs, and the patient's danger is past.

BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL

is no new discovery. Twenty-three years ago it was used by one of New England's most famous physicians as the best PULMONARY CURATIVE he could prescribe, after a dozen years spent in experimenting with it before he was satisfied that the Materia Medica could add nothing in its favor.

Buchman's Pulmocine Cordial

Is the ultima thule of Medical Discovery.

Among its many ingredients are WILD CHERRY BARK, SQUILL ROOT, LIQUORICE ROOT, BLOOD ROOT, &c. It is a BLOOD PURIFIER, gently stimulating. It increases expectoration and is diuretic. It is sudorific and alterative. It is a necessary family medicine. It is a Tonic, and a powerful aid to the digestive organs. It is a gentle sedative, and relieves nervousness. It is aromatic and agreeable to the taste.

For Coughs, Croup, Diphtheria, Asthma, &c.

USE BUCHMAN'S

PULMOCINE CORDIAL.

The Pulmocine Cordial is not a quack medicine, is not an experiment, is not composed of any ingredients "discovered" by "walking in pastures" in South America or anywhere else, nor by one who discovered a weed and thereby cured himself. Most of the ingredients are such as our best educated physicians daily use for the complaints specified, in some form or other. The recipe is that perfected by one of New England's most learned and famous physicians, who used it entirely in his daily practice until his death. It is offered to the profession and to the public, absolutely pure and unadulterated.

Jacksonville, Northwestern & Southeastern R. R.
HAVING THIRTY YEARS TO RUN.
Bearing interest at 7 per cent. in Gold Coin, "or or equal to the present standard."
Coupons payable in New York, London, or Frankfort on the Main, at the option of the holder. When desired, bonds will be registered by the Trustee—the Farmers' Loan and Trust Co. Interest payable January and July.
This road is now completed from Jacksonville to a junction with the CHICAGO & ALTON R. R. at Virden, a distance of over 30 miles. The road, so far as completed, is thoroughly equipped, ENTIRELY PAID FOR and in full operation, and it is upon the completed portion only, that bonds amounting to $600,000 are now offered at $5 and accrued interest in currency. Bonds upon the remaining portion of the road will be sold at a much higher price and will be offered only upon completed road. This road traverses the garden of the State, crosses all the most important roads, controls the enormous coal mines at Virden, and its bonds are most highly esteemed by those whose investigation has been most searching. We have personally examined every detail of this Company, and have gone repeatedly over the entire line. We are consequently enabled to recommend these bonds as an absolutely perfect security.

The Singer
SEWING MACHINE
STILL LEADS THE MARKET.
The Success o the Company is far beyond that o any other similar concern; the Daily Manufacture
— OF —
400 OF THE SINGERS
Failing to Supply the Constant Demand.
All other machines call the public attention to some new loop or stitch or tension or finish, some advantage in running or needles or feed or prices—and many of these are as we have said very good points, and the agents selling them use them to divert entirely the would-be purchaser from fairly considering the facts in the case; but the
SINGER
seems to unite the good qualities of all, and is never found wanting.
THE SINGER
IS THE OLDEST
SEWING MACHINE
IN THE MARKET,
All others being copied from its first model. does two-thirds the sewing done in this country and preserves its advantages over all others combined.
It is readily kept clean, and has THE BEST TENSION EVER INVENTED; it is lighter speeded and requires but little power to run; it works equally well upon the finest and heaviest goods; it does all the varieties of work known to the art.

AMERICAN & FOREIGN PATENTS.
R. H. EDDY,
SOLICITOR OF PATENTS,
For Inventions, Trade Marks or Designs,
No. 76 STATE ST., OPPOSITE KILBY ST., BOSTON,
After an extensive practice of upwards of thirty years, continues to secure patents in the United States; also in Great Britain, France and other foreign countries. Caveats, Specifications, Assignments, and all papers for Patents, executed on reasonable terms with dispatch. Researches made to determine the validity and utility of Patents of inventions, and legal and other advice rendered in all matters touching the same. Copies of the letters patent furnished, by remitting one dollar. Assignments recorded in Washington.
No Agency in the United States possesses superior facilities for prosecuting Patents or ascertaining the patentability of inventions.
All necessity of a journey to Washington to procure a Patent and the usual great delay there, are here saved to inventors.
TESTIMONIALS.
"I regard Mr. Eddy as one of the most capable and successful practitioners with whom I have had official intercourse. CHARLES MASON, Commissioner of Patents."
"I have no hesitation in assuring inventors that they cannot employ a man more competent and trustworthy and more capable of putting their applications in a form to secure for them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office. EDMUND BURKE, Late Commissioner of Patents."
"MR. R. H. EDDY has made for me over THIRTY applications for Patents, having been successful in almost every case. Such unmistakable proof of great talent and ability on his part leads me to recommend ALL inventors to apply to him to procure their Patents, as they may be sure of having the most faithful attention bestowed on their cases, and at very reasonable charges.
JOHN TAGGART."

$1000 REWARD.
BRIGGS' ALLEVANTOR is composed of Ammonia, Chloroform, Spirits of Camphor, Tincture of Lupuline, Oil of Juniper, and Alcohol. This compound is unequalled in the annals of medicine for the cure of Nervous or Sick Headache, Neuralgia, Trembling or Twitching of the Nerves, and all Nervous Diseases. It will counteract all poisons, banish pimples, cure scaly eruptions, itching, humors, &c.; it equalizes the circulation, invigorates the system, increases the action of the heart, without exciting the brain, cures Heartburn, Palpitation and Fluttering of the Heart, Dyspepsia, &c. Briggs' Allevantor absolutely possesses more curative properties than any other preparation. Physicians, chemists, and others are requested to examine and test the remedy, and $1000 will be paid if found different from representation.
COUCHS. Much has been said and written, and many remedies have been offered for the relief and cure of throat and lung diseases; but nothing has been so eminently successful, or obtained such a wide celebrity, as Briggs' Throat and Lung Healer.
CORNS! The excruciating pain produced by Corns, the unceasing twinging from Bunions, the piercing, distressing pain from Ingrowing Nails, cannot be described. Thousands suffer, not knowing there is a cure. Briggs' Corn and Bunion Remedy are no acid or potash compounds, but are reliable, soothing, and effectual, and just merit the success they have earned from an appreciative public. The Curative is a healing ointment; immediate relief is obtained by its application, and it will positively cure the worst cases of Festered Corns, Inflamed and Ulcerated Bunions, the severest instep, the largest and severest Blisters, the most extensive Callosities on the soles or heels of the feet, unequalled in the cure of Chilblains or Frosted Feet. The Allevantor for ordinary corns and preventing their formation is absolutely unexcelled by anything ever known.
PILES have been a terror to mankind for centuries, and almost every attempt to cure them has been baffled. By unceasing study and experimenting, Dr. Briggs has discovered an absolutely cure for internal, bleeding, external, and itching piles. Briggs' Pile Remedies are mild, safe and sure.
For sale by J. H. THACHER, WM. H. PRESTON, Portsmouth; JAMES O. TREFETHEN, Kittery; E. S. SAFFORD, Kittery Point; H. M. CURTIS, Newmarket, and dealers generally.

CORNS, Bunions, Hard Nails, and other diseases of the feet, Scrofulous and Cancerous Humors, Piles, etc., skillfully treated at the great central Chiropodical and Healing Institute, No. 785 Broadway, New York. DR. J. BRIGGS, President; DR. ALEXANDER WEBBER, Secretary. ap9

A valuable Indian compound, for restoring the health, and for the permanent cure of all diseases arising from impurities of the blood, such as Scrofula Scrofulous Humors, Cancers Cancerous Humor Erysipelas, Canker Salt Rheum, Pimples and Humors on the Face Ulcers, Coughs Catarrh, Bronchitis, Neuralgia, Pains in the Side, Rheumatism, Dyspepsia, Constipation Costiveness, Dizziness Piles, Headache Nervousness, Faintness at the Stomach Pains in the Back, Kidney Complaints Female Weakness, and General Debility.
This preparation is scientifically and chemically combined, and so strongly concentrated from roots, herbs and barks, that its good effects are realized immediately after commencing to take it. There is no disease of the human system for which the VEGETINE cannot be used with PERFECT SAFETY, as it does not contain any metallic compound. For eradicating the system of all impurities of the blood, it has no equal. It has never failed to effect a cure, giving tone and strength to the system debilitated by disease. Its wonderful effects upon these complaints are surprising to all. Many have been cured by the VEGETINE that have tried many other remedies. It can well be called

The Chronicle

MRS. SHERMAN, the poisoner, who has been sentenced to imprisonment for life, is a first class fiend. Within twelve years she has committed eight murders. Her first husband's name was Edward Struck. He had bad luck, became down-hearted and finally lost his reason; so his wife gave him ten cents' worth of arsenic in oatmeal gruel and he died within a few hours. The following July she made up her mind that her two little children, Mary Ann, six years old, and Edward two years younger, would be better off if they were out of the way, so after thinking the matter over for several days, she made them some of the same kind of gruel their father had eaten. They only survived a short time. The doctors said that the children died of gastric fever. They had not the least suspicion of the truth. In August of the same year, her son, about fourteen years of age, was taken ill, and as he did not improve, she gave him arsenic and he, too, died. Afterwards another of her children was taken ill, and she put the little one out of her agony with arsenic. In 1868 she married a Mr. Hurlburt, who soon after died from the effects of drinking cider with saleratus in it. Mrs. Sherman insists that she did not put any arsenic in the saleratus, though there might have been some in it. Soon she married Horatio N. Sherman. The next victim, however was the babe who was the result of this union. Arsenic did the infernal work. The next was another of her children, who was poisoned in the same way. And finally she completed the list by administering arsenic to her husband.

MANSFIELD.—The appearance of Jossie Mansfield in Paris is reported to have been followed at once by mischief. By perseverance she gained notoriety in the French capital, though repeatedly snubbed, it is said, by decent people upon whom she is alleged to have forced her company. Her loss of money by the failure of Bowles, Brothers & Co. has been authoritatively denied. The $37,000 sensation thereby being ended, others followed, among them one or two law suits. Refused admission at the Hotel du Louvre, Mrs. Mansfield went to a second class hotel and soon after appeared in gorgeous array at the Opera Comique, where she shared the gaze of the Parisian audience with Fra Diavolo. The press spoke of it. One M. Dupont gave her what he considered a good "personal." He was directly called upon by "M. Albert Saxe," in behalf of Mrs. Mansfield, whom, he was astonished to learn, he had greatly offended. The two men quarreled. A duel followed with swords, and Dupont was wounded in the arm. The police heard of it, both were arrested and sentenced to three days imprisonment each.

RACING FOR FREEDOM. — Another prisoner escaped from Sing Sing, Tuesday. He struck for the Hudson river and the guard followed, first emptying his gun but not hitting the fugitive. The guard was a better runner than the prisoner and gained rapidly, but the latter took off his shoes and made a slight gain for a time, but was finally secured. The affair occurred in broad day-light and prisoners and keepers gathered on the walls to watch the race. Whenever the runaway seemed to gain the prisoners cheered, and when the guard made a point the keepers exultingly hurrahed. There was some danger of a row between the rival parties, but the prisoners finally decided that, if they broke up the prison, they would have to support themselves, so they did not punish the nominal rulers of the place.

BOUND TO GO.—A singular character died recently at Hinesburgh, Vt., eighty-four years old. About twenty years ago he felt the pangs of approaching dissolution and had his grave dug. However he did not dissolve. Again about seven years ago he had his coffin built, and selected his bearers, but they were not used. After this long delay, at length, last week, he died, and thus escaped further disappointment.

Hon. Oakes Ames is to be cross-examined and is fortified with books and papers.

WEDNESDAY, JANUARY 22, 1873.

Washington Correspondence.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan. 18.

The great Inauguration Ball, with tickets admitting at $20 each, admitting a gentleman and two ladies, with $5 more for each additional lady, is to be held in a temporary building to be erected in Judiciary Square. This building is to be 325 feet long and 125 feet wide, with a ball room 300 by 100 feet, and a supper room 50 feet wide and 100 feet long, with private rooms for such as have the wish and the means to gratify it. Tickets are limited to 1500. The last ball of this kind was held in the north wing of the Treasury, then uncompleted, and was the occasion of much confusion by the exchanging of hats, coats and fixings generally. Horace Greeley, who attended, was one of the worst victimized in the exchanges, and expressed his opinion of the management in emphatic Saxon terms.

The Credit Mobilier still keeps its hold upon public interest. Dawes makes a statement which exonerates him, though it would seem the 33 per cent dividend he received within a month did not disturb him so much as the knowing that Deputy Green was after the corporation in the Pennsylvania courts. Garfield shows that he has no taint about him in the transaction, and that so far as he was connected with it, it was the work of others. His testimony shows that he has mixed up George Francis Train and his Credit Foncier of America, which was to buy the town sites and valuable lands of the Union Pacific Railroad, with the Credit Mobilier, which was building the road and guaranteeing contracts. Brooks "put his foot in it" when he so stoutly asserted his innocence and purity, and denounced McCrook as a liar and thief. It turns out that his son-in-law not only has the fifty shares which Brooks exhibited, but a hundred more which Brooks furnished him the opportunity to buy and the money to pay for; and he testifies that Brooks told him how and where he could get the last fifty shares. Brooks' mortification over the exposure is said to be affecting his health and spirits.

Still greater developments were promised, but the secretary testifies that a part of the company's books are not to be found. Enough has been given to show the frailty of great men, and to give force to that part of the Common Prayer, not to be led into temptation, on the part of small men. The way to avoid temptation is to have no more of these great subsidized schemes, where the extravagance of government gives sudden temptations to be scattered broadcast in the shape of stocks of some kind, or "retainers" for services, if needed, but for silence, at all events. The testimony of Ames shows he invested $500 of Bingham's $2,500 in the Construction Company of the Sioux City & Cedar Rapids Railroad,—so it means there were other similar rings, in the other subsidized railroads. If the whole history of these roads, subsidized by the government could be written up, and the watering process in other roads, it would be more interesting than any novel, and exciting enough to move the people to revolution if there was no other way of remedy.

The investigation into the Kansas bribery case, by which Caldwell bought the Legislature at the cost of about $75,000, is shocking to the sensibilities of honest men. The probability is that Caldwell did not pay the money himself to the parties bought; but who with a grain of sense believes members of the Legislature were getting a thousand dollars apiece to vote for Caldwell, from disinterested friends of his furnishing the money from their own pockets? He will probably escape on this dodge, and the testimony of Durant that he contributed $10,000 to Senator Harlan's election six years ago, and the testimony of Bushnell that he contributed $5,000 to help Thayer of Nebraska, will be taken to vindicate it. The Senate needs purging, or the corruption festering there will breed contempt. In addition to those who have already bought their way into the Senate, several still more gross cases are on the way to seats in that body on the 4th of March next. Whoever buys a position will sell its privileges.

The debate on the Louisiana muddle, in the House, was such as to draw attention to the inevitable dangers which would follow in case the result of the Presidential election was dependent upon that State, with its two sets of electors. An amendment to the Constitution which will dispense with the cumbrous machinery of the Electoral College, is demanded. Let the people vote directly as they choose, and when there is no choice by a majority of the votes, then let the Representatives of the people make a selection from the two or three at the head of the list.

The falling off of two millions in the imports of general merchandise at New York last week, indicates either diminished ability on the part of the people to consume, or that the large exports now going forward are to meet railroad advances heretofore made. In either event it don't look healthy for the next month's foot statement.

Senator Buckingham has introduced into the Senate a measure to secure a flexible currency, which from the frames that allows National Banks to the convertible and reconvertible one-a-day-interest bonds as their reserve, may stand some chance for a favorable consideration; it provides that a person having bank notes shall have them redeemed at will either in coin, legal tenders or these bonds; legal tenders are to be redeemed with these bonds or coin by the U. S. Treasury, when in quantities of a thousand dollars; and these bonds when presented to the Treasury are to be paid in legal tenders. It prohibits the payment of interest by banks on deposits. The argument against it which would be most potent, is, that it makes the Treasury an interest paying depository for the people; but it would give to the country a flexible currency, self-expanding and self-contracting to the requirements of business, and would make an end of the exorbitante demands for interest which now seem periodically unavoidable.

Representative Hibbard introduced in the House a resolution, which was modified, to repeal so much of the legislation of 1871 as allowed the Union Pacific Railroad to collect half its bills for transportation, while its interest account was unpaid.

The New England sociables are still kept up here, where her wandering sons meet to dance, get acquainted and enjoy themselves.

The Woman Suffrage Convention opened Thursday with a full attendance, Miss Anthony and Mrs. Stanton at the head and a large number of noted ladies supporting them. The day when women will be voting is not far distant. They have the field of argument unanswered as to the abstract right, with the constitutional amendment favoring them, and it only remains for the public to become familiarized with the idea for it to be put in operation. The ablest lawyers in the country and many of the ablest men support their view of the Constitution, and I venture to predict that when the ultimate decision of the Courts comes, it will be in their favor. X. B.

Readables.

The ring Democrats of West Virginia are making fierce war upon Gov. Jacob, the ex-rebels being especially active.

Last Tuesday night a child was born in the sleeping car of the Montreal express train on the Hudson river road. The mother insisted that the conductor of the car must name it and he did so. The father of the child was not present at its advent. He was drunk on the floor of the baggage car.

The Supreme Court of Maine has decided that the legislature cannot authorize towns to extend aid to manufacturing enterprises.

The dreadful snow hurricane which has just swept over Minnesota and other portions of the West is something quite unparalleled in those regions. How many people perished is not positively known, but the estimates range from 250 to 738.

At Little Rock, Arkansas, Enoch Jackson (colored), while asleep on Saturday night, was knocked on the head and killed by his wife and another woman, who afterwards threw the body into the fire.

Mr. Joe Jefferson can easily read fine print with his lately-affected eye, and does not suffer pain under any light.

It is rumored that the inspectors of the Massachusetts State Prison are unanimously of the opinion that it should be removed from Charlestown; and matters have gone so far that the Eastern Railroad is even looking to the site for car, freight and engine houses. If removed, it should go to Cape Ann, and the working of granite become its chief industry. There is no other location in the State so good.—Merrimac Journal.

Mr. J. T. Furber succeeds Mr. Wm. Merritt as superintendent of the Boston & Maine railroad. Mr. Furber acted in that capacity while Mr. Merritt was in Europe, and had previously been general freight agent.

General Wheaton's command had a terrible fight with the Modoc Indians on Friday, and after fighting all day in a fog so dense that the foe could not be seen, he was forced to retreat back to camp with a loss of forty killed and wounded.

Clarence Lockwood was murdered in New York on Monday by Marshal MacGruder. They both courted the same young lady.

A pious youth of Marshall, Mo., not long ago, encountered a theological problem and wrestled with it for forty days and nights, abstaining from all food. He solved the problem of his future, but it cost him his present life.

The indictment against Susan B. Anthony charges that she "was then a person of the female sex, contrary to the form of the statute of the United States of America in such case made and provided, and against the peace of the United States and their dignity." People generally are probably not aware that there is any statute against being a woman.

A Scranton man who went home and found his house locked up, after infinite trouble managed to gain entrance through a back window, and then discovered on the parlor table a note from his wife, reading: "I have gone out; you will find the door-key on one side of the door-step."

The death sentence of Foster, the New York car-hook murderer, has been confirmed by the Court of Appeals. He is to be hanged.

Mrs. Harrison Gray Otis died in Boston on the 21st.

Hon. E. H. Rollins testified before the investigating committee at Washington on the 21st, that he was never connected with the Credit Mobilier.

State News.

Amos Bodwell, while logging in Windham, had one of his arms badly lacerated and broken by a chain hook striking into and splitting it half its length.

It is a singular fact that the watch carried by Hon. Wm. C. Patten was found to have stopped within a minute or two of the time of his death.

The manufacturing establishments of South Newmarket employ 182 men; annual value of manufactured productions, $309,300.

The town authorities of Peterborough have decided to exclude all scholars from the public schools throughout the town, who have not been vaccinated.

Salem has $246,500 invested in manufacturing. Nine hundred and eighty wagons and sleighs are annually made in Kingston, valued at $76,750.

A fire broke out in the hot room of the Cocheco Print Works, at Dover, Friday night, at half-past 8 o'clock, but in consequence of the excellent fire extinguishing apparatus attached to the works, in addition to the city fire department, the damage was trifling, arising more from water than fire. The loss is estimated at $1000.

The farmers of Durham have made arrangements to send most of their milk to the Boston market. Already 50 gallons a day are forwarded.

Last week a Dover man wagered with a Rochester man that he could drive his horse from that town to Dover, harnessed to a sleigh, in the short space of forty minutes—a distance of over ten miles. The bet was $50 a side, and on Sunday—a day which should be devoted to better business—he drove the animal over that distance, in 37 1-2 minutes, winning the bet but nearly killing the horse.

The population of Exeter is 3,500, and during 1872 the number of deaths was 56, two of the deceased being over 90 years old.

James S. Brown of Rochester is the democratic candidate for Senator in the fifth district.

Reuben Stewart of Keene has been nominated for Senator by the democrats of the ninth district.

Ora M. Huntoon, of Unity, has been nominated for Councillor by the democrats of the 4th district.

Hon. Edmund L. Cushing, of Charlestown, has been renominated for Senator by the democrats of the tenth district.

SENATOR PATTERSON of New Hampshire testifies that he agreed to take twenty shares of that creamy stock with the French name, but that, not having the spare cash about him, he was unable to stick to his bargain. He appears to have forgotten to mention about those New York bankers who, as Ames swears, carried those shares for him (Patterson), receiving the dividends. It will be remembered that the dividends were more than sufficient, as heretofore shown, to supply Mr. Patterson's unhappy deficiency in funds. Why was he not cross-examined as to his intercourse with those bankers, having failed himself to make voluntary mention of that very important matter?—Cincinnati Chronicle.

All About Shaw.

An association of Republicans in Mobile, Ala, has purchased the Tribune of that city, and installed Hon. James Shaw, late of the Republican, as editor. Whereupon the Register fraternally welcomes them to the field of journalism as "the birds of passage and of prey who have cost this people so deeply in pecuniary loss, annoyance and mortification," "the brood of blood-suckers who, since they lighted upon us, have added two hundred millions debt to a war-impoverished South," and who now "ask of the community its aid to enable them to put lightwood faggots and lucifer matches under the fabric of their private and public welfare." Mr. Shaw is a Portsmouth boy.

Oliver Optic's Magazine for February comes full freighted with attractive matter for young readers. Its contents comprise: The Yacht Club; The Complaint of the Cabin-Boy; Poets' Homes; Who Discovered America; Lottie Eames, or, Do your Best, and Leave the Rest; The Wolf-Tribute; Pandora; Proverb-Poem IX., ("The memory of a good 'dead lives'"); The Turning of the Tide; Ashes of Roses; Original Dialogue (Salt for Libel); The Orator (Nobody There); Courage; Pigeon-hole Paper; Head-Work; Our Letter-Bag; Editorial Chit Chat; four full-page illustrations,—and one of the best numbers ever issued of this favorite home magazine. COUNSEL FOR AILING.—Nothing is cheaper to those who give it than good advice; nothing is more valuable to those who receive it in the right spirit and promptly act upon it. Well, then, we advise the feeble, the ailing, the despondent to become strong and hearty and cheerful. "Ah!" reply all these unfortunates in a breath, "it needs no wiseacre to teach us that such a change is desirable; but how is it to be effected?" Your patience, sick and sorrowful friends, will inform you. Learn then that there is such sanitary value in the famous vegetable restorative known as Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, that no phase of muscular or nervous debility, no species of bilious disorder, no variety of that torment called dyspepsia, no case of chills or fever, no form of hypochondria, that may not be cured by the persevering use of this harmless but irresistible invigorant, alterative and corrective.

CORNS.—Since pride and fashion have had control of mankind, and shoemakers were compelled to make boots and shoes to fit fancy instead of the feet, the suffering from Corns, Bunions, Ingrowing Nails, Sore Insteps, Blistered Heels, Callosities on the bottom of the feet, &c., cannot be described. But Briggs' Corn and Bunion Remedies will cure all such torments, and proper fitting boots will prevent their reproduction. Sold by all druggists. al2

PILES.—The unceasing torture from internal bleeding, external and itching piles is fast wearing away the thousands of those who are afflicted and their hope and courage have long since given place to despair. Let those who see this cheer up, for a mild and sure cure may be had by using BRIGGS' PILE REMEDIES.

A SURE CURE follows the use of BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL—the best known remedy for THROAT and LUNG COMPLAINTS. Only 50 cts. a bottle.

A SILENT DISEASE PUNISHES THE PATIENT ONLY; but a vociferous cough or a horrible cold punishes a whole household. There can be no peace, no rest, until it is cured, and when a single bottle of Hale's Honey of Horehound and Tar will banish the nuisance, is it worth while to do it? Crittenton's, 7 6th Avenue. Sold by all Druggists.

Pike's Toothache Drops cure in 1 minute.

FRAGRANT SOZODONT hardens and invigorates the gums, purifies and perfumes the breath, cleanses, hurifies and preserves the teeth from youth to old age. Sold by all Druggists.

INSTANTANEOUS is the operation of BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL in all cases of SORE THROAT, HOARSENESS, CROUP, and LUNG AFFECTIONS. It is beneficial in all cases. Sold for 50 cents per bottle.

SPLENDID PIANO FOR SALE.

Just received from the warerooms of Hallett, Davis & Co., Boston, an elegant rosewood, seven octave PIANO, with carved legs, etc. Having personally seen this, I am responsible as a professional Musician and Teacher of the Piano, in recommending the same as in every way a first class instrument. Any one the least inclined to buy can at any time see the article at my Music Room, where I can sell Pianos of superior touch, tone, and of the highest finish, for prices as low as can be found in this vicinity, and at much less than real retail Boston figures for the same.

LOCAL AFFAIRS.

Amusements.

Wallace Sisters are coming on the 29th and 30th.

Delehanty & Hengler's combination will appear at the Temple, Feb. 8th.

The friends of Mr. John Smith, the faithful bill-poster are to give him a benefit on the evening of the 28th.

Trafton's masquerade comes off on the 30th.

The course of assemblies at Congress Hall will close on the 29th with a masquerade.

Carncross & Dixie's and Skiff & Gaylord's minstrels are coming in February.

Rev. James DeNormandie will deliver his lecture on "The Sea," next month, for the benefit of the G. A. R. fund.

Our Home Talent.

The present winter has proved to us that we have in our midst an amount of material and cultivated talent of which we may well be proud; few places of like size can show so good a number of able lecturers, elocutionists, and amateur actors and musicians. The lecture to be delivered by Dr. Stevens, at the earnest request of many of our best citizens, cannot fail to add one of the brightest links to the lengthening chain of our Home Talent.

Dr. Stevens, at the cost of much time and trouble, has informed himself fully of the subject on which he speaks, and will be able to present to us a larger, fuller idea of our elevated humanity, than has been before offered to our people. Friends of Progress, let us give the Doctor so full a house, that he may feel that the hearts of his townsmen are with him in his efforts to give us a higher and broader view of humanity; and as our State wheels into line to join the onward march of civilization, let all good men and women enroll themselves with the "Helpers of the Helpless," who "speak for those who cannot speak for themselves." * * *

More Enterprise.

Sweetser & Clark have entered a new field of enterprise, having secured the iron foundry on Mechanic street at the South end, formerly occupied by Mr. Ross. They propose carrying on the general foundry business and are prepared for all kinds of ship, pipe and job work. Heretofore customers have been obliged to have work done out of town, causing great inconvenience. Mr. Charles E. Young, the experienced foreman of the establishment, is to remain in charge of the foundry. The energetic young men who have just opened a new field of operations are among our most successful merchants, and as manufacturers we hope they will achieve still greater success and that they will build up an extensive trade in the articles for which they are agents. Our citizens should encourage all such enterprises, which sustain and strengthen the business interests of the city and result in great and lasting good to the community. Read the advertisement of the Clark Iron Foundry, elsewhere.

The Murder Trial.

Franklin B. Evans, the Northwood murderer, was indicted by the grand jury at Exeter, on Tuesday, for the murder of Georgianna Lovering at Northwood. His trial is assigned for Feb. 3d. Among the jurors drawn for this trial are Messrs. J. H. Thacher, E. B. Goodall, N. Dana Whipple, Benjamin Bailey, James W. Nutter, Richard Randall, M. J. Vaughan, John S. Howell, J. Horace Jenness, Alfred W. Hayes, Edward D. Coffin, Benjamin Cheever, Joseph C. Newton, Joseph D. Pillow, Nathaniel Hanscom, Haven L. Scott and Wm. R. Preston of this city.

Small Pox.

Four cases of this dreaded disease were discovered by the Health Officers on Tuesday. A young man brought the disease several weeks ago from Gloucester, Mass., and remained on Wall street, leading off Russell. He had it and it was thought to be chicken pox. It was communicated to three children of Mr. John L. Rice, who are now in different stages of convalescence. Neighbors have been allowed to call at the house, among them Mrs. Daniel Mason, who is now very ill with small pox with but little prospect of recovery; a case of varioloid is also one result of this strange neglect. The Board of Health acted promptly on learning of the presence of the disease and were busily engaged on Tuesday in housing all who are known to have been exposed.

Y. P. U.

At the regular meeting of the officers and directors of the Young People's Union, held Monday evening, votes of thanks were passed to all those friends who have assisted in the recent entertainments given for the benefit of the Union. To the members of the M. L. C. to Mr. Phillips; to the lady by whose friendly offices his most interesting lecture was secured; and to all the ladies and gentlemen who gave their assistance to Mr. Bartlett at the late exhibition at the Temple.

The Rooms are now in a flourishing condition, and doing a good work, as we think no one will doubt who will pay them a visit any of these winter evenings. But those who have their interest at heart are not yet satisfied with what they have attained, but are hoping to make them still more useful and attractive in the future.

Masonic.

At the annual meeting of De Witt Clinton Commandery of Knights Templar, held at their Asylum on Monday evening, the following officers were elected for the ensuing year:

Sir A. R. Hatch,	E. Com.
Sir J. R. Holbrook,	Gen.
Sir W. Freeman,	Capt. Gen.
Sir C. G. Pickering,	Prelate.
Sir W. N. Isley,	Treas.
Sir Calvin Page,	Sec.
Sir P. Hichborn,	S. W.
Sir C. W. Gardner,	J. W.
Sir D. G. Raitt,	Standard Bearer.
Sir W. P. Walker,	Sword Bearer.
Sir J. H. Cheever,	Warder.
Sir B. F. Webster, Sir A. W. Peirce, Sir H. C. Walker, Sir A. R. Hatch,	Capts. of Guard.
Sir J. R. Holbrook, Sir W. Freeman,	Pruden. Com.

Laconics.

The smelt fishers at Great Bay were indignant on Monday at the appearance of men with seines, who proceeded to place them, notwithstanding the remonstrances and threats of the fishermen. Seining is forbidden by law and those who violate it will be prosecuted.

We dislike to use force, you know, and so suffer with exchange-wrestlers until even-tide. Then we have satisfaction abundant. Knowing that every one of them is afraid of darkness, we turn off the gas, and such a clattering of boot-heels down over the stairs —you never heard.

The annual meeting of the Eastern Railroad company will take place at the Meionoon, Boston, on Monday, Feb. 3d, at 11 o'clock, A. M.

Capt. Faunce recommends, and the Secretary of the Treasury approves, the establishment of a life saving station on Gerrish's Island, Kittery, and the necessary apparatus will undoubtedly be supplied at once. A boat's crew of six surfmen will be employed, the regulations requiring that all persons employed must be of good moral character, and providing minutely for every detail.

A paper is being circulated to receive subscriptions for the purpose of aiding the members of the Drum Corps to procure suitable uniforms, that they may make a creditable appearance on the coming 4th of July. As the expense will be heavier than some of its members can well bear, it would seem that their request for aid is reasonable and should be successful.

The abuse of the franking privilege has been a theme on which the democrats have twanged their harps continuously. They don't believe it is right, you know! We noticed, however, at the Post Office on Monday, several mail bags weighing over 600 pounds, filled with public documents franked by Hon. Ellery Hibbard, democratic Congressman, from this district. And Ellery now asks a re-election at the hands of his virtuous, incorruptible constituents!

Conductor Dockham did a good thing, Saturday morning, in putting off the Portsmouth train a drunken fellow, who was very profane and abusive.—Lynn Reporter.

We regret to announce the decease of Chief Engineer Thomas A. Shock, late of the Navy, at Charlestown, Mass., on Monday. Mr. Shock married the youngest daughter of James M. Carr, Esq., of this city, a year ago. For several months he has been suffering from aneurism of the artery leading to the heart, and had undergone very severe surgical operations which failed to save his life. The heartfelt sympathies of the community are with Mrs. Shock in her bereavement.

Mr. John Travers, a brakeman on a freight train, was instantly killed upon the Concord Railroad on the 21st, while the train was passing under a bridge. He leaves a widow, who resides at Bow. He had been at work on the road about three weeks.

Harper's magazine for February is for sale by Adams, Foster and Lowd.

IN MEMORIAM.—At the recent editorial reunion, Frank W. Miller, Esq., presented the following resolution, which was passed:—

Resolved, That by the decease of two of our honorary members during the past year—HON. HORACE GREELEY of New York, and GEN. THOMAS J. WHITTEM of Portsmouth—this association has sustained the loss of two worthy and esteemed brothers—one the most eminent and esteemed journalist in the land, and the other, though less prominent, not less industrious and faithful to his best ideas of right and progress.

County Convention.

At Exeter, Tuesday, the republican convention re-nominated George W. Weston of Windham for Register of Deeds, and Winthrop N. Dow of Epping for Treasurer.

On balloting for County Commissioner, Woodbury M. Durgin was nominated, receiving 57 votes. Dr. Albert H. Varney of South Newmarket had 28, and Nathaniel H. Brown of Derry had 19. Wm. R. Martin, Esq., of Portsmouth, was President of the convention.

We are threatened with a fresh outbreak of the bones of Apostles. According to a Roman authority, the bodies of the Apostles James and Philip were discovered last week in a church mausoleum at Rome. The enterprising dealer who secures the monopoly of the American supply will have a soft thing.

The price of tickets to Washington and return from New York to attend the inauguration ceremonies is fixed at $10. Parties of fifty or more get 25 per cent. discount from those rates.

DEATHS.

In Quincy, Mass., Jan. 12, Capt. ROGER DEARING, formerly of Kittery.

In Exeter, Jan. 10, Mr. CHARLES A. ROWE, aged 26 yrs., 6 mos.—Jan. 12, SUMMIT B. WARREN, aged 84 years.—Jan. 16, CHARLES N. CURRIER, aged 7 yrs., 4 mos.

In South Newmarket, Jan. 12, CADDIE A. R. SCRUTON, aged 23 years, 5 months.

In Stratham, Jan. 9, MARY ANN MERRILL, aged 80 years, 5 months.

In this city, Jan. 20, CLARA HARVEY, aged 64 years, wife of Mr. John L. Harvey.

VACCINATION.

IRON in the BLOOD.

DYSPEPSIA, DEBILITY, DROPSY, RUMORS,

PERUVIAN SYRUP

Makes the Weak Strong.

The Peruvian Syrup, a Protected Solution of the Protoxide of Iron, is so combined as to have the character of an ailment, so easily digested, and assimilated with the blood as the simplest food. It increases the quantity of Nature's Own Vitalizing Agent, Iron in the blood, and cures "a thousand ills," simply by Toning up, Invigorating and Vitalizing the System. The enriched and vitalized blood permeates every part of the body, repairing damages and waste, searching out morbid secretions, and leaving nothing for disease to feed upon.

This is the secret of the wonderful success of this remedy in curing Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, Dropsy, Chronic Diarrhœa, Boils, Nervous Affections, Chills and Fevers, Humors, Loss of Constitutional Vigor, Diseases of the Kidneys and Bladder, Female Complaints, and all diseases originating in a bad state of the blood, or accompanied by debility or a low system. Being free from Alcohol, in any form, its energizing effects are not followed by corresponding reaction, but are permanent, infusing strength, vigor, and new life into all parts of the system, and building up an Iron Constitution.

Thousands have been changed by the use of this remedy, from weak, sickly, suffering creatures to strong, healthy, and happy men and women; and invalids cannot reasonably hesitate to give it a trial.

See that each bottle has PERUVIAN SYRUP blown in the glass.

The Sir Francis.

A writer in the Newburyport Herald has the following concerning the steamer and her voyage:

The passage of the Sir Francis across the ocean had been extremely rough and perilous, causing her crew to put back to Queenstown, where her crew all left and a new one obtained, of which the captain and officers had no previous knowledge. The ship is very straight with hardly any sheer, loaded very deep with iron and heavy machinery, the bow and stern, from their lowness in the water, offering very little impediment to the sea making all over her from stem to stern, in the heavy gales she encountered. Under these circumstances, after battling the elements, the storms and seas of a winter passage for twenty-five days the ship came upon her coast.

The seas had repeatedly swept her decks, washing and destroying three of her boats and deck house over the wheel aft, breaking her steering wheel to atoms, destroying and breaking her compasses and every movable thing upon her decks. A few days before going ashore, the chief officer was thrown down during a violent storm, breaking his leg and thus depriving Captain Whiting of his best officer. Another great misfortune, and one that was fear contributed in a great degree to the stranding of the ship, was the main compass fitted aloft on a spar stand, arranged with magnets to neutralize the magnetic attraction of an iron ship, the top or cover of it leaked, and allowed the water to come down on the glass plate bottom underneath so that the card could not be read from the deck below.

Under all these great disadvantages the Sir Francis made this rough, tempestuous passage. Captain Whiting made the land through the thick mist and fog, stopped his steamer and sounded, getting soundings at interval and going round in a circle, waiting for the fog to lift so that he could distinguish the land and his position. The fog partially lifted so as to show the land on Plum Island, or southerly side of the bay. Captain Whiting took it for southerly side of Boston bay—he could call it another land—and, anxious to get into shelter, it being the afternoon of a winter day, and night coming on, he turned his ship slowly ahead, keeping his lead constantly going until he struck the shoal known as "Breaking Rocks," two miles from shore, and not half down on his charts at all.

This is written to put the facts connected with the stranding of the steamer as correctly as possible before the public. Captain Whiting feels the loss of the ship and his position as master, in relation to it, keenly.

A stranger in a strange land, he should have, if he deserves it, and the writer thinks he does, the sympathy of the public in his misfortune. An iron ship full of local attraction from the material of her construction, loaded with over a thousand tons of iron and a large quantity of mill machinery full of magnetism, if perfect in all her appointments, is liable to error in her compasses, and you cannot always tell the course your ship is making from the pointing of them.

There can be but little doubt that it was the primary cause of the accident, and this coupled with the stranding circumstances, as described above, thick weather and without observations, the rapid currents, etc., setting into the approaches and bays of our coast, have all combined to place the ship where it is.

Snow Storms in the Lake Superior country are worth mentioning. Nine feet of snow has already fallen, and has packed down to four feet on the level. The Green Bay Advocate says that at Negaunee, where the railway crosses the street, the snow was shoveled into cars and drawn off by locomotives. Pedestrians walked above the sidewalks even with the upper sashes of windows, and in entering a store a customer would face the door and slide in. There had been a snow-fall daily for four weeks except on one day.

CLEAR YOUR THROAT!

Relieve Your Lungs.

For the terrible diseases engendered by the lung-trying climate of New England,

Pulmocine Cordial

Is a speedy and reliable Preventive and Remedy. EVERY FAMILY should have a bottle at hand to check the sudden growth of all Pulmonary Diseases. For the Asthma, Coughs, Croups, Laryngitis, or inflammation of the larynx, Diphtheria, and all kindred THROAT DISEASES at all times prevalent, it is the ounce of PREVENTION. Children attacked with Whooping Cough or Croup should be immediately cared for. These painful attacks come with scarcely a moment's warning, when a physician may be out of immediate reach. A dose of PULMOCINE CORDIAL gives speedy relief, and the little ones are spared hours of pain and agony. As "a stitch in time saves nine," so does the possession of this FAMILY MEDICINE prevent the spread of disease. Parents seeing their children gasping with pain, friends and relatives beholding each other in peril from suffocation by the choking pain in the throat, paralyzed with fear and not knowing the best course to pursue, are liable to apply the wrong remedial agents. There is no safety in delay, no time to waste in such cases. CONSUMPTION, that fearful scourge of the human race, lies at the door of all thus afflicted. BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL arrests it (unless in its advanced stage at which time there is no local cure) relieves the pressing, suffocating feeling at the lungs, and the patient's danger is past.

BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL

is no new discovery. Twenty-three years ago it was used by one of New England's most famous physicians as the best PULMONARY CURATIVE he could prescribe, after a dozen years spent in experimenting with it before he was satisfied that the Materia Medica could add nothing to its favor.

Buchman's Pulmocine Cordial

Is the ultima thule of Medical Discovery.

Among its many ingredients are WILD CHERRY BARK, SQUILL ROOT, LIQUORICE ROOT, BLOOD ROOT, &c. It is a BLOOD PURIFIER, gently stimulating. It increases expectoration and is diuretic. It is sudorific and alterative. It is a necessary family medicine. It is a Tonic, and a powerful aid to the digestive organs. It is a gentle sedative, and relieves nervousness. It is aromatic and agreeable to the taste.

For Coughs, Croup, Diphtheria, Asthma, &c.

USE BUCHMAN'S

PULMOCINE CORDIAL.

The Pulmocine Cordial is not a quack medicine, is not an experiment, is not composed of any ingredients "discovered" by "walking in pastures" in South America or anywhere else, nor by one who discovered a weed and thereby cured himself. Most of the ingredients are such as our best educated physicians daily use for the complaints specified, in some form or other. The recipe is that perfected by one of New England's most learned and famous physicians, who used it entirely in his daily practice until his death. It is offered to the profession and to the public, absolutely pure and unadulterated.

WISTAR'S BALSAM

OF

WILD CHERRY!

THE GREAT REMEDY FOR

CONSUMPTION!

and acknowledged by many prominent physicians to be the most Reliable Preparation ever introduced for the RELIEF and CURE of all

LUNG COMPLAINTS.

This well known remedy is offered to the public, sanctioned by the experience of over forty years, and when resorted to in season seldom fails to effect a speedy cure of

Coughs, Colds, Croup, Bronchitis, Influenza, Whooping Cough, Hoarseness, Pains or Soreness in the Chest or Side, Bleeding at the Lungs, Liver Complaints, &c. &c.

CONSUMPTION

CURED

by a timely resort to this standard remedy, as is proved by hundreds of testimonials received by the proprietors.

Dr. Wistar's Balsam of Wild Cherry

does not dry up a Cough and leave the cause behind, as is the case with most preparations, but it loosens and cleanses the lungs and allays irritation, thus removing the cause of the complaint

CLERGYMEN, LAWYERS, SINGERS,

and all those whose occupation requires an unusual exercise of the vocal organs, will find this the ONLY PREPARATION which will effectually and instantaneously relieve their difficulties.

BEWARE OF COUNTERFEITS.

Remember that the genuine Wistar's Balsam has on the outside wrapper the signature of "I. BUTTS," and the printed name of the proprietors, "SETH W. FOWLE & SONS, BOSTON." All others are base imitations. Examine the wrapper carefully before purchasing.

This road is now completed from Jacksonville to a junction with the CHICAGO & ALTON R. R. at Virden, a distance of over 30 miles. The road, so far as completed, is thoroughly equipped, ENTIRELY PAID FOR, and in full operation, and it is upon the completed portion only, that bonds amounting to $600,000 are now offered at 85 and accrued interest in currency. Bonds upon the remaining portion of the road will be sold at a much higher price and will be offered only upon completed road. This road traverses the garden of the State, crosses all the most important roads, controls the enormous coal mines at Virden, and its bonds are most highly esteemed by those whose investigation has been most searching. We have personally examined every detail of this Company, and have gone repeatedly over the entire line. We are consequently enabled to recommend these bonds as an absolutely perfect security.

BRIGGS' ALLEVANTOR is composed of Ammonia, Chloroform, Spirits of Camphor, Tincture of Lapulina, Oil of Juniper, and Alcohol. This compound is unequalled in the annals of medicine for the cure of Nervous or Sick Headache, Neuralgia, Trembling or Twitching of the Nerves, and all Nervous Diseases. It will counteract all poisons, banish pimples, cure scaly eruptions, itching, humors, &c.; it equalizes the circulation, invigorates the system, increases the action of the heart, without exciting the brain, cures Heartburn, Palpitation and Fluttering of the Heart, Dyspepsia, &c. Briggs' Allevantor absolutely possesses more curative properties than any other preparation. Physicians, chemists, and others are requested to examine and test the remedy, and $1000 will be paid if found different from representation.
COUGHS. Much has been said and written, and many remedies have been offered for the relief and cure of throat and lung diseases; but nothing has been so eminently successful, or obtained such a wide celebrity, as Briggs' Throat and Lung Healer.
CORNS! The excruciating pain produced by Corns, the unceasing twinging from Bunions, the piercing, distressing pain from Ingrowing Nails, cannot be described. Thousands suffer, not knowing there is a cure. Briggs' Corn and Bunion Remedies are no acid or potash compounds, but are reliable, soothing, and effectual, and just merit the success they have earned from an appreciative public. The Cerative is a healing ointment; immediate relief is obtained by its application, and it will positively cure the worst cases of Festered Corns, Inflamed and Ulcerated Bunions, the severest instep, the largest and severest Blisters, the most extensive Callosities on the soles or heels of the feet, unequalled in the cure of Chilblains or Frosted Feet. The Allevantor for ordinary corns and preventing their formation is absolutely unexcelled by anything ever known.
PILES have been a terror to mankind for centuries, and almost every attempt to cure them has been baffled. By unceasing study and experimenting, Dr. Briggs has discovered an absolutely cure for internal, bleeding, external, and itching piles. Briggs' Pile Remedies are mild, safe and sure.

UNEQUAL PUNISHMENT.—Last fall a respectably connected and well-to-do young man of Merrimack county deserted a faithful and devoted wife, who, for twelve years, had given her whole life and strength to his service, and taking with him another woman, took up his abode in Nashua and notified his wife that, having tired of her, he had concluded to have nothing more to do with her. For this he was arrested and put under $1,000 to appear at court and answer to a charge of adultery. The bonds he easily procured, and as easily paid, we presume, for he put in no appearance at court. The county will make $1,000, and the heart-broken wife, left alone in her desolation and despair, will drag out the rest of her existence in sorrow and sadness, while he goes his way with his paramour. Wherefore we conclude that for $1000 a festive young man may desert and desolate his home and leave his wife helpless, penniless and hopeless, while he drives away care in the arms of a Cyprian.

Again: Sherburn decoys from her home and parents in Fisherville an artless girl—a mere child—takes her away to a foreign state, seduces and debauches her, keeps her there to pine and sicken and die. Her parents, meantime, are crushed by sorrow and suspense until her fate is known, when they sink down in blank despair and unavailing anguish, which no time can relieve.

At last Sherburn is taken, pleads guilty to a charge of adultery, and because he has not $2,000 goes to jail until the assembling of the Court; and we conclude again that the legal price for ruining a blooming girl, crushing out her young life, and entailing upon her parents a life of hopeless misery, is $2,000.

As Sherburn has not the money to pay for his sins he will doubtless be required to expiate them in prison. And, if the judge gives him the harshest sentence allowed by law for the crime of adultery, for three years the homes of Fisherville will be safe from him.

"Only this, and nothing more."

But this "cheap retribution" is not attributable to any laches, or connivance, or commutation, on the part of the officers of the law. If we understand the matter, the only charge which could be successfully preferred against either of the above-named villains was adultery—a bailable offence, and punishable under our statutes by from one to three years' imprisonment. But if either of them had stolen a sheep or a cow he might have gone to prison for seven years or got a thirty years' sentence for setting fire to a pig-pen.

Now, if our limited legal knowledge is not at fault, we respectfully ask if a law which imprisons a man seven years for stealing a sheep, and only shuts him up three years for stealing and ruining a child, will not bear a little tinkering? And if a statute which compels a scamp to serve the State thirty years for firing an out-house should not in reason charge him more than $1,000 for desolating and disgracing his home and stamping out the happiness and comfort of his wife and friends? And we ask the philanthropists who are generously spending their time and means to reform thieves, and with an eye to temperance converts, to consider whether a tithe of their efforts might not be well directed to the victims of unbridled lust and unholy passion.—Manchester Mirror.

THURSDAY, JANUARY 23, 1873.

Patterson's Pitiable Plight.

The Boston Advertiser's Washington correspondence says on the 21st the proceedings in Poland's committee were of a very painful as well as sensational character, as far as they concerned Senator Patterson. He appeared voluntarily with an addition to his former statement, in which he set forth a transaction with Oakes Ames not given in detail before, but which he insisted was a matter of thirty shares of Union Pacific Railroad stock, and not Credit Mobilier at all, though he understood Mr. Ames understood it as such. Mr. Ames was called and produced his memorandum of the transaction with Mr. Patterson, swearing that the first agreement related solely to shares of Credit Mobilier, that Pacific Railroad stock was not mentioned, and proceeded to give the dates and amounts of dividends in cash and railroad stock which he had paid to Mr. Patterson, and declared that a final settlement was had about a year ago, by his paying to Mr. Patterson about one hundred shares of Pacific Railroad stock. These payments Mr. Patterson virtually acknowledged, but insisted that he understood them to be the proceeds of sales of Pacific Railroad stock. The committee notified Mr. Ames that he would be questioned in regard to each name on his list, and that he would be expected to bring his records regarding each.

The Associated Press dispatch gives a detailed account of the developments as follows:—

Senator Patterson made a statement in his own defence against the suspicion that he had been improperly influenced in his legislative action. He says; What property or how much property I may purchase is a private matter not open to legislative investigation unless the circumstances of that transaction indicate that I have been improperly influenced by it as a legislator. When last before you I stated that on two occasions I bought stock and bonds in the Union Pacific Railroad. I should with as little hesitation have stated that I bought stock in the Credit Mobilier if I had understood that to be the fact, for I see no reason why a member of Congress might not with propriety own stock in either or be corrupted as readily with one as the other. Members of the House have owned stock in the Credit Mobilier from the first and drawn their dividends, whose integrity and official propriety were never questioned, though they have exercised their right to vote whenever the Pacific Railroad has been before them.

They who have purchased this stock, whose votes and influence could not have been affected in a solitary instant, cannot be less innocent, and should be saved the cruel humiliation of this public scandal. My object in coming before the committee is to state and explain a little more fully a point on which I find I differ from Mr. Ames' present position.

In my testimony of Wednesday I stated that I made two purchases of stock and bonds of Ames, and I read that statement to him before presenting it to the committee. He said it was correct except in a single point. I believe it correct in every point, and therefore gave it to the committee. I will state this case. It is in relation to the first purchase. We are agreed on the record. More than a year after I had been offered stock in the Credit Mobilier, having some money to invest I placed it in the hands of Ames without a thought that this stock of Credit Mobilier, represented as so profitable, was in the market and with the understanding, on my part certainly, that he was to secure for me stock or bonds in the Union Pacific Railroad and dispose of this sum in such time and way as he could realize most. On one occasion—I have no recollection of any other—he paid me some money, which I then and now believe came from the sale of stock or bonds he had purchased and held for me.

A day or two since, he came to my room and said that he had again been called before this committee, and should read for the first time a memorandum, in which he had credited me with 20 shares of stock in the Credit Mobilier, and two dividends on the same. Supposing that I was to receive the stock or bonds or their proceeds, and never having received anything else, I thought I had got what I had paid for, but Mr. Ames, it seems, not wishing me to suffer from my ignorance of the mysteries of the Pacific Railroad management, had put me down for stock in the Credit Mobilier and assigned me what I received as dividends on the same. So far as this investigation is concerned, it is a matter of indifference to me whether his understanding or mine is correct, for in either case it was simply an investment for profit, and had no connection, in thought or act, with legislation. But if he is right, somebody owes me a few thousand dollars, which, if they will have the goodness to cash, I shall find my venture more profitable than I had any reason to expect.

Near the close of the last session of Congress a gentleman came to me and said that Hon. E. H. Rollins, who was a competitor for my place in the Senate, was reporting that I was an owner in Credit Mobilier, and that he should use it against me in the canvass. Meeting Ames I reported what I had heard. He wrote a letter to Mr. Rollins in which he denied that I owned stock in that company, 'and came over to the Senate and showed it to me. I said that it was entirely satisfactory. On reaching Concord I found that among other false and malicious reports concocted to injure my public reputation, this was afloat. I denied, as I do today, that I had ever owned any of the stock; but stated, as I have testified to you, that I had bought stock and bonds in this road. To confirm my statement I telegraphed to Ames at his home to send me a copy of his letter to Rollins. My telegram reached him in Washington. Not hearing from him as quickly as I desired, I wrote him, and at length received replies both to my telegram and letter, which, with your permission I will read, so far as they relate to this subject:—

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 9, 1872.

To Hon. J. W. Patterson:—

Dear Sir—I have your telegram asking me to give you the substance of the letter I wrote Rollins. You saw the letter. I added nothing to it after you saw it, and it is the only letter I have written, the substance of which was: I heard he was making charges against you or representing you as the holder or owner of stock in the Credit Mobilier, and that there were wrong or improper inferences in relation to it. I wrote him that I did not think you ever had any of the stock, and if you had any there was no more impropriety in it than owning bank stocks.

Yours truly,

(Signed) OAKES AMES.

NORTH EASTON, June 12, 1872.

To Hon. J. W. Patterson:—

Dear Sir,—I wrote you from Washington in reply to your telegram. I have your letters of the 8th and 12th this evening here on my arrival home from Washington. I stated in that letter the substance of my letter to Rollins. You saw this letter I wrote him, and there was nothing in that but truth, and that Mr. Rollins should say that the Credit Mobilier of America was a fraudulent concern, and those engaged in it perpetrated a fraud on the country, community or stockholders, is simply an untruth. The stockholders of that company contained some of the best men in the country, and Mr. Rollins knows it. Such men as John J. Cisco, General Dix, William P. Mackey, Messrs. Dillon, McCormick, James Brooks and many others of New York, Gliddon & Williams, Ezra Baker, Elisha Atkins, John Duff, Samuel Hooper, Oliver Ames and myself and many others. I am proud to say that I was a stockholder in it, and there is and was nothing wrong in holding the stock any more than in owning bank or railroad stock, and Mr. Rollins should be ashamed to make such charges, as if you had been a stockholder and manager in this company, which you were not. If Mr. Rollins can find nothing against you worse than being a stockholder in the Credit Mobilier, you must be the purest man in New Hampshire or in the United States Senate. Trusting that you will not suffer because you are accused of being a stockholder with me and not realizing the profits, I am yours truly,

OAKES AMES.

I have only to add that I have never received any certificate of stock or other evidence of ownership in the Credit Mobilier and am not enough of a lawyer to know how I can draw dividends on what I did not own. With this explanation I am done with this examination. Of this outrage done to the fair fame of men who have lived without reproach for a half-century by drawing them into the gaze of the public with a scourge of epithets which should be laid upon the lowest criminal; with the creation of the torture inflicted upon men sensitive of their good names by subjecting them to legislative inquisitiveness without sufficient reason, I may take occasion to speak elsewhere; but here I close, but simply remark that if such things are to continue all decent men will leave public life, as I do, with pleasure and not with regret.

In answer to the question of Mr. Niblack, Mr. Patterson testified that he did not borrow any money from ex-Mayor Emory to purchase stock. He was then questioned by Mr. Ames, who asked him if he (Patterson) did not pay him (Ames) $3000 in January, 1868.

The witness replied that he did.

Mr. Ames then stated that he had returned to Mr. Patterson $2223 and thirty shares in the Union Pacific stocks in February and $1800 in cash on the 19th of June.

Mr. Patterson replied that he might have received the money, but he did not remember it.

Mr. Ames—The difference between Mr. Patterson and myself is that I say he purchased of me thirty shares of stock in the Credit Mobilier, and received the difference thereon. Patterson at first says he did not. If he now says he did purchase the stock there is no farther difference, and my statement is correct.

Mr. Patterson said that he had no recollection of ever having received any certificate of thirty shares of stock, and he did not believe he ever did.

Mr. Ames said that it was his impression that he had delivered the stock certificates to Patterson. If he did not, then he had lost a certificate of thirty shares. Mr. Ames further stated that he received the Union Pacific bonds as dividends at eighty per cent. and sold them at 97, the proceeds of which he turned over to Patterson after deducting certain interest. The $1800 was a cash dividend and was paid to Patterson in money by witness.

Judge Poland then questioned Ames as to the letters he wrote to Patterson during the campaign wherein he stated that Patterson did not hold the stock, and asked him if he thought the interpretation put upon these letters could be exactly in accordance with the gospel. [Laughter].

Mr. Ames—Well, Mr. Patterson did not appear on the books as a stockholder. Mr. Patterson was anxious I should write something to exonerate him, and I wrote those letters.

Mr. Niblack—Well, Mr. Ames, if you regarded the whole matter of holding the stock as honorable, why did you attempt to cover up anything?

Mr. Ames—I never did cover up anything unless it was by those letters. Mr. Patterson wanted me to write the letters covering up certain points for him.

Mr. Niblack—I regard the mistakes of the persons connected with this thing as very bad, and inquire of Mr. Ames why he assisted them in skulking?

Ames—Because I am kind-hearted and wanted to help everybody. [Laughter.]

The Boston Herald's special says the investigation was distinguished by a supplemental denial from Senator Patterson of New Hampshire, followed by Oakes Ames, with an illustration on the part of both of "ways that were dark and tricks that were vain." Patterson voluntarily appeared before the committee and insisted that what he had heretofore stated was correct, which was that he gave Ames money for investment in Union Pacific Railroad stock and bonds, and was not aware that the latter had applied it to the purchase of Credit Mobilier stock. In proof of this he said that Ames had written him two letters last fall, relieving him of the charge made in the Senatorial campaign in New Hampshire, that he (Patterson) had owned the stock, which letters were produced and read by the latter. Oakes Ames looked up with considerable astonishment and at his request was at once placed on the stand. He said it was true that he had written these letters, but was so importuned to save Patterson that he could not well get rid of writing them; that while they were true on their face—that Patterson's name did not appear on the books as an owner of Credit Mobilier stock—they were not true in spirit, as Ames had bought and carried the stock with Patterson's money and had paid Patterson's dividends on the same.

HAVING YOUR HAIR CUT.—Punch suggests the following thoughts as suitable while one is having his hair cut.

Will he cut it well, or shall I look an object for the next ten days?

Will he ask me how I would like it cut?

Will he talk to me?

Will he blow upon me?

Will he snip a bit of my ear?

Will he prick my lip when he trims my moustache?

Will he tell me that my hair is getting rather thin at the top?

Will he ask me whether I have tried, or would like to try their marvelous balsam, or their wonderful Wash or their unrivaled Restorative?

Will he ask me whether I will be shampooed?

Will the brushing business bring tears into my eyes?

Will he part my hair on the wrong side?

Will uncomfortable hairs get between my collar and my neck?

Will he not, when all is over, say: "Will there be anything for this toilet?"

"A DOSE IN TIME," &c.—If "a stitch in time saves nine," it is equally certain that a dose of a healthy tonic like Hostetter's Stomach Bitters taken at this inclement season of the year may save many an unpleasant twinge. A dose, however, is not sufficient. The system should be thoro'ly charged with this genial vegetable stimulant and invigorant. Commence taking it with the commencement of the atmospheric changes which distinguish the winter from the autumn. Thereby you will avoid those disturbances of the digestive and secretive organs, and those painful diseases of the muscles and the nerves of sensation, which often render the period of the year which should be the merriest a season of penance and disquietude. The extraordinary vigor and regularity which this exhilarating restorative imparts to the most important functions of the body, render it an invaluable remedy for nervous debility, constipation, indigestion, torpidity of the liver, and intermittent fevers.

CORNS.—Since pride and fashion have had control of mankind, and shoemakers were compelled to make boots and shoes to fit fancy instead of the feet, the suffering from Corns, Bunions, Ingrowing Nails, Sore Insteps, Blistered Heels, Callosities on the bottom of the feet, &c., cannot be described. But Briggs' Corn and Bunion Remedies will cure all such torments, and proper fitting boots will prevent their reproduction. Sold by all druggists. a12

PILES.—The unceasing torture from internal bleeding, external and itching piles is fast wearing away the thousands of those who are afflicted and their hope and courage have long since given place to despair. Let those who see this cheer up, for a mild and sure cure may be had by using BRIGGS' PILE REMEDIES.

A SURE CURE follows the use of BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL—the best known remedy for THROAT and LUNG COMPLAINTS. Only 50 cts. a bottle.

A SILENT DISEASE PUNISHES THE PATIENT ONLY; but a vociferous cough or a horrible cold punishes a whole household. There can be no peace, no rest, until it is cured, and when a single bottle of Hale's Honey of Horehound and Tar will banish the nuisance, is it worth while to do it? Crittenton's, 7 6th Avenue. Sold by all Druggists.

Pike's Toothache Drops cure in 1 minute.

SOZODONT.—All Dentrifices had their drawbacks, until the salubrious Bark of the Soap Tree was brought from the Chilian valleys to perfect the fragrant SOZODONT, the most wholesome, reliable and delightful article for the teeth, that a brush was ever dipped into.

INSTANTANEOUS is the operation of BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL in all cases of SORE THROAT, HOARSENESS, COUGHS, CROUP, and LUNG AFFECTIONS. It is beneficial in all cases. Sold for 50 cents per bottle.

CENTAUR.

At midnight on his wooded hills,
The Centaur lay dreaming of the hour,
When mankind, cured of aching ills,
Should know his all-healing power.

Nor long he waited. The blind could see,—
Straightened were limbs by pain long bent,
Cripples ran, and the lame on bended knee
Gave thanks for the Centaur Liniment.

The Centaur Liniment is the greatest pain-reliever the world has ever seen. Rheumatism, whether inflammatory, sciatic or nervous, is made to disappear. Swellings cease to pain, wounds are healed, burns are cured without a scar, and stings and bites are rendered harmless.

Mrs. R. Prowell, 492 Atlantic St., Brooklyn, N. Y., writes: "I have had the rheumatism for ten years. I have tried everything. The Centaur Liniment is the only thing that does me good."

Mr. Chas. Hill, 616 Pine St., Philadelphia, writes: "That two bottles of Centaur Liniment has cured a most severe sprain of his ankle."

J. H. Martin of 533 Seventh Avenue, N. Y., says: "The Centaur Liniment has cured me of a terrible case of inflammatory rheumatism and cannot be too highly recommended."

59 BROADWAY, N. Y., Aug. 21st, 1872.

"All horse owners should have the Centaur Liniment. We used it in our stables and find it the best thing ever dropped."

H. MARSH,
Supt. Adams Express Co. Stables."

Such testimonials can be repeated indefinitely. Try it once. We will warrant it every time. Sold by all Druggists.

ALDEN'S IMPERISHABLE EVAPORATED!

FRUITS & VEGETABLES.

Having lost nothing but water, they return, when putin water, to their original condition, both in quantity and flavor.

Directions:—To every pound of Fruit add four quarts cold water, come to a boil slowly and stew 10 to 30 minutes, add half the usual amount of Sugar used with fresh fruit.

To every pound Sweet Corn add full one quart of cold water, soak over night, then bring it to a boil; when it will be ready for the table; add Salt and Milk, to the taste.

We are now in receipt from the factories of quantities of Apples, Peaches, Pears, Cherries, Huckleberries, Blackberries, Cranberries, Sweet Potatoes, Pumpkins, Green Peas, Lima Beans, and Sweet Corn.

In the opinion of the most Eminent Physicians and Chemists these fruit products are far more wholesome than "Canned" or Dried Fruit—they having been Super-matured or ripened though the Alden Pneumatic Process, and prepared perfectly without cooking—ready for use.

These are the cheapest and best fruits in the Market, and you cannot tell them from fresh fruit when cooked.

LOCAL AFFAIRS.

Accidents.

Capt. Prince Harding of this city, while turning from his premises into the main road at Salter's island, was severely injured about the head and shoulders by being thrown against the fence by his horse getting frightened. Mr. Harding took out an accident policy of insurance for $5000, three weeks ago, in the agency of Morse & Daley, and now draws $25 per week while disabled.

Mr. Wm. Ellison, a carpenter, fell from a building near the Creek a distance of thirty-five feet to the ground, on the 21st, and was badly and perhaps fatally injured.

A sailor named James Grant fell from the rigging of schooner Hattie Turner in the harbor on the 19th and broke a leg when he struck the deck.

Laconics.

Mr. J. T. Furber, the new superintendent of the Boston & Maine Railroad, is a live man. He formerly published the Great Falls Journal, and made it a success. He was one of the two special Agents in the Provost Marshal's office here, in war times, Mr. Kent being the other. He was afterwards station agent at Great Falls, being promoted therefrom to be general freight agent.

Charles W. Gardner, Esq., is the Historian of the coming 4th of July reunion. All documents needing a public record should be forwarded to him.

The case of varioloid to which we referred on Wednesday was that of Mrs. Ham, at No. 15 Russell Street. A mild case of varioloid is reported on Islington Street at the residence of of Mr. Isaac Farr, who occupies the Israel Kimball house. Mrs. Farr states that she must have taken the disease in Belfast, Me., or in the cars between Belfast and Portsmouth.

The Lyre is of the opinion that the franking of documents in one mail, of five times its editor's weight, is not an abuse of the franking priviege.

At Exeter, on the 22d, the grand jury presented indictments of ten men, including Evans, the Northwood murderer; Charles Randall of Portsmouth, for assault; Frost and Yeaton of Newcastle, for stealing; and the gang who assaulted Station Agent Young at Newmarket.

The Wallace Sisters, supported by a large company will appear at the Temple on Wednesday and Thursday, Jan. 29 and 30.

New York Correspondence.

The Reunion; Memories of Skating and Sliding, Snow-men, Snow-forts and Snow-fights; The Boy Captain; The Cameneum; The Boys' Benefactors—the Candy-factors.

My Dear Chronicle; Growing out of the agitation upon the SECOND REUNION of the Sons and Daughters of dear old Portsmouth, there is an irresistible tendency to say something. The subject is a wonderfully emotional one. It stirs to the depths. There rises up from Memory's storehouse a legion of experiences, having every quality of joy and sorrow:—The babies' first recollections of colic and sweetened Holland; the boy's tricks and the ferrule; the young man's sweethearts and their jilts—his ambitions, and their fruitlessness. How almost brilliant in clearness is the remembrance of the youth's games, his companionships, his school, church, parlor, his home, his kin and loves.

Each man recalls the days of this January month, when, upon either of the two Ponds that he could quickest get to, he tugged at the skate-straps, getting up to go down quicker; and, finding the "hang o' it;" would clumsily, but gracefully, as he thought, keep head higher than heels; and, after a month or two "seeing stars," would go flying along with the speed of a bird, to look with patronising pity upon the awkwardness of the poor novices, and wishing that his mother, sister, or chere amie could witness his wondrous achievements. So, also, when there was more snow than ice, there gathered upon "Smith's," or "Masons," or "Dennett's" Hill, boy and girl, big and little, with sleds, big and little, making in many a moonlight night a joy more genuine and rugged than any known in all after life. And too, when there came in the storm the element of a good snow-ball, there gathered (only boys this time,) at their several rendezvous, the "Mill-dam Rangers," and the "Christian-shore Flatfoots," each at the North and South Mills, and with chosen leaders they confidently marched toward the battle field—the "Parade." The first reinforced by the "North-enders," and their opponents by the "Paddle-dockers," gave fight, lasting hours, with the valor and fierceness of veterans, without loss of blood or limb, and having no result but chapped hands, wet clothing, and a promise to "have the thing over again" on the next Wednesday or Saturday afternoon. There rarely comes to man the keenness of the "stand up and take it," that the boy knows and shows; and yet, we never witnessed or remembered the heroic gallantry of one of the noblest of New Hampshire's soldiers, that we did not recall the boy-captain as he proudly and ably marched his company of comrades through Portsmouth's streets.* What unskilled pigmies seem Grant, Sherman and Burnside, when "us boys" remember the hugo "Snow-Forts," and the gallant assaults and defences made on and in them. How insignificant in art are Angelo and Thorwalsden when judged against the pictures of memory of the "Snow-Men." 'Twas a long, glorious holiday, the winter of our boyhood!

Can we, or would we if we could, let go Memory's hold of that almost classic spot, "The Cameneum?" What a multitude of incidents the mere word re-creates. Beginning as a young fellow at "half-price;" an older one as a timid beau; and, older yet, an incipient Thespian, little notion had any of us that we should become any less than a Garrick or Kean or that the "Cameneum" would become a stable.

How sweet is the memory of those dear old men and women, Dunyon, Peduzzi, Massey and Tripyear, from either of whom one cent would buy a surfeit of lusciousness. In all of these manhood's days, and in the multitude of schemes for the getting of money, never was there ingenuity or skill in the getting, comparable with the "ways and means" that would enable the boy or girl to open the door of one of those palaces. 'Twas a sorrowful day, and lived to but little purpose, as we then thought, when we had to "pass by on the other side."

Now, it may be true of other towns and cities, that each of them has its views and fields, its "celebrities," its queer and quaint; but the Portsmouth man will fail to comprehend how any other place on the earth can have had such elements of pure genuine fun in it for boy and man, as his native town. And, as his faith and love is in and for the "old folks at home," so do the absent ones hold firm for each other, looking always to the successes of their townsmen and townswomen with a peculiar gratification. So steadfast is our respect for the characters of an old school-fellow, who by his culture, energy and integrity has won an enviable place in an Island government, that the low scurrility of a Mark Twain, excites only the disgust it merits. The Tribune newspaper will make it all the more difficult in the recovery to its old standing when it opens its columns to such contributions.

The REUNION grows in its interest as each week passes. It has been suggested that the movements in Portsmouth and New York, have been a little early. We think not; and, if but for one reason, though there are many beside, it is in good time. It enables gentlemen who pass the summer or parts of it away from the city, to so arrange their journeyings as to cover this trip to Portsmouth. One young gentleman said to me, "I had expected to be abroad on the 4th; but all Europe hasn't our Portsmouth in it. I must get back before, or else go after."

The Sons realise and fully appreciate the zeal and the big-hearted hospitality of their native city, and how much the coming celebration will depend upon the mutual efforts of all at home and abroad. Your committees are admirably chosen, and will each in its department be sure to excel any expectation of them. We anticipate that the 4th shall be the bigger only of a series of festivals lasting through a week or more. G.

*Capt. THOS. OLIVER BARRI, killed at Gettysburg, July 4th, '63.

At Toledo, Chicago, the 20th, Mrs. Rosa Quance and Miss Ida Majors were suffocated by coal gas at Mrs. Majors' boarding house. Four other inmates were nearly dead when rescued.

Judge Curtis of New York has been acquitted by the senate of the charges against him.

IRON in the BLOOD.

DYSPEPSIA, DEBILITY, DROPSY, HUMORS,

PERUVIAN SYRUP

Makes the Weak Strong.

The Peruvian Syrup, a Protected Solution of the Protoxide of Iron, is so combined as to have the character of an aliment, as easily digested, and assimilated with the blood as the simplest food. It increases the quantity of Nature's Own Vitalizing Agent, Iron in the blood, and cures "a thousand ills," simply by Toning up, Invigorating and Vitalizing the System. The enriched and vitalized blood permeates every part of the body, repairing damages and waste, scrubbing out morbid secretions, and leaving nothing for disease to feed upon.

This is the secret of the wonderful success of this remedy in curing Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, Dropsy, Chronic Diarrhœa, Boils, Nervous Affections, Chills and Fevers, Humors, Loss of Constitutional Vigor, Diseases of the Kidneys and Bladder, Female Complaints, and all disease originating in a bad state of the blood, or accompanied by debility or a low system. Being free from Alcohol, in any form, its energizing effects are not followed by corresponding reaction, but are permanent, infusing strength, vigor, and new life into all parts of the system, and building up an Iron Constitution.

Thousands have been changed by the use of this remedy, from weak, sickly, suffering creatures to strong, healthy, and happy men and women: and invalids cannot reasonably hesitate to give it a trial.

See that each bottle has PERUVIAN SYRUP blown in the glass.

The Art of Conversation.

Mr. Wendell Phillips does not include the art of conversation in his admirable lecture on "The Lost Arts," but, nevertheless, it is as clearly lost as the art of putting flies in amber. And whether its loss is a loss to mankind is an open question; for although it is pleasant to read the conversations of Addison and Johnson, it is doubtful whether a popular vote would restore those brilliant talkers of life to-day, having regard to their conversational powers alone. These are faster times than those, and we have not so much leisure for discussion. If acts are the best books, we are a literary people in the highest sense of the phrase, for in America men rarely stop to talk about what they are going to do, but do it. Even in England this is getting to be more so every year, and when the complaint is made over there that the art of conversation is lost, one is apt to feel that the art of action may be the gainer by it. Moreover, the attempt to receive it, as an art, would be folly nowadays, when social conditions are so much changed that they would be apt to throw a wet blanket on the most brilliant talker of the seventeenth or eighteenth century. Even bluff old Johnson would scarcely straw the flowers of his rhetoric over a modern pork butcher. The fact is, to have good talkers, we must have good listeners, and where would Johnson be to-day but for the foil he found in Boswell? The world of '73 is not disposed to listen long when it has work to do. Can any one imagine the disputations doctor waddling down Fulton Street with his staffy, big legs and thick stick, prying this and that, and calling the shopkeepers knaves, without getting his head punched before he got to the ferry? Again imagine Steele setting himself for a good, long talk over the burnt sherry after dinner. Would he not, however entertaining, be looked upon chiefly as a bore?

It is not certain that some good conversationalists do not live, and perhaps the place to find them is the club, for there is still a lingering respect in semi-literary minds for the memory of the dead good talkers and a disposition to encourage living ones. But the daily ordinary converse of the street and the exchange of to-day bear no comparison with that of a hundred years ago, and this is due as much to change in the language as to the modification of social caste. It was far more picturesque, for instance, to say to a man "Thou knave!" than to say "You rascal!" and yet they both meant the same. Are not the following supposed conversations fairly representative of Brooklyn opinion and average Brooklyn conversation?—

On the Ferry Boat.—"That'll be a big bridge."

"Yes, and cost a pile of money, too."

"Oh, well it's needed."

"So it is."

[Pause.]

"Those pilots are very reckless."

"Sometimes they are; but generally they are very careful, and have a deal of responsibility."

"That's so."

[Pause.]

"I think it is getting cooler."

"Oh, I don't know. I thought it was a trifle milder than it was this morning."

"Well may be it is."

[Pause.]

"This one-cent and two-cent ferriage is a nuisance. Why don't they make it uniform?"

"All one-cent or all two-cent?"

"Oh, it doesn't matter much."

"But it does matter a great deal to the thousands who cross the river every day."

"Well, I guess you're right."

In the Middle of the Block.—"Hallo!"

"Hallo, Jim."

"What's new?"

"Nothing much."

"Getting cold, ain't it?"

"Well, a little."

"Good day."

"So long."

At the Theatre.—"Whose piece is this?"

"Oh, I don't know. Some Frenchman's."

"Don't think much of it"

"Well, I don't know. Let's go out a minute."

[Intermission.]

"Is this the second act?"

"I'm sure I don't know. Who's that woman in the tall hair?"

"She's—" (whisper.)

"You don't say! I thought she had—"

"S-s-s-s-h!"

In the Bar-room.—"Come boys, let's take a drink!" [Movement.]

"Come; we're just taking something; won't you join us?"

"Well, I don't mind if I do. Give me a cigar, Billy."

"How much do you want, sir?"

"Dollar-twenty!"

"How's business?"

"Well, can't complain."

"Come, let's take another smile!"

In the Drawing-room.—"Maria, Maria! look, look! There's Mrs. Stokes on the other side of the way."

"Why that's her black silk trimmed over."

"Yes, I know. Have you seen her husband?"

"What, the little dark-eyed man with a cast in his eye? Yes, why he passes here every day."

"They say they live very unhappily together."

At Church.—"Why, Jane, isn't that Susan Bigelow?"

"The one in the blue bonnet?"

"Yes."

"Yes, it is."

"How bad she looks." [Pause.]

"What a beautiful sermon!"

"Oh, I think it was too lovely for anything."

On the Corner.—"Don't strike."

"Yes, give him a good licking."

"What right had he to—?"

"Ah, get out."

"Who's speaking to you?"

"I am."

"Who are you?"

"None of your business."

"It ain't, eh?"

"No it ain't, eh?"

"I'll show you whether it is or not."

"You will, will you?"

"Yes, I will."

"Then do it."

"Ah, get out!"

Exeunt omnes.

All these topics would have been discussed with more conversational ability a hundred years ago, but we are afraid that except in very rare cases the art of conversation is "played out."—Brooklyn Eagle.

—Kate Stanton, in her lecture on "The Loves of Great Men," asserts that the planets revolve around the sun by the influence of love, like a child revolves about its parent. When the writer was a boy, he used to revolve around his parent a good deal, and may have been incited thereto by love, but to an unprejudiced observer it looked powerfully like a trunk strap.—Danbury News.

—A man recently married in Northampton had great difficulty in fixing upon his choice. He at last wrote down the names of twenty-five females in whom he was interested, and crossed off their names one by one till the happy one was left alone.

—It must be pleasant up in Northern Minnesota. On the line of the Winona and St. Peter railroad, the snow has drifted to such a depth that the telegraph poles are completely covered.

The Singer

SEWING MACHINE

STILL LEADS THE MARKET.

The Success the Company is far beyond that of any other similar concern; the Daily Manufacture

—OF—

400 OF THE SINGERS

Failing to Supply the Constant Demand.

All other machines call the public attention to some new loop or stitch or tension or finish, some advantage in running or needles or feed or prices—and many of these are as we have said very good points, and the agents selling them use them to divert entirely the would-be purchaser from fairly considering the facts in the case; but the

seems to unite the good qualities of all, and is never found wanting.

THE SINGER

IS THE

OLDEST

SEWING MACHINE

IN THE MARKET,

All others being copied from its first model. Does two-thirds the sewing done in this country and preserves its advantages over all otherwominded.

It is readily kept clean, and has THE BEST TENSION EVER INVENTED; it is higher speeded and requires but little power to run; it works equally well upon the finest and heaviest goods; it does all the varieties of work known to the art.

N. B. Those purchasing for cash, before the 1 of January next, will have a consideration allowed them.

CLEAR YOUR THROAT!

Relieve Your Lungs.

For the terrible diseases engendered by the lung-trying climate of New England,

Pulmocine Cordial

Is a speedy and reliable Preventive and Remedy. EVERY FAMILY should have a bottle at hand to check the sudden growth of all Pulmonary Diseases. For the Asthma, Coughs, Croups, Laryngitis, or inflammation of the larynx, Diphtheria, and all kindred THROAT DISEASES at all times prevalent, it is a sure cure of PREVENTION. Children attacked with Whooping Cough or Croup should be immediately cared for. These painful attacks come with scarcely a moment's warning, when a physician may be out of immediate reach. A dose of PULMOCINE CORDIAL gives speedy relief, and the little ones are spared hours of pain and agony. As "a stitch in time saves nine," so does the possession of this FAMILY MEDICINE prevent the spread of disease. Parents seeing their children gasping with pain, friends and relatives beholding each other in peril from suffocation by the choking pain in the throat, paralyzed with fear and not knowing the best course to pursue, are liable to apply the wrong remedial agents. There is no safety in delay, no time to waste in such cases. CONSUMPTION, that fearful scourge of the human race, lies at the door of all these afflicted. BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL arrests it (unless in its advanced stage at which time there is no local cure) relieves the pressing, suffocating feeling at the lungs, and the patient's danger is past.

BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL

is no new discovery. Twenty-three years ago it was used by one of New England's most famous physicians as the best PULMONARY CURATIVE he could prescribe, after a dozen years spent in experimenting with it before he was satisfied that the Materia Medica could add nothing in its favor.

Buchman's Pulmocine Cordial

Is the ultima thule of Medical Discovery.

AMONG its many ingredients are WILD CHERRY BARK, SCULL HOOP, LIQUORICE ROOT, BLOOD ROOT, &c. It is a BLOOD PURIFIER, gently stimulant, it increases expectoration and is diuretic, it is sudorific and alterative. It is a necessary family medicine. It is a Tonic, and a powerful aid to the digestive organs. It is a gentle sedative, and relieves nervousness. It is aromatic and agreeable to the taste.

For Coughs, Croup, Diphtheria, Asthma, &c.

USE BUCHMAN'S

PULMOCINE CORDIAL.

The Pulmocine Cordial is not a quack medicine, is not an experiment, is not composed of any ingredients "discovered" by "walking in pastures" in South America or anywhere else, nor by one who discovered a weed and thereby cured himself. Most of the ingredients are such as our best educated physicians daily use for the complaints specified, in some form or other. The recipe is that perfected by one of New England's most learned and famous physicians, who used it entirely in his daily practice until his death. It is offered to the profession and to the public absolutely pure and unadulterated.

BRIGGS' ALLEVANTOR is composed of Ammonia, Chloroform, Spirits of Camphor, Tincture of Lepulins, Oil of Juniper, and Alcohol. This compound is unequalled in the annals of medicine for the cure of Nervous or Sick Headache, Neuralgia, Trembling or Twitching of the Nerves, and all Nervous Diseases. It will counteract all poisons, banish pimples, cure scaly eruptions, itching, humors, &c.; it equalizes the circulation, invigorates the system, increases the action of the heart, without exciting the brain, cures Heartburn, Palpitation and Fluttering of the Heart, Dyspepsia, &c. Briggs' Allevantor absolutely possesses more curative properties than any other preparation. Physicians, chemists, and others are requested to examine and test the remedy, and $1000 will be paid if found different from representation.
COUGHS, Much has been said and written, and many remedies have been offered for the relief and cure of throat and lung diseases; but nothing has been so eminently successful, or obtained such a wide celebrity, as Briggs' Throat and Lung Healer.
CORNS! The excruciating pain produced by Corns, the unceasing twinging from Bunions, the piercing, distressing pain from Ingrowing Nails, cannot be described. Thousands suffer, not knowing there is a cure. Briggs' Corn and Bunion Remedies are no acid or potash compounds, but are relief-ing, soothing, and effectual, and just merit the success they have earned from an appreciative public. The Curative is a healing ointment; immediate relief is obtained by its application, and it will positively cure the worst cases of Festered Corns, Inflamed and Ulcerated Bunions, the soonest instep, the largest and severest Blisters, the most extensive Callosities on the soles or heels of the feet, unequalled in the cure of Chilblains or Frosted Feet. The Allevantor for ordinary corns and preventing their formation is absolutely unexcelled by anything ever known.
PILES have been a terror to mankind for centuries, and almost every attempt to cure them has been baffled. By unceasing study and experimenting, Dr. Briggs has discovered an absolutely cure for internal, bleeding, external, and itching piles. Briggs' Pile Remedies are mild, safe and sure.
For sale by J. H. THACHER, WM. R. PRESTON, Portsmouth; JAMES O. TREFETHEN, Kittery; E. S. SAFFORD, Kittery Point; H. M. CURTIS, Newcastle, and dealers generally.

VEGETINE
The Great Blood Purifier.
A valuable Indian compound, for restoring the health, and for the permanent cure of all diseases arising from impurities of the blood, such as Scrofula Scrofulous Humors, Cancers Cancerous Humor Erysipelas, Canker Salt Rheum, Pimples and Humors on the Face Ulcers, Coughs Catarrh, Bronchitis, Neuralgia, Pains in the Side, Rheumatism, Dyspepsia, Constipation Costiveness, Dizziness Piles, Headache Nervousness, Faintness at the Stomach Pains in the Back, Kidney Complaints Female Weakness, and General Debility.
This preparation is scientifically and chemically combined, and so strongly concentrated from roots, herbs and barks, that its good effects are realized immediately after commencing to take it. There is no disease of the human system for which the VEGETINE cannot be used with PERFECT SAFETY, as it does not contain a trace of mineral compound. For eradicating the system of all impurities of the blood, it has no equal. It has never failed to effect a cure, giving tone and strength to the system debilitated by disease. Its wonderful effects upon these complaints are surprising to all. Many have been cured by the VEGETINE that have tried many other remedies. It can well be called

Credit Mobilier.

The testimony of Hon. Oakes Ames on the 22d, implicated Vice President Colfax.

Ex-Mayor Emory of Washington, a New Hampshire man, was sworn and examined by Judge Merrick.

Q. Had you any negotiations with Senator Patterson in reference to the purchase of Pacific Railroad stock?

A. Two or three years since he called to see me to procure my indorsement on a note to enable him to raise money to purchase stock in the Union Pacific Railroad; I indorsed the note; it was for $4000, and by reference to the note-book in the bank, I find it was dated February 19, 1870; he paid it at maturity.

Q. Is that the only negotiation or loan?

A. I think I have indorsed notes for him three or four times before, for about the same amount. Did indorse a note for him for about $3000 in 1868, but did not know when Mr. Patterson used it. Asked Mr. Patterson a year or so afterward how he came out in his Pacific Railroad speculation, and he said it turned out very well and was a very good thing.

Q. Did he speak of having received a dividend?

A. I am not sure, but I think he did.

Q. Can you give us now or hereafter the date of the first loan which you speak of?

A. I have no memorandum, but may get an idea at the bank; think it was used in Mr. Kelley's bank, since this investigation commenced; had a conversation with Mr. Patterson and he asked me if I remembered about these loans.

Q. Was one of the loans negotiated in the National Bank of the Republic?

A. That is the one I speak of, February 18, 1870.

Q. Was one negotiated at the National Metropolitan Bank?

A. I think there was; am not sure. I can refer to the books. Mr. Patterson did state something about purchasing of stock from Mr. Ames.

The New York Herald's Washington correspondent, writing of the examination of the 21st says:—

The next witness was Senator Patterson. Everybody was surprised when he again took the stand and asked leave to submit a written statement. He had explained once and in his desire to improve matters he made them worse. Patterson cast a reproachful look at the committee and the correspondents in the room, as he introduced his statement by a bitter denunciation of the press, which, he said, had been maligning honest men whose life-records were without taint. His details of the transaction seemed to show such childlike confidence that one was involuntarily moved with indignation to think that the wicked Ames could have inveigled him into the broad and destructive path which led to Credit Mobilier. Patterson's statement number two was made for the sole purpose of explaining a discrepancy which existed between his first defence and Oakes Ames' testimony. Ames had claimed that Patterson had owned thirty shares of Credit Mobilier, whereas the latter, in his first statement, solemnly denied having ever owned a single share. The Senator from New Hampshire said he had given Oakes Ames $3,000 to invest for him. The knowing Ames, from the testimony of different Congressmen, it would seem is private business adviser for all Congressmen of a speculative turn of mind. Well, he didn't know what Oakes Ames did with the money. In a general way this simple-minded, trusting man believed that it went into stocks—Union Pacific stocks, he always thought, but was not sure. He gave Mr. Ames his money, and at stated occasions money was given him in return. Mr. Ames called them dividends. Patterson thought there would be no harm in such an innocent little business. Why, it was only casting bread on the waters, but Ames returned it to him—that was all. The burden of his second statement was on the point advanced by the reading of the substance of two letters written for him by Ames during the Senatorial election in his own State. Patterson was much troubled at the charge made against him by Mr. Rollins about his connection with a game which he did not understand—Credit Mobilier. He employed Ames by telegraph to write and say it was not he who had ever been contaminated with the naughty stock.

The letters written to order by Ames were read to the committee, but they did not distinctly say that Patterson had never owned stock, but cunningly stated that his name never appeared on the books of the Credit Mobilier. This was technically correct; because the stock was in Oakes Ames' name, he being the universal trustee of his Congressional clients. These letters Patterson set up as an offset to Ames' statement in regard to his possession of the thirty shares. Ames could not swallow this doubt upon his veracity. He had been sitting quietly at the table during the whole session aimlessly scrawling upon a paper before him, apparently giving little attention to Patterson. But as Patterson set up his letters in rebuttal of his (Ames') own testimony it was clear the issue was at hand. Ames' face assumed a resolute look, and a careful observer could see that his mind was made up to tell the whole truth in the matter. He commenced in a ponderous, sledge-hammer way, referring to his memoranda occasionally to refresh his memory, as he told the story of Patterson's connection with the Credit Mobilier. He began by saying that Patterson approached him with the request to invest $3,000 for him. Here Poland asked what sort of investment was talked of. Ames replied "Credit Mobilier; we talked of nothing else." At this Patterson appeared dumbfounded. Ames resumed, and said that Patterson gave him $3,000 in January, 1868, to invest. He put it into Credit Mobilier. In February there was a dividend paid to Patterson of $2,223, and in the same month he transferred to him thirty shares of Union Pacific stock. In June there was another dividend of $1,800. About two months ago he settled with Patterson, and gave him 100 Pacific shares for all back dividends. Ames said he did not want to give Senator Patterson the lie, but he felt certain that he had sold him thirty shares of Credit Mobilier, and that he was under the impression that they had not been delivered to him, because he (Ames) was short in his account of just that number. He frankly allowed that he wrote the letters for Patterson to quiet the fears of the latter; that he only said that Patterson's name did not appear on the Credit Mobilier books.

Poland here interposed in his benevolent way. "Now, Mr. Ames, do you think that is real gospel construction of your letter?" Ames' face was lit up with a broad grin as he replied, "It was not written so much to satisfy as to stop inquiry." Mr. Ames then added, good naturedly, "It was a dodge to satisfy Patterson's tender conscience." Having once opened the flood gates of his troubled soul Ames became quite garrulous. When Niblack asked him how he came to write these, as well as other letters, he responded, with cheerful alacrity, "Because I have neglected the advice of my friends. They always said I never ought to trust myself to write letters."

The Daily Chronicle,

Portsmouth, N. H.

FRIDAY, JANUARY 26, 1873.

Another Step Ahead.

Another important step in the direction of making human life as safe in New York city as it is among the cannibals of the South Sea islands, has just been taken; the death sentence of Foster, the car-hook murderer, has been confirmed by the Court of Appeals, and the probability now seems to be that he will pay the penalty he should, for his crime.

Looking at Foster's offence from a distance, through the medium of newspaper reports, we can come to no other conclusion than that the welfare of society a thousand times more demands the punishment of Foster than of Stokes, and that condoning the latter's offence, —cool, deliberate murder though it may have been,—would make but a trifling breach in that protection which the law is popularly supposed to afford honest men, compared with that which would follow Foster's release.

Of the two murderers, Foster is many times the greater offender against society. Both are bad men; but once released, Foster's every breath would be a menace of death to every peaceable man, while Stokes would probably never again "be present when a gentleman fell down stairs and killed himself." Stokes did have provocation, too; he had been crowded to the wall by a scoundrel abler and more powerful and quite as unscrupulous as himself, in return for his robbing the latter of the favors of a harlot,—quite enough, on either side, to make the existence of a bitter hatred reasonable. Acting under this hatred and provocation, Stokes, a very bad man, killed his enemy, Fisk, who was a worse one; no honest man suffered, and none would have suffered had Fisk also killed Stokes.

On the other hand, Foster, the car-hook murderer, acted entirely without provocation,—unless the bad whiskey he was full of at the time, and the fact that his victim refused to allow him, the drunken bully, to insult ladies in a street car, can be called provocation; and the murdered man, Mr. Putnam, instead of being like Foster, a drunken bully and blackguard, was a respected merchant of the highest reputation for honor and just dealing.

Stokes' escape would go to enforce the lesson that men whose whole lives are spent in defiance of all law, however wealthy they may be, cannot count with certainty on the protection of the law they have defied. Foster's escape would be a proclamation to the inmates of every den in New York, that law is for the protection of murderers and thieves, and that no honest man's life is his own for one moment after a scoundrel chooses to deprive him of it. If both murderers are punished, and the precedent thus set well followed up, the carnival of crime which has made New York a by-word and reproach for years will have received a gratifying check, and cold-blooded murder may in time come to be regarded as a capital offence instead of a capital joke.

Congress.

In the Senate on the 22d, Mr. Cragin of New Hampshire reported the House bill to abolish the grades of admiral and vice-admiral in the navy. Passed.

Mr. Cragin also reported favorably the House bill to prevent the employment of officers on the retired list, and a bill to promote the securing of efficient seamen for the navy.

A bill for the construction of ten new sloops of war was taken up, and an amendment that neither shall be commenced till complete plans, models etc., are finished, was agreed to.

Mr. Morrill of Vermont offered an amendment, providing that the board of survey, having the power to authorize the changes in the plans for vessels, shall estimate the cost of such changes, and the contractors shall be bound by such estimates. Agreed to.

The bill was then passed, Yeas, 39; nays, 8.

The bill repealing the franking privilege after July 1, 1873, was passed.

The House tabled Shellabarger's bill in aid of ship-building, 121 to 64.

Readables.

The details of the recent terrible hurricane in Minnesota, which continued fifty hours and was accompanied by rain and snow, represent that over two hundred (possibly three hundred) lives were lost, mostly heads of families. Missing men continue to be found frozen every day. Thousands of horses, cattle and other stock perished. The snow banks were higher than the houses in many places, and many trains of cars were blocked for days.

A South Carolina clergyman was visited by the Ku-Klux a few nights since. He took an ax and went to work on them. When he got through, the remains of two of them were gathered up in baskets.

Senator Conkling has been re-elected by the New York legislature. Illinois has chosen Gov. Oglesby to the U. S. Senate.

The Lawrence American tells the following: The other day a party of young men going on the train from Lawrence to Boston, were playing euchre in the smoking-car when the conductor came around to collect his fares. "Tickets, gentlemen!" said the conductor. One of the card-players was at that moment engaged in examining his cards, and heard not. Suddenly he looked up full at the conductor and said, "I pass." "No, you don't," said the conductor, "we ask half fare from clergymen."

The Atlantic mail steamers Columbia, Crescent City and Moro Castle, running from New York to Havana, have been seized for debt. The company has suspended.

Mrs. A. M. Bardnell of Amherst, Mass., has patented a self-fastening button, which needs no button-hole, holds fast, and yet unbuttons at a touch.

The editors and publishers of newspapers in Maine met at Augusta, whereupon the Portland Press ventures to affirm that there was there gathered together "the very wisest and most virtuous little crowd of men in the neediest of last year's clothes that ever met at the State Capital." Where were John's "store clothes?"

A reporter tells about a Connecticut bride who wore at her wedding a pair of beautiful pink stockings worn by her mother at her wedding, thirty-five years ago. The young husband is anxious to know how the reporter found out. We hope we are betraying no confidence when we say that the reporter sometimes knows more before the wedding than the young husband finds out in a week after.

Dr. A. A. Hayes, State Assayer of Massachusetts, testifies that ale contains one tenth as much alcohol as whiskey.

A medical correspondent explains that "embolism," of which Louis Napoleon died, is a coagulation of the solid parts of the blood into clots, which block up the heart and arteries. These plugs are called emboli, and by blocking up the arterial courses give rise to fatal consequences. They are dependent upon previous disease of the system.

A train on the Athol and Enfield Railroad had a narrow escape from a terrible accident. Just as the train approached the bridge below Greenwich the engineer discovered it to be in dangerous condition and whistled "down brakes." The train could not be stopped, however, and passed over the bridge safely; but just as it reached terra firma the bridge fell into the river.

The name of the trackman shot by Nixon in New York, is Charles Phyfe of Williamsburg. He leaves a wife and four children.

Gen. Gordon, an ex-rebel, has been chosen Senator from Georgia over Hon. A. H. Stephens. The latter will run for Representative to Congress.

The body of Miss Josephine Drew has been taken to Boston for a post mortem examination, to see if she died by poison.

The Maine Senate has passed the bill to incorporate the Bath & Portland Railroad.

To the Friends of Temperance in New Hampshire.

DEAR BRETHREN:—It is known to us all that Intemperance is the most gigantic and appalling evil, against which, as christians and philanthropists, we are called to contend. It is blighting the brightest intellects, and covering with shame the fairest honor of the State. Drunkenness is fearfully prevalent, and we have reason to fear on the increase among us, and never were temptations more subtle and strong as now, to lead the youth of our family circles into the paths of this vice. The records of our courts show how truly crime is the child of this evil, and it is also true that pauperism, which fills our alms-houses, and calls for our charities, is almost entirely the result of Intemperance. We recognize the efforts of the past, we rejoice in the fact that no State can boast of nobler defenders of the Great Reform, or of a better prohibitory statutes than our own. But our workmen need to consolidate, and public sentiment needs to be educated up to the tone of the law. Other States beholding the magnitude of this evil, are lifting up their standards against it in the form of the State Organizations, consolidating their forces, and educating the people. It is the desires of the lovers of Temperance, of humanity, and of God, that something should immediately be done. To whom can we appeal, but to God's ministers and people, and to the old and tried friends of this cause. Confident that he will bless any christian effort for the removal of this evil, we, the undersigned, expressing the wishes of many in all parts of the State hereby issue a call to all Christian churches, and all existing Temperance organizations, to meet by their delegates in a convention, to be held at Eagle Hall, in the city of Concord, on Wednesday, Jan. 29, 1873, at 11 o'clock A. M., for the purpose of organizing a State Temperance Union upon a christian and moral basis.

Will you be present in person? And will you secure the attendance of at least two delegates from your society as members of this convention, and also extend a cordial invitation to the friends of the cause in your community to be present with us?

The fare will be reduced over the Concord and Northern railroads, and their branches, to two cents per mile each way—tickets to be procured at the several stations. Delegates over the Boston, Concord & Montreal railroad will be furnished with free return passes. Free return passes will also be furnished delegates over the Cheshire Railroad.

Smith, Rochester; V. A. Cooper, C. Wetherbee, Nashua; S. L. Gerould, Goffstown; C. W. Wallace, W. J. Tucker, Manchester; L. D. Mason, Tamworth; T. L. Flood, W. H. Eaton, W. O White, G. M. Brown, S. G. Kellogg, Keene; N. Bouton, D. A. Warde, D. A. Faunce F. S. Crawford, D. Palmer, S. Curtice, E. Adams, Concord.

—A Missouri man, who left his wife because of her "secesh" proclivities, and joined Fremont's army at the breaking out of the war, and who had not seen her since, entered the car of a New York depot the other day, and just as he was seating himself by the side of an elegantly dressed woman, in the only unoccupied seat in the car, she raised her veil, revealing to his astonished vision the features of his wife. From the affectionate character of the ensuing demonstrations the passengers inferred that he had overcome his dislike for secessionists.—Missouri Republican.

Terrible Disaster.

The emigrant ship Northfleet, from London for Australia, has been run into and sunk by a steamship in the English channel, while laying at anchor. Three hundred and twenty-one persons were drowned, including the captain.

Business Notices.

Don't let that SORE THROAT get the upper hands of you. PULMOCINE CORDIAL will cure it. For sale by druggists and at the Union Store; 50 cts. per bottle.

☞ Persons suffering with Liver Complaint in any of its various forms will do well to call at Gilbert's Root and Herb Store, and try some of his Liver Lozenges. Many have tried them and are rejoicing to-day.

"A DOSE IN TIME," &c.—If "a stitch in time saves nine," it is equally certain that a dose of a healthy tonic like Hostetter's Stomach Bitters taken at the inclement season of the year may save many an hour's twinge. A dose, however, is not sufficient. The system should be thoroughly charged with this genial vegetable stimulant and invigorant. Commence taking it with the commencement of the atmospheric changes which distinguish the winter from the autumn. Thereby you will avoid the disturbance of the digestive and secretive organs, and those painful diseases of the muscles and the nerves of sensation, which often render the period of the year which should be the merriest a season of penance and disquietude. The extraordinary vigor and regularity which the exhilarating restorative imparts to the most important functions of the body, render it an invaluable remedy for nervous debility, constipation, indigestion, torpidity of the liver, and intermittent fevers.

CORNS.—Since pride and fashion have had control of mankind, and shoemakers were compelled to make boots and shoes to fit fancy instead of the feet, the suffering from Corns, Bunions, Ingrowing Nails, Sore Insteps, Blistered Heels, Callosities on the bottom of the feet, &c., cannot be described. But Briggs' Corn and Bunion Remedies will cure all such torments, and proper fitting boots will prevent their reproduction. Sold by all druggists. al2

PILES.—The unceasing torture from internal bleeding, external and itching piles is fast wearing away the thousands of those who are afflicted and their hope and courage have long since given place to despair. Let those who see this cheer up, for a mild and sure cure may be had by using BRIGGS' PILE REMEDIES.

A SORE CURE follows the use of BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL—the best known remedy for THROAT and LUNG COMPLAINTS. Only 50 cts. a bottle.

A SILENT DISEASE PUNISHES THE PATIENT ONLY; but a vociferous cough or a horrible cold punishes a whole household. There can be no peace, no rest, until it is cured, and when a single bottle of Hale's Honey of Horehound and Tar will banish the nuisance, is it worth while to do it? Crittenton's, 7 6th Avenue. Sold by all Druggists.

Pike's Toothache Drops cure in 1 minute.

SOZODONT.—All Dentrifices had their drawbacks, until the salubrious Bark of the Soap Tree was brought from the Chilian valleys to perfect the fragrant SOZODONT, the most wholesome, reliable and delightful article for the teeth, that a brush was ever dipped into.

INSTANTANEOUS is the operation of BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL in all cases of SORE THROAT, HOARSENESS, COUGHS, CROUP, and LUNG AFFECTIONS. It is beneficial in all cases. Sold for 50 cents per bottle.

SMALL-POX.

NOTICE TO PHYSICIANS AND OTHERS.

The Mayor and Aldermen call the attention of Physicians and Householders to the Law of the State and the Ordinance of the City relative to cases of Small-pox occurring in this city, as follows:

It shall be the duty of every physician who attends upon any person sick with the small pox to immediately report the same to the Health Officer or the Mayor and Aldermen; and if any physician shall neglect so to do he shall forfeit the sum of one hundred dollars.

When any householder shall know that any person within his family is sick of the small pox, he shall immediately give notice to the Health Officers; if any such householder shall refuse or neglect to do so he shall for each refusal or neglect forfeit the sum of twenty dollars.

The Board of Aldermen have requested the Mayor to cause IMMEDIATE PROSECUTION to be instituted for every violation of the above provisions.
